PAKINGTON OF WESTWOOD HOUSE.

PAKINGTON, JOHN-SOMERSET, Esq. of Westwood House, co. Worcester, M.P. for Droitwich; m. 1st, Mary, only child of Moreton-Aglionby Slaney, Esq., and by her (who d. in 1843) has issue. He m. 2ndly, in 1844, Augusta, dau. of the Right Rev. George Murray, D.D., Bishop of Rochester. Mr. Pakington, son of William Russell, Esq. of Powick Court, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Sir Herbert-Perrot Pakington, Bart. of Westwood, assumed his present surname as heir to his uncle, the late Sir John Pakington, Bart.

Lineage.

The antiquity of this family is beyond dispute, for we find, from the foundation of the monastery at Kenilworth, that it flourished in the time of HENRY I., and it appears to have assumed the surname, from one of the Pakingtons in Staffordshire, Warwickshire, or Leicestershire, for in each of those counties we meet with lordships so designated, the proprietors of which wrote themselves, anciently, De Pakington.

The founder of the fortunes of the house of Pakington, was

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, a lawyer, who, in the reign of HENRY VIII., was chirographer in the Court of Common Pleas, and d. possessed of large acquired estates. He was eldest son of JOHN PAKINGTON, Esq., 'grandson of John Pakington, and great-grandson of Robert Pakington, who was living in the reign of HENRY IV. Sir John's brother and male heir,

ROBERT PAKINGTON, Esq., M.P. for the city of London, temp. HENRY VIII., was grandfather of

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, K.B., one of the Privy Council, and an especial favourite of Queen ELIZABETH. His son and heir,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, of Ailesbury, created a BARONET, 22 June, 1620, m. Frances, dau. of John Ferrers, Knt. of Tamworth, and dying before his father, in Oct. 1624, was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, Bart., who s. to the family estates on the death of his grandfather, and resided subsequently at Westwood. He m. Dorothy, one of the daus. of his guardian, Thomas, Lord Coventry, and left at his decease, 13 Jan. 1680, with two daus., the elder m. to Anthony Eyre, Esq. of Rampton, Notts, the younger, to William Godfrey, Esq. of co. Lincoln, an only son and heir,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, Bart., M.P. for co. Worcester, temp. Kings CHARLES II. and JAMES II., who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Key, Bart. of Eghington, co. Gloucester, and dying in 1688, was s. by his only son,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, Bart., M.P. for co. Worcester, who d. 13 Aug. 1727, and was s. by his son and heir, (by his second wife, Hester, dau. and sole heir of Sir Herbert Perrot, Knt. of Haroldstone, co. Pembroke.)

SIR HERBERT-PERROT PAKINGTON, Bart., M.P. for co. Worcester, the prototype, it is stated, of Addison's imitable Sir Roger de Coverley. He m. in 1721, Elizabeth, dau. of John Conyers, Esq. of Walthamstow, in Essex, and was s. at his decease, 30 Nov. 1762, by his elder son,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, Bart., who dying s. p. 30 Nov. 1762, was s. by his brother,

SIR HERBERT-PERROT PAKINGTON, Bart., who m. in 1759, Elizabeth, dau. of Caesar Hawkins, Esq., and relief of Herbert Wyld, Esq. of Ludlow, co. Salop, and by her, who d. 23 Feb. 1812, had

JOHN, his successor.

Elizabeth, m. to William Russell, Esq. of Powick, co. Worcester, and dying in May, 1813, left a son, JOHN-SOMERSET RUSSELL, who assumed the surname of Pakington on the death of the eighth Bart., and is the present proprietor of Westwood House.

Dorothy, deceased.

ANNE. Louisa, deceased.

Sir Herbert d. in 1795, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, D.C.L., the eighth Bart., b. in 1760, who d. s. p. 6 Jan. 1830, when the title became extinct. The estates descended to his nephew, John-Somer-
 Russell, Esq., (son of his eldest sister, Elizabeth,) and to his younger sister, Ann, as joint heirs at law. Mr. Russell has assumed the surname of Pakington, and is the present
 JOHN-SOMERSET PAKINGTON, Esq. of Westwood House, M.P.

Arms—Per chev., sa. and arg., in chief, three mullets, or, in base, as many garbes, gu.

Crest—An elephant, passant, or, armed, gu.

PALLISER OF DERRYLUSKAN.

PALLISER, COLONEL WRAY, of Derryluskan, co. Tipperary, m. Miss Gladstones, and has issue. This gentleman, son of the late John Palliser, Esq. of Derryluskan, by Grace, his wife, eldest dau. of William Barton, Esq. of Grove, represents an eminent and influential family of the county in which he resides.

PALMER OF WOODCOURT.

PALMER, THE REV. WILLIAM, D.D. of Woodcourt, co. Somerset, b. in 1770; m. 1st, in 1794, Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. Henry Carter, M.A., Rector of Wittenham Abbots, Berks, and niece to the celebrated Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, and by her, who d. 16 April, 1801, had two sons and two daus.,

William, M.D., d. s. p. in 1834.

HENRY, A.B. of Worcester Coll. Oxford, in holy orders, rector of Cricket-Malherbie, and incumbent of Broadway, co. Somerset.

Mary-Ann, m. to the Rev. Francis Duncan, M.A., rector of West Chelborough, co. Dorset, and has issue two sons, Francis-Henry-Palmer, and Malcolm, and one dau., Mary-Anne.

Elizabeth-Carter, m. to William, Comte de Vismes, and has issue.

Dr. Palmer m. 2ndly, in 1809, Mary, only dau. of Stephen Pitt, Esq. of Cricket-Malharbie, co. Somerset, and Camden House, Kensington, and by her has three sons and five daus.,

Robert-William. Rodney-Drake.

Charles, M.B., of Edinburgh.

Jane-Frances, m. to the Rev. George Lewis, M.A.

Sarah-Maria.

Emma, m. to the Rev. Alfred-Frederick Crow, M.A., rector of Alcester, co. Warwick, and has issue, Mary-Anne, and Maria.

Sophia-Mary.

Margaret-Rebecca.

Dr. Palmer, who s. to the Vicarage of Yarcombe on the death of his father, was collated, in 1798, by Dr. Moss, Bishop of Bath and Wells, to that of Ilton, co. Somerset. He is a magistrate for the counties of Somerset, Devon, and Dorset, and a deputy-lieutenant for the first-named shire.

Lineage.

This family is descended from the ancient house of Palmer of Leigh, in Kent.

SIR HENRY PALMER, who was grandson of Sir Thomas Palmer, of Leigh, Knt., obtained the manors of Tottenham and Eccles, and of Boxley, adjoining to Snodwell, in the chancel of which church (which was burnt down) were the ancient arms of Palmer, viz., "Arg., a chev., between three pilgrims' scrips, sa., tassels and buckles, or." "These arms," says Guillim, "though some part alluded to the name, are very ancient; and in this church was the following epitaph to Thomas Palmer:—

"Palmers all my faders were,

I, a Palmer, lived here,

And travell'd till, in worn-out age,

I ended this world's pilgrimage.

"On the blest ascension day,

In the cheerful month of May,

A thousand with four hundred seven,

I took my journey hence to heaven."

An intermarriage took place between this house and that of Palmers of Wingham, from which descended

THOMAS PALMER, a younger son of SIR THOMAS PALMER, fourth Bart. This gentleman, who was a merchant in London, m. a dau. of Mr. Yonge, who was also a Levant merchant, and of an ancient family near Axminster, co. Devon. Of this marriage there was no issue, but it introduced the family into the county of Devon, for we find

WILLIAM PALMER, descended from the family of Palmer of Leigh, "settled as a merchant in the Mediterranean trade, in the city of Exeter," where he resided until he retired to Honiton Clist, in which parish he ended his days, leaving a son,

THE REV. WILLIAM PALMER, M.A. of Queens' Coll., Cambridge, who was presented to the rectory of Com-brawleigh, by his friend and neighbour, Francis Drewe, Esq. of the Grange. He m. 2 Sept. 1698, Rebecca, dau. of — Smith, Esq. of Canons Leigh, and by her had one son, WILLIAM, of whom presently, and one dau., Dorothea, who m. Thomas Drake, Esq. of Yardbury (great-grandson of Sir Bernard Drake, of Ash, Knt.), and by him was mother of two sons, i. Francis Drake, M.A., in holy orders, rector of Upline and Seaton, father of Francis Drake, "who was minister to many courts;" and ii. Clement Drake, Esq. of Taunton, whose only child, Eliza, m. Edward-Jefferies Esdaile, Esq. of Cothelston House. The son,

THE REV. WILLIAM PALMER, M.A., s. his father in the rectory of Comhrawleigh, and was presented to the vicarage of Yarcombe. He m. 1st, in 1727, Mary, only dau. of William Wilkins, of Chalfont, Bucks, by Mary,* his wife, only child of William Drake, who was one of the younger sons of Sir Bernard Drake, Knt. of Ash, and had (with a dau., Anna-Maria, who m. 1st, to Sir John Pole, Bart.; and 2ndly, to George Clavering, Esq. of Axwell Park, co. Northumberland, by whom she left one son, who s. his uncle, and is the present Sir Thomas-John Clavering, Bart.) a son and heir, WILLIAM. He m. 2ndly, Miss Whitlocke, and by her had four sons and five daus. Of the former, all d. s. p. except SAMUEL, who has left two sons, John-Freke, Col. E. I. Co.'s service, m. and has issue. Spencer-William, of the Bank of England, who is married.

The Rev. William Palmer's son and successor,

THE REV. WILLIAM PALMER, M.A., s. his father in the vicarage of Yarcombe, and was rector of Cricket-Malherbie, to which he was presented by the late Stephen Pitt, Esq. He m. in 1765, Mary, the great niece of Atkins Abraham, Esq. of Purtington, in Winsham, and had (with a dau., Mary, who d. unm.) three sons, WILLIAM, his heir, and present representative.

Lineage.

The name Palmer, in ancient records De Palmer, (from the branch of palm horn by those soldiers of the cross who had distinguished themselves in the holy wars,) was conferred upon an ancestor of the family, Hugh de Palmer, by King RICHARD I., who, as a reward for having slain a Paynim knight in single combat, and for capturing one of the Saracen standards, gave him permission to hlazon upon his shield the "three crescents, argent, divided by a chevron," the heraldic token of valour, and to wear for his motto, "Par sit fortuna lahorii;" the fourth crescent (upon the chevron) was added at a later period, to mark this branch of the family from the Palmers of Castleton, in Northamptonshire, who are descended from the same ancestor, (for whose genealogy, see BURKE'S Baronetage, Monumenta Anglicana, &c.)

THE REV. THOMAS PALMER, lineally descended from Thomas Palmer, of Rockingham, (1402,) co. Northampton, settled in Ireland, in the Barony of Glanerough, co. Kerry, in the year 1652, having obtained a grant of a large tract of country (forfeited by the O'Sullivan's) bordering upon the river Killmare, upon part of which stands the town of Kenmare, which in the year 1770 became the property of the Earl of Shelbourne. He is described in a scarce book of Irish history,* (preserved in the library of the Hon. Society of King's Inn, Dublin,) as Judge of the Admiralty Court of Munster, and of the Consistorial Court of Ardferit and Aghadoe, and as the first protestant rector of Kilmare, Kilgarvan, Templenoe, Kilcrohan, and Cahirciveen, and as the first and only magistrate in that remote part of the county. He, with the other English settlers, suffered severely in the troubles of 1689, his house, at the Sound of Kilmare, after a spirited defence, in which several of the native Irish were wounded and slain, was burnt to the ground, and but for the earnest supplications, in the Irish tongue, by his second wife, Shelah, dau. of the O'Sullivan More, Mr. Palmer, then an old man, would have been cruelly put to death. We find him in the same year, with his son-in-law, Richard Orpen, Esq., elected governor of the fortress of Killowen, in which the protestant gentry and inhabitants had taken refuge. He m. 1st, Jane, dan. of William Aldworth, of Duhalloon, co. Cork; and 2ndly, Shelah, dau. of the O'Sullivan More. By the former he had issue,

* Son of the Rev. Thomas Orpen and Agnes Herbert, his wife, dau. of Arthur Herbert, of Currens. (See ORPEN OF GLANEROUGH.)

Mr. Palmes, who is a deputy-lieutenant and in the commission of the peace for the county of York, s. his father in 1783.

Lineage.

This family is of considerable antiquity. It was originally seated in the county of Somerset; and, so far back as the twelfth century, it is found in alliance with the great Somerset House of ST. MAUR, which had summons to parliament in the reign of EDWARD II. The estate of Naburn has regularly descended from father to son since the year 1226.

MANFRED PALMES, living about the 6th of King
STEPHEN, anno 1140, had lands in Taunton Dean, co.
Somerset. He was father of

ALEXANDER PALMES, of Taunton, living in 1161, who
m. Rose, dau. of Adam Newmarsh, and had issue, JEROME,

Mr. Papillon, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Kent, s. his father in 1838.

Tincage.

In Dugdale's "Monasticon," we find TORALDUS DE PAPILLON one of the witnesses to a deed of confirmation granted by WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR to the church of Durham.

In the reign of King JOHN,

RALPH PAPILLON was elected abbot of Westminster. This eminent divine, one of the most eloquent preachers of his time, rose to distinction under the protection of the Abbot Lawrence, by whom, according to Leland, he was appointed Prior of Hurley, a cell of Westminster. He is said to have written a volume of sermons, and another of homilies, on the epistles and gospels, of which Leland speaks in high terms of encomium. He d. in 1225.

WILLIAM PAPILLON, one of King EDWARD the First's most devoted servants, was recommended by his royal master, in the 31st year of his reign, to the abbot and convent of Leicester, for a corrody from that house. This William Papillon is supposed to have founded the family of Papillon of Lubenham,* in Leicestershire. His nephew and heir was ROGER PAPILLON.

ANTHONY PAPILLON, the friend of Erasmus, and one of the most distinguished of the Huguenots in France, held an office at the court of FRANCIS I., and enjoyed, in an eminent degree, the favour and protection of the pious Margaret of Valois. He died suddenly in 1525, not without the suspicion of poison,† leaving a son also a champion of the Reformation, who fell on St. Bartholomew's Day, 1572. He was father of

THOMAS PAPILLON, who was gentleman of the bed-chamber to HENRY IV. of France, but who left the service of that monarch on his renouncing the protestant faith. He m. 12 Aug. 1572, Jane Veuve de la Pierre, and by her, who was drowned in her passage from France, he had issue,

- I. THOMAS, b. in 1578, who m. in Paris, and was father of DAVID PAPILLON, a good and learned man, who suffered much for conscience' sake, and was imprisoned three years at Avranches, in Normandy, on account of his opinions in favour of the reformed religion. A most beautifully written letter by him to his cousin, Thomas Papillon, at London, is still preserved.
- II. DAVID, ancestor of the PAPILLONS OF ACRISE.

* The old family house near Lubenham still retains the name of "Papillon Hall."

Thomas Papillon d. 20 Nov. 1608. His second son,

DAVID PAPILLON, of Lubenham, obtained a licence, dated 23 May, 1623, from Archbishop Abbot, permitting himself and his family to frequent the church at Merston, co. Northampton, as being nearer than their own parish church of Lubenham, with a proviso, however, that they should once at least in the year (at Easter) attend the latter, to hear prayers and preaching there, and to receive the sacrament. Mr. Papillon published, in 1645, "A Practicall Abstraet of the Arts of Fortification and Assailing, containing four different methods of fortification, with approved rules to set out in the field all manner of superfeices, intrenchments, and approaches by the demieirele, or with lines and stakes, written for the benefit of such as delight in the practice of these noble arts." He was likewise the author of another work, entitled "The Vanity of the Lives and Passions of Men." He m. 1st, 11 June, 1611, Mary Castel, and by her, who d. 3 May, 1614, had a son, Thomas, who d. in infancy, and a dau., Mary, m. 7 June, 1631, to Peter Fountaine, Esq. He m. 2ndly, 4 July, 1615, Anne-Mary-Calandrini, dau. of Jean Calandrini, whose father and uncle, as well as himself, embraced the reformed religion, and, in consequence, were obliged to leave Lucea, the place of their birth and possessions, and retiring to France, went through many trials and persecutions: they were of a famous Italian family, and lineal relatives of Pope NICHOLAS V. By this lady, who d. 8 Nov. 1675, David Papillon left at his decease, in 1659, with other issue, a dau., Anne, m. 1st, in 1653, to Sir William Brudenell, of Glaston, co. Rutland; and 2ndly, in 1655, to Everard Fawcner, Esq., and a son,

THOMAS PAPILLON, Esq. of Lubenham, b. 6 Sept. 1623. This gentleman was an eminent merchant of London, and represented that city in parliament in the 10th of WILLIAM III. He had previously sat for some years (temp. CHARLES II.) for Dover. He was a strenuous supporter of the patriotic party, by whom King JAMES II. was compelled to abdicate the throne. He m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Broadnax, Esq. of Godmersham, Kent, and had issue,

PHILIP, his successor.

Elizabeth, m. to the Lord Chief Baron Sir Edward Warde, and d. in 1723.

Lineage.

At one period this family of the Parkers resided near Kilkenny.

THOMAS PARKER, Esq., b. in 1618, d. in 1686, leaving three sons, the second of whom,

ROBERT PARKER, Esq., captain in the Royal regiment of foot of Ireland, was born near Kilkenny, in 1666, absconded from his paternal home in 1683, and was engaged in the several military transactions of that eventful period up to 1717. In 1708, Lieut.-General Ingoldsby, the then commander-in-chief in Ireland, applied to the Duke of Marlborough, with whom Captain Parker was serving, to send him over to Ireland to discipline the troops. When this task was accomplished, the government gave him a gratuity of £200, a large sum, when the relative value of money is considered. He m. Elizabeth Tennison, and d. in 1739, leaving (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. in 1727, to Capt. William Tennison, her cousin) one son, THOMAS, who published his father's Memoirs in 1746. This

Mr. Parkhouse s. his father in 1814.

Lineage.

This is a junior branch of the Devonshire family of the same name.

BENJAMIN PARKHOUSE, merchant, who m. Honoria, dau. of Capt. Greenslade, and first cousin to the poet Gay,* had a son, PHILIP, and a dau., Aliee, m. to John Pepper, Esq., of a Kentish family. The son,

PHILIP PARKHOUSE, had been educated and designed for holy orders, but the reverses of the fortune of his father frustrated this intention; and though he descended, in consequence, from that line of life for which his talents and disposition appeared to have made him eminently qualified, yet he did not drop from his parental sphere of association, in which he to the last retained high esteem as a most distinguished Greek scholar. He m. Hannah, dau. of Mr. William Richards, (of Welsh extraction,) by Ruth, his wife, dau. of James Bickham, Esq., whose wife's name was Escott, the name of the family estate in Somersetshire.† By this lady Mr. Parkhouse had three sons, Philip, d. s. p.; William, d. s. p.; and JOHN, of whom presently; and two daus., Hannah,‡ m. to Captain Cowley, E. I. Co.'s military service; (this lady was the celebrated dramatic writer, authoress of the "Belle's Stratagem," "Who's the Dupe?" &c.;) and Mary, d. s. p. The youngest and only son to leave issue,

JOHN PARKHOUSE, Esq., an accomplished classical and general scholar, m. Mary, dau. of the late Peter Corney, Esq., younger brother of Miles Corney, Esq., who inherited the landed estate as male representative of Sir Benjamin Rawlings, who d. unm. He (John Parkhouse) was secretary to the Carnatic commission at the period of his decease, which occurred 14 Nov. 1814, in the sixty-first year of his age. He had by his said wife, five sons and seven daus., i. William, who m. Mrs. Morphet, widow of an Indian gentleman, and is now deceased; ii. GEORGE, now of Eastfield Lodge; iii. Pritchett; iii. Jane, d. young; iv. Philippa, d. young; v. Caroline; vi. Frances, d. young; and vii. Katharine.

* The family of Parkhouse having been remarkable in the last two or three generations for classical and literary attainments, caused frequent references to be made to their consanguinity with the poet Gay, and it is consequently not irrelevant to give the following extract from the poet's life:—"John Gay, an original poetic genius, was descended from an ancient family, which derived its name from Gilbert le Gay, of Hampton Gay, in Oxfordshire, who, in right of his wife, the dau. and heir of the family of Courtoyse, or Curtis, became possessed of the Lordship of Goldsworthy, in Devonshire, the ancient seat of the name of Gay for many generations."

† The original possessor, in the reign of JAMES II., losing his estate in consequence of the Duke of Monmouth's rebellion, took up his residence at Tiverton, and the estate came latterly to the late Rev. Bickham Escott.

PARR OF LYTHWOOD.

PARR, THOMAS, Esq. of Lythwood Hall, co. Salop, b. 4 Nov. 1769; m. at St. Margaret's, Westminster, 10 March, 1803, Katherine, dau. and co-heir of the late Robert Walter, Esq., capt. R.N., (see WALTER OF BEARWOOD), by whom he has had issue,

i. THOMAS, in holy orders, B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, rector of Westbury, co. Salop, and a magistrate of that shire, b. 5 May, 1805, m. 28 April, 1831, Anne-Penelope, dau. of the late Richard Topp, Esq. of Whinton. (See that family.)

ii. Frederick, formerly capt. 54th regt., b. 29 June, 1806.

iii. Robert, also sometime capt. 54th regt., b. 24 Sept. 1810, m. 30 Aug. 1832, Arabella-Lucinda, dau. of the late Lieut.-Colonel Samuel Reed, and has, 1. Thomas, b. 30 Nov. 1833; 2. Robert-William, b. 28 March, 1836; 1. Frances-Matilda; 2. Blanche-Minett; 3. Katherine-Isabel; 4. Alice-Gertrude.

iv. Henry, of St. Bees' Coll., Cumberland, b. 16 Aug. 1815, m. 11 Oct. 1839, Susanna-Hamilton, dau. of the late Thomas Dutton, Esq.,* and has issue, 1. Katherine-Susanna-Matilda; 2. Elizabeth De Ros.

v. Walter, d. young.

i. Katherine-Walter, m. 8 Jan. 1834, to the Rev. William Evans, B.D., rector of Shipston-on-Stour, a magistrate for Worcestershire, and late Fellow of Jesus College, Oxon, and has, 1. Constance-Katherine-Evans; 2. Katherine Evans.

ii. Matilda-Elizabeth, d. in 1826, aged 18.

This gentleman, who was formerly one of the most eminent merchants of Liverpool, erected and resided in the house now occupied as the Royal Institution in that town. On retiring from business, in 1804, he purchased the estate of Lythwood, where he has since resided. He was many years a grand-juryman for the county of Salop. He is a connoisseur in paintings and prints, and has, at considerable labour and expense, formed an almost unique collection of British coins, exhibiting a connected series from the earliest period to the present time.

Lineage.

The surname of PARR is local, being derived from a manor in the parish of Prescot, co. Lancashire, of which the family were anciently lords.

HENRY DE PARR was witness to a deed of gift from Robert de Birch to John de Hulton, dated 12 Edw. II., A.D. 1318.† Next comes

SIR JOHN DE PARRE, Knt. of Parre, living about 1350, who m. Matilda, dau. of Sir Richard de Leyborne, and was father of‡

* Lineally descended from Sir Piers Dutton, of Dutton, who built the new hall there in 1539. The Duttons of Dutton are now represented by the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, who is also Baron Dutton in the Peerage of England. From a younger branch descends the present Lord Sherbourne.—(See BURKE'S Peerage, and the article WARBURTON OF ARLEY, in this work.)

† The names of Robert de Par, scisne, Robert de Par, le puisne, and Henry de Par, occur among the gentlemen of Lancashire, then bearing arms, who gave evidence on the celebrated Scrope and Grosvenor controversy, 1386.

‡ From the same parent stock derived the PARRS OF BACKFORD, co. Chester, extinct 1582; the PARRS OF KEMPALL, represented by STARKIE OF HUNTROYD (see that name); the PARRS OF RAINFORD, now of Liverpool and Grappenhall (see those articles); the PARRS OF ECCLESTON, of which was Richard Parr, rector of Eccleston, and Bishop of Man, who d. in 1643. (Refer to BURKE'S General Armory for their various armorial bearings.)

SIR WILLIAM DE PARRE, of Parre, with whom Dugdale and Segar commence their pedigrees of the family; the latter styles him "descended from a race of knights." He m. in 1383, ELIZABETH DE ROS, dau. of Sir John De Ros, and granddau. and heir of Sir Thomas De Ros, Baron of Kendal,* and thus acquired the Kendal estates. Sir William, who was high in favour with HENRY IV., d. 4 Oct. 1405. From his eldest son,

SIR JOHN PARRE, who m. Agnes, dau. of Sir Thomas Crophull, descended the PARRS of KENDAL, whose eventual representative, WILLIAM PARR, Marquess of Northampton, (brother of Queen KATHERINE PARR,) d. s. p. in 1571. (See BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.)

From a younger son derived the PARRS of PARR, whose representative,

BRYAN PARRE, Esq. of Parre Hall, lord of the manor of Parre, d. in 1528, and was s. by his son, then aged twelve years,

THOMAS PARRE, Esq. of Parre Hall, lord of the manor of Parre, who m. Margaret, dau. of William Leyland, Esq. of Morley, by whom (who subsequently m. John Byrom, Esq. of Byrom,)[†] he had a numerous family.§ Dying in 1559, he was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM PARR, Esq. of Parr Hall, lord of the manor of Parr, then aged nineteen. He m. Katherine, dau. of Thomas Eccleston, Esq. of Eccleston, and had several children. William Parr, who appears by the Duchy records to have been greatly involved in litigation with his stepfather, John Byrom and others, respecting the family property, was s. by his eldest son,

BRYAN PARR, Esq. of Parr Hall, who m. Alice Twiss, and had one son, HENRY, and three daus., Mary, Katherine, and Elizabeth. The son,

HENRY PARR, Esq. of Parr, was, according to a pedigree in the College of Arms, twenty years old in 1621. Of his marriage or issue there is no certain information; the last of the family property had now been alienated, and the cadet branches, founded within the township by younger sons, gradually sunk into obscurity, and have all long since disappeared from the neighbourhood.¶ The branch of which we are now immediately to treat was founded by a descendant of one of the before-mentioned younger sons, who removed to the neighbouring port of Liverpool about the year 1600. The immediate ancestor,

* For a full account of the families of Ros and LANCASTER, feudal barons of Kendal, see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage. The marriage of Sir William Parre with Elizabeth de Ros is stated by Baker (Hist. North) to have been in 1390, which statement we have repeated in the General Armory. It is, however, palpably incorrect, as Sir William's son and heir was, according to the Inq. p. m., 22 years old in 6 HENRY IV. (1404-5.)

† His son, Sir Thomas Parre, m. Alice, dau. of Sir Thomas Tunstall, and had (with daus.) two sons, Sir William Parre, continuator of the Kendal line, and Sir John Parre, sheriff of Westmoreland in 1462, whose grandson, John Parre, m. Margaret, dau. of Sir William Fielding, Knt., and had two sons,

i. JOHN, ancestor of the PARRS of DERBY, whose late representative, Captain Thomas Parr, R.N., d. without surviving male issue.

ii. —, from whom the late Rev. Samuel Parr, LL.D., claimed to descend. (See LYNES OF TOOLEY PARK.)

‡ Through this connexion the manor of Parr appears to have passed to the Byroms, for in 12 JAMES I., Henry Byrom (son of the above-mentioned John) d. seized of the manors of Parr and Byrom. Besides Parr Hall there is another ancient mansion, formerly called Laghoo, now Leafog, which remained in possession of the PARRS of Kendal to the time of their extinction. In 1592, Thomas Norris claimed, by virtue of a grant from the crown, the capital mansion and lands called Laghoo in Parr; the claim was resisted by William Parr and others, in right of William, Marquess of Northampton, deceased. This estate was the subject of further litigation in 1600, when Thurstan Parr was plaintiff, and Thomas Parr and others defendants, but the result does not appear by the Duchy records.

§ His younger sons, Bryan, Henry, and Thomas, established themselves within the township of Parr, where several of their descendants remained until the close of the 17th century, but are now extinct. Others removed to Liverpool about the commencement of the same century, and from one of them is descended the family we are treating of, as appears in the sequel.

¶ The will of William Parr, of Parr, yeoman, was proved at Chester so late as 1729, but it is not ascertained whether he was a descendant of this family.

HENRY PARR, of Liverpool, living about 1660, had three sons, i. HENRY; ii. Joseph,* who had a son, Henry, b. in 1703; iii. Ezekiel, who had also a son, Henry, b. in 1703. The eldest son,

HENRY PARR, of Liverpool, b. about 1655, was a leading merchant in his day. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of —, and had (with other issue, whose descendants are extinct)

i. JOHN.

ii. Henry, d. in 1738, leaving a son, Nathaniel.

i. Anne, m. to Matthew Houghton, of Dublin.

Mr. Parr was buried at St. Nicholas' church, 26 Jan. 1725. His eldest son,

JOHN PARR, of Liverpool, also m. a lady named Elizabeth, and had two sons, Henry, who d. s. p.; and JOHN. He was buried at St. Nicholas, 17 Nov. 1761. His younger son,

JOHN PARR, Esq. of Liverpool, and Elm House, West Derby, became eventually representative of the family. This gentleman, who was b. in 1734, m. Hannah, dau. of J. Anderton, Gent., of the ancient Lancashire family of that name, and by her (who d. 25 Jan. 1816, aged 77) had issue,

i. John, b. 16 Aug. 1766, m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Smalley, an eminent cotton manufacturer at Preston and Holywell, but d. s. p. 24 Nov. 1802. His wife predeceased him.

ii. William, of Wild Green, eo. Warwick, b. 7 Oct. 1767, m. Catherine, dau. of Joseph Oughton, Esq.† of Sutton Coldfield, and d. in 1834, having had two sons, John, and William-Henry, who both attained majority, but d. unm., and two daus., Mary, d. unm., and Catherine-Amelia.

iii. James, of Parkfield, near Liverpool b. 6 Oct. 1768, d. 6 Jan. 1821, leaving issue by his wife, Rose,

i. James, m. 6 June, 1833, Sarah, dau. of Nathaniel Haselwood, M.D., and has an only child, James-Haselwood, b. 20 Sept. 1836.

1. HORTON-HAMILTON, aged 19 in 1842.

2. James-Hamilton.

1. Frances-Harriet. 2. Anne-Jane.

3. Magdalene. 4. Ella.

5. Georgina-Mary.

i. Anne-Owen.

* The family became Nonconformists about the time of the revolution, and, after the manner of the Puritans of those days, adopted the scriptural names of Joseph, Ezekiel, Nathaniel, &c.

† Mr. Oughton, who served as high-sheriff of Warwickshire in 1792, was descended from an ancient Warwickshire family, a branch of which was raised to the degree of Baronet in 1718. (See BURKE'S Extinct Baronage.)

Tintage.

This branch of the ancient Lancashire family of PARR diverged at an early period from the parent stock, for we find it subsisting as a distinct branch early in the sixteenth century, and possessed of freehold property at Rainford, in the neighbourhood of St. Helens, at that time.

EDWARD PARRE appears, from the Duchy Records, to have been engaged in a law suit respecting the title to a messuage, called "Heysein Hall, in Raynforde," 31 HENRY VIII. From him descended

EDWARD PARRE, of Raynford, who d. seised of freehold lands there in 6 CAR. I. (1630.) His son,

JOHN PARR, d. about 1660, and was father of JOHN PARR, Gent. of Rainford, who m. a dau. of Roger Hesketh, of North Meols, (ancestor of Sir Peter Hesketh-Fleetwood, Bart.) by whom he had issue, with three daus., three sons,

- i. John, whose line is supposed to be extinct.
- ii. EDWARD, of whom we are about to treat.
- iii. Roger, whose son,
Roger, of Liverpool, was grandfather of the present
THOMAS PARR, Esq. of Grappenhall Heyes, co. Chester. (See that article.)

The second son,

EDWARD PARR, Gent., described as "of Haysom within Rainford," m. about 1685, Susannah, sister of John Kent, Gent. of Tranmere, co. Chester, and had

- i. JOHN, of whom presently.
- ii. Edward, merchant, of Liverpool, a commissioner of land-tax in 1728.
- iii. Samuel, d. in 1733.
- iv. Jonas, of Liverpool, m. Mary ———, and d. in 1737.
- v. Kent.
- i. Elizabeth.

The eldest son,

JOHN PARR, Gent. of Rainford, removing to Liverpool about 1700, became eminent as a merchant there. He m. at St. Nicholas' church, 10 June, 1713, Jane, dau. of Joshua Horton, Esq. of Chadderton, ancestor of the Baronets HORTON, (see BURKE'S Extinct Baronetage,) and had a son,

JOHN PARR, merchant, of Liverpool, who m. Anne,* dau. and heir of the Rev. Henry Wolstenholme, rector of Liverpool, (of the ancient family of Wolstenholme of Wolstenholme,) and had issue,

- i. John-Owen, merchant, of London, m. Miss Elizabeth Patrick, and had a son,
The Rev. John-Owen Parr, vicar of Preston, m. Maria, dau. of — Wright.
- ii. EDWARD, now of Liverpool.
- iii. Wolstenholme, resided at Padua, in Italy.
- iv. Joshua, M.D., of Liverpool, m. Alicia, dau. of — Barton, and left, with two daus., an only surviving son, John-Barton Parr, now of Newcastle-on-Tyne.
- v. Thomas, merchant, of Liverpool, m. Mary, dau. of Richard Wood, Gent., and had issue.

Mr. Parr, who twice served the office of bailiff of Liverpool, and was mayor in 1773, d. in 1798. His second son, is the present EDWARD PARR, Esq. of Liverpool.

PARSONS OF BARBADOS.

PARSONS, THE REV. JOHN, M.A. of Begbrook House, co. Gloucester, b. 5 Aug. 1782, in the Island of Barbados; m. 11 Jan. 1810, Margaret, eldest dau. of George Phillips, Esq., by whom, who d. 16 July, 1828, and was buried at Stoke Gifford, Gloucestershire, he has surviving issue, DANIEL, b. 7 Oct. 1810, M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. Mary.

Mr. Parsons was Fellow of Oriel College, and is Vicar of Marden, in the Vale of Pewsey, Wilts.

Lineage.

Of the family of Lovell, originally of Skelton, in Yorkshire, was ROBERT LOVELL, of Merton College, Oxford, in 1773, afterwards of Edinburgh, where he proceeded, M.D., and many years a physician of great eminence in the city of Bristol. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel Osborne, Esq. of the island of Barbados, by whom (who d. in 1830) he had no issue, and dying in 1823, at Begbrook House, (which he had caused to be built in a picturesque spot on the north bank of the river Frome, a few miles above its juncture with the Avon at Bristol,) was buried in the nave of Bristol Cathedral.

His eldest sister, Sarah, was m. to George Phillips, Esq. of the island of Barbados, and Queen's College, Oxford, being his second wife, (his first was a dau. of George French, Esq.) and by her had issue one dau., Margaret, m. in Jan. 1810, to the REV. JOHN PARSONS, Fellow of Oriel College.

The family of PARSONS has been long settled in the island of Barbados, where one of the original settlements was called after it, and retains its name to the present time. It has always been considered a branch of the house of Great Milton, in Oxfordshire.

JOHN PARSONS, of Barbados, m. 4 Dec. 1750, Elizabeth Farrell, of the same Island, and dying in England, 31 Aug. 1764, was buried at Fulham Church, 4 Sept. following, having by his wife, Elizabeth, (who d. May 9, 1780, and was buried in St. Philip's Church, Barbados,) had issue, besides others, who d. infants,

DANIEL PARSONS, b. 3 Sept., christened 22 Sept. 1751. He was of Edinburgh, and practised as a physician in Barbados, where, and in the colony of Berbice, he posseceded an estate. He m. 18 Jan. 1781, in St. James's Church, Barbados, Rebecca Port Webb, by whom (who d. in Berhice, 20 Sept. 1798) he had issue, besides others, who d. infants, John, and Louisa, b. 29 Sept. 1786. He d. 18 Feb. 1810, at his house in the parish of Christ Church, Barbados, and was buried in the churchyard of St. Philip's.

His son, the present REV. JOHN PARSONS, succeeded, on the death of the widow of Dr. Lovell, to Begbrook, in pursuance of bequest to him as husband of the eldest niece of Dr. Lovell.

PATON OF GRANDHOME.

PATON, JOHN, Esq. of Ferrachie and Grandhome, co. Aberdeen, lieut. in the 91st (Argyllshire) regiment, b. in 1818, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant of Aberdeenshire; m. in 1844.

Lineage.

This name of Paton is written in old deeds, PATTON, and the family, which is from the south, is of considerable antiquity. It appears from a sealed parchment in possession of Mr. PATON, that "in the six-and-twentieth year of HENRY VI., WILLIAM PATTEN, alias Waynflete, (from a town in Lancashire where he was born,) was son and heir of Richard Patten, and eldest brother of John, Dean of Chichester, and of Richard, who lived and died at Balsore, in Derbyshire." He was a person by parentage born a gentleman. For his learning, he was first consecrated Bishop of Winchester, then for his wisdom, made Lord Chancellor of England, and was the sole founder of Magdalen College, in Oxford. Richard, his brother, being a layman, had issue, Humphrey, who seated himself in Lancashire, from whom Thomas Patten, of Thornleigh, in the said co., Gent., is descended.

GEORGE PATON, Esq. of Grandhome, (son and heir, by Margaret Garden, of Troup, his wife, of JOHN PATON, Esq. of Grandhome, who d. in 1715, aged 28, and grandson of GEORGE PATON, Esq. of Grandhome, who d. in 1692, aged 44, and Isabella Christie, his wife,) m. Barbara Mackenzie, of Ardross, and d. in 1749, having had, with two daus., Helen and Margaret, one son and heir, PATRICK OF TREARNE AND HAZLEHEAD.

PATRICK, ROBERT, Esq. of Trearne and Hazlehead, co. Ayr, m. in 1805, Harriet, second dau. of Lieut.-Gen. William Gardiner, brother of Luke, Lord Mountjoy, by Harriet, dau. of the late Sir Richard Wrottesley, Bart. of Wrottesley,* and has issue, JOHN-SHEDDEN, b. in 1807.

William-Charles-Richard, b. in 1812.

Robert-Berresford, deceased.

This gentleman s. his father in 1795, and acquired, in 1807, the estate of Hazlehead, adjoining that of Trearne. He is inspector-general of hospitals, on half-pay since 1815, and a magistrate for the counties of Ayr and Renfrew. He is likewise in the deputy-lieutenancy of the former shire.

Lineage.

"The ancestors of the different families of the name of PATRICK, which now hold property in Ayrshire, (says Robertson,) were settled, and held situations about the monastery of Kilwinning, long prior to the Reformation." John Patrick attests, as a notary public, a charter connected with the church, dated 19 July, 1459, afterwards ratified in parliament; and William Patrick is a subscribing witness to a tack of the teinds of Dalry, granted by Alexander, commendator of Kilwinning, to John Hamilton, in 1549. The PATRICKS becoming early converts to the protestant religion, joined the reformers under the Earl of Glencairn; and some of them accompanying the expedition to the north of Ireland, under Hugh Montgomery, of Broadstane, afterwards Viscount Ardes, who, as expressed in his patent from JAMES VI., 'brought a colony of Scots into Clandeбора and Ardes, towards the increase of the restored religion,' settled in that country, where their descendants still possess property, near Derry."

JOHN PATRICK (son of William Patrick, who obtained a grant of the lands of Overmains, near Kilwinning, from the monastery) acquired by charter, in 1605, the estate of Byres, in Ayrshire, and subsequently part of the lands of Dalgarven. He d. in 1638, leaving five sons,

i. HEW, his heir.

ii. Robert, infest in part of Dalgarven.

iii. James, infest in another part of Dalgarven in 1638, who m. Agnes Finlay, and left six sons, all of whom, after his death, assumed the surname of KILPATRICK. The eldest, Thomas, had a son, John, whose dau., Helen, m. to James Patrick, Esq. of Byres.

iv. John, infest in 1638 in part of Byres, who m. Agnes Dockson, of Doura, in Kilwinning parish, and had two sons,

- IV. Elizabeth.

This gentleman, who s. his father in 1827, is a deputy-lieutenant for Lancashire, and major in the militia. He formerly represented that whole county in parliament, and now sits for the Northern division.

Lineage.

The family of PATTEN claims an ancestry coeval with the Conquest, but was not settled in Lancashire until the reign of HENRY VIII.

RICHARD PATTEN, living in 1119, son and heir of Richard Patten, or Patine, of Patten House, near Chelmsford, co. Essex, m. a dau. of the ancient Derbyshire family of Eyre, and had a son and successor,

RICHARD PATTEN, Lord of Dageham Court and Patten House, both in the co. of Essex, who m. Mary, dau. and co-heir of Ralph Dagenham of Dagenham Court, and had three sons, RICHARD, Robert, and John, of whom, the eldest,

RICHARD PATTEN, living in the 5th HENRY III., was father of

JOHN PATTEN, who m. a Derbyshire lady, named Revyle, and had, with a dau., Agnes, the wife of John Segar, a son and successor,

JOHN PATTEN, who m. — Poole, of co. Derby, and had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and William, of Wheldryk, in Yorkshire, who m. Emma Everingham, and had a son, Thomas, of Wheldryk, living in 1429, who left two daus. and co-heirs, named Agnes, and Idonea. John Patten's elder son and successor,

JOHN PATTEN, of Dagenham Court, in Essex, and of Waynflete, in Lincolnshire, flourished in the reign of EDWARD III., and was alive in 1376. He m. the dau. and heir of Sir Oswald Westingcroft, of Westingcroft, in Lancashire, and had a son, NICHOLAS PATTEN, of Waynflete, co. Lincoln, who had three sons, namely,

1. John, of Waynflete, who left an illegitimate dau., Joan, wife of Valence, of Kent.
- II. Nicholas, Lord of Dagenham, who left a dau., Margaret, m. to Bostock of Cheshire, and a son, Robert, of Dagenham, living temp. HENRY IV., who m. and had daus. only. Juliana, one of these co-heirs, marrying Richard Churchstyle, of Essex, conveyed to him the manor of Dagenham.
- III. RICHARD.

The third son,

RICHARD PATTEN, alias Waynflete, of Waynflete, sometime in the reigns of the fifth or sixth HENRIES, m. Margery, dau. of Sir William Brereton, Knt. of Brereton, in Cheshire, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM PATTEN, alias WAYNFLETE, the illustrious founder of Magdalen College, Oxford, who was horn at Waynflete, (whence, as was the custom of those times, he derived his surname,) but the exact period of his birth has never yet been ascertained. On the demise of Cardinal Beaufort, in 1447, he was advanced to the see of Winchester, which he held for the long space of 39 years, during which he amply justified the recommendation of the king, being distinguished for "piety, learning, and prudence." In Oct. 1456, he was constituted Lord High Chancellor in the room of Bouchier, Archbishop of Canterbury, and held the seals of office nearly four years, resigning in the month of July, 1460, about which time he accompanied the king to Northampton, and was with him a few days before the fatal battle near that place, in which the Lancastrians were defeated. Waynflete's attachment to HENRY's cause had been uniform and decided, yet his high character appears to have protected him. EDWARD IV. treated him not only with respect, but with some degree of magnanimity, as he twice issued a special pardon in his favour, and condescended to visit his newly-founded college at Oxford. The evening of the hishop's life was passed free from political strife and danger, and he lived to witness the quiet union of the rival roses, in the nuptials of Henry of Richmond and Elizabeth of York. This learned prelate, celebrated by historians for piety, temper, and humanity, d. 11 Aug. 1486, and was interred, with great funeral pomp, in Winchester cathedral, in a magnificent sepulchral chapel, which is kept in the finest preservation by the society of Magdalen College.
- II. John Patten, alias Waynflete, dean of Chichester, there buried.
- III. RICHARD PATTEN, founder of the family before us.

The third son of Richard Patten, and brother of Bishop Waynflete,

RICHARD PATTEN, of Boslow, co. Derby, living in the reign of HENRY VI., m. and had two sons and one dau., viz.,

1. Richard, of London, whose grandson, Mercury Patten, was Bluemantle Pursuivant of Arms in 1527.
- II. HUMPHREY, of whom presently,

Kinship.

It is stated in the Harl. MS., No. 1933, (which agrees with the Harl. MSS. Nos. 1370, 1441,) that this family came into Wales, in the year 1283, with King EDWARD I., and it is said in Pennant's "Tour in Wales," (vol. ii. p. 173.) that they were brought over by Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln. As Llewennie was within De Lacy's Lordship of Denbigh, and as a fee-farm rent was always paid to the crown, it is highly probable that the lands of Llewennie, which have been held by the Peakes for many centuries, and which are now possessed by their representative, were granted to their ancestor by that nobleman.

According to a pedigree in "Vincent's Wales," folio 138, in the College of Arms, which was compiled in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH,

RICHARD PEAKE, of Llewennie Green, was father of THOMAS PEAKE, of Llewennie Green, who m. Katherine, dau. and heir of Richard Hilton, by the dau. and heir of John Newport, of Shropshire, by Lætitia, dau. and heir of William de Brierly, of the which Richard Hilton was son of Robert Hilton, of Lancashire, by the dau. and heir of John de Pontefraet. The said Thomas Peake had two sons, 1. RICHARD; 2. Thomas Peake, of Llewennie Green, m. and left a son, Richard, who, by Alicia, dau. and heir of Ralph Tottenham, had a dau. and heir, Isabella Peake, m. to William Lloyd, alias Rossendall of Henllan.

RICHARD PEAKE, of Llewennie Green, (the eldest son of Thomas Peake and Katherine Hilton,) m. and was father of

THOMAS PEAKE, of Llewennie Green, m. Jane, dau. and heir of Robert Clare, alias Clarke, by whom he had

RICHARD PEAKE, of Llewennie Green, who lived about 1470, m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Donne, of Utkinton, Cheshire, and was by her father of

THOMAS PEAKE, who m. Jane, dau. and heir of William Clare, of Denbigh, and had a dau., m. to — Panton, co. Denbigh; and a son,

HENRY PEAKE, who s. his father, and m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Salisbury, of Maesmyrna, by whom he had five daus., viz., 1. Jane, m. 1st, to Thomas Mauved, 2ndly, to Richard Heaton, of Llewennie; 2. Margery, m. to Hugh ap Madock, of Dymerehian; 3. Lucie, m. to John ap Robert, of Llewennie; 4. Katherine, m. to Robert Wyn, of Denbigh; 5. Dowsia, m. to Robert Wynwey, of Denbigh; and one son,

HUGH PEAKE, of Llewennie, who was living in 1569, and dying in 1601, was buried at Henllan. He m. Agnes, dau. of William Vaughan, of Llanyviell, (who d. in 1618, and was buried with her husband,) and had four daus., viz., 1. Grace; 2. Lucy; 3. Jane, m. to William Thomas ap Jevan, of Llewennie Green; 4. Katherine; and a son,

THOMAS PEAKE, who m. (as appears by his marriage settlement, dated 13 Aug. 1593) Anne, sister of William Hamner, Esq. of the Fenns, co. Flint. By her (who was living in 1631) he had three sons, viz., 1. HUGH; 2. Harry, of Mayneva, co. Flint, living in 1631; 3. William, living in 1631. The eldest son,

HUGH PEAKE, of Llewennie, who was living in 1646, and died before 1665, m. (as appears by a settlement after marriage, dated 4 Oct. 1621,) with Elizabeth, his wife, by whom he had a son,

HUGH PEAKE, of Llewennie, who d. in 1666: he m. 1st, (settlement dated 10 Feb. 1639,) Katherine, dau. of John Vaughan, Esq. of Moulewig Park, co. Denbigh, and 2ndly, (settlement dated 23 Feb. 1646,) Katherine Davies, dau. of Dorothy Davies, of Ruthyn, widow. By her he had two sons, 1. HUGH, and 2. JOHN; and four daus., viz., 1. Dorothy; 2. Elizabeth; 3. Katherine; 4. Anne. The elder son,

HUGH PEAKE, of Llewennie, m. 1st, (settlement dated 30 April, 1678,) Jane, dau. of Samuel Mostyn, Esq., then late of Caldecote, co. Flint; 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of — (who re-married Robert Jones, and died his widow, in 1723.) Hugh Peake d. 7 May, 1697, at Perthewig, s. p., and was buried in the family vault in Henllan church. His brother and heir,

JOHN PEAKE, of Llewennie and Perthewig, was b. in 1657, and d. 14 Oct. 1727, aged 70. By Margaret, dau. of — Morris, (who d. 13 Oct. 1734, aged 56,) he had two sons, 1. HUGH, and 2. John, who d. aged 18. The eldest son,

HUGH PEAKE, of Perthewig, b. in 1707, m. 1 Dec. 1730, Margaret, only surviving child, and at length heir, of Samuel Garnett, Esq. of Swanley, co. Chester. He d. 28 Jan. 1767, aged 60, and his wife d. 9 Oct. 1788, aged 77. They had six sons, and three daus., viz., 1. THOMAS; 2. Hugh, b. in 1735, d. in India, in the E. I. Co.'s Marine Service, in 1765, unm.; 3. Samuel, b. in 1737, d. in India; 4. John, d. in 1739; 5. Paul, d. an infant; 6. Robert, b. in 1750, m. Margaret, dau. of John Ffoolkes, Esq. of Eriviatt, (see FFOOLKES;) he d. in 1814, s. p., and was buried at Henllan; 1. Elizabeth, b. in 1731, d. unm. in 1807; 2. Mary, b. in 1734, d. in 1735; and 3. Margaret, b. in 1742, d. in 1796, and buried at Henllan. The eldest son,

THOMAS PEAKE, of Perthewig and London, b. 25 July, 1733, m. in 1768, Martha, only child of Robert and Mary Coventry, of London, and d. 26 May, 1811, aged 78. His widow d. 3 May, 1813, aged 64. Mr. Peake had two sons, 1. Hugh, (who d. an infant,) and 2. THOMAS, and one dau., Margaret, b. in 1782, and now living unm. The only surviving son, THOMAS PEAKE, Esq. of Perthewig, and of Milton's Green, Gerard's Cross, co. Bucks. PEIRSE OF BEDALE.

PEIRSE, MARIANNE, of Bedale, co. York, second but only unmarried dau. and co-heiress of the late Henry Peirse, Esq. of Bedale.

Lineage.

This family, which has, at one time or other, possessed a greater portion of the North Riding than perhaps any house of gentry ever seated in the district, descends from

PETER PEIRSE, who flourished during the reigns of EDWARD IV. and RICHARD III., and being attached to the house of York, fought at the battle of Bosworth Field in 1485, as a standard-bearer in the army of RICHARD III. Peter Peirse lost a leg on that occasion. His son,

THOMAS PEIRSE, resided at Bedale, co. York, temp. HENRY VIII., and marrying, had issue,

MARMADUKE PEIRSE, of Bedale, Esq., who was also concerned in that district of Yorkshire called "Cleveland." This gentleman m. Dorothy, dau. of Gale, of Scruton, co. York, whose family was afterwards rendered distinguished by Dr. Thomas Gale, Dean of York, and his learned sons, Roger and Samuel Gale, the antiquaries Marmaduke Peirse d. in the year 1607, leaving, by Dorothy, his wife, who predeceased him in 1599,

HENRY PEIRSE, of Bedale, who is believed to have been a younger son. He lived temp. JAMES I., and m. Isabella, sister of Matthew Pinkney, Esq. of Richmond, co. York, of the house of Pinkney, seated at Silton, in the North Riding. By her he had,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Richard, b. in 1602, who was one of the gentlemen sewers of the chamber to King CHARLES I. in 1634.

I. Elizabeth, b. in 1591, who d. in 1644.

II. Dorothy, b. in 1596.

JOHN PEIRSE, Esq. of Bedale and London, elder son, b. in 1593, became, like his younger brother, a gentleman sewer of the chamber to CHARLES I.; and thus resident in London at the Visitation of 1634, recorded his pedigree therein. He m. Sarah, dau. of Peter Chamberlayne, and sister of the celebrated Peter Chamberlayne, M.D., the eccentric physician and author. According to an old family pedigree, this John Peirse was the purchaser of the manor of Bedale. He d. in 1658, having had by his said wife,

I. John, of Bedale, son and heir, who is entered in the pedigree, recorded 1634. He, however, d. unm., and Bedale descended to the issue of his younger brother.

II. RICHARD, of whom presently.

I. Elizabeth, alive in 1634.

II. Dorothy, wife of Ralph Dowson, of Lofthouse, in Netherdale.

III. Sarah, } both entered in the pedigree, recorded 1634.

IV. Isabella, }

RICHARD PEIRSE, Esq., second son, entered in the pedigree of 1634, is the first of the family recorded to have resided on the manor of Hutton Bonville, in Birkby parish, of which he was lord. He m. Mary, dau. of Matthew Hutton, Esq. of Marske, co. York, (see that family), by Barbara, his wife, eldest dau. of Sir Conyers D'Arcy, afterwards Lord D'Arcy, and sister of Conyers, first Earl of Holderness. This Richard Peirse purchased the manor of Thimbleby, in Osmotherley parish, in Allertonshire, of Sir Christopher Wandesford, in 1694; and he and Mary, his wife, are parties to deeds in 1700. He made his will 30 Nov. 1708, desiring burial in the chapel of Hutton Bonville, and devising his Northallerton estates to his grandson, Henry Peirse. His original will, now among the family muniments, contains a beautiful old seal of the Peirse arms, (azure, a ducal coronet, between three crossed-crosslets, fitchée, or,) impaling Chamberlayne, (gules, an inescutcheon, argent, between eight mullets in orle, or,) and thus evidently the seal of his father. He d. soon after, having had issue by his said wife,

I. John, b. in 1662, upon whom his father settled his estate at Lazenby. This gentleman m. in 1685, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Henry Marwood, of Busby, in Yorkshire, Bart., high-sheriff of Yorkshire in 1675. He d. v. p. in 1694, having had issue,

HENRY, heir to his grandfather, and of whom presently.

Mary, b. in 1686.

Dorothy, b. in 1693.

II. Henry, b. in 1665, but not named in his father's will.

III. THOMAS, of Thimbleby and Hutton Bonville, ancestor of the PEIRSES OF THIMBLEBY, and the HUSTLERS OF ACKLAM.

I. Catharine, wife of John Wastell, Esq. of Marske and Ainderly Steeple, by whom she had issue.

II. Dorothy, m. to Thomas Stillington, Esq. of Kelfield, co. York.

HENRY PEIRSE, Esq. of Bedale, grandson of Richard and great nephew of John Peirse, and heir to both, was b. in 1692, and, in addition to his inheritance, acquired, by devise from his grandfather, the Northallerton lands. This Henry Peirse, Esq., sat as M.P. for Northallerton from the 9th ANNE to 1754, with the exception of the short parliament 1st GEORGE I. He d. in 1759, aged 67, having had to wife, Anne Johnson, by whom, who survived him, he left issue,

HENRY, his heir.

Anne, m. to John-Sawry Morritt, Esq. of Rokeby, co. York.

HENRY PEIRSE, Esq. of Bedale, only son and heir, was b. in 1754, and represented Northallerton in parliament from 1775 till his death, in 1824. He m. 16 Aug. 1777, Charlotte-Grace, second dau. of John, second Lord Monson, and by her, who d. 19 July, 1792, had issue three daus., his co-heiresses at law. Before his death, Mr. Peirse repurchased into the family the manor of Hutton Bonville, which the Thimblehy Peirses had sold to the Hammonds. He d. in 1824, when his estates fell among his daus. and co-heiresses, who were,

I. CHARLOTTE, who became the first wife of Inigo-Freeman Thomas, Esq. of Ratton, co. Sussex, and d., having had by him only two daus.,

1. Charlotte Thomas, b. in 1798, who d. s. p.

2. Georgiana Thomas, sole heiress to her mother. This lady m. in 1821, William-Battle Wrightson, Esq. of Cusworth, near Doncaster, M.P. for Northallerton. (See WRIGHTSON OF CUSWORTH.)

II. MARIANNE, second co-heir, now of Bedale.

III. HENRIETTA, third co-heir, b. in 1790, who for her share obtained the manor of Hutton Bonville. This lady, 17 Aug. 1815, became the second wife of Sir John-Poo Beresford, Bart., K.C.B., K.T.S., &c., and d. 28 Feb. 1825, having had two sons and four daus. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

Arms, &c.—See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

Scat—Bedale.

PEIRSE OF THIMBLEBY.

III. Caroline, d. young.

IV. Georgiana-Louisa.

In 1837, Mr. Peirse sold Thimbleby to J. Haines, Esq.

Lineage.

This is a branch of "Peirse of Bedale," to which, for the early descents, refer.

THOMAS PEIRSE, Esq., younger son of Richard Peirse, Esq. of Hutton Bonville, by Mary Hutton, his wife, and brother of John Peirse, ancestor of Peirse of Bedale, had, for his share of the inheritance, the manors of Hutton Bonville and Thimbleby, and was appointed executor in his father's will, 1708. He m. (settlement dated 23 April, 1700) Anne, dau. and eventually co-heiress of Sir William Hustler, of Acklam, in Cleveland, Knt., and made his will 19 Sept. 1720. Dying soon after, it was proved by Anne, his widow, at York, 9 June, 1725. She survived him many years, and d. in Dec. 1753. By her Mr. Peirse had issue,

I. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. RICHARD, of whom hereafter as heir male of William, his brother.

III. John, of Low Worsall, and Newport, in Cleveland, merchant, who, together with his brothers, Richard and Thomas, purchased lands in Worsall, in 1733, of William Wilkinson. He made his will in 1734, and dying s. p. the same year, was buried at Hutton Bonville, 31 Oct. 1734.

IV. Thomas, who, acquiring Acklam, by devise of his aunt, Evereld Hustler, took the name and arms of HUSTLER. (See that family in the SUPPLEMENT.)

I. Anne, m. to Reed Hodgson, Esq. of Wotton le Wear, in Durham, son of John Hodgson, of Wotton le Wear and Bishop Auckland. Reed Hodgson was buried 4 Jan. 1745, at St. Margaret's, Durham.

II. Mary, m. 6 Feb. 1728, to Joseph Stillington, Esq. of Kelfield, co. York.

III. Evereld, who resided at York, and d. unm. She was buried in the vault in Hutton Bonville Chapel, 6 April, 1761.

IV. Catharine, who also resided at York, and dying unm., was buried 19 Nov. 1760, at Hutton Bonville.

V. A dau., living in 1720, who d. early.

WILLIAM PEIRSE, Esq. of Hutton Bonville and Thimbleby, eldest son and heir, was of age before 1726, in which year he m. Dorothy, sister of the above Joseph Stillington, Esq. of Kelfield, co. York, as appears by the settlement bearing that date. He made his will 26 June, 1746, and a codicil, 23 July, 1747, and was interred 29 Jan. 1753, at Hutton Bonville. He had several children, but his only son having pre-deceased him in his minority, the lands and manors were inherited by his brother, subject to a considerable legacy to his daughter. His issue, however, were,

I. William, his heir apparent, who d., aged 13, in 1741.

I. Anne, } both of whom d. young.

II. Dorothy, }
III. Mary, only surviving child, and heiress (general) to her father, b. in 1733. She m. the Rev. Edward Stillingfleet, of West Bromwich, co. Stafford, of the family of the famous Bishop Stillingfleet; she, however, carried nought, save personality, out of the family.

IV. Dorothy, second so christened, d. young.

RICHARD PEIRSE, Esq., second son of Thomas, thus succeeded to Thimbleby and Hutton Bonville. This gentleman, in his early life, was a merchant at Stockton-on-Tees, co. Durham, and at Worsall, in Cleveland, and m. Rachel, sister of William Bayne, Esq. of Ripon, co. York. After his brother's death, he resided at Hutton Bonville, and dying 26th, was buried there 30 June, 1759, leaving, by Rachel, his wife, who survived him, and was buried 24 June, 1771,

I. RICHARD-WILLIAM, his heir.

II. James, b. 13 May, 1755, bapt. at Ripon Minster, who became a captain in 15th regt. of Foot. He d. s. p. at Havana, in the Isle of Cuba, and letters of administration to his effects were granted by the Prerogative Court of York to his brother, Richard-William Peirse.

I. Anne, b. 15 Oct. 1751, and baptized at Ripon. This lady m. to Joseph Williamson, Esq. of Melton Hall, co. York.

The elder son,

RICHARD-WILLIAM PEIRSE, Esq. of Hutton Bonville, afterwards of Eashy Hall, and lastly of Thimbleby, all in the North Riding, co. York, was b. 20 Jan. 1753, and bapt. at Ripon. He m. (settlement dated 1780) Elizabeth, dau. of Christopher Fawcett, Esq. of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and disposing of Hutton Bonville to the Hammonds before 1790, rebuilt Thimbleby Lodge, and finally became seated there. By his said wife (who d. aged thirty-three, 3 Sept., and was buried 10 Sept. 1791, at Hutton Bonville) he had issue,

I. RICHARD-WILLIAM-CHRISTOPHER, his heir, present representative of this branch of the family.

II. James, lieut. 23rd Foot, who m. Sophia, dau. of the Rev. — Clarke, (sister of the wife of his elder brother,) and by her has had twelve children.

SIR WILLIAM PENN, b. at Bristol in 1621, who, adopting the gallant profession of his father, became a distinguished naval officer, admiral of England, and was one of the commanders at the taking of Jamaica. Before he had reached his thirty-second year, he had gone through the various promotions of captain, rear-admiral of Ireland, vice-admiral of England, general in the first Dutch war, and commander-in-chief under the Duke of York, in the signal victory over the Dutch in 1665, on which occasion he was knighted. On his return he was sent to parliament by the borough of Weymouth; in 1660 he was made a commissioner of the admiralty and navy, governor of the fort and town of Kinsale, vice-admiral of Munster, and a member of that provincial council. He then took leave of the sea, but still continued his other employments till 1669, when, through bodily infirmities, he withdrew to Wanstead, in Essex, and there died in 1670. Although he was thus engaged, both under the parliament and king, he took no part in the civil war, but adhered to the duties of his profession. Besides the reputation of a great and patriotic officer, he acquired credit for having improved the navy in several important departments. He was the author of many little tracts on this subject, some of which are preserved in the British Museum. The monument erected to his memory, by his wife, in Redcliffe church, Bristol, contains a short account of his life and promotions. Sir William m. Margaret, dau. of John Jasper, of Rotterdam, and by her, who d. in 1681-2, left at his decease in 1670, a dau., Margaret, m. to Anthony Lowther, Esq. of Mask, in Yorkshire, and a son, WILLIAM PENN, who was b. in the parish of St. Catherine, near the Tower of London, 14 Oct. 1644. This eminent man was the founder and legislator of Pennsylvania, in North America. In 1681, King CHARLES II., in consideration of the services of Mr. Penn's father, and several debts due to him from the crown at the period of his demise, granted to William Penn and his heirs the province lying on the west side of the river Delaware, in North America, which thence obtained the name of Pennsylvania. Mr. Penn immediately published a brief account of the province, proposing an easy purchase of land and good terms of settlement for such as were inclined to remove thither. A great number of purchasers came forward, and formed a company, called "The Free Society of Traders in Pennsylvania." Shortly after, the enlightened and beneficent proprietor sailed, to colonize his newly-acquired territories, with a band of persecuted Quakers, who followed his fortune; and having entered into a treaty with the Indian natives, founded the city of Philadelphia. He abolished negro slavery in his dominions, and established a code of laws for his internal government, which contributed much to the prosperity of the colony. On the accession of King JAMES II., Penn became a great favourite at court, and was one of the most zealous advisers of the measures for allowing liberty of conscience which then appeared. The Revolution placed the Quakers, in common with other dissenters, under the protection of the laws in the exercise of their religion, and Penn, having witnessed this favourable change in their situation, returned to America, where he was joyfully received, and found the affairs of his settlement in a prosperous condition. After residing in Pennsylvania a few years, he came home to negotiate some matters with the British government, relative to the commerce of the colony, whither he did not again return, dying at his seat at Ruscomb, in Berkshire, in 1718. Beside the tract entitled "No Cross No Crown," Penn was the author of "Primitive Christianity revived, in the Faith and Practice of the People called Quakers;" "A brief Account of the Rise and Progress of the Quakers;" "A Treatise on Oaths," &c. &c.

"William Penn, the great legislator of the Quakers, had," says Father O'Leary, "the success of a conqueror in establishing and defending his colony, among savage tribes, without ever drawing the sword; the goodness of the most benevolent rulers, in treating his subjects as his own children; and the tenderness of an universal father, who opened his arms to all mankind without distinction of sect or party. In his republic, it was not the religious creed, but personal merit, that entitled every member of society to the protection and emoluments of the state." With respect to the settlement, it has been supposed that, during the seventy years while William Penn's principles prevailed, or the Quakers had the principal share in the government, there was no spot on the globe where, number for number, there was so much virtue or so much true happiness as among the inhabitants of Pennsylvania: and that during the time, it exhibited (setting aside the difficulties of a new colony) a kind of little paradise upon earth. Hence the period from 1682 to 1754, with the same exception, has been denominated the golden age of Pennsylvania. Nor has this name been improperly bestowed upon it, if we examine into facts; for in a constitution where merit only was publicly rewarded, there must have been a constant growth of virtue, and, of course, happiness with it. In a constitution, also, where every man had free scope for his exertions, and the power of enjoying the fruits of his own labour, there must have been the constant opportunity of improving his temporal condition. William Penn m. 1st, Gulielma-Maria, dau. of Sir William Springett, and had by her a son,

WILLIAM, to whom his father left his estates in Ireland. This William was father of another WILLIAM PENN, whose dau., CHRISTIANA, marrying — Gaskill, Esq. of Gloucestershire, was mother of ALEXANDER-FORBES GASKILL, Esq. of Shannagarry, in the co. Cork.

He m. 2ndly, Hannah, dau. of Thomas Callowhill, of Bristol, and had by her three sons, viz.,

John, who d. unm. in 1746, and bequeathed his moiety of the province of Pennsylvania to his brother Thomas.

The late DAVID PENNANT, Esq. of Downing and Bychton, co. Flint, who d. 25 June, 1841, was b. 8 Nov. 1763, and m. 12 Dec. 1793, Louisa, second dau. of Sir Henry Peyton, Bart., by whom he had one son, DAVID, b. 22 Jan. 1796, who m. 1st, the Lady Caroline-Spencer-Churchill, only dau. of George, Duke of Marlborough, and by her, who d. in 1824, had an only child, Caroline, b. 8 Dec. 1823, who d. 22 Jan. 1832. He m. 2ndly, the Lady Emma Brudenell, dau. of Robert, Earl of Cardigan, and had by her a dau., LOUISA. Mr. Pennant d. 15 Feb. 1835.

Mr. Pennant, who s. his father in 1798, served the office of high-sheriff of Flintshire in the following year.

Lineage.

This family descends from TUDOR TREVOR, Lord of Hereford and Whittington, Founder of the Tribe of the Marches. This Chief had three sons, (see JONES-PARRY OF LLWYNON,) of whom the second,

LLYDOK AP TUDOR TREVOR, Lord of both Maelors and Oswestry, m. Angharad, dau. of Iago ap Idwal, Prince of North Wales, A.D. 1021, (See WYNN OF GWYDYR, under WILLIAMS-WYNN OF LLANGEDWIN,) and had a son and successor,

LLOWARCH GAM, a Nobleman in Maelor, father, by Lecky, his wife, dau. of Gwerystan ap Gwaethvoed Vawr, a Lord of Powys, (See DAVIES OF DENBIGH, under HEATON OF PLAS HEATON,) of a son,

EDNYFED AP LLOWARCH, who m. Sionied, dau. and co-heir of Rhywalon ap Cynfyn, King of Powys, (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS,) and was s. by his son,

RHYS AP EDNYFED, (commonly called RHYS SAIS, from being bred among the English,) Lord of Oswestry, Whittington, and part of both Maelors, who m. Efa, dau. of Griffith ap Griffith, Prince of South Wales, and had issue,

- I. TUDOR AP RHYS SAIS.
- II. Elidyr ap Rhys Sais, Lord of Eyton, in Denbighland, ancestor of the EYTONS OF EYTON, SUTTONS OF SUTTON, and LEWIS'S OF GALTREOPE.
- III. Iddon ap Rhys Sais, progenitor of the DAVIS'S OF DUDDESTON, DAVIS'S OF MIDDLETON, and EDWARDS'S OF KILBENDRE, (See BURKE'S Commoners, ii. 595, MORRALL OF PLAS-YOLYN,) EDWARDS'S OF SHREWSBURY, BARTS., and VAUGHANS OF BURLTON, (see that name.)

I. ENORY, m. Ednowain ap Ithal, of the Bryn in Powys.

The eldest son,

TUDOR AP RHYS SAIS, m. Jane, dau. of Rees Vychan ap Rees ap Meredith, and had issue,

- I. BLEDDYN AP TUDOR.
- II. Grono ap Tudor, ancestor of the DAVIS'S OF DENBIGH.
- III. Cyhelyn ap Tudor, from whom derived sixth in descent, Ieuf ap Howell, whose dau. and heir, Mawd, m. Tudor ap Griffith, Lord of Gwyddelwern, in Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, brother of OWEN GLENPOWER, and second son of Griffith, Lord of Glyn-dwrddwy, in Merioneth, Representative of the Sovereign Princes of Powys, North Wales, and South Wales, and was mother of a dau. and heir, Lowrie, who m. Griffith ap Einion, of Cors-y-Gedol, co. Merioneth, (See WYNNE OF PENIARTH,) and from this marriage derived, I. the VAUGHANS OF CORS-Y-GEDOL, (See BURKE'S Peerage, Art. LORD MOSTYN and VAUGHAN OF NANNEY, BART.;) II. YALES OF PLAS-Y-YALE, III. ROGERS'S OF BRYN-TANGOR. (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS.)

Tudor ap Rhys was s. by his eldest son,

BLEDDYN AP TUDOR, who m. Agnes, dau. of Llewelyn ap Iorwerth ap Cadwgan ap Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, (See MORRIS OF THE HURST,) and had three sons, I. OWEN; II. Madoc; III. Bledbyn. The eldest, OWEN AP BLEDDYN, m. Efa, widow of Iorwerth ap Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, Dinmael, and Abertanat, ancestor by her of the Hughes's of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS,) and dau. and heir of Madoc, Lord of Mawddwy, in Merioneth, younger son of Gwenwynwyn, Prince of Powys Wenwynwyn, (ibid.) By this lady he had issue,

- I. Iorwerth Gam ap Owen, ancestor of the MOSTYNS OF MOSTYN, BARTS., MOSTYNS OF TALACRE, BARTS., MOSTYN, LORD VAUX, EDWARDS'S OF CHIRK, TREVORS OF BRYN-KRYNALLT, TREVORS OF TREVALLYN, and TREVORS-HAMPDEN, VISCOUNTS HAMPDEN.
- II. THOMAS AP OWEN, progenitor of the line of which we have to treat.
- III. Owen Vychan ap Owen, from whom derive the DYMOCKS OF PENLEY HALL. (See that name.)

The second son,

THOMAS AP OWEN, was father of

MEILOR AP THOMAS, seated at Bryn, in the township of Halghton, parish of Hanmer, and county of Flint, whose son,

MADOC AP MEILIR, acquired the estate of Bychton, in the parish of Whiteford, Flintshire, by marriage with Alice, the dau. and heir of Philip of Fychdyn, (that is, in English, Philip of Bychton,) son of Philip y Swyddyn Wyddel, or Philip, the Irish officer, one of the cavaliers who accompanied Gruffydd ap Cynan, Prince of Wales, from Ireland, to assist him in recovering his dominions, then usurped by Trahaern ap Caradog. The great and decisive victory obtained by Gruffydd over the usurper, (and in which Trahaern was slain,) on the mountains of Carno, co. Montgomery, anno 1077, the valour of Philip mainly achieved, and Gruffydd, thus reinstated in his principality, was not unmindful of his Milesian general, for he bestowed upon him great possessions, of which Bychton, in the parish of Whitford, formed a part. The arms borne by his son Philip, who was seated at Bychton, were, "Ar., three bars, wavy, az., the centre bar charged with three sheildrakes, of the first." These ensigns, acquired with the Bychton estate, the descendants of Madoc and Alice have quartered down to the present day. Iorwerth (or Edward), the son of Madoc and Alice, was father of Kenrick, the father of Ithel, the father of Tudur, whose son,

DAVID AP TUDUR, first adopted the cognomen of PENNANT, and from him all of the name derive their descent. This surname is truly British, derived from Pen, a head, and Nant, a dingle, the ancient mansion of Bychton being seated at the head of a very considerable dingle on the old family estate. David m. 1st, Janet, dau. of David, of Trefcastle, in Tegengl, and had by her a son and two daus. He m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of John Done, of Utlington, co. Chester, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Richard Heaton, of Heaton, and had

- I. THOMAS, Abbot of Basingwerk, (See PENNANT OF PENRYN CASTLE.)
- II. Roger.
- III. Hugh, offeiriad, or priest, a distinguished poet of the reign of HENRY VIII. In 1575, at an Elsteddod at Caerwis, he was secondary student in vocal song.

David Pennant's eldest son,

REES PENNANT, of Bychton, m. Margaret, dau. of Rees ap Reinalt, of Pentre Hobbyn, and was father of

HUGH PENNANT, of Bychton, who m. Janet, dau. of Richard ap Howel ap Ievan Vychan, of Mostyn, co. Flint, sister to Thomas Mostyn, of Mostyn, and Pyers Mostyn, of Talacre, (See MOSTYN OF MOSTYN, under OWEN OF TEDSMORE.) By this lady he had, with six daus., as many sons, 1. THOMAS, his heir; 2. Richard; 3. William, an eminent goldsmith, of London, who lived at the Queen's Head, in Smithfield; 4. John; 5. Pyers, one of the four gentlemen ushers to Queen ELIZABETH; and 6. Nicholas, who m. Catharine, dau. of Griffith ap John ap Robert, of Whitford, and had a son, John Pennant, Esq., who m. Jane, dau. and heiress of John Lloyd ap Llewellyn ap Rees, of DOWNING, by whom he acquired that estate, whereon he erected a mansion in 1627. His great grandson, THOMAS PENNANT, Esq., d. s. p. in 1724, having bequeathed Downing to David Pennant, of Bychton, Esq. Hugh Pennant was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, who m. Catharine, dau. of David Llwyd ap David of Glanyliyn, near Bala, co. Merioneth, and widow of Roger Middleton, Esq. of Gwaenynog. By her he had, with two daus., Jane, wife of Thomas ap Thomas, of Meliden, and Catharine, wife of Richard Sneyd, Esq., a son and successor,

HUGH PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, who m. Lucy, dau. of Henry Conway, Esq. of Bodrhyddan, (See that name,) and by her, who d. in Feb. 1611, left, with other issue, a son and successor,

PYERS PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, High-sheriff of Flintshire in 1611, who m. Jane, dau. of Morris Kyffin, Esq. of Maenan, co. Carnarvon, (Refer to LLOYD OF ASTON,) by Margaret, dau. of Thomas Mostyn, Esq. of Mostyn, and had, 1. THOMAS, his heir; 2. DAVID, successor to his brother; 3. HUGH, of Bryn Shone, major in the service of CHARLES I., who greatly distinguished himself in the Isle of Anglesey, against General Mytton, d. in 1669; 1. Elizabeth, m. to Peter Griffith, Esq. of Caerwys Hall; 2. Lucy, m. to Harry Conway, Esq. of Nant; 3. Grace, m. to Thomas Matthews, Esq. of Denbigh; 4. Margaret, m. to John Vaughan, Esq. of Bronkilog; and 5. Jane, m. to John Humphreys, Esq. of the Wern. Pyers Pennant d. in 1623, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, High-sheriff of Flintshire in 1633, who m. Margaret, dau. of Edward Wynne, Esq. of Ystrad, son of Morris Wynne, Esq. of Gwydyr; but having no issue, he was s. at his decease, in 1634, by his brother,

DAVID PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, High-sheriff of Flintshire in 1642. This gentleman, during the civil wars, adhered to the royal cause, and held a major's commission in that service. "He was," says his descendant, Thomas Pennant, the historian, "an officer in the garrison of Denbigh when it was besieged and taken by my maternal great-great-grandfather, General Mytton. My loyal ancestor suffered there a long imprisonment. Bychton was plundered, and the distress of the family so great, that he was kept from starving by force of conjugal affection, for his wife often walked with a bag of oatmeal from the parish of Whiteford to Denbigh to relieve his wants." He m. Margaret, dan. and heiress of John Pennant, Esq. of Holywell, co. Flint, and by her, who d. in 1700, had issue,

I. PYERS, his heir.

II. John, who m. Sarah Parry, of Merton, and d. in 1709, aged 69. He was buried at Chelsea, "where," says Thomas Pennant, "he had resided, and where my father often visited him during the boyish holidays. My father told me he was frequently taken by him to the Don Saltero Coffee House, where he used to see poor Richard Cromwell, a little and very neat old man, with a most placid countenance, the effect of his innocent and unambitious life."

I. Mary, who m. John Salusbury, Esq. of Bachegraig.

Major Pennant d. in 1666, and was s. by his son, PYERS PENNANT, Esq. of Bychton, Vice-admiral of North Wales, who m. Catharine,* dan. of Robert Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney, co. Lineage.

THOMAS PENNANT, son of David ap Tudor Pennant, of Bychton, (Refer to that family.) by Anne, his second wife, dau. of John Done, of Utlington, co. Chester, Esq., was Abbot of Basingwerk, Flintshire, and is celebrated by Guttyn Owain, a Welsh bard of the year 1480, who records the hospitality of the Abbot, in a poem, printed in the collection of Mr. Rhys Jones. The poet is so liberal of his praise as to say, "that he gave twice the treasure of a king in wine." Guttyn Owain, and Tudor Aled, another noted bard, speak not only of the Abbot's works of utility; of the water and windmills he erected; of his having enlarged and beautified the abbey; but also compliment him on his prowess in battle. Thomas Pennant, quitting his profession, became, in the law term, a monk deraigne, and m. Angharad, dau. of Gwiliam ap Griffith, of the great house of Penrhyn, in Carnarvonshire, (Refer to LLOYD of PLYMOC.) by whom he had, with two dans., three sons, PERRY OF MOOR HALL.

PERRY, JOHN-WATLINGTON, Esq. of Moor Hall, and Jervis Hall, both in the co. Essex, b. 7 Dec. 1823; s. his father 15 Oct. 1833.

Lineage.

About the middle of the 17th century, the Perrys were settled in Devonshire, and an obscure tradition still prevails, that some of them had emigrated to that county from Limerick, in Ireland. Perhaps it is owing to the circumstance of being resident in the county of Devon, that one of them, devoting his genius and skill to naval architecture, acquired a name of considerable celebrity in that science, and obtained an appointment in the king's dockyard at Plymouth. He was afterwards removed to the royal dockyard at Woolwich. Here, his son, PHILIP, became connected in partnership with Sir Henry Johnson, then M.P. for Aldborough, in Suffolk, and the opulent owner of the well-known dockyard at Blackwall. This property was, in part, purchased by JOHN PERRY, Esq. of Walthamstow, co. Essex, who m. 1st, in 1737, Anne, dau. of Samuel Watlington, Esq. of Watlington House, Reading, co. Berks, and 2ndly, Miss Gibson, dau. of — Gibson, Esq. of Pinner, co. Middlesex, and d. 20 Jan. 1771, having had issue by his first wife only, viz., a dau., Anne, who m. Joseph, son of Sir Joseph Hankey, Knt., alderman of London, and d. s. p. in 1803, and two sons, Philip, who d. unm., and

JOHN PERRY, Esq. of Moor Hall, high-sheriff of Essex in 1798, who purchased the remainder of the dockyard at Blackwall. He m. 1st, Elizabeth Browne, by whom (who d. in Jan. 1795) he had four sons, John, Philip, and Richard, who all d. unm., and THOMAS, of whom presently; and four daus., Eliza, m. to Capt. Layman, R.N., and d. s. p. in 1837; Sarah, m. to George Green, Esq. of Blackwall; Charlotte, m. to the Ven. Henry-Kay Bonney, Archdeacon of Bedford, rector of King's Cliffe, co. Northampton; and Louisa. Mr. Perry m. 2udly, Miss Mary Green, by whom he had (with two daus., Mary-Anne, m. to Capt. Savage, R.M., and Amelia) three sons, Richard, barrister-at-law; George, in holy orders; and Charles, also in orders, formerly fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. Mr. Perry, a man of considerable talent, and of a bold and enterprising spirit, was educated at Harrow school, where he was cotemporary with the celebrated Sir William Jones, Chief Justice of Bengal, and with the late Dr. Anthony Hamilton, formerly Archdeacon of Colchester, and vicar of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields. To Mr. Perry the public is indebted for the origin and introduction of wet docks in the eastern part of the metropolis, which have afforded so much safety and protection to the commerce and shipping of the country. The first of this description, called the Brunswick Dock, was a spacious wet dock, planned and excavated on his own estate, and entirely at his own expense, in the year 1789. It was completed in little more than twelve months from the commencement, and, when opened, was capable of containing East Indianmen and other vessels to the number of eighty. On the south side, and towards the river, is a magnificent quay, which measures, from east to west, eleven hundred feet. Mr. Perry d. 7 Nov. 1810, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS PERRY, Esq. of Moor Hall, who had been for some time in the E. I. Co.'s civil service, Bengal. He m. 6 March, 1823, Maria-Jane, dau. of George Watlington, Esq. of Caldecot House, in Aldenham, Herts, barrister-at-law, prothonotary of the Common Pleas, and recorder of St. Albans, and by this lady had issue,

- i. JOHN-WATLINGTON, his heir.
- i. Fanny-Maria, d. 28 Dec. 1840.
- ii. Maria-Jane.
- iii. Louisa-Philippa.
- iv. Emily-Anne.

Mr. Perry d. 15 Oct. 1833, and was s. by his only son, the present JOHN-WATLINGTON PERRY, Esq. of Moor Hall.

Arms—Quarterly: gu. and or, on a bend, arg., three lions, passant, ppr.

Crest—A lion's head, ppr., ducally crowned, or.

Frances-Mary.

Anna-Maria.

Ellen-Jane, d. 5 May, 1834.

Mr. Peter is a deputy-warden, deputy-lieutenant, and magistrate of the co. Cornwall. He was also, for many years, one of the chairmen of the Court of Quarter Sessions, and afterwards M.P. for the borough of Bodmin. He is now her Britannic Majesty's Consul for the State of Pennsylvania, in North America.

Lincage.

This family has been, for several centuries, resident and possessed of lands in the West of England. According to Risdon, and other antiquaries, the Lady Alice Pole, in the reign of HENRY III., gave the manor and castle of Compton, in Devonshire, "to one of the family of Peter, whose posterity afterwards took the name of the place." Another branch settled at Torr-Newton, in the adjacent parish of Torr-Brian,* of which was

JOHN PETER, who lived in the reigns of RICHARD II. and HENRY IV., and who, by his wife, Alice, left issue, two sons,

1. JOHN, his successor.
11. Nicholas, who s. to his mother's estates at Bakeheare, in Dorsetshire, and Milton, in Hants, and was M.P. for Shafteshury in 28 HENRY VI. He d. s. p.

JOHN PETER, the elder brother, inherited his father's estates in Devonshire, and left issue, by his wife, a son, named

WILLIAM PETER, who (as it appears from an inquisition, taken in the 14th of EDWARD IV.) was seised of Torr-Newton, Bakeheare, Milton, and other lands, in the cos. of Devon, Dorset, and Hants, as heir of his father and uncle, John and Nicholas Peter aforesaid, and was at that time 24 years of age. By his wife, Joan, he had several children, among whom were

1. John, who inherited Torr-Newton, and other estates in Devonshire, and who, by Alice, his wife, dau. of John Collins, Esq. of Woodlands, in the same co., was father of Sir William Peter, or Petre, principal secretary of state in the reigns of HENRY VIII., EDWARD VI., MARY, and ELIZABETH, and ancestor of the Lords Petre, of Writtle, co. Essex.
11. WILLIAM, which

WILLIAM PETER, the younger son, s. to his father's estates in Dorsetshire and Hants, and further increased his patrimony by his marriage with Joan, only dau. and heiress of Sir Roger Arundel, of Calwoodly, co. Devon, by which lady he had issue three sons,

1. Roger, who d. young.
11. WILLIAM, who s. his father, but d. s. p. in 37 HENRY VII.
111. JOHN.

This

JOHN PETER resided at Bowlay, near Exeter, and was one of the representatives of that city in the first parliament of PHILIP and MARY. He m. his cousin, Wilmot, dau. of John Peter, Esq. of Torr-Newton, and sister of Sir William Peter, secretary of state, and d. in 1579, at a very advanced age, leaving a numerous progeny of sons and daus., amongst whom were,

1. John, who was M.P. for Dartmouth in the first parliament of PHILIP and MARY, (the same in which his father represented Exeter,) and d. s. p. in the lifetime of his father.
11. Otho, who s. to his father in the Devonshire estates as well as to his mother's brother, John Peter, custumar of Exeter, in other lands possessed by him in the same county, and was seated at Bowhay.†
111. THOMAS.

* Another branch, settled in the same parish, was denominated Fitz-Peter, of which was Nicholas Fitz-Peter, M.P. for Launceston in the reign of EDWARD III. The name seems to have been spelt in various ways, as Peter, Peeter, Petere, Fitz-Peter, &c. In the oldest editions of Holinshed, Roger Ascham, and Spenser, it is spelt Peter.

† Bowhay descended from father to son, down to the great-grandson of Otho, John Peter, Esq., who left an only dau., Frances, m. to Sir Allen Apsley, brother of Lucy, wife of Colonel Hutchinson. (See her Life of Col. Hutchinson.) She had issue a son and a dau., viz.,

Sir Peter Apsley, whose only dau. and heiress, Catherine, m. her cousin, Allen, Earl of Bathurst.

Frances, who m. to Sir Benjamin Bathurst, whose descendant, the present

Earl of Bathurst, now represents the Bowhay branch of the Peter family.

Upon Otho Peter (father of the last male heir, who m. Frances, dau. of Thomas Southcote, Esq.) the following eul-

THOMAS PETER, the third son, to whom his father had made gift of divers lands in Cornwall, (which lands had been acquired of William Peter, his grandfather, in marriage with Joan Arundel,) m. Agnes, dau. of Thomas Godolphin, of Godolphin, Esq., (by his second wife, a dau. of the noble house of Granville,*) and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT PETER, who was bred a soldier, and served with distinction under Sir Edward Poynings, at Havre, and in the Low Countries. In the 13th of ELIZABETH, he was M.P. for Fowey, in the 14th for Penryn, and in the 28th of the same reign, for Dartmouth. He m. Thomasine, dau. of John Kestell, of Kestell, co. Cornwall, Esq., and left issue two sons,

1. HENRY, his heir.
11. John, of Treverran, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Thoms, of Devonshire.

The elder son,

HENRY PETER, M.P. for Fowey in the first parliament of JAMES I., m. in 1609, Deborah, dau. of John Treffry, Esq. of Place, a lineal descendant of Sir John de Treffry, who, for his gallant services in France, particularly at Crecy and Poitiers, was created Knight Banneret by the Black Prince, and permitted, by EDWARD III., to quarter the royal lilies of France alternately with the arms of his own family. Henry Peter d. in 1619, leaving issue by his said wife, Deborah,

THOMAS PETER, b. in 1610, who m. in 1632, Elizabeth, only dau. and heiress of Henry Michell, Esq. of Harlyu, co. Cornwall, which place had been acquired by the Michells in the reign of HENRY VII., in marriage with the heiress of Tregoyes, a family which (according to Carew) ranked among the English nobility at the time of the Conquest. Having been an active royalist in the civil wars between CHARLES and his parliament, Thomas Peter was, for a long time, imprisoned by CROMWELL, but obtained his release on the 2nd of Feb. 1653, through the influence of his maternal kinsman, the celebrated Hugh Peters,† who was chaplain to the Protector. He d. in 1675, leaving issue three sons and a dau., the wife of Henry Vincent, Esq. His eldest son and successor,

GREGORY PETER, Esq. of Harlyu,‡ was high-sheriff of the co. of Cornwall, in the last year of King WILLIAM's, and the first of Queen ANNE's reign. He was m. in 1658, to Elizabeth, dau. of John Goove, of Goovehays, Esq., co. Devon, by whom he had two sons, William, who d. s. p. in his father's lifetime, and

JOHN PETER, Esq. of Harlyn, who m. in 1685, Anne, second dau. of Sir John Coryton, Bart. of Newton Ferrars, rious epitaph is to be seen, on a monument to the right of the communion-table, in Exminster Church, near Exeter:—

"In sempiternam memoriam OTHONIS PETER, armigeri, maestissimus ejus Filius hoc monumentum p. p. p.
 "Conditur hac Petrá, pietatis Petra, Petráus;
 "Omen habet nomen, nam Petra vera fuit.

* The Duke of Leeds, the representative of this ancient house, is descended from the said Thomas Godolphin, by his first wife, who was dau. of Edmund Bonithon, Esq. of Bonithon.

† Hugh Peters (of a family which had been driven from Antwerp on account of its religion) was the son of Thomas-Dykewood Peters, a merchant of Fowey, by Martha, dau. of John Treffry, Esq. of Place. The name of Peters was first assumed by Thomas Dykewood, the grandfather of Hugh. The Rev. Charles Peters, the learned commentator on the Book of Job, and the able antagonist of Bishop Warburton, was of this family.

‡ There is a curious superstition attached to this house, which has descended through ages, and is still most devoutly attested and believed by the ancient domestics of the family, viz., that a white dove always makes her appearance and flutters round the windows just before the death of any member of the family. A similar tale is mentioned by Howell in his "Familiar Letters," regarding the Oxenham family, of Devonshire; and see Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake," Note II.

and co-heiress of her brother, Sir William Coryton, Bart., which Anne Coryton was, through her great-grandmother, Gertrude Courtenay, lineally descended from EDWARD I. of England, and Eleanor of Castile, and through her great-great-grandmother, the Lady Elizabeth Bouchier, likewise descended from Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, sixth son of EDWARD III. and Philippa of Hainault.* John Peter d. in 1732, leaving issue three sons,

i. HENRY, his successor.

2. Robert, rector of Sully, in Glamorganshire, who m. Martha, dau. of John Franklin, Esq. of the same county.

iii. Jonathan, of Porthcothan, who m. Mary, dau. of Edward Hoblyn, Esq. of Bodmin, by Bridget, dau. and co-heiress of John Carew, Esq.† of Penwarne, and granddau. of the celebrated Richard Carew, of Anthony, author of "The Survey of Cornwall," and contemporary and friend of Sir Philip Sidney and Sir Walter Raleigh. (See PETRE-HOBLYN OF COLQUITE.)

Mr. Peter was an active magistrate and county gentleman. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

HENRY PETER, Esq. of Harlyn, high-sheriff of the co. Cornwall in the 20th of GEORGE II., who m. Mary, only dau. and heiress of William Harpur, Esq. of Trevarthen, (a younger branch of the ancient Derbyshire family of that name,) and left issue a son and successor,

WILLIAM PETER, Esq. of Harlyn, who m. his first cousin, Mary, dau. of Jonathan Peter, Esq. of Porthcothan. Like his ancestors for many generations,

"Whose doom contending neighbours sought, Content with equity unbought,"

Mr. Peter discharged the duties of a county magistrate and English country gentleman with no less credit to himself than advantage to all around him, and, dying in 1776, was s. by his eldest surviving son,

HENRY PETER, Esq. of Harlyn, for many years colonel of the royal Cornwall regiment of Militia, and a magistrate and deputy-warden, and lieutenant of the county. He m. Anna-Maria, youngest dau. of Thomas Rous, Esq.

PHE

Capt. Peyton is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the co. Leitrim, and served as high-sheriff in 1815.

Lineage.

The Peytons, Camden observes, have had a common progenitor with the Uffords, who became Earls of Suffolk, the founder of both being William Mallet, a Norman baron, who was sheriff of Yorkshire 3 WILLIAM I., and obtained grants of sundry lordships and manors from the Crown, amongst which were Sibton and Peyton Hall, which he possessed at the time of the survey, and from which arose the name. The chief branch of the family—PEYTON of ISLEHAM, co. Cambridge—was raised to the Baronetage in 1611. From that line descended the Peytons of Driney. The great-grandfather of the present representative,

JAMES PEYTON, Esq. of Driney House, m. Miss Reynolds, of Lough Scur Castle, and was father of

GEORGE PEYTON, Esq. of Driney House, who m. Miss Grey, of Sligo, and had a son,

WALTER PEYTON, Esq., justice of the peace, and deputy-governor of the co. of Leitrim, who m. 3 Nov. 1789, Alice, eldest dau. of Richard Cuninghame, Esq. of Portshaue Castle, and had (with a dau., Alice Lambert) one son, the present CAPT. GEORGE-HAMILTON-CUNINGHAM PEYTON, of Driney House.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, sa., a cross, engr., or, in the first quarter, a mullet, arg., for PEYTON; 2nd and 3rd, arg., a shake-fork, sa., between three stars, gu., one in chief, and two in flanks, for CUNINGHAM.

Motto—Patior, potior.

Seat—Driney House, Cashcorrigan, co. Leitrim.

PHAIRE OF KILLOUGHRUM FOREST.

PHAIRE, ROBERT-WILLIAM, Esq. of Killoughrum Forest, co. Wexford, a magistrate for the co. Wexford, s. his father, the late Col. Robert Phaire, in Jan. 1832.

Lineage.

This family went to Ireland with CROMWELL. Colonel Robert Phaire, one of those to whom the warrant for the death of King CHARLES I. was directed, having become governor of the county and city of Cork, stood high in the favour of the Lord Protector, and commanded a regiment of cavalry. His descendant,

ROBERT PHAIRE, Esq. of Temple Shannon, co. Wexford, m. in 1761, Lady Richarda Annesley, elder dau. of Richard, last Earl of Anglesey, of Camolin Park, and by her had a son,

COL. ROBERT PHAIRE, who m. 1st, Amelia, dau. and heiress of William Holmes, of Pallas, co. Cork; and 2ndly, Ann Whitmarch, of Bath, and by the former had two sons,

ROBERT-WILLIAM, his successor.

Maxwell, in holy orders, m. 1st, Jane, and 2ndly, Ellen, daus. of Col. Pigot, of Slevoey Castle, co. Wexford.

By his second wife, Col. Phaire also had two sons,

PHELIPS OF MONTACUTE.

PHELIPS, WILLIAM, Esq. of Montacute, co. Somerset, b. 14 Oct. 1823; s. his uncle, the late John Phelips, Esq., in 1834.

Lineage.

The family of PHELIPPS, or, as now usually written, PHELIPS, has been settled at Montacute, in Somersetshire, for many centuries. In the church are the effigies of

DAVID PHELIPPS, and Anne, his wife, who d. in 1484. Their son and heir,

SIR THOMAS PHELIPPS, who d. in 1565, left by his wife, Agnes Smith, who d. in 1564, THOMAS, his heir; ANN, m. to John Woolstone; Ursula, m. to John Farwell; and Jane, m. to Robert Pyne. The son and successor,

THOMAS PHELIPPS, Esq., b. in 1500, built the present house at Montacute, which is considered one of the finest specimens of the Tudor style of architecture. By Elizabeth, his wife, who d. in 1598, he left at his decease, in 1588, four sons,

- I. JOHN, m. a dau. of Sir Thomas Speke, and settled at Corfe Molyn, Dorset. The heiress of this branch, JANE PHELIPS, m. the Rev. Sir James Hanham, Bart.
- II. Thomas, m. Jane Compton, and settled at Barrington, co. Somerset. His son, Thomas, was created a Baronet, 16 Feb. 1619-20. (See BURKE'S Extinct Baronetage.)
- III. Richard, who by Mary, his wife, had a dau., who m. Henry, second son of Sir Edmund Ludlow.
- IV. EDWARD, (Sir,) Knt., of whose line we treat.

The fourth son,

He is in the commission of the peace for the counties of Cardigan, Pembroke, and Carmarthen, major in the Royal Cardigan Militia, and a deputy-lieut. for the former shire, as well as for the town and county of Haverfordwest. He served as High-sheriff for co. Cardigan in 1844.

Lineage.

RHODRI MAWR, or Roderick the Great, king of Wales, who ascended the throne in 843, and was slain in battle with the Saxons in the year 877, had, with other issue, (for full details refer to HUGHES OF GWERCLAS,)

I. Anarawd, king of North Wales, ancestor of the SOVEREIGNS OF NORTH WALES, from whom derived the WYNS OF GWYDYR, &c. (See that name under WILLIAMS-WYNN OF LLANGEDWIN.)

II. Cadell, king of South Wales, progenitor of the SOVEREIGNS OF SOUTH WALES.

III. Mervyn, king of Powys, ancestor of the SOVEREIGNS OF POWYS, from whom descended their representative, OWEN GLENDOWER, the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION, (see that name), DAVIES'S OF GWYSENEY, (see that name under COOKE OF OWSTON.) KYNASTONS OF HARDWICK, BARTS., (see BURKE'S Pedigree), VAUGHANS OF NANNAU, BARTS., &c., (Ibid.)

IV. TUDWAL.

TUDWAL, the fourth son, AP RHODRI MAWR, was called Tudwal gloff, or the lame, having been wounded in the knee in the battle fought against the Saxons and Danes, near Conway, and which is recorded in Welsh history as "Dial Rodri," or the "Revenge of Roderick;" it was fought in the year 878; and the Saxons and Daues being defeated, the death of Roderick was assumed to be avenged, and thus the event became recorded with the above appellation.

Eighth in descent from Tudwal gloff was,

CADIVOR AP DYFNWAL, Lord of Castel Howel, who lived temp. HENRY I. of England, and acquired martial distinction. In the eleventh year of the reign of HEN. II., Cadivor, at the head of a detachment of the forces of Prince Rhys, took, by escalade, the castle of Cardigan, then held by the Earl of Clare, and a body of Flemings, for the English monarch. For this service he was rewarded by the grant of various extensive tracts of land in Cardiganshire, the gift of Prince Rhys, who also bestowed upon him his daughter in marriage; and his descendants have, to the present day, ranked among the principal lauded proprietors and gentry of Cardiganshire. Lineally descended from Cadivor ap Dyfnwal is the family of whom we are about to treat, as also many others in Cardiganshire, Caermarthenshire, and Pembrokeshire. For the bravery displayed by him in the assault and taking of Cardigan Castle, Cadivor received from Prince Rhys a grant of the following arms: "Sa., a spear's head, arg., imbrued, gu., between three scaling-ladders of the second, (two and one); on a chief of the third, a castle, triple-towered, ppr." Of the numerous descendants of Cadivor who retained their patrimonial estates in Cardiganshire was,

Thomas Clifford, fourth son of Hugh, fourth Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, and of the Baroness Henrietta-Philippina von Lutzow, of Meeklenburgh Swerin, (the head of which family, the Count von Lutzow, is ambassador from the Emperor of Austria to the Apostolic See,) and has, AMBROSE-CHARLES-FRANCIS-LISLE-MARCH, b. 10 May, 1834; Everard-Aloysius Lisle, b. 28 May, 1835, and other issue.

- II. Charles-Lisle, b. 7 March, 1812.

1. Augusta-Jane-Lisle, m. 21 Nov. 1832, to John Fitzgerald, Esq., eldest son of John Fitzgerald, Esq. of Naseby, co. Northampton, and has issue.

Mr. Philipps, a deputy-lieutenant and magistrate for the co. Leicester, s. his father in 1817, and served as high-sheriff for the same county in 1825. In 1819, Mr. Philipps assumed the arms and crest of Lisle, quartered with those of Philipps and March, in right of his mother, Susan Lisle, dau. and co-heiress of Charles Lisle, Esq., which family he now represents.

Lineage.

The first of the Philipps family who settled in Leicester-shire was

SIR AMBROSE PHILLIPPS, Knt., b. in 1637. (For his pedigree, see Le Neve's MS. Pedigree of Knights, Harl. MSS., p. 5801, 16, 6.) He m. Mary Rickards, dau. and heiress of — Rickards, Esq. of Low Leyton, co. Middlesex, and had issue,

- I. Ambrose, who d. v. p.
- II. WILLIAM, s. his father.
- III. John, inherited Low Leyton.
- IV. Charles, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Nicholas Cary, Esq. of Upcurn, co. Dorset.
- I. Mary, m. to Edward Lisle, Esq. of Crux Easton, and Moyles Court, co. Hants, and was grandmother of THOMAS MARCH, Esq., who eventually inherited the estates of the Philipps family

Sir Ambrose Philipps purchased the house and estate of Garendon from the Duke of Buckingham, in 1683, and, about the same time, the estate of Grace Dieu, from the Beaumont family. He was made king's serjeant by JAMES II. He d. in 1691, and was buried in Shepeshed Church, where he has a fine monument. His son and successor,

WILLIAM PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Garendon and Grace Dieu, m. Jane, second dau. of Sir Samuel Dashwood, Knt., by whom he had issue, I. AMBROSE, his heir; II. SAMUEL, who s. his brother; and III. William, who d. in 1759, aged 41. The eldest son,

AMBROSE PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Garendon and Grace Dieu, s. his father. When young, he travelled into Italy, where he acquired a great taste for architecture, of which he has left some noble specimens at Garendon. The magnificent gateway, (an exact representation of Titus's Arch at Rome,) the temple and obelisk in the park, as well as the beautiful south front of the house, were all designed by him; he also laid out the gardens, now so deservedly admired, and erected at one end a Grecian portico, approached by an avenue of cypress trees. He died M.P. for the co. Leicester, which he had represented for fourteen years, 6 Nov. 1737, and was buried in Shepeshed Church, where he has a splendid monument. Never having married, he was s. by his brother,

SAMUEL PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Garendon and Grace Dieu, who m. 1st, Sarah, dau. of Francis Lewis, Esq. of Stanford Hall, co. Nottingham, which lady d. 19 Jan. 1766, and

* His son and successor, Philip Ducarel, Esq., bought Newland, co. Gloucester, which he has now made the family seat. The Ducarels are descended from an ancient French family, formerly Marquesses of Chateaunuis, in the province of Normandy, which came into England in 1685, at the revocation of the edict of Nantz.

2ndly, Mary,* dau. of Thomas Alsopp, Esq., to whom, (afterwards Lady Gordon,) at his death, he left the estates of Garendon and Grace Dieu for life, heing entailed, after her death, upon his cousin,

THOMAS MARCH, Esq. of More Critchell, co. Dorset. This gentleman assumed the name of PHILLIPPS from the death of his cousin, Samuel Philipps, Esq., in 1777, and s. to the estates of Garendon and Grace Dieu on the death of Lady Gordon, in 1797. He m. Susan, dau. of Charles Lisle, Esq.† of Moyles Court, co. Hants, who, by the death of her brother, Charles Lisle, Esq., in 1819, became co-heiress of the Lisle estates. By her, who was b. 27 Dec. 1756, he had issue,

- I. CHARLES, his heir.
- II. Samuel-March, b. 14 July, 1780, m. Charemlille Grant, sister of the Right Hon. Charles Grant, created Lord Glenelg in 1835, and by her, who d. in 1825, has had issue,
 1. SPENCER.
 2. Alfred.
 1. Emily, d. 1 Aug. 1834.
 2. Florence.
 3. Adelaide.
- III. Edward-Thomas-March, rector of Hattern, m. Miss Hayes, and has issue,
 1. Thomas.
 2. Frederic, d. in 1831.
 3. Wilfred, b. in April, 1835.
 1. Elizabeth.
 2. Rose.
 3. Lucy.
 4. Emma.
- IV. William-March, in holy orders, b. 19th May, 1790, d. in 1818.
- V. Henry-Cranmer-March, lieut. in the royal navy, b. 23 March, 1793.
- I. Susan-March, m. to Edward Dawson, Esq. of Whaddon House, co. Leicester, and has issue.
- II. Sophia-March, m. to the Hon. Henry Ryder, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, third son of Nathaniel Ryder, first Lord Harrowby, and has issue.
- III. Harriet.
- IV. Frances-Anne-March.

* Mrs. Philipps, after the death of her first husband, Samuel Philipps, Esq., in 1777, m. Sir William Gordon, Knt., who had been his majesty's minister plenipotentiary at Brussels for many years, and was descended from an old Scotch family.

† THOMAS MARCH (PHILLIPPS) was descended from an honourable family of the name, of French extraction, for several generations settled in England, and closely connected with the family of Lisle. His father, THOMAS MARCH, Esq., who d. in London, in the year 1754, m. Jane, fourth dau. of Edward Lisle, Esq. of Crux Easton, Wilts, and Moyles Court, Hants, by Mary, only dau. of Sir Ambrose Philipps, of Garendon. His uncle, John March, Esq. of Willesly Park, co. Cambridge, had two daus., co-heiresses,

- I. Teresa, m. to Thomas Dashwood, Esq. of Well, co. Lincoln, by whom she had issue, 1. Bateman Dashwood, who inherited Well; 2. Harriett Dashwood, m. to the Earl of Malmesbury, d. in 1816, and left issue; and 3. Catherine Dashwood.
- II. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Howard, fourth Earl of Effingham, with whom the earldom became extinct, 11 Dec. 1816, for want of issue.

‡ Charles Lisle, Esq. of Moyles Court, co. Hants, was the representative of a most noble and ancient family, who were formerly barons of England, by the title of Lords Lisle, of the Isle of Wight, which dignity has been in abeyance since the reign of EDWARD IV. Reginald Lisle was one of the early benefactors of Garendon Abbey, founded in 1133, by Robert Bossu, the good Earl of Leicester, as he was surnamed, for the Cistercian or White Monks, who follow the rule of St. Benedict without mitigation, and which Abbey was destroyed in 1541 by HENRY VIII. That monarch gave it, with the lands belonging to Thomas, Earl of Rutland, who sold it to the Duke of Buckingham, and from him it was purchased by Sir Ambrose Philipps, in 1689, in which family it has remained ever since. Bossu, Earl of Leicester, afterwards became a monk in Garendon Abbey, where he ended his days. Of this family of Lisle we have several records in Camden's Britannia. The great Sir John Lisle, one of the twelve first knights of the garter, in the reign of EDWARD III., was Lord High Admiral of England, and fought in the holy wars, in which he greatly distinguished himself. He was buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and in St. George's Hall his arms are emblazoned. Of this family also was John Lisle, Esq., one of CROMWELL's lords, and commissioner of his great seal, the sacrifice of whose widow by the infamous Judge Jefferies, in 1668, has been universally and justly reprobated. At the age of eighty, she was tried, convicted, and executed at Winchester, for secreting in her house two dissenting ministers, who took refuge there after the defeat of the Duke of Monmouth's little army at Sedgemoor, co. Somerset. By this lady, who was co-heiress of Sir White Becon-fawe, Knt., Moyles Court, co. Hants, was brought in marriage to the Lisles in 1636.

v. Catherine-March, m. 1st, to the Hon. Edward Cowper, second son of Earl Cowper; and 2ndly, to the Rev. J. Hamilton, rector of Shepshed. She d. without issue in Jan. 1830.

Mr. Philipps, who was deputy-lieut. for the co. Leicesters, and served as high-sheriff for the same county in 1801, d. in 1817, and was s. by his eldest son, the present CHARLES-MARCH PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Garendon.

Arms, &c.—See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

Seats—Garendon Park, and Grace Dieu Manor.

Anne-Mary. Lucy.

Fanny. Isabella.

Mr. Philipps s. his father 20 Nov. 1812. He is a justice of the peace for the county, and an alderman for the city of Hereford.

Lineage.

The constant tradition of this family has been, that they descend from a younger branch of the house of Picton, but after much laborious investigation, nothing has been ascertained capable of throwing any light on the point in question. That they are of Welsh origin is, however, certain, it having been proved, by family evidences still in existence, that they were possessed of lands in the parish of Disserth, in Radnorshire, about the middle of the reign of ELIZABETH, whence, later in the same reign, they removed into Herefordshire, still retaining possession of the Radnorshire property till the middle of the last century, when the estates called Upper and Lower Kilgainvin, in that parish, were disposed of, in 1753, by Thomas Philipps, Esq. The first settler in Herefordshire,

OWEN PHILLIPS, of the city of Hereford, younger brother of John Philipps, of Kilgainvin, in the parish of Disserth, Radnorshire, held lands in Disserth about the year 1595. He m. Joane — (whose will, dated 19 April, 1639, was proved 16 July, 1641,) and had, with other issue,* a son,

WILLIAM PHILLIPPS, of Madley, co. Hereford, and afterwards of Huntington, in the parish of Holmer, in the same shire, who settles Kilgainvin on his marriage in 1631. He m. in that year, Anne, dau. of Henry Melling,† mayor of Hereford in 1638, and by her (whose will, dated 6 Sept. 1694, was proved 6 April, 1703) had issue, four sons. William Philipps was mayor of Hereford in 1646, and compounded for his estate at Madley, in 1650, at £68. He d. 26 May, 1666, and was buried in the cloisters of Hereford Cathedral. His will, dated 15 May, was proved 29 June, 1666. He was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES PHILLIPPS, Esq. of the city of Hereford, and afterwards of Huntington and Kilgainvin, bapt. at St. Peter's, 26 April, 1636. This gentleman m. 26 Nov. 1674, Mary, dan. of Anthony Smyth, of Huntless, in the parish of Much Marcle, Herefordshire, and by her, who d. 17 June, 1699, had issue,

JAMES, his heir.

William, of Hereford, b. 5 July, 1680, living 1 Sept. 1705.

John, also of Hereford, b. 24 June, 1682, d. in 1760.

Owen, b. 6 July, 1684, and d. in 1725, leaving, by Anne, his wife, four sons.

Anne, m. (articles dated 29 Sept. 1705) to Benjamin Philipps, mayor of Hereford in 1703, and had two sons and one dan.

Mary, b. 7 May, 1691, m. at Huntingdon, 4 Nov. 1714, to Henry Caldecott, of Holmer, whose son, John Caldecott, m. the sister of Sir James Hereford, and was ancestor of the present family of Hereford, of Sufon.

Mr. Philipps, who was living in Dec. 1690, d. before Sept. 1705, and was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Huntington and Disserth, v. 27 Nov. 1677, who m. (settlement before marriage dated 20 Dec. 1699) Mary, dau. of Thomas Alderne, of Norton Canou, in Herefordshire, and by her, who was living in 1753, as appears by the agreement for selling Dissert, had three sons, James, of Trinity College, Oxford, b. 27 Jan. 1702, d. v. p., s. p., before 1737; William, d. an infant; and THOMAS, heir to his father. Mr. Philipps d. in 1744, was buried at Huntington, 19 June in that year, and s. by his son,

THOMAS PHILLIPPS, Esq. of Huntington and Lower Eaton, in the parish of Eaton Bishop, Herefordshire, barrister-at-law, b. 16 April, 1707. This gentleman, who was of Trinity College, Oxford, and entered of the Middle Temple 29 April, 1724, was appointed deputy-steward of the city of Hereford in 1753, and for many years acted as chairman of the Quarter Sessions. He m. 1st, (settlement dated 5 July, 1737,) Lucy, dau. and co-heir of Edward Strong, Esq. of The Hyde, in Abbott's Langley, Herts, and afterwards of Greenwich, Kent, by whom he had three sons, viz.,

Susanna, d. in infancy, 1738.

Mr. Pigott s. his father in 1811.

Lineage.

RICHARD PIGOTT, "of Cheshire," presumed to have been of the family of Pigott of Butler, in that county, and to have been descended from Gilbert, lord of Broxton, living temp. Conquestoris, m. the dau. and co-heiress of Sir Richard de Peshale, of Chetwynd, co. Salop, and with her obtained that fine estate. His grandson,

ROBERT PIGOTT, of Chetwynd, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1517, and he (as also did several of his descendants) bore for arms, azure, a chevron, between three mullets, or, on a chief, ermine, three fusils, sable. The chevron and mullets were borne by the Pesbales of Chetwynd, in consequence of the marriage of Sir Richard de Peshale, sheriff of Shropshire, in 1333, with Joan, dau. and heir of Reginald, son of Sir John de Chetwynd, by which marriage the Chetwynd estate was obtained by the Peshale family. Robert Pigott, Esq., m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Blunt, Knt. of Kinlet, by whom he had issue,

THOMAS PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, whose son, ROBERT PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1574. By Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of William Gatacre, Esq. of Gatacre, he had numerous issue, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, sheriff of Shropshire in 1615, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Eyton, Esq. of Eyton, and dying in 1620, was s. by his son,

WALTER PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, sheriff of Shropshire in 1624, who m. Katharine, dau. of Sir Richard Leveson, Knt., and had a son,

THOMAS PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, who m. Anne, dau. of Ralph Sneyd, Esq. of Kcele, co. Stafford, and dying in 1665, was s. by his son,

WALTER PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, who m. Anne,
dau. of Sir John Dryden, Bart. of Canons Ashby, co.
Northampton, and dying in 1669, was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd, sheriff of Shropshire in 1697, who m. Frances, dau. of William Ward, Esq. of Willingsworth, co. Stafford, (brother of Edward, Lord Dudley and Ward,) by whom he had, with two daughters, Honor, m. to John Harvey, Esq.; and Ann, m. to Richard Lyster, Esq. of Rowton, co. Salop, six sons, of whom the fourth, WILLIAM, was ancestor of the PIGOTTS
OF DODDERSHALL, to which article refer. The eldest son,

ROBERT PIGOTT, Esq. of Chetwynd Park, co. Salop, and of Chesterton Hall, co. Huntingdon, b. 21 Nov. 1699,
m. 1st, Diana, dau. and co-heir of Richard Rooke, Esq. of Shrewsbury, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of — Peers, Esq. of Crigglon, co. Montgomery, by whom he had three sons and four daughters, of whom the youngest, Rebecca, m. John Mytton, Esq. of Halston. The date of Mr.
Pigott's death is known by the remarkable wager, recorded in Burrows' Reports, under the title of "The Earl of March versus Pigott," in which Lord Mansfield decided, that the impossibility of a contingency is no bar to its becoming the subject of a wager, provided the impossibility is unknown to both the parties at the time of laying it. The case was this: Mr. R. Pigott and Mr. Codrington agreed to run their fathers' lines one against the other; Sir William Codrington being a little turned of fifty, Mr. Pigott, senior, upwards of seventy; but the latter was already dead. He died in Shropshire, (150 miles from London,) at two o'clock in the morning of the day on which the bet was made at Newmarket, after dinner. This circumstance was at the time unknown to, and not even suspected by, either party; but hence Mr. Pigott was induced to resist payment of the five hundred guineas, for which the wager was laid; and Lord March, afterwards the well-known Duke of Queensberry, who had taken Mr.
Codrington's bet, was compelled to bring his action, in which he succeeded. Dying thus, in May, 1770, Mr.
Pigott was s. at Chetwynd by his eldest son,

ROBERT PIGOTT, Esq., sheriff for Shropshire in 1774, soon after which, becoming alarmed (as it is said) at the gloomy aspect of affairs in this country, consequent upon the commencement of the American war, he sold the ancient inheritance of Chetwynd, which had been in his name for twelve generations, and hastened to rescue seventy thousand pounds, the inadequate consideration which he had received for it, from his anticipated wreck of the kingdom, by retiring to the Continent, and there lost a considerable part of this property, on the failure of those to whom he had entrusted it. He lived for some time at Geneva, married abroad, and had a son, who died before him.
His own death happened at Toulouse, on the 7th July, 1794. His uncle,

THE REV. WILLIAM PIGOTT, rector of Chetwynd and Edgmond, m. Arabella, dau. of John Mytton, Esq. of Halston, co. Salop, by whom he had issue,

Lineage.

In Fuller's "Worthies," the family of Pilkington is spoken of as "a right ancient family, gentlemen of repute in the county before the Conquest," and by Gwillim, as "a knightly family of great antiquity, taking name from Pilkington, in Lancashire." At the battle of Hastings, Leonard Pilkington, Lord of Pilkington Tower, (the mounds of the castle, still existing, denote the site,) had a command under Harold, on whose defeat, at Hastings, he fled from the field of battle, and, when hotly pursued, put on the clothes of a mower, and so escaped. From this circumstance he took his crest—"a mower, of parti-colours, gu. and arg." He subsequently joined the Crusade in 1106, and assumed the arms still borne by his descendants, viz., "A cross-patonce, voided, gu."

Notices of the family occur in Leland, Holinshed, and other authors, in the records in the Chapter House, Westminster, in Dodsworth MSS. in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, and in the Prerogative Courts. In a Roll of Pleas, 20 EDWARD I., Roger de Pilkington was summoned by the king "to shew by what authority he claimed free warren in the manors of Pyketon, Whinfield, Hunsworth, Cluilham, Crompton, Holger, and Wellanham, without licence or leave of the king." He proved his right, which was allowed. In another Roll of Pleas, 29 EDWARD I., Richard de Pilkington is summoned "to shew why he distrained John de Hindley, on account of common pasture in Rivington."

Sir Roger de Pilkington was knight of the shire 29 EDWARD III. Sir John Pilkington, who, temp. HENRY V., m. Margaret, dau. and heiress of John de Verdon, attended the king, with his son, John, in his wars in France. The Pilkingtons appear, also, in the wars of the Roses; and in the field of Bosworth, four knights of the family were in arms on the side of RICHARD. After which, according to Gwillim, when "Sir John Pilkington, with his brothers, Sir Rohert of Rivington, Sir Thomas of Stanley, and their father, Sir Robert, lost their lands, they assumed the motto of 'Now thus! now thus!'" Sir John was afterwards bound, by indenture, not to take up arms against the king, HENRY VII.; and in Holinshed's Chronicles we find, "Likewise there were attainted, as chief aiders and assistants to him (RICHARD III.) in the battle of Bosworth, advanced against the present king, John, late Duke of Norfolk; Thomas, Earl of Surrie; Francis Lovell, Knt.; Viscount Lovell; William Devereux, late Lord Ferrers; John, Lord Zouch; Rohert Harrington; Richard Ratclyffe; William Berklie, of Willie; Robert Middleton, Thomas Pilkington, Rohert Braekenberrie, William Catesbie, &c." Sir Charles Pilkington, it is presumed, was also in the battle, being described Knight of the Body of RICHARD III., and was sheriff of Derby 22 EDWARD IV. 1483, two years before the battle: his will bears date 1485.

The principal estates of the Pilkingtons were now conferred on the Lord Stanley, by whose secession from the side of RICHARD, the fate of the battle was decided. Leland, speaking of Bury, says—"There is a ruin of a castle by the parish church of the town; it belonged to the Pilkingtons, but now to the Earl of Derby. Yerne sometime made about it."

In the Prerogative Court of York is the will of Sir John Pilkington, temp. EDWARD IV., which exhibits a curious fact, calculated to amplify Walpole's historical doubts—namely, that Richard Duke of Gloucester could not have been so despicable a character as he was afterwards, for political purposes, represented to have been. Sir John Pilkington bequeaths, by his will, the care and guardianship of his son, Edward Pilkington, an infant of twelve years of age, with all his estates, to "My Lord of Gloucester and my Lord Chamberlain, William, Lord Hastings," naming them executors; and he gives "to my Lord of Gloucester an emerald set in gold, which he would have given me an hundred marks for." This will bears date, ulto. die, Junii, 1479.

From LEONARD PILKINGTON, of Pilkington, who fought at the battle of Hastings, derived, sixth in descent,

ROGER DE PILKINGTON, (son of Richard de Pilkington, living in 1309,) who m. Alicia, dau. of Mayota, dau. of Richard Ratclyffe, of Ratclyffe, and had (with a dau., Matilda, wife of Sir John Arderne) two sons, ROGER, (Sir,) his heir, and Richard of Rivington, living temp. EDWARD III., ancestor of the PILKINGTONS OF RIVINGTON, of which line was JAMES PILKINGTON, Bishop of Durham, (see PILKINGTON OF TORE.) The elder son,

SIR ROGER PILKINGTON, Knight of the shire for the co. Lancaster in 1355, was father of SIR JOHN PILKINGTON, Knt., who, with his son John, attended King HENRY V. to his wars in France. He m. Margaret, dau. and heir of John De Verdon, and had four sons, I. John, (Sir,) who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry de Trafford, and d. s. p. before 1477; II. Edmond, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Booth, Esq., and had a son, Sir Thomas, and other issue; III. ROBERT, of whom we treat; and IV. Henry, who d. s. p. The third son,

ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Pilkington, m. the dau. of Crayston, and had issue, I. THOMAS, (Sir,) of Stanley, who forfeited his estates after the battle of Bosworth. He m. Agnes, dau. and co-heir of Marmion, Lord of Kirtlington, Notts, and had two sons, GEOFFREY, ancestor of the PILKINGTONS OF STAUNTON, and Charles, (Sir,) Knight of the body to RICHARD III.; II. JOHN, of whose line we treat; III. Edmond; IV. Robert, (Sir,) who m. Jane, dau. and heir of Rivington of Rivington, and d. 24 HENRY VII.; and V. James, whose son, Sir Christopher Pilkington, m. a dau. of Lord Clifford. The second son,

SIR JOHN PILKINGTON, Knt., whose will, dated 1479, appoints Richard Duke of Gloucester trustee and guardian of his son, m. 1st, Joan, dau. and co-heir of William de Baldeston, and had by her a son, Edward, who d. s. p. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth Lever, and was father of

ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Bradley, who m. Alice, dau. and heir of William Burnand, of Knaresborough, and dying in 1499, left two sons, ARTHUR, his heir, and Charles, of Gatesford, Notts, whose only dau. and heir, Isabel, m. to Sir John Towneley, sheriff of Lancashire. The elder son,

ARTHUR PILKINGTON, Esq. of Bradley, living in 1520, m. about 1486, Alice, dau. of Richard Savile, and had (with two daus., Joanna, wife of Roger Beaumont, Esq. of Whitley, and Elizabeth, wife of Christopher Mirfield, of Tong) a son and heir,

ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Bradley, living in 1540, who had two sons, I. Thomas, ward of King EDWARD VI., ancestor of the PILKINGTONS OF NETHER BRADLEY AND CHEVET, Baronets, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage), and II.

JOHN PILKINGTON, Esq. of Kirkeston, on whom and his five sons the Bradley estates were settled, failing issue to the elder branch. He was father of ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Wakefield, whose will bears date A.D. 1570. His son, ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Colnebridge, Kirkeston, d. in 1638, leaving a son, ROBERT PILKINGTON, Esq. of Monk Bretton, father of RICHARD PILKINGTON, bapt. in 1640, whose son, HENRY PILKINGTON, of Barnsley, b. about 1660, m. in 1686, Mary Eastwood, and by her (who d. his widow in 1700) he left at his decease, in the previous year, a son, WILLIAM PILKINGTON, bapt. in 1687, who m. Judith Ranfield, of Ravenfield, and dying in 1737, was buried at Doncaster. His son, WILLIAM PILKINGTON, baptized at Doncaster, m. 1st, Hannah, dau. of the Rev. W. Butterfield, and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of W. Barker, of Tadcaster, by the latter of whom he left at his decease (he was buried at Hatfield) two sons and two daus., WILLIAM, now of Hatfield; John, who d. s. p.; Elizabeth; and Anne, m. to J. Durham, Esq.

PILKINGTON OF TORE.

PILKINGTON, HENRY, Esq. of Tore, co. Westmeath, b. 3 Nov. 1782; m. 24 April, 1806, Barbara, fifth dau. of the Rev. John Lang, rector of Randalstown, co. Antrim, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Hugh Carmichael, Esq., barrister-at-law, and sister to Lieut.-Gen. Carmichael, who d. in 1813, when Governor of Demerara. By this lady he has (with three daus., Elizabeth, Emily, and Frances) one son, HENRY-MULOCK, Barrister-at-law, and Counsel to the Remembrancer's Office of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland.

Lineage.

RICHARD PILKINGTON, of Rivington, the lineal descendant of Richard Pilkington, of Rivington, living temp. EDWARD III., was the owner of Rivington, in the time of HENRY VIII., and the early part of the reign of ELIZABETH. He m. Alice, sister to Roger Ashawe, of the Hall, in Heath Charnock, and dying 24 May, 1551, aged 65, left issue six sons and six daus. There was a rude painting on wood, in Rivington Church, representing this Richard and his wife, with their twelve children, kneeling, and a Latin inscription. The sons of Richard were, I. Charles, who d. young; II. George, (who s. to his father in the possession of Rivington, and dying, left one son, Robert, who was living in the 34th ELIZABETH, and who, by his will, dated 16 Nov. 1605, left his estates, including Rivington, to the trustees, Mr. Serjeant Hutton, Thomas Tidesley, and Catherine Pilkington, by whom Rivington was sold to Robert Lever, of Darcy Lever, whose only dau. m. to John Andrews, Esq., whose descendant Robert Andrews, Esq., is now lord of the manor of Rivington;) III. JAMES, one of the six divines appointed to revise the Book of Common Prayer, consecrated Bishop of Durham 2 March, 1560. He was eminent for his great learning and piety, remarkable as being the first Protestant Bishop of Durham, and famous for having commenced an action against Queen ELIZABETH for the lands and goods of the Earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland, after their attainder, as forfeited to him, Prince Palatine within his diocese; but the Parliament interfered and vested the property in the Queen, "pro haa vice." On the marriage of his daughter to Sir Henry Harrington he gave her a portion equal to that which had been given to the Princesses, Frances, Duchess of Suffolk, and Eleanor, Duchess of Cumberland, nieces to HENRY VIII., which so offended the Queen, that she took away £1000 per year from the revenues of his diocese, and assigned it for the better maintenance of the garrison of Berwick. Bishop Pilkington founded a Free Grammar School at Rivington, which he endowed with lands in Linsacke, Wolsingham, Whicklam, Heighington, Stanhope, Stocton, Auckland, Silksworth, and Hetton-le-hole. The Trustees lately procured an act of Parliament, enabling them to sell these distant possessions and purchase lands in the neighbourhood of Rivington. He d. 23 Jan. 1576, and was buried at Auckland, but his remains were afterwards removed to Durham Cathedral, and interred before the high altar there, where a monument was erected to his memory. He seems to have merited the character which Strype and several other contemporaries have given of the "good old Bishop of Durham, a grave and truly reverend man, of great learning and piety, and of such frugality of life as well became a modest Christian prelate." He was the author of several theological works. He m. Alice, dau. of Sir John Kingsmill, Knt., and left, with two daus., Deborah, wife of Sir Henry Harrington, and Ruth, wife of — Duntze, Esq., two sons, Joshua, and Isaac, who both d. s. p.; IV. Francis, who d. in 1597; v. LEONARD, of whose descendants we treat; and vi. John, Archdeacon of Durham, who m. and had issue. The fifth son,

THE REV. LEONARD PILKINGTON, D.D., Master of St. John's College, Cambridge, and Prebendary of Durham, m. twice; his second wife was Jane, widow of the Rev. Richard Barnes, D.D., who had succeeded James Pilkington in the Bishopric of Durham. By his first wife, Catherine, Dr. Leonard Pilkington had, with two daus., Alice, m. to Francis Laycock, Esq., and Grace, m. to the Rev. Robert Hutton, D.D., nephew to Matthew Huttou, Archbishop of York, three sons, viz., Barnabas, who m. Isabella Natrassé, and was buried at Whitburne, 28 March, 1607; Nehemiah; and JOSEPH. The third son,

JOSEPH PILKINGTON, of Middleton, m. Anne, dau. of William Trotter, Esq. of Helmedon, and was buried in Durham Cathedral, 12 Feb. 1632, leaving issue, i. TOBYE; ii. James; iii. Thomas, b. in 1605; iv. Leonard, of Darlington, who d. in 1674; i. Grace, b. 31 Jan. 1607; ii. Elizabeth; iii. Anne. The eldest son,

TOBYE PILKINGTON, b. 2 Oct. 1602, m. 9 Feb. 1623, Phillis Featherstonhaugh. His nephew and heir,

RICHARD PILKINGTON, b. in 1635, was permitted by the parliament to compound for the property which had been forfeited during the Commonwealth by his father for his adherence to the royalist party; as appears from Fellowe's History of the Commonwealth. This Richard having, previously to the year 1680, acquired extensive property in the county of Westmeath and the King's County, in Ireland, settled at Rathgarrett or Tore, in the former county, where is still the residence of the family. By an act of the Irish parliament for raising the sum of £120,000 on all lands and tenements, passed in the year 1695, this Richard was appointed one of the commissioners for carrying it into effect for Westmeath. Before the year 1690, he sold part of his estates in Westmeath. Dying 10 Oct. 1711, he was buried at Newtown, where a tablet was erected to his memory, leaving by Mary, his wife, i. Richard, who d. s. p.; ii. ABRAHAM; i. Anne, m. to Barakiah Low, Esq. of Newtown Low, co. Westmeath; ii. Martha, m. to Isaac Dolier, Esq. of Dublin; iii. PIPER OF CULLITON.

PIPER, ROBERT-SLOPER, Esq., a Major in the Corps of Royal Engineers, b. 1 March, 1790; m. 15 Jan. 1824, Mary, eldest dau. of Francis Barrow,* Esq. of Strood, in Kent, and has an only child, ROBERT-WILLIAM, b. 6 Dec. 1824. Major Piper served six campaigns under the Duke of Wellington in the Peninsula, France, and Flanders.

Lineage.

This family, originally of the kingdom of Saxony, derives its descent from Magnus Piper, of Nieustadt, in Holstein, whose ancestors were from Lubeck.

JOHN PIPER,† Esq., formerly a capt. in the 6th regt. of Infantry, and late of Culliton House, co. Devon, the first of the family who naturalized in England, was present at the battle of Minden, where he was severely wounded through both legs, and afterwards served in the West Indies, participating in the capture of Martinique. Hostilities commencing soon after with America, he proceeded, about the year 1769, to that country, with the 25th regt., and being appointed to the staff, continued to act there until 1782. He then returned to England, retired entirely from active life in 1788, and purchased the property of Culliton, in Devonshire, from Sir John De la Pole, Bart. of Shute, on which he resided until his decease in 1802, in the sixty-second year of his age. He m. Frances, second dau. and co-heir of Stephen Airault, Esq. of Newport, Rhode Island, (the only surviving representative of a distinguished and once opulent Hugonot family, which emigrated from La Rochelle upon the revocation of the edict of Nantes,) and had issue,

- i. John, b. in 1783, C.B., late lieutenant-col. of the 4th, or King's Own, regiment of infantry, who, after having served his country for a period of twenty-five years, in Canada, Holland, Denmark, Flanders, Sweden, Spain, Portugal, France, and the West Indies, fell a sacrifice to the pernicious effects of climate, in the thirty-eighth year of his age, in 1821, hastened by exhaustion from the last and almost mortal wound he received, in the vertebrae of the neck, in the neighbourhood of Bayonne, in Nov. 1813.
- ii. Samuel-Airault, b. in 1787, M.D., surgeon of the 30th regt., m. in 1823, Miss Augusta Adlam.

* The ancestors of Francis Barrow, Esq. were, in the time of CHARLES II., the proprietors of the manor of Graveney, in the parishes of Hartlip, Linton, Borden, &c., several portions of which are still held by the surviving descendants. Mr. Barrow m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Mathew Kirby, Esq. of Chatham and West Farleigh, in Kent, and had issue,

- i. Francis, in holy orders, b. in 1791, m. Ann-Maude Boys, and has an only child, Francis.
- ii. George, b. in 1808, d. unm.
- iii. MARY, m., as in the text, to CAPT. PIPER.
- iv. Ann, d. unm.
- v. Elizabeth, m. in 1823, to John-Schenick Grant, Esq., an officer of engineers in the Hon. E.I.Co.'s service.

† This gentleman had an elder and only brother, who, dying from the effects of a severe confusion, left two sons,

- i. John Piper, formerly capt. 102nd regt.
- ii. Hugh Piper, a lieutenant-col. in the army, and commanding his Majesty's 38th regt. in Bengal.

III. ROBERT-SLOPER, as above.

i. Mary-Ann, m. to A. Mackenzie, Esq.

PITCAIRN OF PITCAIRNS.

PITCAIRN, JOHN, Esq. of Pitcairns House, co. Perth, b. 16 Nov. 1785; a magistrate for the counties of Perth and Linlithgow, and a deputy-lieutenant of the former; s. his father 18 Oct. 1824.

Lineage.

The surname of Pitcairn is of great antiquity in the cos. of Fife and Perth, and most of the families of the name originate therefrom; and probably, in the first instance, derived their name from lands belonging to them, there being various lands in both cos. so called from time immemorial. There is an original charter of ALEXANDER III. extant, in the General Register House, at Edinburgh, dated in the year 1250, confirming a grant of the lands of Innerneathy, in Strathern, by Hugo de Abernethy, to his kinsman, Joannes de Pitcairn. The name of Piers de Pitcairn appears in the roll, commonly called the Ragmans roll, as having sworn fealty to EDWARD I. in 1292 and 1297. There have been several eminent men of the name at various periods, among others, Robert Pitcairn, abbot and commandator of Dunfermline, at the time of the Reformation, and secretary to the Regency during the reign of Queen MARY, Dr. Archibald Pitcairn, of Pitcairn, the celebrated physician, and others. The late

JOHN PITCAIRN, Esq. of Pitcairns, m. in Jan. 1785, Mary, eldest dau. of Thomas Trotter, Esq. of Edinburgh, and had one son, JOHN, his heir, and three daus., Charlotte, Margaret, and Mary, m. to George Veitch, Esq. of Ratho Bank, writer to the Signet, who d. s. p. in 1826. PLOWDEN OF PLOWDEN.

The late EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, co. Salop, and of Aston, co. Northampton, who s. his father in 1766, and d. 4 April, 1838, m. Anna-Maria, dau. of Robert Burton, Esq. of Logner, co. Salop, and had an only child,

ANNA-MARIA, who m. the Rev. John Eyton, vicar of Wellington, and rector of Eyton, by whom, who d. 10 Jan. 1823, she left at her decease, in Oct. 1825, six sons and three daus., viz.,

1. John, d. in 1836.
2. EDMUND-THOMAS.
3. Robert-William, in holy orders.
4. Henry, d. 30 Sept. 1841.
5. Joseph-Walter.
1. Mary, m. to William-Henry Perry, Esq.
2. Ann-Rose, m. to the Rev. Henry Beckwith.
3. Anna-Maria-Dorothea, m. to Richard Neave, Esq.

Lineage.

The family of PLOWDEN has been seated at Plowden, in Salop, from a period anteceding the earliest records extant in the vicinity.

ROGER PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who was a crusader under CŒUR DE LION, is stated to have been present at the siege of Acre, in 1194, and to have received for his gallant services there, the augmentation of the fleurs-de-lis borne ever since by his descendants. He was father of

PHILIP PLOWDEN, of Plowden, whose son,

JOHN PLOWDEN, of Plowden, was father of

JOHN PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who s. by his son,

JOHN PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who m. Joan, dau. of John Salter, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Sir Adam de Montgomery, Knt., and was father of

JOHN PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who left by his wife, Maud, one of the daus. of Sir John Barley, Knt., a son and heir,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who m. Jane, dau. of Edmund Cloebury, Esq., and was s. by his son,

JOHN PLOWDEN, of Plowden, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Blayney, Esq., and had a son and successor,

HUMPHREY PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Sturry, Esq. of Rossall, near Shrewsbury, and relit of William Wollascott, Esq., and had issue,

EDMUND, his heir.

Edward, m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Lee, Esq. of Langley, in Salop, and had a son, Humphrey.

Mary, m. to Thomas Lee, Esq. of Langley.

Anchoret, m. to Rowland Eyton, Esq. of Eyton, in Salop.

Margaret, m. to Richard Sandford, Esq. of the Isle, Salop.

Jane, m. to Richard Blunden, Esq. of Burghfield, Berks.

He d. 21 March, 1557, and was s. by his elder son,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, sergeant-at-law, one of the most eminent lawyers of his day, whom Wood, in the "Athenæ," says, "was accounted the oracle of the law," and that "his commentaries or reports of divers law cases in the reigns of EDWARD VI., Queen MARY, and Queen ELIZABETH, were highly esteemed."

Mr. Sergeant Plowden m. Katherine, dau. of William Sheldon, Esq. of Beoley, co. Oxford, and had issue,

EDMUND, his heir.

FRANCIS, successor to his brother.

Mary, m. to Richard White, Esq. of Hutton, in Essex.

Anne, m. to Edmund Perkins, Esq. of Upton, Berks.

Margaret, m. to John Walcot, Esq.

This eminent person, again to quote Wood, "died in 1584, aged 67, and left behind him a fair estate in lands at Plowden, co. Salop, at Shiplake, in Oxfordshire; and at Burfield, in Berks; as also a son of both his names to enjoy;" which son,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, dying two years after his father, (1586,) was interred "in the chapel built and erected by his ancestors, wherein some of them were buried, adjoining to the chapel of North Lodbury, co. Salop, near to which place the village and estate of Plowden is situate." Never having married, he was s. by his brother,

FRANCIS PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, who m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Fermor, Esq. of Somerton, in Oxfordshire, and had issue, I. FRANCIS, his heir; II. Edmund, of Wansted, in Hampshire, styled in his will, 29 July, 1655, "Sir Edmund Plowden, lord earl palatine, governor and captain general of the province of New Albion, in America." He m. Mabel, dau. of Peter Mariner, and grand-child and heir of John Chatterton, Esq. of Chatterton, in Lancashire, and hence the Plowdens, of Lassam, Hants; III. Thomas; I. Mary; II. Catherine; and III. Anne. Mr. Plowden d. 11 Dec. 1652, aged 90, was buried at Shiplake, in Oxfordshire, and s. by his eldest son,

FRANCIS PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Alban Butler, Esq. of Aston le Walls, co. Northampton, and had

EDMUND, his successor.

Mary, m. to Edward Massey, Esq. of Puddington.

Elizabeth, d. unm.

Katherine, m. to Sir Daniel Rothwell, Bart.

He d. 18 Jan. 1681, and was s. by his son,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, and Aston le Walls, b. 6 Feb. 1716; m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Cotton, Esq. of Bedhampton, in Sussex, and had (with four other sons, who all d. s. p.)

I. EDMUND, his heir.

II. Francis, comptroller of the household to King JAMES II., m. MARY, dau. of the Hon. John-Stafford Howard, and granddau. of Sir WILLIAM HOWARD, Viscount STAFFORD, so unjustly brought to the block and attainted in 1678. Mr. Francis Plowden d. at St. Germain's, in France, leaving (with a son, FRANCIS, a celebrated Catholic divine and controversial writer) an only dau. and eventual heiress, MARY PLOWDEN, who m. to Sir George Jerningham, Bart. of Cossy Hall, in Norfolk, and was mother of Sir WILLIAM JERNINGHAM, whose son and heir, Sir GEORGE JERNINGHAM, (the attainer of Viscount Stafford being reversed in 1824,) was restored to the BARONY OF STAFFORD, and is the present lord.

III. Elizabeth, m. to Walter Blount, Esq. of Maple Durham.

Mr. Plowden d. 20 May, 1666, and was s. by his elder son,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden and Aston, who m. Penelope, dau. and co-heir of Sir Maurice Drummond, Bart., and had (with several other sons, who all d. issueless) WILLIAM, his heir, and Dorothy, m. 1st, to Philip Draycot, Esq., and 2ndly, to Sir William Goring. He d. 27 Nov. 1677, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden and Aston, b. in 1666. This gentleman, who held the rank of col. in the Life-guards of King JAMES II., adhered to the fortunes of that prince, both in Ireland and France; but after a short residence at the court of St. Germain's, obtained, through the interest of his wife's uncle, the Duke of Shrewsbury, and the Countess of Sunderland, permission to return to England, and to take possession of the family estates, his three elder brothers having died issueless. From his presumed attachment to the countess, originated the song of Plowden, of Plowden Hall, by the comic poet Wycherley. He rebuilt the manor house at Aston, and lived there a few years, but being a Catholic, he became obnoxious to the violent Whigs of the neighbourhood; and not having taken the oath of allegiance to King WILLIAM, his six coach horses, by virtue of an act recently passed against non-jurors, were seized on entering Banbury, and impounded by a magistrate, being worth above five pounds each. He immediately quitted Aston in disgust, and it has since been deserted by the family. Col. Plowden m. thrice: of the first marriage, with Mary, dau. of — Morley, Esq., there was no issue; of the second, with Mary, dau. of John Stonor, Esq. of Stonor, there was one son and two daus., viz.,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Penelope, m. 1st, to Thomas Foley, Esq. of Stourbridge; and 2ndly, to Richard Whitworth, Esq.

Frances, m. in 1723, to Robert-Agionby Slaney, Esq. of Halton Grange, co. Salop.

Mr. Plowden's third wife was Maria, dau. of Sir C. Lytton, and by her he had three sons, who d. s. p., and two daus.,

Mary, m. to Anthony Wright, Esq. of Wealside, in Essex.

Barbara-Anne, m. to Thomas Cameron, M.D. of Cameron.

He d. 5 March, 1740-1, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden and Aston, m. in 1726, Frances, dau. of Sir Charles Dornier, and had issue,

EDMUND, his successor.

Frances, m. to Robert Taaffe, Esq. of Ireland.

Anne-Mary, m. to Edward Haggerston, Esq.

Mary, m. to Robert Garvey, Esq. of Rouen.

Mr. Plowden d. 27 Aug. 1754, and was s. by his son,

EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden and Aston, who m. 20 July, 1755, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Berkeley Lucy, Bart. of Netley Abbey, Hants, and had two sons and four daus., viz.,

EDMUND, his successor, the late EDMUND PLOWDEN, Esq.

William, m. 13 Nov. 1797, Mary, dau. of Simon Winter, Esq., and d. in Nov. 1824. He had issue, William-Henry-Francis, b. in 1802.

Charles-Joseph, b. in 1805.

Anna-Maria.

Elizabeth-Lucy, m. in 1777, to Sir Henry Tiebborne, Bart. Lucy-Mary, m. to Anthony Wright, Esq. of Wealside, in Essex.

Frances-Xaveria, m. to Francis Constable, Esq. of Burton Constable, and d. s. p.

Mary-Margaretta, m. in 1787, to Charles Throckmorton, Esq., and d. s. p.

Mr. Plowden d. in 1766.

Mr. Chandos-Pole s. his father 14 April, 1813, and served as high-sheriff of Derbyshire in 1827.

Lineage.

Few, if any, existing families can deduce so ancient a pedigree, combined with historic importance, as that of which we are about to treat. Representing the great house of CHANDOS of Radborne, and a younger branch of the FERRARS, Earls of Derby, the Poles derive an uninterrupted descent from the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror, and have ever maintained a leading position in the counties in which they were seated.

HENRY DE FERRARS, son of Walkelin de Ferrars, a Norman, obtained from the Conqueror a grant of Tutbury Castle, co. Stafford, with extensive possessions in other shires, of which one hundred and fourteen manors were in the single county of Derby, and was appointed one of the commissioners to make the great survey of the kingdom. This potent baron was s. at his decease by his only surviving son,

ROBERT DE FERRARS, who having contributed, at the head of the Derbyshire men, to King STEPHEN's victory over King DAVID of Scotland, was created by that monarch EARL OF DERBY. He d. in 1139, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE FERRARS, second Earl of Derby, distinguished for his munificence to the church. He was father of

WILLIAM DE FERRARS, third Earl of Derby, living 12 HENRY II., who m. Margaret, dan. and heir of William Peverell, Lord of Nottingham, and had two sons, ROBERT DE FERRARS, fourth Earl of Derby, ancestor of the ancient Earls of Derby, and

WALCHELINE DE FERRARS, Lord of Egghinton, co. Derby, father, by Goda, his wife, dau. of Robert de Toeni, of

ROBERT DE FERRARS, or FITZ WALCHELINE, Lord of Egghinton and Radborne, who left at his decease, 9 HENRY III., two daus., his co-heirs, viz.,

ERMINTRUDE, who m. Robert de Talbot, Lord of Gainsburg, co. Lincoln, living 18th King JOHN, and was grandmother of Thomas Talbot, of Bashall, co. York, ancestor of the knightly house of Bashall, represented by the late RICHARD-HUGHES LLOYD, Esq. of Plymog, Gwerclas, and Bashall, father of the present RICHARD-WALMESLEY LLOYD, Esq.

MARGERY, of whom we treat.

The second dau. and co-heir,

MARGERY, living 30 HEN. III., m. SIR JOHN CHANDOS, Knt., of the old baronial family of Chandos, and had a son and heir,

SIR HENRY CHANDOS, Knt. of Radborne, who gave lands to find two lamps in the church of Radborne, A.D. 1280. By Eleanor, his wife, he left a son and successor,

SIR JOHN CHANDOS, Knt. of Radborne, living 16 and 28 EDWARD I., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Henry Braylesford, and was s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD CHANDOS, Knt. of Radborne, who m. Isabel, dan. of Sir John Twyford, Knt., and had issue,

i. JOHN, (Sir,) his heir.

ii. Robert, d. unm.

i. Margaret, who m. Robert de Ireland, and had a dau., Isabella de Ireland, one of the co-heirs of Sir John Chandos. She m. Sir John de Annesley, Knt., but d. s. p.

ii. Elizabeth, d. unm.

iii. ALIANORE, of whose descendants presently.

The elder son and successor,

SIR JOHN CHANDOS, of Radborne, a distinguished warrior, one of the original knights of the Garter at the foundation of that illustrious order, acted a brilliant part in the various military achievements of his time. On the memorable field of Cressy, he was entrusted by King EDWARD with the task of directing and defending the Prince of Wales; in the 30th EDWARD III., he fought at Poitiers; and in three years after, in consideration of his gallantry, obtained a grant from Prince Edward of two parts of the manor of Kirketon, in Lincolnshire, to hold for life. In the same year, being retained by King EDWARD to serve him in the office of vice-chamberlain, he received £100 per annum out of the Exchequer, and shortly after, in recompence of "his great services in the wars and otherwise," had a grant to himself and his heirs for ever of the Barony of St. Saviour le Viscount, whereon he erected a castle. In 1364, the battle of Anray was fought against Charles of Blois, in which the famed Bertrand du Guesclin was made prisoner, and the victory there achieved is ascribed by all historians to the ability and prowess of Sir John Chandos, who had the chief command of the army of the Comte de Montfort. In the 41st EDWARD III., Sir John accompanied the expedition of the Black Prince into Spain on behalf of PETER, King of Castille, and held a high command at the battle of Nazar. He subsequently became constable of Aquitaine, and seneschal of Poitiers. The career of this gallant soldier, "the pride of English chivalry," soon after terminated, for, in 1369, he was slain in the wars of Gascoigne in a skirmish at the bridge of Lussac, "to the great sorrow," adds Dugdale, "of both kingdoms, whereof the King of France himself was so apprehensive, that he passionately said there was not any souldier living, so able to make peace betwixt both crowns as he." "Sir John Chandos," says Froissart, "kept a noble and great establishment, and he had the means of doing it, for the King of England, who loved him much, wished it should be so. He was certainly worthy of it; for he was a sweet-tempered knight, courteous, benign, amiable, liberal, courageous, prudent, and loyal in all affairs, and bore himself valiantly on every occasion." He was buried at Mortemer, and his epitaph is recorded in "Les Annales d'Aquitaine, par Bouchet." He left no issue, whereupon his sisters became his co-heirs. Of those ladies, the third,

ALIANORE CHANDOS, living 46 EDWARD III., m. 1st, Sir John Lawton, Knt., squire to Sir John Chandos, and Constable, under that great warrior, of the town and castle of St. Saviour's; and 2ndly, Roger Collynge. By the former, Alianore left an only dau. and heir,

ELIZABETH LAWTON, of Radborne, who m. SIR PETER DE LA POLE, M.P. for Derbyshire, 2 HENRY IV., eldest son of SIR JOHN DE LA POLE, of Newborough, co. Stafford, the representative of an ancient and honourable Staffordshire family, by Cecilia, his wife, sister and heir of Sir William de Wakebridge, Knt.* By Peter de la Pole, the heiress of Radborne, who d. 4 Aug. 1432, left three sons and one dau., viz., RALPH, her successor; Thomas, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Nicholas Longford, Knt.; Henry, who m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Robert Dethick, of Dethick, and was ancestor of the Poles of Heage; and Elizabeth, m. to Thomas de St. Andrew, of Gotham, Notts. The eldest son,

RALPH DE LA POLE, of Radborne, an eminent lawyer, was constituted one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench in 1452. He m. Joan, dan. of Thomas Grosvenor, Esq., and had (with two daus., Alice and Maria) a son,

RALPH DE LA POLE, of Radborne, high-sheriff of Derbyshire in 1477, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Reginald Moton, Esq. of Peckleton, co. Leicester, and had, with other issue, a son,

JOHN, who m. 13 EDWARD IV., Jane, dau. of John Fitzherbert, Esq. of Etwell, and by her, who m. 2ndly, Sir John Port, of Etwell, left at his decease, v. p., a son, GERMAN, successor to his grandfather.

Ralph de la Pole d. in 1491, and was s. by his grandson, GERMAN DE LA POLE, Esq. of Radborne, b. in 1482, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Plompton, of Plompton, co. York, Knt., and had issue,

Mr. Weller Poley s. his father, the late Rev. John Weller Poley, in May, 1799.

Lineage.

The Poley family is of remote antiquity in the county of Suffolk. About the reign of EDWARD III., or RICHARD II., they left their residence in Hertfordshire, which, according to the custom of those times, had a similar name, and went into Suffolk, where, fixing their seats at Boxted and Badley, the foundation of two flourishing families was laid, as appears from writings belonging to Boxted manor, from family records, and a pedigree well attested. Sir Humphrey de Poley, who lived in 1107, 7th HENRY I., as appears from a MS. de nobilitate, heretofore in possession of Sir Symonds D'Ewes, bore "Arg., on a bend, gu., three cross-crosslets, or;" to which was afterwards added, "On a canton, or, a lion, rampant, sable." The ancient bearing was subsequently discontinued, and the canton assumed as the coat. A mural tablet in Boxted church records alliances with some of the best families in the county and elsewhere, viz., Clifton, Shaa, Jermyn, D'Ewes, &c.

THOMAS POLEY, Esq. of Stoke, co. Suffolk, and, jure uxoris, a lord of the manor of Boxted, b. temp. EDW. III., m. 1st, Alice, or Maude, dau. of John Gillingham, Esq., and Maud, his wife, dau. and heiress of Sir John Gardvile, Knt., and, with two daus. and a younger son, had by her an elder son, Richard, of Stoke Ash, co. Suffolk, ancestor of the Poles of Badley, now extinct. This Thomas Poley m. 2ndly, Ann, dau. of Thomas, and sister and heir of John Badwell, of Boxted, and d. temp. HEN. VI., leaving by her a son, THOMAS POLEY, Esq. Lord of Boxted, b. temp. RICHARD II., who, by Alice, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Jeffrey Rockwell, of Wormingford, co. Essex, was father of JOHN POLEY, Esq. of Wormingford, and of Boxted, man-at-arms in the retinue of Lord Hastings, in 1480, who d. in 1487, leaving, by

Agnes, his wife, dau. of Sir Richard Whetley, Knt. of Calais, with other issue, two sons, RICHARD, his heir, of whom presently, and John, of Bidenham, co. Kent, who m. Prudence, dau. of Richard Sheldon, and left, with other issue, an eldest son and heir, John, of Bidenham, whose son, Richard, of Branham, m. Anne, dau. of John Carrisforth, of Barnesley, co. York, and by her had a son, John, of Cambridge, who, by Alice, his wife, dan. of John Smith, of Cambridgeshire, was father of Thomas Poley, living in 1619. The elder son and heir,

RICHARD POLEY, Esq. of Boxted, b. temp. Edw. IV., m. Anne, dau. of Sir William Clopton, Knt. of Liston Hall, co. Essex, and dying, was buried at Boxted, 19 Feb. 1546, having had, with other issue, JOHN, his heir, of whom hereafter; George, rector of Attleburg, in Norfolk; and Richard, of Morehouse, in Boxted, who, by his wife, a dau. of Judge Morgan, was father, with other issue, of a dau., Elizabeth, m. to William Waldegrave, Esq. of Hitcham, co. Suffolk, and an eldest son and heir, Francis, of Morehouse, who m. in 1562, Elizabeth Stopham, and d. in 1569, having had a son, Francis, who d. s. p., and two daus., Elizabeth, m. in 1586, to Edward Copley, Esq., and Ann, m. in 1584, to Philip Coningsby, Esq. of Brookham, Surrey. The eldest son and heir, JOHN POLEY, Esq. of Boxted, bapt. 27 Sept. 1539; m. Margery, dau. of John Blyant, of Ringshall, co. * In Boxted Church there is a monument to SIR JOHN POLEY, of Wrongey, who d. in 1638, with his statue, standing upright, larger than life, in armour. It is remarkable for having a gold frog suspended from the left ear. There is also a very handsome monument of black oak to Sir John's uncle, WILLIAM POLEY, and his wife, ALICE SHAA. The figures are recumbent, as large as life, very finely executed, and quite perfect. At Boxted Hall is a portrait of Sir John Poley, (with the gold frog from his ear,) aged 20, 1567. It is stated on the back of the picture, that he was knighted for his services against the Spaniards, when the Duke of Parma besieged Bergem op Zoom, in 1588, and that in 1603, he was made Col.-general over 4000 foot men, Peregrine Lord Willoughby being general under the King of Denmark.

* By whom she was the mother of Poley Clopton, M.D., the last male of that ancient family, who d. unm. in 1730, leaving the chief part of his estate for founding an hospital at Bury St. Edmunds.

† The family of Dakeyne, Daukyn, Deakinne, or Dakyns, is of considerable antiquity in the county of Derby, and at an early period held large possessions in the counties of Norfolk, Cambridge, Bedford, and Bucks. Baldwin Dakeny or De Akeny appears upon the Battle Abbey Roll. His grandson, William Deken, was Lord of Wrighton, co. Norfolk, temp. RICHARD I., and King John, which his son, William Deken or Dakeny forfeited on his rebellion, temp. HENRY III. (See Article DAKEYNE, in Supplement.)

The Polhill, or Polley family, is one of the most ancient in the counties of Kent and Sussex, having had possessions in the latter shire since the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and in the former, time immemorial. In Kent, the Polleys gave their name to DETLING, which, Hasted says, was anciently called Polley-street, part of which is still, or lately was, the property of the Otford branch. From this place the family originated or gave to it their name. Here they for ages flourished, and were written Polhill alias Polley, and there are yet lands in the parish called Polley-fields. From the time of Queen ELIZABETH, the senior branch principally resided at Frenches, in Burwash, co. Sussex, where the majority of them are buried. The following are, or were, the chief branches:—The POLHILLS of PRESTON, co. Kent, and of Frenches, in Burwash, co. Sussex; the POLHILLS of CHATHAM; the POLHILLS of Otford, Detling, and Chipstead, co. Kent; the POLHILLS, or POLLEYS, of Wrotham, co. Kent, who intermarried with the BYNGS of the same place, ancestors of the Viscounts Torrington; the POLHILLS of PHILIPOTS, in Tonbridge, and of Tonbridge Priory, co. Kent; and the POLHILLS of SHOREHAM CASTLE, in the same county.

JOHN POLHILL, Esq. of Preston, co. Kent, b. in 1572, son and heir of THOMAS POLHILL, Esq. of Preston, (called JOHN, in the Visitation of 1619,) and grandson of JOHN POLHILL,* Esq. of Preston, eldest son of JOHN POLHILL, alias POLLEY, of Detling, near Hollingborne, co. Kent, (called Thomas, in the Visitation of Kent, 1619,) by Alice, his wife, dau. and heir of Thomas Buckland, of Leedsdowne, in the same county, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Nicholas Fowle, Esq. of Wadhurst, co. Sussex, a branch of the Fowles of Riverhall, and d. in Aug. 1611, having had four sons, POLWHELE OF POLWHELE.

POLWHELE, RICHARD-GRAVES, Esq. of Polwhele, co. Cornwall, late Major in the Indian Army, Madras Artillery, b. 20 Oct. 1794; m. 18 Nov. 1829, Louisa-Frances, only dau. of the late Rev. Robert Greville, of Wyastone Grove, co. Derby, Rector of Bonsall and Edlaston, descended from a younger branch of the noble family of Brooke and Warwick. Major Polwhele, a magistrate for Cornwall, s. his father in March, 1838.

Lineage.

This family claims Saxon origin, and takes its name from the manor of Polwhele, (in Domesday, Polhel,) in the co. Cornwall, a manor occupied, under EDWARD the Confessor, by WINUS DE POLHAL, (Polwel or Polwyl,) and then by ULFIUS, a villain of the Earl of Moreton,—but that was a temporary possession. To make room for the Earl of Moreton, the CONQUEROR had expelled the former earl and all his adherents from their hereditary lands. In the year 1140, the Empress, then triumphant over STEPHEN, and rewarding her victorious adherents, conferred lands in Cornwall upon her chamberlain,

DROGO DE POLWHELE, with whom the pedigree of the family commences. From this Drogo we pass to his lineal descendant,

JOHN POLWHYLL, of Polwhyll, living in the time of HENRY V., who, by Alice, his wife, had (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Robert Tonkin, of Trevannance) his successor at his decease, 20 HENRY VI.,

JOHN POLWHYLE, of Polwhyle, who m. Alicia, dau. and heir of Otho Lukie, and was s. by his son,

OTHO POLWHELE, of Polwhele, living temp. EDWARD IV., who m. Mary, the dau. and heiress of Walter Killegrew, and had a son and heir,

STEPHEN POLWHELE, of Polwhele, who m. Mary, dau. of Erisie de Erisie, and left a son,

JOHN POLWHELE, of Polwhele. This gentleman m. the dau. and heiress of John Tresawell, of Tresawell, and was s. by his son, another

JOHN POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele, who represented the co. Cornwall in parliament in the 4th and 5th of PHILIP and MARY. It is worthy of remark, that of the families which had the honour of sitting in parliament for this shire from EDWARD I. to PHILIP and MARY, three only are now extant—Basset, Tremayne, and Polwhele. John Polwhele m. Grace, dau. of Nieholas Lower, Esq. of Trelask, and was s. by his son,

DEGORY POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan: the latter estate acquired by his marriage with Catherine, one of the daus. and co-heirs* of Robert Trencreek, of that place, the first recorder of the borough of Truro, under the charter of ELIZABETH. By this lady he had issue, THOMAS, his heir; John; Philip; William, of London; Otho, in holy orders, rector of Maidenhead; Degory, of London; Jonathan, in holy orders, rector of Bagshot; Susannah, m. to John Webber, Esq. of St. Kew; Anna, m. 1st, to William Herie, Esq. of Berian, and 2ndly, to — Canham, Esq.; Isabella, m. to Richard Chiverton, Esq. of Trehunsey Quethiock, and had eleven children, one of whom, Sir Richard Chiverton, was lord mayor of London in 1658; and Maria, m. to John Chattye, Esq. of Truro. He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan, living in 1620, who m. Dionysia, dau. of John Glanville, of Tavistock, one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench, and had issue five sons and two daus.; the fourth, Degory, a staunch royalist, was made M.D. by the university of Oxford in 1660. Mr. Polwhele was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele. This gentleman m. Anne, youngest dau. of Thomas Baskerville, Esq. of Richardston, co. Wilts. He represented the borough of Tregoney in parliament, in conjunction with Sir Richard Vyvyan, of Trelowarren. "In 1643, we observe him," says his late representative, Mr. Polwhele, "and his relations and friends, Lord Mohun, and Edgecumbe, and Glanville, and Godolphin, and Lower, and Killegrew, rallying round the sacred person of Majesty; and at Oxford, the magnificent hall of Christ Church was their senate-house." To his loyalty Mr. Polwhele devoted a large part of his patrimonial estate. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

JOHN POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan, who m. the dau. of Redinge, Esq. of Northampton, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD POLWHELE, Esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan. This gentleman, who was high-sheriff of Cornwall in the reign of GEORGE I., is thus spoken of by the Cornish historian, Carew, who wrote at that period:—"We will close this hundred with the gentlemen of mark. . . . Polwhele, whose name is deduced from his dwelling, and his dwelling may be interpreted the miry work, linked in wedlock with the co-heir of Trencreek, in English, the town of the borough. His mother was Lower of Trelask. Polwhele beareth, Sable, a saltier, engrailed, ermine." To which Tonkin subjoins—"I think Polwhele should rather signify the top of the work, according to the situation of the place, it lying high. This place gave name to a family of

Lineage.

The Ponsonbys derive from an ancient and noble family in Picardy, in the kingdom of France, and were established in England by one of the companions in arms of WILLIAM the Conqueror. At an early period, they settled at Hale, in Cumberland, where they assumed the name of PONSONBY, from the lordship of Ponsonby, which they possessed, and had the office of Barber to the King of England conferred upon them.

In consequence of the change of name, from Ponsonby to De Hale, it is not easy to give the descent regularly. There was one Ponsonby, temp. STEPHEN and HENRY I., whose son, JOHN FITZ PONSON, living in the reign of HENRY II., was probably the giver of the Manor of Ponsonby to the priory of Conishead.

* It should be the Empress MATILDA.

ALEXANDER PONSONBY, son of RICHARD PONSONBY, lived about the time of EDWARD II., WILLIAM PONSONBY in the reign of EDWARD III., and ROBERT PONSONBY in that of RICHARD II. During the reign of HENRY III., Hale was the property of ALEXANDER DE HALE: his daughters, Agnes and Constance, held it of Thomas de Multon, of Gillsland, in the reign of EDWARD I., at which time the Ponsonbys got Agnes' part; and in the time of RICH. II. the Ponsonbys became possessed of the whole.

JOHN PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale, was father of SIMEON PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale, who m. Anne Eglesfield, of Alveburgh Hall, co. Cumberland, and had a son, HENRY PONSONBY, Esq., who m. Dorothy Sandys, of Rottendeu, in Cumberland, by whom he had two sons, both of whom were officers of rank in CROMWELL'S army, and accompanied him to Ireland in 1649, viz., JOHN (SIR.) of whom we treat, and Henry, ancestor of the Croto family. The elder,

SIR JOHN PONSONBY, Knt., b. in 1608, col. of horse in CROMWELL'S army, went with his regiment, which he raised for the service of the Commonwealth, to Ireland, in 1649, and became sheriff of the counties of Wicklow and Kildare in 1654. He represented the co. Kilkenny in the first parliament, in 1661; and in July, 1662, as Sir John Ponsonby, of Kildalton, co. Tipperary, Knt., with his brother, Capt. Henry Ponsonby, of Stackstown, had a pardon granted by the king for all treasons and rebellions committed before and until 26 Dec. 1660. Sir John m. 1st, Dorothy, dau. of John Brisco, Esq. of Crofton, co. Cumberland, and by her had a son, JOHN, of whose line we treat. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dan. of Lord Folliot, and widow of Richard, son and heir of Sir Edward Wingfield, and by this lady was ancestor of the Earls of Bessborough, (see BURKE'S Peerage.) Sir John d. in 1678. His son by his first wife,

JOHN PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale, m. Anne, dau. of — Copley, Esq. of Gosforth, and had, with other issue, a son and heir,

JOHN PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale, who m. Isabella, dau. of Thomas Patrickson, Esq. of Sealegill Hall, co. Cumberland, and was father, with other children, of

JOHN PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Miles Wilson, Esq. of Ashness, co. Cumberland, and had (with three daus., Mary; Isabella; and Dorothy, m. to Steel, Esq. of Cockermouth) four sons, John, d. a minor; MILES, of whom presently; Anthony, and William. The second son, MILES PONSONBY, Esq. of Hale Hall, m. Catharine, dan. of Wilfred Clementson, Esq. of Cockermouth, and had issue,

Mr. Poole has filled the office of Sovereign of Midleton for upwards of thirty years.

Lineage.

The family of Poole, of Poole Hall, eo. Chester, of Sapperton, eo. Gloucester, and latterly of Mayfield, co. Cork, derives from WILLIAM LE HARE DE PULLE, who was seised of the manor of Poole, in Cheshire, in 1220. His son, ROBERT DE PULL, or POOLE, or DE LA POLE, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Hugh de Raby, and had a son, REGINALD DE PULLE, who m. Matilda, widow of Richard de Condray, and dan. of Geoffrey, hereditary Master Cook in fee of the Abbey of St. Werburgh, in Chester, and by her was father of JAMES DE PULLE, grantee of lands in Copenhurst, who d. 1 EDWARD II., leaving a son, ROBERT DE PULLE, who m. a dau. of Thomas de Copenhurst, (whose granddau., De Cheney, m. to William de Cholmondeley, ancestor of the Marquess of Cholmondeley,) and d. 3 EDWARD III., leaving a son, SIR JOHN POOLE, Knt., 3 RICHARD II., who was father of two sons, Thomas, of Poole, who m. his kinswoman, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Stanley, of Hooton, Knt., and

JOHN POOLE, who removed into Gloucestershire, and was father of

RICHARD POOLE, of Coats, co. Gloucester, high-sheriff of that shire 13 HENRY VII., who purchased Sapperton 7 HENRY VII. He m. Elizabeth, widow of Sir William Nottingham, and had a son,

SIR LEONARD POOLE, who m. Katherine, dau. of Sir Giles Brugges, or Brydges, of Cubberly, and by this alliance the Poole family are descended from the Berkeleys, Lords of Dunsley, from the Chaudos family and the Cliffords of Clifford Castle, and through them from the family of William D'Albaniaco, of Camber. By this lady Sir Leonard was father of

SIR GILES POOLE, high-sheriff 2 ELIZABETH, (1565,) who was seised of the manor of Pauntley. He m. Elizabeth, one of the six daus. and co-heirs of Thomas Whittington, of Pauntley, (which estate came to the Whittingtons by the marriage of Maud de Solers, heiress of Pauntley, with William de Whittington, or de Vyteinton, temp. HENRY III.,) by Margery, his wife, dau. of Sir William Needham, and by this lady left at his decease, in 1588, a son,

SIR HENRY POOLE, high-sheriff 13 ELIZABETH, who m. Anna, dau. of Sir W. Wroughton, of Broadhinton, eo. Wilts, and d. in 1616. Two younger sons of the family about this time went to Ireland: Samnel, the younger, settled in the north of that kingdom. His last descendant, Thomas Poole, of Ballyfin, left his property to his relative, Lord Maryborough. The elder,

THOMAS POOLE, purchased the estate of Mayfield, eo. Cork, in 1628. He m. Mary, dau. of Francis Bernard, Esq. of Castle Mahon, eo. Cork, ancestor of the Earl of Bandon, and was father of PORCH OF EDGARLEY.

PORCH, THOMAS-PORCH, Esq. of Edgarley, co. Somerset, b. 7 March, 1808; m. 16 Dec. 1830, Jane, only dau. of Edward Barber, Esq. of Barston, co. Warwick, and has, with other issue, a son and heir,

JOHN-ALBERT, b. in 1833.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is Reeves, assumed, by sign manual, 8 Dec. 1830, under the will of his maternal grandfather, Thomas Porch, Esq., whose estates he inherited, the surname of PORCH only.

Lineage.

The family of Reeves has been settled at Glastonbury, in Somersetshire, for many generations; and in the public register of Streat, about two miles from that town, mention is made of one Robert Reeves being married at the Village Cross, to Elizabeth Cribb, of Glaston, on the 7th Nov. 1657.

PETER REEVES, a man of property, and one of the most respectable inhabitants of Glastonbury, according to the phrase of those times, "lived on his own, and died on his own." The bulk of his possessions devolved on his two eldest sons, Henry and William, whose descendants are now extinct, but a small estate near Hartlake Bridge, in Somersetshire, was inherited by his third son,

JOSEPH REEVES, Esq., who m. about 1740, Sarab, dau. of William Swanton, and was father of

JOSEPH REEVES, Esq., who m. Joanna, dau. of George Phippen, Esq. of Northwotton, by Martha, his wife, dau. of John Fry, Esq. of Martock, and by her left, with a dau., Sarah, m. to John-Bull Emery, Esq., one son and heir,

JOHN-FRY REEVES, Esq., who purchased, about 1825, the abbey of Glastonbury. He m. in 1807, Maria, dau. of the late Thomas Porch, Esq. of Wells, co. Somerset, who acquired the Edgarley estate about half a century ago, and by this lady had issue,

I. THOMAS PORCH, now of Edgarley.

II. John-Frederick, of Taunton, b. in 1810.

III. Orlando, b. in 1815.

IV. Archibald, b. in 1817.

I. Julia-Maria.

PORCHER OF CLYFFE.

PORCHER, CHARLES, Esq. of Clyffe, co. Dorset, Snare Hill, co. Norfolk, and Borough Green, Cambridgeshire, b. 29 May, 1800, Barrister-at-law, and a magistrate for Dorset, Norfolk, and Suffolk; m. in 1828, Ellinor, only dau. of the late Thomas Redhead, Esq., and Eleanor, his wife, dau. of Charles Baring, Esq.

Lineage.

This family, the only one of the name in England, is of French extraction. Its forefathers were French protestants, who forsook their native country at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, where, on the banks of the Loire, the Counts Porcher, of Richebourg, the ancestral senior line, still exist. Of the name, we find two ennobled in the French peerage—Stephen Porcher, of Joigny, ennobled by CHARLES V. in 1364, and the above Porchers of Richebourg. They are traced up to a very ancient date, the originator of the family being Simon le Porcher, hereditary grand huntsman to Louis Capet, from whose official duty of slaying the wounded boar, the name is derived. One of the Protestant branch of the Richebourg line fled into South Carolina, with the descendants of many other French noble houses, viz.,

ISAAC PORCHER, of Richebourg, doctor of medicine in the University of Paris, who m. Claude Cberigny, of the province of Touraine, and was father of

JOSEPH PORCHER, who left, with other issue, a son,

PAUL PORCHER, who m. Marie Du Pré, and was father of JOSIAS DU PRE PORCHER, of Charleston, South Carolina, who came, with his uncle James Du Pré, sometime Governor of Fort St. George, Madras, and settled in this country about 1768. He was father of

JOSIAS DU PRE PORCHER, Esq. of Winslade House, co. Devon, many years M.P. for Old Sarum, who m. Charlotte, second dau. of Admiral Sir William Burnaby, Bart. of Broughton, and left at his decease three sons and one dau., viz.,

George, in holy orders, of Maiden Erlegh, Berks, m. Amelia, dau. of John Chamier, Esq., and has issue, 1. George-Du Pré; 2. Edwin, in the Royal navy; 1. Charlotte, m. to John Baring, Esq. of Oakwood, Sussex; and 2. Madelina. Henry, of Arborfield, Berks, late M.P. for Clitheroe.

CHARLES, of Clyffe.

Madelina, m. to the Rev. J.-E. Lance, of Buckland St. Mary, co. Somerset, and is deceased.

Arms, Crest, &c.—See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations, plate XLIX.

Jane-Eliza, b. 24 Nov. 1829.

Mr. Portal is in the commission of the peace, and a deputy-lieutenant of the county of Hants.

Lineage.

The family of Portal, De Portal, Portalis, or Portallo, were originally Spanish, and established themselves in Languedoc at the end of the eleventh century, having come over in the suite of Elvira, dau. of ALPHONSO IV., King of Leon and Castile, who m. Raymond de St. Gilles, Comte de Toulouse, in 1094, from which time their history has been inseparably associated with that of the city of Toulouse. From the close of the twelfth century, we find mention of this family as one of the most distinguished in Languedoc. For upwards of five centuries they continued to fill the highest civil and military offices in that province, and are mentioned in all the histories of their time as having taken a leading part in the cause of the Huguenots, of whom they were firm and zealous adherents.

OLDRIC DE PORTALLO, was "Capitoul" of Toulouse in 1204. The "capitouls" had the supreme administration of justice, the command of the troops, and the full right to proclaim war, or to conclude treaties of peace, on their own authority. This office, which was the highest in the province, was filled twenty-two times by members of the family of Portal.

PIERRE DE PORTAL was Capitoul in 1280-86. He was deputed, together with his brother, Vital de Portal, Capitoul in 1283, to reduce to writing an account of the laws and constitution of Toulouse, in Latin, that they might be preserved for future generations.

ALARIC DE PORTAL, Capitoul in 1295, was the originator of the records of the city of Toulouse, known as the "Annales de l'Hotel de Ville," in which were preserved the portraits of the Capitouls, and an account of the principal events which occurred in the city; on its pages were recorded, in 1562, the sentence of death and execution of one of the bravest of his descendants, Antoine de Portal, Viguiier de Toulouse.

PIERRE DE PORTAL, Capitoul of Toulouse in 1324-61, fell under the displeasure of the church of Rome in 1333. He and his colleagues being summoned to appear forthwith before the Inquisition, they replied to the summons by banishing the bishop and the Dominicans from the country. For this they were excommunicated by the grand inquisitor, but as they were supported by the crown against the papal authority, the Inquisition was suspended for four years.

BERENGER DE PORTAL, "Chevalier," "Tresorier de France," et "General des Finances," was appointed, in 1552, by CHARLES IX., to preside over the states of Languedoc, which were assembled at Nismes, and in 1566, he was appointed "Commissionnaire du Roi," to preside over those assembled at Lavan.

JEAN-ANTOINE DE PORTAL, who was b. in 1520, attained the high office of Viguiier de Toulouse. He embraced, however, the doctrines of Luther and Calvin, and countenanced the combinations of the Huguenots in that city. On the 11th of May, 1562, a desperate attempt was made by that party to gain possession of the town; a bloody massacre ensued, but they were finally defeated by the catholics. The Viguiier de Portal was seized and beheaded on the 20th May, 1562, and his head was exposed on the highest point of the Palace.

JEAN DE PORTAL, son of the above, held rank in the Royalist army, and distinguished himself greatly by several valiant exploits. In 1586, he rescued the town of Mas-Saintes-Puelles, which was besieged by the army of the catholics under the Duc de Joyeuse. In 1592, the Royalist army, amounting to 18,000 men, was betrayed by Vicomte de Montfa into the hands of the catholics at the battle of Lautrec. Jean de Portal was taken prisoner, but was exchanged in the following year for the Duc de Joyeuse, the great leader of the rebel army. In 1595, he took the town of St. Papoul, and afterwards obtained other signal victories.

JEAN-FRANCOIS DE PORTAL, the 15th in the direct line of descent from Oldric de Portallo, lived at the Chateau de la Portaliere, near St. Hippolyte, in the Cevennes. After the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685, he was not long left unmolested. His name, his position, the well-known adherence of his family to the cause of the Huguenots, all concurred to draw on him the observation of the persecutors. Neither threats nor intimidation availed to shake his constancy in the faith of his ancestors, and he willingly suffered death in its behalf, adding one more to the long list of his countrymen who were massacred during that brief reign of terror and of bloodshed. After his death his chateau was burned, his property was seized, and his children with difficulty escaped his fate. He left issue,

I. HENRI, of whom presently.

II. William, who was saved in the same manner as his elder brother, Henri, and was sent over with him to England. He entered into holy orders, was appointed tutor to King GEORGE III., and was afterwards presented to the livings of Clowne, in Derbyshire, and of Farnbridge, in Essex. He d. in 1760, leaving issue.

III. Pierre de Portal, who made his escape from the Chateau de la Portaliere immediately after the murder of his father. He was pursued as far as Montauban, where he dropped down with fatigue. A baker took compassion on him, and carried him to his house. His aristocratic spirit soon, however, enabled him to rise above his misfortunes. He m. Isabeau d'Astorg, whose family was among the noblest of France, and descended, like his own, from an ancient line of Capitouls of Toulouse. From this marriage, third in the direct line, descended,

Pierre-Barthelmy de Portal, b. 31 Oct. 1765, who was appointed "Maitre des Requêtes," in 1811, by Napoleon. After the abdication at Fontainebleau, he took the oaths of allegiance to Louis XVIII., and, in consequence, refused to accept office again under the Emperor, after his return from Elba. Upon the restoration of the Bourbons, in 1815, he was appointed "Conseiller d'Etat," and was created Baron de Portal, and "Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur." At the Congress of Vienna, on the 20th Nov. of that year, he, with Baron Dudon, signed the treaty of general peace, on behalf of the King of France. In 1817, he was appointed Minister of the Colonies, and, shortly afterwards, Minister of Marine, and "Grand Officier de la Legion d'Honneur;" and, in 1828, he received the dignity of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour. He has issue, 1. Pierre-Paul-Frederic, Baron Portal, b. 5 Nov. 1804, appointed, in 1824, attaché to the French embassy at the Court of Saxony, and, afterwards, to the Court of St. Petersburg; "Maitre des Requêtes," in 1832; in 1833, he received the Cross of the Legion of Honour; 1. Adele, m. to L. Marquis d'Escayrac-Lauture; 2. Lucie, m. to Le Marquis d'Audiffret.

I. Mary, m. to M. le Normant, of Amsterdam.

The eldest son of Jean Francois de Portal,

HENRI PORTAL, was b. at the Chateau de la Portaliere. After the death of his father, the bloodthirsty soldiers of the persecution ransacked the chateau, determined that none should escape the general massacre. Henri, and his younger brother, William, were hid by their friends in an oven while the search was being carried on, and as soon as the soldiers were gone, they were concealed in a cask, and were thus enabled to elude the vigilance of their persecutors, and to escape to England in safety. Henri afterwards settled at Freefolk Priors, in Hampshire. He m. 26 Dec. 1711, Dorothy Hasker, and d. 30 Sept. 1745, having had by this lady, who d. 29 Oct. 1784, a son, JOSEPH, his heir, and four daus., viz., Priscilla, m. to William Bridges, Esq.; Elizabeth, m. to William Peachy, Esq.; Dorothy, m. to Sir John Anderson; and Charlotte, m. 16 Aug. 1755, to John Slade, Esq. of Maunsel, co. Somerset. The son and heir,

JOSEPH PORTAL, Esq. of Freefolk Priors, and Laverstoke House, co. Hants, b. in 1719, was in the commission of the peace, and served the office of high-sheriff of co. Hants in 1793. He m. in 1750, Sarah, dau. of William Peachy, Esq. of Hampshire, and by her, who d. 27 Dec. 1802, had issue,

Henry, of Laverstoke House, Hants, b. in 1752, capt. 10th Hussars, d. unm. 19 March, 1801.

William, of Ashe Park, Hants, b. 12 Feb. 1755. He obtained high honours in the University of Cambridge, in 1777, and was subsequently elected Law Fellow of St. John's College, m. in 1799, Sophia, dau. of Sir John Slade, Bart. of Maunsel Park, co. Somerset, who d. 19 Jan. 1837, and by her he has issue one dau., Sophia.

JOHN, present proprietor of Freefolk Priors. Charlotte, m. to Sir John Filmer, Bart. of East Sutton Park, co. Kent.

Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Stivard Jenkins, of Locking, Somerset.

Mr. Portal d. 14 Dec. 1792.

The Arms, as registered in the Armorial General of France, and as represented over the gate of the College of St. Catherine, at Narbonne, which was erected by Gabriel de Portal, chief consul of that city, in 1654, are, Arg., a lion, rampant, sa., on a chief, az., six mullets, or, three and three.

Crests—1st, a demi-lion, bearing a naked sword in his dexter paw; 2nd, a portal, flanked by two towers, each tower charged with a fleur-de-lis, and a wreath of laurel, in base, vert.

Supporters—Dexter, a lion, sinister, a savage, bearing a club on his shoulder.

Motto—Armet nos ultio regum. This motto was first borne by Raymond de Portal, to whom it was assigned, in 1336, by CHARLES V. of France, in honour of his being one of the four hundred knights of Toulouse who volunteered to accompany Bertrand du Guesclin on his expedition into Spain to avenge the death of Blanche of Bourbon, Queen of Castile, and sister of the Queen of France, who had been poisoned by her husband, Peter the Cruel. Raymond de Portal distinguished himself in this expedition, and was celebrated in a poem, (which is still extant,) dedicated to Clemence-Isaure, by a troubadour of that day.

The first Crest was adopted at the same time as the Motto. The second was first borne by Henri Portal after his migration to England.

Seats—Ashe Park, Laverstoke House, and Freefolk Priors, co. Hants.

Lineage.

This family is stated to derive its descent, paternally, from Rhys ap Tudor, King of South Wales, on the presumption that the arms of the sovereign were allowed (with the filial difference of the third son of the fifth house) by the heralds, at their visitation of London, anno 1634, to the posterity of

WALTER POWELL, who was seated, in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, at Bucknell, in Salop. By a dau. and co-heir of the family of Skull, of Much-Cowarne, in Herefordshire, he had issue two sons, THOMAS and Richard.

THOMAS POWELL, Gent., the elder, also of Bucknell, d. in 1611-12. He m. Mary, dau. of John Walcot, Esq. of Walcot, co. Salop, (see that family), by Mary, his wife, dau. of Sir Peter Newton, Knt., and had issue by her two sons, JOHN and Humphrey, and a dau., Anne.

JOHN POWELL, the elder son and heir, having raised a considerable fortune as one of the company of merchant-adventurers of London, acquired the estate of Stanedge, or Stanage Park, in Radnorshire, by purchase, in the reign of CHARLES I. He m. in 1623, his first wife, Jane, dau. of Thomas Docwra, Esq. of Puttridge, in Hitchin, Herts, sometime high-sheriff of that county, by whom, who d. at Hamhugh, he had SAMUEL, his heir. By his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. of — Walmsley, of London, merchant, he had a son, James, and a dau., Rachael.

SAMUEL POWELL, Esq. of Stanedge, elder son and heir, was b. at Hamhugh, and an act passed for his naturalization in 1628. Having succeeded to the patrimonial estate, he d. there in 1686, leaving issue, by Elizabeth, his wife, who survived him, and whose will was proved in 1698, several children, viz.,

I. SAMUEL, of Stanedge.

II. Littleton, of Ludlow, one of the six clerks in Chancery, d. in 1714.

III. Charles, living in 1696.

IV. Edward, buried at Brampton Brian, in 1669.

I. Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Robert Adams, of Wilcot, co. Salop.

II. Anne, wife, 1st, of — Thornes, and 2ndly, of George Bold, Esq. of Shelvock, co. Salop.

III. Margaret, m. to Thomas Greaves, Gent.

The eldest son,

SAMUEL POWELL, Esq. of Stanedge, who d. in Sept. 1700, and was buried at Presteign, had issue, by his wife, the Hon. Elizabeth Folliott, third dau. of Thomas, and sister and co-heir of Henry, Lord Folliott, of the kingdom of Ireland, (which Elizabeth m. 2ndly, the Rev. Thomas Jones, of Combe, eo. Flint, and of Goodrich, co. Hereford,) two sons and an only dau., viz., I. FOLLIOTT, of Stanedge; II. SAMUEL, of Liverpool, and afterwards of Stanedge; and I. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Knight, Esq. of Ludlow, and Bringwood, co. Salop. (See p. 677.)

FOLLIOTT POWELL, Esq. of Stanedge, the elder son and heir, bapt. at Brampton Brian, 31 July, 1691, served the office of high-sheriff of Radnorshire in 1725. He d. 7 June, 1737, and was buried at Bucknell, aforesaid, having had issue by Constance, his wife, three sons, who all d. young, and three daus., viz., I. Constance, m. to Edmund Cox, Esq., capt. Queen's Dragoon-guards, and d. s. p.; II. Anne, m. to Richard Ward, Esq., and d. in 1809, at the age of 92, leaving issue; and III. Sarah, m. to Thomas Cooke, surgeon of the Queen's Dragoon-guards.

SAMUEL POWELL, Esq., sometime of Liverpool, afterwards of Stanedge, brother and heir male of Folliott Powell, was bapt. at Brampton Brian, 5 Jan. 1694, and d. 17 April, 1745, and was buried at St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, having had issue by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of the Rev. Richard Richmond, rector of Walton and Sephton, near Liverpool, (who d. 18 Dec. 1781, aged 81,) four sons and as many daus., viz.,

I. RICHARD, of Stanedge.

James, b. 17 Oct. 1824.

Mr. Pownall, who s. his father in 1814, is a magistrate for the co. Chester.

Lineage.

In the writings of Ordericus Vitalis, compiled by Du Chesne, we find enumerated in the train of the CONQUEROR, who came into England from Normandy, Radulphus Fulco, Johannes, and Hugone Paganell; and those persons appear subsequently, by other evidence, to have seated themselves at Newport Pagnel, co. Buckingham, at Dudley Castle, in Worcestershire, at Drax, co. York, and at

* Dr. Richmond was eldest son of the Rev. Legh Richmond, rector of Stockport, by Mary, his wife, eldest dau. of Henry Legh, Esq. of High Legh, in Cheshire.

Bampton, in Oxfordshire. Vitalis, too, in alluding to the names of those men styled "illustrious," who had died, to the great grief of their Norman countrymen, in the same year with their victorious chief, mentions Gulielmus Paganellus. Dugdale, also, reverts frequently to those gallant soldiers and their descendants. According to a more modern authority, Brooke, Somerset Herald, the family of POWNALL is of great antiquity in co. Chester, the mention of the name connecting them with that shire occurring so early as the time of King STEPHEN, when Avicia de Romelli, dau. and co-heir of William de Meschines, lord of Copeland, and cousin of Ranulph de Meschines, third Earl of Chester, m. for her second husband, William Paganell, lord of Were. This William, with his kinsmen, Raffe and Gervase Paganell, are afterwards described amongst the most active of the adherents of Earl Randle and his barons, in sustaining the interests of the Empress Maud and her son Henry against King STEPHEN, which services were rewarded by the earl with grants of lands in Fee out of his demesnes in Cheshire, and elsewhere: and although the origin of the grant under which the Fee of Pownall (comprising an entire township) passed has not been specifically recorded, yet the presumption is strongly supported, that, like the other grants in the same locality, it was the recompence of military services.

"Although (says Brooke) from the seat of their property in Cheshire, the Pownalls were denominated according to the true British orthography of the name, and were styled, after the Norman custom, "de Pownall," yet they were at the same time styled in the records, written in Norman, Paignel, Payanell, and Paynel, and in those written in Latin, Paganell. It appears on the register, that they repeatedly held the high office of Chamberlayne to the kings,* as Earls of Chester, in the 10th EDWARD II., in the 1st, 5th, and 10th EDWARD III.; on which account, in allusion to their office and their name, they bore for a crest, a lion's paw, holding a golden key." In the register of the rectors of Rostherne parish, anno 1322, occurs the name of "Johannis Paignell, subdiac." (ORMEROD'S Cheshire.)

The elder branch of the family residing at Pownall became extinct, in the direct line, in the year 1328, by the decease of Robert de Pownall, whose only child, Margery, m. Hugh, second son of John Fitton, Lord of Bolyn;† a cadet branch continued still, however, settled in Morley, within the township of Pownall Fee, when the manor of Bolyn was divided between the Booths and the Traffords, 9th HENRY V., (1422,) represented by THOMAS POWNALL, Esq., whose son, HUMPHREY, removed to Witton and Barton, in the same co., and from him,

HUMPHREY POWNALL, descended, according to well-founded tradition,

THOMAS POWNALL, Esq. of Barton, who was bapt. at Great Budworth, co. Chester, in 1650. He m. Mary, dau. and heir of Richard Browne, Esq. of Saltfleetby, co. Lincoln, and was s. by his son, WILLIAM POWNALL, Esq., who d. in 1731, leaving issue, JOHN, his successor.

THOMAS, of North Lynn, in Norfolk, and Everton House, co. Bedford, b. in 1722, m. in 1765, Lady Faulkener, dau. of General Churchill, and d. at Bath, without issue, in 1805. Of this gentleman the following account is given in the "Gentleman's Magazine" of that year, p. 288:—

"It may be said of Governor Pownall, that in every station of life he sustained a high character for ability, zeal, and rectitude of conduct. In the year 1753 he s. Sir Thomas Danvers Osborne, Bart., in his office of

* Of the office of chamberlain, the following explanation occurs in Ormerod's "History of Cheshire:—"

"And to this day the county palatine of Chester hath had a Chamberlayne, who supplieth the place of chancellor, and also justices, before whom the causes which of their nature should otherwise belong respectively to the King's Bench and Common Pleas, are triable," &c. Ormerod's "Cheshire," 1st vol. p. 400, in the descent of the heirs of Fitton, says, "John Fitton, of Bolyn, in Maxfield Hundred, had issue, Richard Fitton, son and heir, and Hugh Fitton, another son, who m. Margery, dau. and heir of Robert de Pownall, A.D. 1328."

† In the Pownall Fee chancel of the parish church of Wilmslow, are the remains of a coat in stained glass, being the arms of the Newtons of Pownall, and underneath is the following inscription, written in very ancient characters:—

"Orate pro Humphrido Newton de Pownall Armigeri filii Elenæ uxore ejus filiâ et herede Thomæ Fitton Armigeri filii Johannis, filii Ricardi, filii Thomæ, filii Hugonis, fratris Ricardi Fitton de Bolyn, qui nupsit Margery filiam et heredem Robti de Pownall, anno 1328."

Lieutenant-Governor of New Jersey. In 1757 he was appointed Captain-General and Governor of Massachusetts Bay, and when, in 1761, he returned to this country, he received the appointment of Director-General of the office of Control, with the rank of colonel in the army, under the command of Prince Ferdinand in Germany. In 1765 he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society, and in 1768 returned to parliament for Tregony, in Cornwall." Governor Pownall was the author of numerous works on political economy, on antiquities, and in the Archæologia of the Antiquarian Society, of which institution he was a member.

The elder son and heir,

JOHN POWNALL, Esq., b. in 1720, m. Mary, dau. of Bowden Lillingston, Esq., and had issue,

Another collateral branch, taking its descent also from the Barnton family, continued settled in Cheshire, until its head,

WILLIAM POWNALL, Esq., b. in 1718, removed to Liverpool, and rendered himself eminent as a merchant in that great commercial place, of which he was elected mayor in 1767, and d. before the close of his year of office, owing to an over-zeal in the discharge of his magisterial duties. A local periodical publication, in announcing this worthy gentleman's demise, thus concludes: "His personal virtues were well known to all who had the happiness of an intimate acquaintance with him; his public character reflected honour on the society to which he was related, and both will render his name respected by posterity." He m. Mary, dau. of Jesse Gerrard, Esq. of Moreton Say, co. Salop, and had two sons, William and John. The only brother of this highly-respected citizen,

JOHN, likewise of Liverpool, b. in 1723, m. 20 Feb. 1744, Jane, dau. of John Crouchley, Esq. of Flixton, co. Lancaster, and had two sons, WILLIAM and JOHN. He d. 8 June, 1812, and was s. by the elder,

PRESTON OF COCKERHAM.

PRESTON, ROBERT-BERTHON, Esq., b. 26 June, 1820; s. his grandfather 19 Nov. 1833.

Lincage.

The family of Preston was seated at Preston Richard, in the co. Westmoreland, in the reign of King HENRY II., and it also possessed the adjoining manor of Preston Patrick.

There was a long succession of persons of the name of Richard de Preston from the time of King HENRY II. to that of EDWARD III., both inclusive, comprehending the space of upwards of two hundred years, possessors of these estates, and several of whom represented the co. Westmoreland in parliament.

In the reign of RICHARD II., the Preston Richard estate was carried out of the male line by the daughters of Richard de Preston, who died without issue male; but his brother, SIR JOHN DE PRESTON, one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas, who resigned his office 6th HENRY VI., in consequence of his great age and infirmities, succeeded to the manor of Preston Patrick; and about the same time the family became possessed of the manor of Nether Levens. Third in descent from the judge was JOHN PRESTON, Esq. of Preston Hall and Nether Levens, who m. Margaret,* dau. of Sir Richard Redmayne, of Harewood Castle, co. York, and Over Levens Hall, co. Westmoreland. The grandson and heir of this gentleman, JOHN PRESTON, Esq. of Preston Hall and Nether Levens Hall, Westmoreland, and of the Manor and Abbey of Furness, Lancashire, b. in 1511, m. Margaret, (or, according to some pedigrees, Helcn,) sister to Sir Thomas Curwen, of Workington, in Cumberland. He served the office of sheriff of Lancashire in 1569, as did his eldest son, THOMAS PRESTON, in 1585. The representative of this branch, in the reign of King CHARLES I., JOHN PRESTON, Esq., warmly espousing the cause of his sovereign, in whose service he raised a regiment at his own expense, was created a Baronet in 1644. The title expired, in 1710, with Sir Thomas Preston, the third Bart., who died, leaving by Mary, dau. of Caryl, Viscount Molyneux, only two daus., Mary, Marchioness of Powis, and Ann, Baroness Clifford, of Chudleigh; to the former of whom were assigned the manors of Preston Patrick and Nether Levens.

* By Margaret, dau. of Thomas Middleton, Esq. of Middleton, by Isabel, dau. of Sir Richard Musgrave, of Hartley Castle, great-grandson of Sir Thomas de Musgrave, and to Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William de Fitzwilliam, of Sprotburgh, by Inaud, dau. to Edward, Lord D'Eyncourt.

A junior branch of this family became seated at Holker, in Lancashire, founded by Christopher Preston, Esq., second son of Thomas, son and heir of the before-mentioned John Preston, Esq., by Margaret Redmayne. This branch terminated in the male line, in 1696, on the death of Thomas Preston, Esq. of Holker, M.P. for Lancaster, who left by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Roger Bradshaigh, Bart. of Haigh, in Lancashire, an only dau., Catharine, who conveyed the Holker estates to Sir William Lowther, of Maske, in Yorkshire, Bart., whose son, Sir Thomas Lowther, marrying Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, dau. of William, Duke of Devonshire, left an only child, Sir William Lowther, Bart., who d. unm., leaving those estates to his cousin, Lord George Cavendish.

Another junior branch was seated at Cockerham, in Lancashire, founded by THOMAS PRESTON, Esq., second son of John Preston, of Preston Hall and Leveus, and of Furness Abbey, sheriff of Lancashire in 1569, by Margaret (or Helen) Curwen, his wife. This gentleman m. Margaret, dau. of Roger Fytche, of Cockerham, and by her had, besides WILLIAM, his son and heir, a younger son, ROGER PRESTON, who was seated at Upper Ottery, in the co. Devon, and d. in 1599, leaving a son, Henry Preston, of Upper Ottery, who d. about the year 1623, leaving three sons, whose ages are given in the Visitation of 1620. No further entry of the Devonshire branch occurs in the Visitations; but their descendants were in existence circa 1700, at the time of the second marriage of Richard Preston, of Cockerham, hereafter mentioned, who paid his wedding visit to his relatives, the Prestons of Devonshire. The immediate ancestor of the present family,

WILLIAM PRESTON, Esq. of Cockerham, (son of William Preston, of Cockerham,) was bapt. at Cockerham Church, 20 Jan. 1632. He possessed the estate of Hilhom House, in the township of Cockerham, and left surviving male issue,

BLEDDYN AP MAENRYCH was Lord of Brecon in the reign of WILLIAM RUFUS of England, at which period the lordship was invaded by Bernard Newmarch, a Norman adventurer, who, with his followers, defeated the forces of Bleddyn. The unfortunate chieftain being slain in the battle, was by his sons conveyed to the abbey of Strata Florida, in Cardiganshire, and there buried. His extensive domains were, however, seized upon by Newmarch, and for the most part divided between himself and his Norman followers. Nevertheless, Bleddyn's sons still retained a portion of their father's patrimony, and from one of them, named Blegwryd, descended, in the fifth degree,

EINION, who dwelt in Llywel, co. Brecon, and was called Einion Sais, because he could speak the English language. Third in descent from Einion was

LLEWELYN, who m. Matilda, dau. of Ieuan ap Rys ap Ivor, of Elvel, and had two sons, HOWELL, ancestor of the Powells of Castle Madoc, and DAVID GAM, so celebrated in history as the enemy of Owen Glendower, and supporter of the English interest, but more renowned by his prowess on the field of Azincourt, in coming to the rescue of King HENRY when the gallant monarch was placed in a situation of imminent peril. Here David Gam received a mortal wound, but, before he breathed his last, had the honour of knighthood conferred upon him by his royal master. Llewelyn's elder son,

HOWELL, m. Margaret, dau. of Gwylim Philip Thomas ap Elydr, and had two sons and two daus. The elder son,

PRIESTLEY OF WHITE WINDOWS.

PRIESTLEY, GEORGE, Esq. of White Windows, co. York, and of The Grove, co. Buckingham, b. 8 March, 1786; m. 15 Nov. 1819, Hannah, only dau. and heir of Nathaniel Kirkman, Esq. of the Crescent, near Manchester, and has issue, GEORGE-KIRKMAN, b. 16 Dec. 1821; Edward-William, b. 25 Feb. 1825; Hannah-Lydia.

Lineage.

From a manuscript which has been handed down through the family, during many generations, it appears, that the ancient seat and inheritance of the PRIESTLEYS was in Soyland and Sowerby, in the parish of Halifax, as early as the time of the Conquest, and their children were called William, Henry, and Robert, after the reigning monarchs: and further, that, about two hundred years ago, a search was made at the Heralds' Office, and that the arms were derived from Soyland.

The orthography, at different periods, has been Prestlay, Prestley, Priestley, Presteley, and Preistley.

WILLIAM PRESTLAY, (of this family,) living at York, temp. EDWARD I., occurs as a jurymen, in a writ of inquiry respecting the fishing on the river Ouse; and HUGH DE PRESTLEY was living at Prestley, Preistley, or Presteley, in Hipperholme, in the parish of Halifax, 7 EDWARD II., A.D. 1314, as appears by a survey of the Manour Wakefield, made in that year.

JOSEPH PRIESTLEY, who m. his cousin, Ann, dau. of John Thornhill, of Fixby, Esq., and had a son,

ROBERT PRIESTLEY, of Sowerby, 22 ELIZ., father of HENRY PRIESTLEY, who m. Helen, dan. of Richard Gledhill, of Barksland, living in 1572, and had a son, ROBERT PRIESTLEY, father of ROBERT PRIESTLEY, whose son,

HENRY PRIESTLEY, m. a dau. of Daniel Greenwood, D.D., Fellow and Principal of Brazenose College, Oxford, and Vice-Chancellor in 1650 and 1651; and had, with a dau., Jane, who m. the Venerable Archdeacon Francis Bunney, of Northumberland, and rector of Ryton, (brother of Edmund Bunney, Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, chaplain to Archbishop Grindall, a Prebendary of York, and rector of Bolton Percy,) a son and successor,

THOMAS PRIESTLEY, father of JOSEPH PRIESTLEY, who d. in 1643, and was s. by his son, JOSEPH PRIESTLEY, who d. in 1689. He was father of JOSEPH PRIESTLEY, whose son,

JOHN PRIESTLEY, d. in 1765, leaving by his wife, Mary-Wylde, a son,

JOHN PRIESTLEY, Esq. of White Windows, who m. Susanna Holroyd, and dying in 1792, left two sons, JOSEPH, his heir, and JOHN, grandfather of the present WILLIAM PRIESTLEY, Esq., late of Lightcliffe, co. York. The elder son,

JOSEPH PRIESTLEY, Esq. of White Windows, b. in 1750, m. Lydia Lea, and by her, who d. in 1820, had issue,

- i. GEORGE, his heir.
- ii. Richard, deceased.
- iii. Henry, b. in Dec. 1790, m. 18 July, 1812, Miss Mary Page, of Gosport, and d. 22 April, 1837.

Lineage.

The family of PRIOR, formerly settled in the counties of Essex, Oxford, Lancaster, and Cambridge, and since the year 1636, in Ireland, derives from JOHN PRIOR, who held a charter from HENRY III., and did homage for the same in the year 1218. The surname of Prior, Priour, and Prior, though variously written in early times, is one and the same, as can be shewn by authentic records, and from the fact of the before-mentioned charter being referred to in a subsequent deed, 220 years afterwards, in which "Prior" is spelt "Priour." John Prior d. about the year 1253, and was s. by his eldest son, THOMAS; whose descendants continued in the male line, in direct succession. Thomas Priour, 7 EDWARD II., who had acquired considerable property under the Earl of Lancaster, was concerned, amongst many of the principal gentry and great nobles of that period, in the fatal affair of Piers de Gaveston, but was included in the free pardon granted to the Earl of Lancaster and his adherents, as we find, amongst two hundred and fifty names of note at the time, "Thomas Priour de Exynge" is mentioned: this patent is dated 16 Oct. 1313, at Westminster. Thomas Priour was, in the same year, returned a Burgess for Hertford to the parliament at Westminster; his younger brother, John Priour, was sheriff of London, and from this John an ancient family in Hertfordshire is supposed to be descended. Thomas Priour had two sons, John and Thomas: he died possessed of considerable property in lands both in Essex and Oxfordshire, and was living at Woodstock after his father's death. Being a man of good repute in those days, he was sent for by the officers of the queen's household, at the time Queen PHILIPPA was at Woodstock, on the occasion of the birth of her eldest son, and he was admitted to the queen's bedchamber to see the royal infant, and to be a witness of his birth, and then was immediately despatched to inform the king of the event. King EDWARD III. was at Walton, and accordingly we find, in the words of the historian, "So welcome to his royal father was the news of his birth, and of the report made to the king by Thomas Priour of his being a fair, lusty, and well-shaped infant, that he granted to Thomas Priour, the messenger, 40 marks per annum out of his Exchequer for life, till he should settle lands on him to that value." We find this Thomas Priour was one of the persons selected, with a suite of seventy-four others, to accompany the Queen PHILIPPA, who made a journey across the seas in the year 1338.

That the same family of Priour held the estates they had acquired, admits of no doubt, by a charter granted to

Richard Priour and Allenora, his wife, by King HENRY VI., in the 16th year of his reign, which refers precisely to the second charter of HENRY III.

It appears that Richard Priour, who died about the end of EDWARD IV.'s reign, left several sons, Andrew, John, Thomas, and Richard. During his life, the estates held under the Earl of Lancaster had been confiscated, and his eldest son, Andrew Priour, had in vain applied for their restoration. We find that the family, in those disturbed times, suffered with a great number of others of the landed gentry, and were deprived of considerable property. They afterwards, however, obtained protection from Edward, Duke of Buckingham, and this Andrew held the manor of Roothing Morrell from that powerful noble, as of his manor of Hatfield Brodrick, by the service of a knight's fee; and also the manor called Boys, with appurtenances, of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, London, as of this prebend of Navistock, by fealty and yearly rent of 17s. Andrew Prior (for the name at this period was spelt thus) d. 1 June, 1507, and was s. by his eldest son, JOHN, his heir.

The Priors now experienced the vicissitudes of fortune, and from confiscations and attendant distresses in consequence of their adherence to the fortunes of the fallen family to whom Queen MARY succeeded, the manors they had held fell into other hands, as it appears that the Priors obtained a grant of them about the year 1560. One of the grandsons of Richard Prior, viz., the fourth son of Richard Prior, whose grandfather held the charter from HENRY VI., established himself in Cambridgeshire, and founded the branch long settled there.

CAPT. THOMAS PRIOR, grandson of THOMAS PRIOR, eldest son of JOHN PRIOR, of Essex, went to Ireland with his regiment about 1636, and obtained, by letters patent from CHARLES II., dated 30 March, 1667, and duly enrolled in the High Court of Chancery, in Ireland, the estates of Rathdowney, Creallagh, Kileoran, &c., situate in the barony of Upper Ossory, Queen's County. He m. Elizabeth Fairfax, dau. of Lord Fairfax, commander of the parliamentary forces, and by her had two sons and a dau.,

- i. THOMAS, his heir.
- ii. Richard, d. unm.
- iii. Mary, m. to the Rev. Thomas Murray, and had a son, JOHN, of whom hereafter, as inheritor of the estates.

- iv. Elizabeth.

Col. Prior, who was killed by the rebels in 1700, was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD PRIOR, Esq. of Rathdowney, who s. also to the estates of his brother, his sister Isabella's husband, but dying s. p. in 1736, was s. by his next brother,

THOMAS PRIOR, Esq. of Rathdowney, b. in 1679, A.M. of Trinity College, Dublin, the celebrated FOUNDER OF THE ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY, who d. unm. 21 Oct. 1751, in his 71st year, and was interred in the parish church of Rathdowney. To this distinguished patriot, who spent a long life in unwearying endeavours to promote the welfare of his native country, a public monument was erected in the Cathedral of Christ Church, Dublin, inscribed with an elegant Latin epitaph, the production of Mr. Prior's friend and fellow student, the learned Bishop Berkeley. Mr. Prior left all his estates to his cousin, (son of his aunt Mary.)

JOHN MURRAY, who then became of Rathdowney, and assumed the additional surname and arms of PRIOR. He m. Mary, dau. of Col. O'Neill, of the co. Down, and had two sons,

John Blades, Esq. of Brockwell Hall, co. Surrey, and by this lady has issue,

i. EDWIN.

i. Caroline.

ii. Herbert.

ii. Emily.

Mr. Prodgers is in the commission of the peace for Surrey.

Lineage.

The family of Prodgers, Progers, or Proger, are of Welsh origin, and of great antiquity, (see JONES OF LLANARTH.) We first hear of them as descendants of Jenkin ap Roger, of Gwarindee, whose sons and grandsons called themselves Progers.

Jenkin ap Roger derived from William ap Jenkin, alias Herbert, Lord of Gwarindee, son and heir of John Herbert ap Adam, alias Jenkin, Lord of Gwariudee, who was second son of Adam Fitzherbert, (Lord, by inheritance from his grandmother, of Llan-Howell, or Llanlowell, near Uske, and of Betesley, or Beaeley,) by Christian, his wife, dau. and heir of Gwariu Dee, the black Lord of Llan-dilo. The Progers were numerous and widely dispersed, but the estate and mansion of Gwarindee continued in their possession till the death of the last male heir, WILLIAM PROGERS, who d. about 1780, leaving an only dau., who became a nun. The family was chiefly distinguished for its loyalty and attachment to the throne, and its devout adherence to the Roman-catholic church. Philip Progers, of Gwerndee, was equerry to JAMES I., and his sons, Charles, James, Henry, and Edward, were all in the service of CHARLES I. and CHARLES II. Colonels Charles and James Progers, and Henry Progers, who was a civilian, were intended for the knighthood of the Royal Oak, possessing estates of £600 per annum, and were all Middlesex men. Edward Progers, the most distinguished of the family, who was usually known as the friend and favourite of CHARLES I. and II., sat in parliament several years as member for the county of Brecon, and had an estate and mansion at Westow, in Suffolk, where part of his family lie interred. He was Ranger of Bushy-park, and died at the advanced age of 93, of the extraordinary complaint of cutting teeth. A beautiful epitaph to his memory still remains in Hampton Church, Middlesex. This last-named gentleman left four daus., three of whom were married, but only one had issue, viz., Mary, wife of John Edwards, Esq., whose only child, Elizabeth, m. Barham Rushbrooke, Esq., the father of the present member for Suffolk.

Many other members of this family are mentioned in the historical details of the eventful period to which we are referring; all eminent for their activity in the service of their country, the energy of their character, and their loyalty to the throne.

The only branch now surviving, of the same name, settled, as appears from parochial evidence, and testamentary documents, at Bromfield, in Shropshire, and were attached by what in legal parlance is deemed "soccage" to the noble house of Herbert, which removed from Monmouthshire to the part of the country just mentioned, at the commencement of the 17th century.

LAWRENCE PROGER, bapt. in 1637, son of Samuel Proger, who d. in 1661, by Margaret, his wife, d. in 1679, leaving by Joan, his wife, (who d. in 1671,) a son, LAWRENCE PRODGER, bapt. in 1663, who d. in 1711, leaving a son, JOHN PROGERS, of Ludlow, bapt. in 1704, who, by Anne, his wife, left at his decease, in 1770, a son, EDWARD PRODGERS, of Ludlow, bapt. in 1738, who d. in 1819, leaving by Mary, his wife, (with a dau., Elizabeth,) four sons, Giles; Edward; James, d. s. p.; and EDWIN, the present REV. EDWIN PRODGERS.

Arms—Per pale, gu. and az., three lions, rampant, two and one, arg., between three crosses-patée, fitch in the foot, one and two, ermine, and an escutcheon of pretence, for BLADES. (See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.)

Crest—In front of a cross, Calvary, or, a wivern, with wings endorsed, vert, in the mouth a sinister hand, couped at the wrist, gu., gorged, with a collar and line, and reflexed over the back, gold, the dexter claw resting on a cross patée, of the last.

Motto—Devouement sans bornes.

Residence—Rectory, Ayot St. Peter, Welwyn, and Clarence Lodge, co. Surrey.

PRYCE OF GUNLEY.

PRYCE, THE REV. RICHARD-HENRY-MOSTYN, of Gunley, co. Montgomery, inherited the estates and representation of this ancient family upon the demise of his father, 20 Oct. 1832.

Lineage.

This family descends from GWYDDNO GARANHIR, LORD of CANTREF GWAELOD, the whole of whose territory was inundated by the sea in his lifetime, and it now forms a part of the present Cardigan Bay, that portion of the sea still retaining its ancient name of "Cantref Gwaelod." Ninth in descent from Gwyddno Garanhir was SEISSYLLT, LORD of MATHAVARN, in Merioneth, who had two sons,

- I. EINION AP SEISSYLLT.
- II. Griffith ap Seissyllt, of Caethle, near Towyn, Merioneth, father of Griffith of Caethle, who m. Lucy, dau. of Einion ap David, derived from Gwaethwood, Lord of Caerdigan, (Refer to PRYSE of GOGERDDAN.) and had two sons,
 1. Tudwr ap Griffith, ancestor of, I. The VAUGHANS OF CAETHLE; II. VAUGHANS OF PENMAEN DOVEY. (Refer to the latter family.)
 2. Ievan Goch ap Tudwr, of Trawscoed, whose dau. and heiress,

Tudo, heiress of Trawscoed, m. Adda ap Llewelyn Vychan, derived from Collwyn ap Tangno, Lord of Yale, (See WYNNE of GWYNFRYN, under NANNY of CEFNDEUDDWR.) and was mother of, Meredith ap Adda, of Trawscoed, ancestor of the VAUGHANS OF TRAWSCOED, EARLS OF LISBURN.

The elder son,

EINION AP SEISSYLLT, Lord of Merioneth, held in capite that lordship, consisting of lands between Dyvi and Duwlas, (being then part of the hundred of Estimanner and Cantred, of Merioneth,) from Llewelyn Vawr and Llewelyn Vychan, the sons of Meredith ap Conan ap Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, then Lords of Merioneth. Some difference taking place between Einion and the Lords of Merioneth, he fled to the Prince of Powys, to whom he made a surrender of the said lands, and did fealty and homage to him for the same, thereby placing himself under the Prince of Powys for protection; in consequence of which, the lands so surrendered have ever since formed part of the district of Cyfeiliog, in Powys, though they were previously a part of Estimanner, in Merioneth and North Wales, as appears by two inquisitions, the one taken in the time of EDWARD III., and the other in the reign of HENRY VI.

EINION AP SEISSYLLT resided at Mathafarn, in Cyfeiliog, now part of the county of Montgomery. He had issue,

- I. GRONO AP EINION.
 1. Marredd, or Margaret, who m. twice: 1st, Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, Dinmael, and Abertanat, son of Madoc, last Sovereign Prince of Powys, and was by him mother of three sons,
 1. Iorwerth ap Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Half Edeirnion, ancestor of the HUGHES'S of GWERCLAS, BARONS of KYNMER-YN-EDEIRNION. (Refer to that family.)
 2. Griffith ap Owain Brogyntyn, living A.D. 1200, who s. to Half Edeirnion, from whom derived, I. The BARONS of CROGANS AND BRANAS; II. the BARONS of HENDWR.
 3. Bleddyn ap Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Dinmael, living 25 May, 2 HENRY III., 1218, progenitor of the LORDS of RUG-YN-EDEIRNION; MAESMORS OF MAESMOR-IN-DINMAEL, and other families.
 - Marredd m. subsequently, Thomas, son of Rhodri, Lord of Anglesey, younger son of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, and was by him mother of, Cariadog ap Thomas, from whom derived, I. The WYNNS of GWYDYR, BARTS., (See that Family under WILLIAMS-WYNN of LLANGEDWIN;) II. WYNNS of LLWYN (Refer to that name;) III. WYNNS of BERTHDDU; IV. WILLIAMS'S of MINSTOR, BARTS.; V. WILLIAMS'S of MARNHULL, BARTS.; VI. MORICES OF CLENENN; VII. ANWILS OF PAR; VIII. BRYNKEERS OF BRYNKER.

- II. Jane, who m. Einion ap Rees, Lord of Yale, great-grandson of Llewellyn Aurdorchog, Lord of Yale, and was mother of a son,

IORWERTH AP EINION, paternal ancestor of the WALS-COTS OF WALCOT. (See that name.)

Einion ap Seissyllt was s. by his son,

GRONO AP EINION, who m. Meddwy, dau. of Owen Cyfeiliog, Prince of Powys-Wenwynwyn, son and heir of Griffith, Lord of Mawddwy, who was second son of Mer-dith, Prince of Powys, (see HUGHES of GWERCLAS.) and had issue,

- I. IORWERTH AP GRONO.

II. Owen ap GRONO, whose son, Griffith ap Grono, was father of a dau., Gwenhwyfar, who m. Ynyr Vychan ap Ynyr, Lord of Nannau, in Merioneth, progenitor of the VAUGHANS OF NANNAU, BARTS. (See VAUGHAN of RUG AND HENGWRT.)

CHARLES DE LA PRYME, b. 15 June, 1815.

Alicia, m. in March, 1837, to William-Joseph Bayne, M.D., of Bury St. Edmunds.

Mr. Pryme, who received his education at Cambridge, where he was highly distinguished, is at present Professor of Political Economy in that University, and M.P. for the town in which he resides.

Lineage.

The family of Pryme, or De la Pryme, is of continental origin. One branch possessed a château and domain near Padubon, in Hesse Cassel, in the middle of the last century. The other, which was the original, resided near Ypres, of which city several of them were chief magistrates. ALEXANDER, the first of whom anything is known, followed Philip of Alsace to the second Crusades, and acquitted himself so well, that on his return he received a patent of gentility, and a grant of arms, viz., a poignard and cross, quarterly; crest, a cross upon a wreath; motto, "Animose certavit." His descendants, however, paid less deference to the papal authority, and embraced the reformed religion. During the persecution which Cardinal Richelieu renewed against its adherents, and the desperate resistance of those who were besieged in Rochelle, several families fled to England, and settled at Hatfield, near Doncaster, about the year 1628. Among them was

CHARLES DE LA PRYME, who left an estate in Flanders, which his descendants in vain attempted to recover. He joined with Vermuyden, and other refugees, in draining Hatfield Chase, under a grant from CHARLES I. The work was effective, but proved disadvantageous to the adventurers. He left two sons; of Abraham, nothing more is known, than that he d. 23 July, 1687, and was, according to the account of his nephew, "an honest, learned, pious, wise, and understanding man."

MATHIAS DE DA PRYME, the other, was b. 31 Aug. 1645, and m. in April, 1670, Sarah, dau. of Peter Smagge, "a rich Freuchman, that, with his whole family, was forced from Paris by persecution for his faith, and was come to live also in these Levels." In 1680, he removed to Crewtrus Hall, a large house built in the Levels by Mynheer van Halhenburg, one of the original drainers, where the family continued to reside till they quitted that part of Yorkshire. He d. 29 July, 1694.

ABRAHAM DE LA PRYME, the eldest son of Mathias, was b. 15 Jan. 1671. When only twelve years old, he began to write "Ephemeris Vita, or a Diary of my own Life; containing an account, likewise, of the most observable and remarkable things that I have taken notice of from my youth up hitherto." He was admitted at St. John's College, Cambridge, in 1690. In addition to the usual classical and philosophical studies, he applied himself to natural history, chemistry, and magic! In 1694, he took the degree of B.A., and returned to Hatfield; but finding that learning was not much esteemed there, he went back to Cambridge, and occupied himself in composing a volume, which he entitles, "Curiosa de se, or Private Thoughts of one inquisitive into the knowledge of Nature and Things." In 1695, he took orders, and settled successively upon several curacies in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire, "it being my fate," says he, "to stay commonly no longer in one place than till I have gotten the antiquities thereof, and the view of what MSS. I can meet with." In 1698, he went to York, to take priest's orders. The archbishop, Dr. Sharp, who had seen a table of contents of his MS. history of Hatfield, expressed great approbation, with promises of patronage which he never fulfilled. In 1701, he was presented by the Duke of Devonshire with the living of Thorue, in the West Riding of Yorkshire; but he did not long enjoy it, a consumption, occasioned probably by intense study, put a period to his useful labours, 13 June, 1704. He was never married, nor does it appear that his pursuits ever allowed him leisure to be in love. His property devolved at his death on his only brother,

PETER DE LA PRYME, who m. in 1695, Frances, dau. of Francis Wood, of the Levels. He d. 25 Nov. 1724, leaving two sons,

i. ABRAHAM, b. in 1700, d. 6 Oct. 1740. James, his only son, sold the estate of Hatfield, and went to live in the Isle of Man, and d. about 1785. His son James returned to England, and resided in Ribblesdale, Lancashire, where he died.

ii. FRANCIS.

The younger son,

FRANCIS DE LA PRYME, b. in 1701, resided at Ferriby, seven miles west of Hull, and d. 7 July, 1769. In compliance with the antipathy which then prevailed to everything French, he dropped the "de la," and had his only son, Christopher, registered by the name of Pryme. This

CHRISTOPHER PRYME, b. in 1739, m. Alice, dau. of George Dinsdale, of Nappa Hall, in Winsleydale, Yorkshire, and d. in 1784, leaving an only child, the present GEORGE PRYME, Esq., M.P.

Arms—A poignard and cross, quarterly.

Crest—A cross.

Motto—Animose certavit.

Residence—Cambridge.

PRYSE OF GOGERRDDAN.

PRYSE, PRYSE, Esq. of Gogerddan, co. Cardigan, and of Buscot Park, Berks, s. to the Welsh estates on the death of Mrs. Margaret Pryse, (whereupon he assumed the surname and arms of PRYSE,) in 1798, and to those in Berkshire upon the demise of his father; m. 1st, in 1798, Harriet, dau. of William, second Lord Ashbrook, and widow of the Hon. and Rev. John Ellis-Agar, which lady d. s. p. in 1813. Mr. Pryse m. 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Peter Cavallier, Esq. of Gisborough, in Cleveland, by whom he has,

- III. John-Pugh, b. 10 Sept. 1818.

This gentleman, who has represented the borough of Cardigan in parliament for several years, served the office of high-sheriff of Cardiganshire in 1798.

Lineage.

GWAETHVOED, Lord of Caerdigan, living at the commencement of the eleventh century, m. Morvydd, dau. and co-heir of Ivor, King of Gwent, and dying in 1057, was s. by his son,

CADIVOR AP GWAETHVOED, Lord of Caerdigan, whose armorial ensigns were, "Or, a lion, rampant, regardant, sa." By Joan, his wife, dau. of Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, Founder of the IV. Royal Tribe of Wales, (see MORRIS OF THE HURST,) this noble had two sons,

- I. IVOR AP CADIVOR, of whom presently.
- II. Madoc ap Cadivor, grandfather of Griffith ap Adda, of Dolgog, in Merioneth, whose tomb, with his effigy, arrayed in armour, is still extant within the church of Towyn, in Merioneth. This warrior, who bore the arms of his father, m. Tangwystyl, dau. and heiress of Gronwy ap Adda, great grandson of Ednowain ap Bradwen, Lord of Llys-Bradwen, in Merioneth, Founder of the xv. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, (see LLOYD OF PLYMOC,) and was father of a dau. and co-heir,

Nest, who m. thrice: 1st, Llewelyn ap Cynric, of Cors-y-Gedol, in Merioneth, derived from Osborne Fitzgerald, Lord of Cors-y-Gedol, and was by him mother of an eldest son, Griffith ap Llewelyn, of Cors-y-Gedol, Sheriff, or Farmer (lessee) of the Office of Sheriff, of Merionethshire, in 1373, ancestor of, I. the WYNNS OF GLYNN; II. WYNNES OF PENARTH, (Refer to that family;) III. WYNNES, by change of name, NANNEYS OF MAES-Y-NEUADD, (see that name;) IV. VAUGHANS OF CORSEY-GEDOL; V. ROGERS'S OF BRYNTANGOR, represented by the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS AND BRYNTANGOR, BARONS OF KYMMERYN-EDERNION.

Nest m. 2ndly, Ievan Lloyd ap David Vychan, and 3rdly, Einion ap Griffith, of Chwilog, in the Comote of Evioneth, who was living 27 July, 1352.

Cadivor ap Gwaethvoed was s. by his eldest son,

IVOR AP CADIVOR, Lord of Caerdigan, who m. Lleykey, dau. of Cadivor ap Dyfnwal, Lord of Castel Howel, in Caerdigan, one of the most martial chiefs of his age, and progenitor of several eminent Cambrian families. (See PHILLIPS-LLOYD OF DALE CASTLE.) By this lady he had issue,

- I. Philip ap Ivor, Lord of Caerdigan. This powerful Lord, whose shield bore a golden eagle, displayed on an azure field, m. the Princess Catherine, dau. and heiress of Llewelyn, last Sovereign Prince of North Wales, and from this alliance derived the eventual Representatives of the three Cambrian dynasties of North Wales, South Wales, and Powys. (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS.)
- II. GRIFFITH AP IVOR.

The second son,

GRIFFITH AP IVOR, of Castle Odwin, who retained the armorial ensigns of Cadivor ap Gwaethvoed, still borne by his descendants, was father, by Agnes, his wife, dau. of Robert ap Madoc, of a son and successor,

IEVAN, of Castle Odwin, and Glyn Aeron, m. Elliwe, dau. of Meredydd ap Caradoc Vanrach, and left a son and successor,

IEVAN LLOYD, of Glyn Aeron, father, by Angharad, his wife, dau. of Richard ap Einion, of the celebrated RHYDDERCH AP IEVAN LLOYD, a poet of the first rank, who lived in the next age after Dafydd ap Gwilym. He was owner of the estate of Gogerthan, in Cardiganshire, and received his education at Oxford. Among other works of his, we have a curious ode in English, which shews the pronunciation of that language in those days, of which, perhaps, no other proof can be brought. Rhydderch m. Maud, dau. of Gruffyd Rice, and left a son and a dau., viz.,

- I. DAVID AP RHYDDERCH.
- II. Tangwystyl, who m. Einion ap Griffith, of Cors-y-Gedol, co. Merioneth, whose name appears in the list of the Indictors (probably the Grand Jury) of Merionethshire, from 7 July, 1382, to 21 June, 1386; and amongst the Exchequer Issues for the tenth year of RICHARD II., a payment is recorded to Einion ap Griffith, and others, Captains of certain Archers from the county of Merioneth. From this marriage derived, I. the WYNNS OF GLYNN; II. WYNNS OF PENARTH; III. WYNNES OF MAES-Y-NEUADD; IV. VAUGHANS OF CORSEY-GEDOL; V. ROGERS'S OF BRYNTANGOR.

Rhydderch ap Ievan Lloyd was s. by his son, DAVID AP RHYDDERCH, who m. Ellen, dau. of Richard ap Owain ap Richard, of Ywch Aeron, who was father of, DAVID LLOYD, whose son, by Gwenllian, dau. and heir of Meredydd ap Llynn, of Penabery,

Mr. Pusey lately represented the borough of Cashel in parliament, and now sits for Berkshire. He s. his father in 1828.

Lineage.

THE HON. PHILIP BOUVERIE, only surviving son of Jacob, first Viscount Folkestone, by Elizabeth, his second wife, eldest dau. of Robert, Lord Romney, assumed the surname of PUSEY.* He m. in 1798, Lucy, eldest dau. of Robert, fourth Earl of Harborough, and widow of Sir Thomas Cave, Bart., by whom he had issue,

PHILIP, his heir.

Edward, in holy orders, D.D., canon of Christ Church, and regius professor of Hebrew in the University of Oxford, b. in 1800, m. 12 June, 1828, Maria Catherine, youngest dau. of the late John-Raymond Barker, Esq., and by her (who d. 26 May, 1839) has issue, PHILIP, Lucy, and Mary.

* The Puseys are said to have been settled at Pusey prior to the Conquest, and to have held that estate by Cornage, or the service of a horn, under a grant of CANUTE. Camden and Fuller both make mention of this circumstance.

The family became extinct in the male line in 1710, by the death of

CHARLES PUSEY, Esq., who bequeathed the manor to his nephew,

JOHN ALLEN, Esq., who thereupon assumed the additional surname of PUSEY. This gentleman dying without issue, the estate was further entailed upon Mr. Pusey's sisters and his nieces, the Allens, which last ladies alternately inherited and joined in settling the estate upon the Hon. Philip Bouverie, nephew of Mr. Allen Pusey's wife, who was daughter of Sir William Bouverie, Bart.

- III. Elizabeth-Marianne.

Mr. Pye succeeded to the Clifton and Haughton estates, in Staffordshire, under the will of Charles Watkins, Esq. of Clifton Hall, at the decease of the Rev. John Watkins, uncle of that gentleman, who had a life interest. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the co. Stafford, and served as high-sheriff in 1840.

Lineage.

The family of PYE, one of most honourable and ancient extraction, was originally AP HUGH, the letter U in the Welsh language bearing the sound of Y.

HUGH PYE, or APHUGH, (presumed to have been a son of the William Ap Hugh who accompanied the Norman in his conquest of England,) was lord of Kilpec Castle, in the Mynde Parke, in Herefordshire. He had two sons, viz.,

- I. Thomas, whose only child, Margaret, m. Stephen de la Beare, and had an only dau., the wife of Sir John Plunkett, from whom maternally descended Richard Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel, whose dau., Jane, marrying Humphrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford, was mother of Eleanor Bohun, who m. Thomas, of Woodstock, son of King EDWARD III.

Mary Bohun, m. to King HENRY IV.

- II. JOHN.

From the second son,

JOHN PYE, descended, in a direct male line,

THOMAS PYE, whose son, (by Jane Bromwich, his wife,)

JOHN PYE, was retained, temp. HENRY VI., to serve in the French wars. He was seated on his patrimonial estate of Sadlebow, in Herefordshire, and m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Scudamore, Knt., by whom he had a son,*

JOHN PYE, of the Mynde, in Herefordshire, who m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Roger Andrews, of Hereford, and was s. by his son,

His eldest son, by his first wife,

WALTER PYE, Esq. of the Mynde, m. Margaret, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Bridget, dau. of Thomas Kyrle, and dying in 1591, left a son,

ROGER PYE, Esq. of the Mynde, possessor of the ancient castle of Kilpec, who m. Bridget, dau. of Thomas or Walter Kyrle, and dying in 1591, left a son,

* Harl. MSS.

WILLIAM PYE, Esq. of the Myude, who d. 20 Aug. 1611, leaving five sons, viz.,

- i. Walter, (Sir,) of the Mynde, attorney-general of the court of wards to King CHARLES I., from which prince he received the honour of knighthood, 20 June, 1640. He sat in parliament, and was high steward of Leominster, until deprived, on account of his attachment to the king. Sir Walter m. Joan, dau. of William Rudshall, Esq. of Rudshall, and had, inter alios, Walter, (Sir,) of Mynde. This gentleman m. in 1628, Elizabeth, dau. of John Sanders, Esq. of Dinton, and had three children, Walter, Robert, and Catherine, all of whom adhering to the tenets of the church of Rome, never swerved from their allegiance to the ill-fated house of STUART, but disposing of Kilpee Castle, retired to the continent, and obtained from the son of the exiled monarch, the title of Lord Kilpee.
- ii. ROBERT, (Sir,) of whom presently.
- iii. John.
- iv. William.
- v. Thomas.

The second son,

SIR ROBERT PYE, Knt., was auditor of the receipt of the exchequer of King JAMES I. and CHARLES I., but was deprived of his office, in consequence of his staunch and devoted adhesion to the latter monarch. Sir Robert purchased of the Untons, the manor and estate of Farringdon, in Berks, and during the civil wars, garrisoned his mansion there, for the royalists, when it was stoutly besieged by his own son, Sir Robert Pye. He m. Mary, second dau. and co-heir of John Croker, Esq. of Baltisford, in Gloucestershire, and dying in 1662, left issue,

- i. ROBERT, (Sir,) his heir.
- ii. JOHN, (Sir,) of Hone, in Derbyshire, who was created a Bart., and left one son and two daus., viz.,
CHARLES, (Sir,) second Bart. of Hone, who purchased Clifton and Houghton, in Staffordshire. Sir Charles m. Ist, Philippa, dau. of Sir John Hobart, Bart. of Blikling, ancestor of the Earls of Buckinghamshire, but had no issue to survive. He m. 2ndly, Ann, dau. of Richard Stevens, Esq., and left at his decease in 1721, two sons and three daus., viz.,
1. RICHARD, 7 successive baronets, who both d. s. p.,
2. ROBERT, 3 the elder in 1724, the younger in 1734.
1. Rebecca, d. issueless in 1748.
2. Philippa, also d. s. p. in 1769.
3. Mary,* who d. without issue, in 1774.
- i. Elizabeth, who m. Thomas Severne, Esq. of Wallop Hall, in Shropshire, and of Rhosgoch, in the co. Montgomery, Gent. of the bedchamber to King WILLIAM III., and had a son, General Severne, devisee of his cousin, Mary Pye, for life. He d. in 1787, aged eighty-nine.
- ii. Anne, who m. Charles Watkins, Esq. of Aynho, in Northamptonshire, and had a son and heir, The Rev. Richard Watkins, rector of Clifton, who m. Miss Meysey, and had issue,
1. Charles, who assumed the surname of Meysey, upon succeeding to Shakenhurst, in Worcestershire. He d. s. p., m.
2. Richard, in holy orders, rector of Roek, Worcestershire, devisee in tail male of Mary Pye. He left an only son and heir, Charles, who d. issueless in 1812, having cut off the entail, and left his estates to his uncle for life, with the remainder to the present Mr. Pye.
3. John, in holy orders, devisee for life of his nephew, Charles. This gentleman had no male issue, and d. far advanced in life.

Sir Robert Pye, auditor of the exchequer, was s. by his elder son,

SIR ROBERT PYE, Knt. of Farringdon, who represented Woodstock in the long parliament. Sir Robert, upon the breaking out of the civil wars, attached himself to the side of the people, and became colonel of horse in General Fairfax's regiment. During the protectorate, he enjoyed many high trusts, and was twice returned for the co. of Berks. He nevertheless engaged in an attempt to restore King CHARLES II., and was appointed one of the treasurers to apply such money as was transmitted for that purpose. Sir Robert was subsequently committed to the Tower for a breach of privilege, in presenting a petition from the co. of Berks, complaining of the want of a settled form of government. He had, however, the courage to move for an

* Mary Pye being the last heiress of this line, devised her estates to General Severne, her cousin, for life, with remainder to her first cousin (once removed), Richard Watkins, whose son, Charles, inheriting in tail and having no issue, cut off the entail, and after giving his uncle, John, a life interest, left the remainder to the present Henry-John Pye, Esq., representative of the senior branch of the Pyses.

RABETT OF BRAMFIELD HALL.

RABETT, THE REV. REGINALD, M.A., of Bramfield Hall, co. Suffolk, Lord of the Manor of Kettleburgh, in Creatingham, Vicar of Thorntoncum-Bagworth, co. Leicester, b. 11 Jan. 1795; m. 28 Aug. 1828, Mary, eldest dau. of Richard Bickerton, Esq. of Roden, co. Salop, of an ancient family of that name, related to the late Admiral Sir Richard Bickerton, Bart. The rev. gentleman succeeded his mother (the only dau. of the late Matthias Kerrison, Esq., and the only sister of the present Lieut.-Gen. Sir Edward Kerrison, Bart., M.P.) 23 Feb. 1832. He is the author of a work, entitled "Lateinos, in explication," &c.

Lineage.

This family is of Norman extraction, and derives from one of the companions in arms of the CONQUEROR. Its ancestors have been long seated in the co. Suffolk, and have served as high-sheriffs and bailiffs at various times, and represented Dunwich in parliament at a very early period. The present family seat, Bramfield Hall, has been in their possession several centuries.

WILLIAM RABETT, Esq. of Bramfield, was member of parliament for Dunwich in the 8th of EDWARD IV. In the 12th parliament at Westminster, his name is mentioned ("Int. Chart. Reg. Rabett de Bramfield, Arm.") as the executor of the will of Robert Moyn, dated 1405. (See GARDINER'S Hist. of Dunwich, p. 89, and Hist. of Blythburgh, pp. 143—166-7; see also, Eng. Baron., p. 8, and KIMBER and JOHNSON'S Baronetage, vol. ii. p. 487.)

REGINALD RABETT, Esq., of Bramfield, served the office of high-sheriff in the year 1587, in the 29th of the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, according to the sheriff's roll and briefs of that date, in the possession of the present proprietor of the Bramfield Hall estate.

In the conference held at Hampton Court, before King JAMES I., in 1603, a Mr. Rabett was one of the seven persons to whom were assigned a new translation of St. Paul's and the other canonical Epistles, at Westminster. —See Introduction to Bishop Mant's Bible.

REGINALD RABETT, Esq. of Bramfield Hall, m. Mary Hayne, the sister of Captain John Hayne, and the dau. of Sir John Hayne, of Islington. The present proprietor of the estate has a very ancient sword, with a silver handle and gilt, and embossed with singular devices, and which was left by will, in 1702, as an heir-loom to Reginald Rabett, who was afterwards high-sheriff in 1737, and was probably the sword of the sheriff of 1587.

REGINALD RABETT, Esq. of Bramfield Hall, (great-grandfather to the present proprietor of the estate,) was m. to Elizabeth Rust, dau. of Mrs. Elizabeth Rust; he served as high-sheriff for the county of Suffolk in 1737, and his sister, Elizabeth Rabett, m. the Rev. Sir Ralph Blois, Bart. in 1738.

REGINALD RABETT, Esq. of Bramfield Hall and Huntingfield, (grandfather to the present proprietor,) served the office of high-sheriff for the co. Suffolk in 1778: he m. 1st,

Mary Ingall, who d. without issue; 2ndly, Mary Newson, in 1771; and he d. in 1786, aged 68, leaving his widow and three sons, viz., I. REGINALD, his heir; II. John, (who m. twice, and left issue four sons, and d. in 1833;) and III. William-Henry, (who m. and left issue several sons and daus., and d. in 1832.) The eldest son and heir,

REGINALD RABETT, Esq. of Bramfield Hall and Huntingfield, b. 20 March, 1771; m. in 1792, Mary, the only dau. of the late Matthias Kerrison, Esq. of Bungay, in Suffolk, and of Hoxne and Broom Halls, &c., and only sister to the present Gen. Sir Edward Kerrison, Bart., M.P. of Oakley Park; he served in the commission of the peace, and d. 31 May, 1810, aged 39, leaving his widow, two sons and a dau., viz.,

REGINALD, his heir.

George-William, commander R.N., m. 12 Sept. 1835, Lady Lucy-Louisa-Maria Turnour, 2nd dau. of the late Earl of Winterton, and sister to the present earl.

Mary, m. 28 Dec. 1810, to Lord Viscount Maynard, in the peerage of Great Britain, and lord-lieut. of the co. Essex.

Mr. Rabett d. 31 May, 1810, aged 39, bnt as Mrs. Rabett survived him 22 years, (19 of which she was m. to a second husband, Lieut. Garbett, R.N.,) and as the Bramfield Hall estate was tied up in strict settlement to her for her life, his eldest son, the present REV. REGINALD RABETT, of Bramfield Hall, did not come into possession of his paternal hereditary property till the death of his mother, (Mrs. Garbett,) 23 Feb. 1832.

Mary-Rachel, m. 9 Aug. 1838, Samuel Marshall Bulley, Esq. of Liverpool.

This eloquent and distinguished divine s. to the representation of the family upon the decease of Sir Stamford Raffles, in 1826.

Lineage.

The name of Raffles frequently occurs in the oldest registers at Beverley, in Yorkshire, both in those of the Minster and St. Mary's Church, from which it appears that three centuries ago the ancestors of this family resided there. One of them, JOHN RAFFLES, it is recorded, died during his mayoralty in that borough, A.D. 1583. From Beverley the family is believed to have removed to Berwick-on-Tweed, and thence to London. In that city, a descendant of the Beverley line,

THOMAS RAFFLES, whose father came from Berwick, held an office in the Prerogative Office, Doctors' Commons. He married twice: by his first wife he had, with other children who died unmarried or issueless, a son, BENJAMIN, of whom presently.

By his second wife he had two sons and a daughter, viz.,

John, who m. Elizabeth Hare, and d. at Stourport, leaving an only dau., Caroline-Matilda, m. 1st, to William Mills, Esq. of Frocester House, near Stroud, and 2ndly, to James Harmar, Esq. of Bewdley.

Acheson-Quintin-Dick Thompson, b. in 1806, m. in 1837, Isabella, dau. of the Rev. Dodgson Madden, and has issue.

William, d. young.

Charlotte-Raffles-Drury, m. in 1836, the Hon. Charles-Knox Steuart, second son of the Earl of Castle-Steuart, and has issue.

Mrs. Thompson, m. 2ndly, William Flint, Esq., capt. R.N., brother of Sir Charles Flint, and by him left at her decease, in 1837, one surviving son and one daughter, viz.,

William-Charles-Raffles Flint, in holy orders, b. in 1819.

Mary-Anne-Sophia Flint.

The only son was

SIR THOMAS-STAMFORD RAFFLES, Knt. of High Wood, co. Middlesex, F.R.S., F.A.S., &c., b. at sea, off Jamaica, 5 July, 1781. This very eminent man, distinguished alike for his great public services, his scientific acquirements, and his unwearied philanthropy, entered on the career in which his abilities proved of such vast utility, in 1805, being then appointed assistant-secretary at the Prince of Wales's Island. In 1806, he succeeded to the chief secretaryship, but the bad climate inducing an alarming illness, he was obliged to proceed to Malacca, for the recovery of his health. Here he had an opportunity of making personal observations on the manners, people, and interests of the various nations who trade with and resort to Malacca, and these observations, fortunately for the Eastern world, he communicated regularly to John Leyden, then resident at Calcutta. Leyden shewed the letters he received to the Governor-general, Lord Minto, and that nobleman was so highly pleased with the correspondence, that Raffles was requested to gratify his lordship by regular communications to himself. So satisfactory was the epistolary intercourse that ensued, and so just the appreciation of the writer's abilities by Lord Minto, that in 1810, on the reduction of Java, Mr. Raffles was appointed lieutenant-governor of that island. In this capacity he continued, with the highest reputation, until the spring of 1816, when the island was restored to the Dutch, and Governor Raffles returned to England. During his government of Java, with a skill and judgment which raised not a single enemy, he effected changes which made the Javanese hail his coming as a blessing from Heaven. He reformed the departments of commerce, revenue, and judicature, instituted statistical inquiries and surveys, established benevolent societies and schools, everywhere held out encouragement to all branches of industry, and accomplished the abolition of slavery. The year after his return, Mr. Raffles published his "History of Java," received the honour of knighthood, and was appointed Resident at Bencoolen, in Sumatra, and Lieut.-Governor of Fort Marlborough. At that settlement he arrived in March, 1818; and here, again, his unwearied exertions in the reformation of a fallen people, his emancipation of the slaves, his encouragement of industry, and his establishment of schools, wrought a change, almost surpassing belief, in the condition of the inhabitants, and the effects that were thus produced, not only in the generation which witnessed them, but on their descendants, are incalculable. During his residency at Bencoolen, Sir Stamford was authorized by Lord Hastings, then Governor-general of India, to found a new colony for the protection of British commerce in the Asiatic seas. The spot he selected for this purpose was Singapore, at the mouth of the Straits of Malacca, and the subsequent prosperity of the settlement attests the judgment and ability displayed in its establishment. At length, though in the prime of life, this excellent man, worn out by labour, and broken down by ill health and domestic affliction, returned to England,* and retiring to an estate he had purchased at

* Sir Stamford's passage homeward was marked by a calamitous event: the ship in which he sailed took fire, and,

High Wood, near Hendon, died there, 4 July, 1826. Sir Stamford m. 1st, Olivia-Mariamne, widow of W. Fancourt, Esq., and 2ndly, Sophia, dau. of J.-Watson Hull, Esq., by the latter of whom he left an only child to survive him, Ella-Sophia, who d. unm. 5 May, 1841. RAIKES OF WELTON.

RAIKES, THOMAS, Esq. of Welton, co. York, b. 6 Sept. 1790; m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Thomas Armstrong, Esq. of Castle Armstrong, King's County, and has by her,

ROBERT, b. 18 Oct. 1818.

Thomas, b. 26 Oct. 1823.

Grace-Louisa. Anne.

He m. 2ndly, 17 Feb. 1825, Elizabeth-Frances, eldest dau. of Charles Lutwidge, Esq., Collector of the Customs at Hull, and has by her,

Charles, b. 27 Nov. 1828.

Elizabeth-Lucy.

Lineage.

"The family of Raikes," says Bigland, "was settled at Kingston-upon-Hull, and other places in the county of York, at a very remote period, as appears, not only by wills of the family proved in the Prerogative Court of York so early as the year 1507, but also by the ancient entries in the parochial registers at Hull, which are so numerous, particularly during the reign of ELIZABETH, that the necessary identifications to justify insertion in the pedigree of other ascending lines, cannot be strictly ascertained."

Of three brothers, I. RICHARD; II. THOMAS; and III. ROBERT RAIKES, living in Hull in 1610, THOMAS bore a prominent part in the important transactions of which that town was the scene at the commencement of the civil war. Having first served the office of mayor in 1633, he was again elected in 1642, and during the siege, as appears by a minute dated 3 Sept. 1643:—"At the election of mayor for the year to come, the burgesses assembled, taking into consideration Mr. Mayor's (Thomas Raikes, Esq.) vigilance and carefulness, of the town's affairs the year past, and his fidelity to the publick cause, and the great danger that the town is now in, being at present strongly beleagured by the Earl of Newcastle's forces lying nigh, and daily shooting into the town with their great ordnance, earnestly prayed Mr. Mayor either to continue mayor as he is, or that he would be elected mayor again for the year to come. He consented when Lord Fairfax, governor, came into the said assembly and requested him to do so," &c. The said Thomas d. in 1662, and was buried in the Holy Trinity Church of Hull. He as well as his brother ROBERT left issue, but their descendants in the male line appear to have become extinct before 1700. Their eldest brother,

RICHARD RAIKES, a merchant in Hull, had by his wife, Anne, living in 1640, two sons, Richard and Joshua, and five daus., Anne, m. in 1619, to Christopher Shore, Esq.; Hester, m. to William Wilberforce, Esq.; Elizabeth, m. in 1630, to William Mather; Isabel, m. in 1638, to James Nettleton, Esq.; and Alice, m. to Anthony Stephenson.

though the passengers escaped, everything on board was lost; including all Sir Stamford's memoirs and collections, his histories of Sumatra, his maps, drawings, &c., which were invaluable.

THE REV. RICHARD RAIKES, the elder son, was vicar of Hessele, co. York, in 1640, and dying in 1671, left by his wife, Jane, three sons and three daus. His eldest son,

THE REV. TIMOTHY RAIKES, took his degree at St. John's College, Cambridge, in 1670, and was first vicar of Tickhill, afterwards vicar of Hessele aforesaid. He d. at Hessele in 1722. By Sarah, his wife, dau. of — Part-ridge, Esq. of the co. of Gloucester, he had three sons, Robert, Richard, and Timothy, and two daus. From Timothy descends the family of Raikes of St. Petersburg. The eldest son,

ROBERT RAIKES, settled at Gloucester, and d. in 1757. He m. Mary, dau. of the Rev. Richard Drew, of Nailsworth, in that county, and by her had one dau., Mary, m. to Francis Newbery, Esq. of Heathfield Park, co. Sussex, and five sons,

I. ROBERT, the well-known philanthropist, and founder of Sunday schools, who lived and died at Gloucester. He m. in 1767, Anne, only dau. of Thomas Trigge, Esq. of Newham, and had, with six daus., two sons,

ROBERT-NAPIER, rector of Drayton, co. Norfolk, b. in 1783.

William-Henley, col. in the Guards, b. in 1785.

II. Richard, in holy orders, a prebendary of St. David's, m. but left no issue.

III. WILLIAM,* of whom hereafter.

IV. Charles, of Hinxtun, co. Cambridge, m. his cousin, Eleanor Raikes, and d. without issue.

V. Thomas,* an eminent merchant in London, governor of the Bank in 1797, m. in 1774, Charlotte, a dau. of the Hon. Henry Finch, and had issue,

1. Thomas.

2. Henry, Chancellor of the diocese of Chester.

3. Richard, deceased.

4. George, deceased.

1. Charlotte-Finch.

2. Georgiana, m. to Lord William FitzRoy.

3. Harriet, m. to Sir Stratford Canning.

The third son,

WILLIAM RAIKES, Esq., b. 1 June, 1738, m. 21 Oct. 1762, Martha Pelly, only dau. of John Mathew, Esq. of West Ham, co. Essex, and d. at Woodford, Essex, 15 Oct. 1800, aged 62, leaving issue,

I. William, b. in 1763, m. in 1788, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of John Reeve, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Daniel Lysons, Esq. of Hempsted, but d. without issue, in 1824.

II. ROBERT, of Welton.

III. Joh-Mathew, m. Charlotte, dau. of Nathaniel Bayly, Esq., and d. in 1830, leaving issue.

RALSTON OF RALSTON, IN SCOTLAND.

Crawford, in his "History of Renfrewshire," says,— "This very ancient family is descended from the Macduffs, Thaners, or Earls of Fife, (rendered illustrious by tradition as having slain Macbeth, and restored the rightful sovereign to the throne of Scotland;) one of whom, having had a son named Ralph, who obtained a grant of lands in Renfrewshire, he called them after himself, (as was common in those days,) Ralphstoune, and this, softened down in time to Ralston, became the family name." He refers to charters &c., wherein the family are named as early as 1272 and 1346.

Robertson, in his "History of Ayrshire," says—The first of them, however, I shall begin with, is,

JOHN DE RALSTOUNE, who flourished in the reign of JAMES the Second of Scotland, and who rose to the highest honours of the church and state. In 1444, he was made lord-keeper of the privy seal; in 1448, Lord Bishop of Dunkeld; and in 1449, lord high treasurer. He was sent the same year ambassador to the English court; and again in 1452, (see KEITH'S Catalogue of Scottish Bishops;) where he calls him the representative of a most ancient family of the same designation in the shire of Renfrew. He was succeeded in the Barony of Ralston by his nephew, WILLIAM DE RALSTOUNE, of that ilk, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Mure, Bart. of Caldwell.

THOMAS DE RALSTOUNE, his son, succeeded, who in 1505 obtained a renewed charter of the lands of Ralphstoune, confirming them as a Barony, with the usual privileges. He was followed by his son,

THOMAS DE RALSTONE, of that ilk, who acquired the lands of Rossholme, near Irvine, and of Dunlop Hill, near Dunlop, as instructed by charter, dated 9 July, 1527. He was s. by his brother,

HUGH DE RALSTONE, of that ilk, who m. his cousin, Janet, dau. of Adam Whiteford, of that ilk, and fell at the battle of Pinkie, 10 Sept. 1547, and was s. by his son,

HUGH DE RALSTONE, of that ilk, who acquired the lands of Woodside and Turuerland, in the parish of Beith, from Gavin, Commendator of Kilwinning in 1551, and m. Janet Hamilton, of the family of Torrence, or Torrens, by whom he had two sons,

1. GAVIN, who m. in 1575, Jean, dau. of Robert Ker, of Kersland, and d. v. p., leaving a son, WILLIAM, successor to his grandfather.

11. William, whose son, JOHN RALSTON, of Honeybog, m. Eliza Græme, and their eldest son, WILLIAM, m. Janet, dau. of Robert Ralston, of Auchengrammont, and had three sons: 1. ROBERT, (father of WILLIAM-HENRY RALSTON, of Warwickhill, who was s. by his nephew, ALEXANDER-MACDOUGAL RALSTON;) 2. Gavin, of Auchengrammont; and 3. William, a major in the army, (proprietor of Tower Hill, near Kilmaurs,) to whom his eldest surviving son, JOHN RALSTON, a capt. 25th Light dragoons, succeeded.

Hugh de Ralstone was s. by his grandson,

WILLIAM RALSTON, of Ralston. He m. Barbara, dau. of John Hamilton, of Uddeston, (afterwards Lord Belhaven,) and was father of

WILLIAM RALSTON, of Ralston, who in 1643 acquired from James Hamilton, of Ardoch, the lands of Roughbank and Crummock, and also those of Achengown, in the parish of Lochwinnoch, from Lord Abercorn. He m. Jean, dau. of Dunlop of Dunlop, (afterwards Baronets of Dunlop,) and was s. by his son,

GAVIN RALSTON, of that ilk, who m. Jean, sister of Sir William Mure, Bart. of Rowallan, (afterwards Earls of Loudon, Countess of Loudon, and Marchioness of Hastings in 1820.) His father resigned to him the estates in his lifetime on this marriage, the contract of which is dated 25 Feb. 1671, and is witnessed by Sir Henry Campbell, Bart. of Cessnock, Sir John Shaw, Bart. (now Shaw Stewart) of Greenock, Dunlop of Dunlop (Baronets), Hamilton of Wishaw, and Montgomery of Hazlewood, all connexions of the family. Gavin d. in 1629, (his widow m. John Boyle, of Kelburn, ancestor of the Earls of Glasgow,) and was s. by his son,

GAVIN RALSTON, of that ilk, who m. Anna, dau. of Porterfield of that ilk, by Annabella, dau. of Sir Archibald Stewart, Bart. of Blackhall, by whom he had a son and four daus., Ursula, m. to Robert Barr, of Trearn. Annabella, m. to James Maxwell, of Williamwood, (now Baronets of Williamwood;) Jean, m. to John Shedden, of Roughwood; and Catherine, m. to J. Fullarton, of Dairy. His son succeeded, viz.,

WILLIAM RALSTON, of that ilk, who m. Marion, co-heiress of David Ewing, of Calder.

GAVIN RALSTON, of that ilk, s. his father, and m. Annabella, dau. of James Pollock, of Arthurlee, by Jean, dau. of Sir Robert Pollock, Bart. of Pollock, and by whom there are two daus., Annabella, m. to Hugh Crawford, Esq.; and Jane, m. to Col. Stoddart, late of the guards.

RAM OF RAMSFORT.

RAM, STEPHEN, Esq. of Ramsfort, co. Wexford, b. 15 April, 1818; m. in 1839, Mary-Christian, dau. of James-Archbold Casamajor, Esq. of Manchester-square, London, and has a son and heir, STEPHEN-JAMES, b. 10 April, 1840.

Mr. Ram s. to the estates, on the death of his father, in 1832.

Lineage.

In the kingdom of Hanover, on the east side of the Seue, is the principality of Grubenhagen, which signifies a wood or forest, belonging to the family of the Gubes. In this country are mines of silver, copper, and lead, belonging to the Hanoverian crown; the chief of these mines is Ramelsberg, which is a high mountain near the town of Goslar, in Hanover, twenty-five miles south of Wolfenbützel; the mines were discovered by one Ram, a hunter, whose horse's foot struck up a piece of ore, in the year 972, from which circumstance Ramelsberg had its name; and the Emperor OTHO got a company of Franks from Frankenberg, who understood minerals, to refine the metal. A branch of this family were residents of the city of Utrecht in the fifteenth century; and probably, at a much earlier period: one of them, Francois, Baron de Ram van Hagedoorn, colonel of a regiment of infantry, d. there 19 Nov. 1701, leaving two daughters. The place whence the English branch of this family derive latterly, is Halston, or Halstow, in Kent, as recorded in the Prerogative Office in Canterbury, under the family of Love, the twelfth year of King HENRY VI. (1433), and the 18th July, 1434; and also in the Visitation of Kent, by Robert Cook, Clarendieux in 1574, in the same family of Love; and in the Visitation of the same county, taken by Sir William Segar, in 1618, Margaret Ram, of Kent, is mentioned as a co-heiress. This family is also mentioned in the Visitations of Hampshire and Oxfordshire, under the family of Love.

SIR JOHN RAM, Knt. of Halston, or Halstow, in Kent, lived anno 1442, and was father of

THOMAS RAM, living in 1472, who was father of WILLIAM RAM, anno 1503, who had issue,

1. FRANCIS, of whom presently.
11. Thomas, mayor of London in 1577, who had two sons, John, of London, Hamburg merchant, and William, of London, merchant.
1. Margaret, m. to John Love, of Halston, or Halstow, in Kent, by whom she had two daus., co-heiresses.

The eldest son,

DR. FRANCIS RAM, of Windsor, b. in 1537, had by Helen, his wife, who d. 11 July, 1613, aged 58, a large family. Dr. Ram resided subsequently at Hornchurch, in Essex, where there is a handsome monument erected to his wife and children. He d. 19 March, 1617, aged 80. One of his sons,

THOMAS RAM, b. at Windsor in 1564, was educated first at Eton, and afterwards at King's College, Cambridge, where having taken the degree of master of arts, he went to Ireland as chaplain to Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, in 1599. The next year he was made Dean, first of Cork, and then of Ferns, by Charles Blount, Baron Mountjoy, lord-lieut. of Ireland, afterwards Earl of Devonshire, whose chaplain he then was. He was consecrated Lord Bishop of Ferns in Christ Church, Dublin, 2 May, 1605, (the see of Dublin then being vacant,) by Henry Usher, Archbishop of Armagh, assisted by Miles Cashell, and William Kildare. On the plantation of Wexford in 1615, by JAMES I., he got a grant of lands, which descended to his children. He d. of apoplexy, in Dublin, 24 Nov. 1634, at seventy years of age, during the session of a convocation there, whence his body was conveyed to Newborough, alias Gorey, in the co. Wexford, and deposited in a fair marble tomb, in a chapel built by himself, on which is the following inscription:

"Thomæ Rami, Fernensis et Leighlin
Episcopi Sepulchrum
Nomi si Ramæi tumulo condantur in isto,
Totum ubi condiderim, fas mihi parte frui."

He also built the bishop's house, at Old Leighlin, and other structures in such places where he received any profits, for the benefit of his successors, and recovered the manor of Fethard to the see of Ferns. He was s. by his son,

ABEL RAM, Esq. of Ramsfort, who m. Eleanor, dau. of George Andrew, Lord Bishop of Ferns and Leighlin, and was s. by his son,

SIR ABEL RAM, Knt., sheriff of Dublin in 1673, lord mayor of Dublin in 1684, (his will was proved there in 1692,) who left a son and heir,

ANDREW RAM, Esq. of Ramsfort, M.P. for Gorey in 1692, who left (his will was proved in Dublin, in 1699) issue,

1. ABEL, his heir.

11. Humphries, M.P. for Gorey in 1715, m. 3 May, 1738, the only dau. of William Hawkins, Esq., serjeant-at-law, and by her (who d. in London, 16 Oct. 1769, aged 56) had five sons and four daus., one of which sons being STEPHEN, who obtained Ramsfort by bequest from his uncle, Abel.

111. Andrew, M.P. for co. Wexford in 1755, who succeeded his brother, Abel, in the Clonatin part of the estates. He m. 14 Dec. 1752, Mary, dau. of John Digby Esq. of Landanstown, co. Kildare, and dying in 1793, was s. by his son,

Abel Ram, Esq. of Clonatin, near Gorey, who m. in 1775, Elizabeth, dau. of Joseph Stopford, Esq., brother of James, first Earl of Courtown, and had issue, Abel-John, his heir.

RAMSAY OF HILL LODGE.

RAMSAY, GEORGE-ANTOINE, Esq. of Hill Lodge, Enfield, co. Middlesex, late Major in the Army, b. 3 March, 1793; m. 1st, in 1817, Jane, second dau. of the late William Ramsay, Esq., Registrar of the Court of Chancery in the Island of Jamaica, and by her (who d. in 1838) had issue, CHARLOTTE-ELIZABETH-GORDON, d. unm. 18 Jan. 1844.

He m. 2ndly, in 1839, Elizabeth-Anne, only dau. of the late Richard Robinson, Esq. of Worton House, Isleworth, co. Middlesex, and has issue, GEORGIANA-HARRIET.

Major Ramsay received his commission at the early age of thirteen years and six months, in consequence of the distinguished services of his father, then Adjutant-general in the West India command. He served in the West Indies in the campaign of 1809 and 1810, under Sir George Beckwith; was at the capture of Martinique and Les Saintes, under General Maitland, in 1809; and at the storming of the heights of Matuba, in the Island of Guadaloupe, in Feb. 1810; was appointed Aide-de-camp to General Monro, Governor of Trinidad, in 1811, but rejoined his regiment, on its being ordered to the coast of America, in 1814, under Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Sherbrooke; was with the army under the Duke of Wellington in 1815; appointed, in 1816, Aide-de-camp and Private Secretary to the Governor of the Leeward Islands, which appointment he held until the governor's death, in 1819; was Deputy-assistant-adjutant-general under Lord Combermere, in Barbadoes, for twelve months; in 1827, was appointed Military Secretary to the Earl of Belmore, Governor of Jamaica, which he held until his lordship resigned, in 1833; and received the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order in 1834.

Lineage.

The surname of Ramsay carries an eagle, displayed, sahle, in a field, argent, upon account, as some say, that the family was originally from Germany. As for the antiquity of the name, Simundus de Ramsay is a witness in a charter of one Thurstain, in the charters of King William the Lion.

The principal line is that of Dalhousie, in the shire of Edinburgh, of which were the valiant Sir Alexander Ramsay, of Dalhousie, who was created a Lord of Parliament by King JAMES VI., 1618; his son, William, Lord Ramsay, was raised to the Earldom of Dalhousie by CHARLES I. in 1633, and from him descends the present Earl of Dalhousie.

Ramsay, of Balmain, carried the arms of Ramsay, with a rose in the breast of the eagle. He was descended of John Ramsay, who was created Earl of Bothwell by King JAMES III., which being forfeited, his successors retained the designation of Balmain. From this latter branch derived

GEORGE RAMSAY, of Bath, upwards of forty years registrar of the Court of Chancery in Jamaica, who m. Anne, dau. of John Clement, Esq. of Petersfield, co. Hants, and by her had an only son, GEORGE-WILLIAM RAMSAY, b. in Dec. 1761, lieutenant in the army. This gallant officer commanded the Light company of the 30th regiment during the first American war, from 1778 to 1783, and was actively engaged in the campaigns in Holland in 1793 and 1794, under the Duke of York, during which period he raised upwards of two thousand men, and formed the original regiment called "York Rangers;" was present at the siege of Maestricht, and at the attack and taking of Menin, Courtrai, and Tournay, in Flanders; at the capture of the Danish West India Islands of Santa Cruz and St. Thomas, and of the French islands of St. Lucia, Dominica, Martinique, and Guadeloupe, in 1809 and 1810, under Sir George Beckwith, for which he received a medal and elasp. Tincage.

The RASHLEIGHS of Menabilly are a younger branch of the ancient family of RASHLEIGH OF RASHLEIGH, in Devonshire. The first that came into Cornwall was

JOHN RASHLEIGH, who settled as a merchant at Fowey, about the middle of the sixteenth century. He m. Rice, dau. of William Lanyon, Esq., and dying 10 Aug. 1582, left, with six daus., one son, his successor,

JOHN RASHLEIGH, Esq., who erected the mansion at Menabilly, the beautiful seat at which the family have continued ever since to reside. He was member for Fowey in the 31st and 39th of ELIZABETH, and d. in 1624, leaving by his wife, Alice, dau. of Richard Bonythorn, Esq. of Carclew, several children, of whom the second son,

JONATHAN RASHLEIGH, Esq., (on the death of his elder brother, John, without issue), succeeded to the property. This gentleman, like his father, represented the borough of Fowey in several parliaments. He d. in 1675, having had by his second wife, Mary, dau. of John Harris, Esq. of Radford, near Plymouth, a son, (who d. before himself,) namely,

JOHN RASHLEIGH, who m. Joan, dau. of John Pollexfen, Esq. of Merthcombe, and left, with several other children, JONATHAN, successor to his grandfather.

Mr. Rashleigh was s. by his grandson,

JONATHAN RASHLEIGH, Esq. of Menabilly, who served the office of sheriff for Cornwall in the 2nd of King JAMES II. He m. Sarah, eldest dau. of Sir John Carew, Bart. of Antony, and had issue, Philip, who d. s. p. in 1736.

JONATHAN, who continued the line of the family.

Sarah, m. to Carolus Pole, brother of Sir William Pole.

Rachael, m. to the Rev. John Hawkins, D.D.

The eldest son dying without issue, the estates devolved upon the second son,

JONATHAN RASHLEIGH, Esq. of Menabilly, who represented the borough of Fowey for half a century in parliament. He m. Mary, dau. of Sir William Clayton, Bart., and had, with other issue,

PHILIP, his successor.

JONATHAN, in holy orders, rector of Silverton, in Devonshire. This gentleman m. Catherine, dau. of the Rev. William Stackhouse, D.D., of Trehane, and left, with other issue, WILLIAM RASHLEIGH, who inherited the estates of the family, at the decease of his uncle, and is its present representative.

JOHN, of Penquite, m. Catherine, dau. of William Battie, M.D., and had, with younger children, SIR JOHN-COLEMAN RASHLEIGH, Bart.

Jane, m. to Robert Duke, Esq. of Lake House, Wilts.

Mary, m. to William Stackhouse, Esq. of Trehane, and had issue.

Rachael, m. to John Gould, M.D., of Truro, and had issue.

Mr. Rashleigh was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

PHILIP RASHLEIGH, Esq. of Menabilly, M.P. for Fowey. This gentleman m. his cousin, Jane, dau. of the Rev. Carolus Pole, but had no issue. Mr. Rashleigh's collection of minerals formed the most splendid cabinet of that description in Europe. He was s. at his decease by his nephew, the present WILLIAM RASHLEIGH, Esq. of Menabilly.

Arms—Sa., a cross, or, between, in the 1st quarter, a Cornish chough, arg., beaked and legged, gu.; in the 2nd quarter, a text T; in the 3rd and 4th quarters, a crescent, all of the third.

Mr. Clerk-Rattray, who is a magistrate for Midlothian and Perthshire, and a deputy-lieutenant for the latter county, s. his father, the late James Clerk-Rattray, one of the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland, 29 Aug. 1831.

Tincage.

The surname of Rattray is derived from the barony of the same name in the co. Perth, and was assumed at a very remote era. The first of the family upon record,

ALANUS DE RATHERIFF, who lived in the reigns of WILLIAM THE LION and ALEXANDER II., was father of SIR THOMAS DE RATTRAY, who received the honour of knighthood from ALEXANDER III. By Christiau, his wife, with whom he acquired part of the lauds of Glen-caverny and Kincaldrum, in Forfarshire, he left two sons, EUSTATIUS, his heir, and John, witness to a deed in the time of ALEXANDER III. The elder,

EUSTATIUS DE RATREFF, designed "Dominus de eodem," temp. ALEXANDER III., was father of

SIR ADAM RATREFF, of Ratreff, who is styled in Prynn's Collections, "Nobilis vir dominus de Ratreff, anno 1291," and in Rymer's Fœd. Angl., when Sir Adam, with many others, was compelled to submit to King EDWARD I., it is stated, "Nobiles viri Adam de Retrefe et Willielmus de Maule fecerunt fidelitatem dicto regi, anno 1292." He testified a charter in Macfarlane's Collections, wherein he is designed, "Domini Adam de Retrefe miles," 4 Oct. 1294, and, in 1296, was again compelled to swear allegiance to EDWARD of England. Sir Adam d. before the year 1315, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER DE RATRIE, of that ilk, one of the barons of the parliament held at Ayr, in 1315, by Robert Bruce, to arrange the deed of succession to the crown. He d. s. p., and was s. by his brother,

EUSTATIUS DE RATRIE, of that ilk, who was tried for a conspiracy against ROBERT I., in Aug. 1320, but acquitted. His son and successor,

JOHN DE RATRIE, of that ilk, living in the reign of DAVID BRUCE, had, with a dau., Margaret, wife of John de Meghill, of Meghill, a son and successor,

JOHN DE RATRIE, of that ilk, who is witness in a confirmation granted by Sir William Scott, of Balweary, 10 June, 1399. He d. at the close of the reign of JAMES I., and was s. by his son,

PATRICK RATTRAY, of that ilk, living in 1456. He was father of

SIR SILVESTER RATTRAY, of that ilk, who was appointed one of the ambassadors extraordinary to treat with the court of England, for which he obtained a safe conduct, dated 12 June, 1463, and is then designed "Dominus Silvester de Ratray miles." He was a person of great influence at the Scottish court, possessed an ample inheritance, and sat in the parliament of 1481. He m. Alison Hepburn, and had a son and successor,

SIR JOHN RATTRAY, of that ilk, who was knighted by JAMES IV. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of James, second Lord Kennedy, and had three sons and one dau., viz.,

- i. John, a military officer, who m. Margaret Abercrombie, but d. in Holland before his father, without issue.
- ii. PATRICK,
- iii. SYLVESTER, } successively heirs.
- i. Grisel, m. to John Stewart, third Earl of Athol.

After the decease of Sir John, a calamitous and almost ruinous contest arose between his younger sons and their brother-in-law, the Earl of Athol. Tradition affirms that the Earl, having married Sir John's only daughter, deemed himself entitled to a portion, at least, of the Ratray estate, and being a person of great power and authority, came, with a considerable body of men, took possession of the castle of Ratray, and carried off the family writs; while Patrick Ratray, the second son, totally unable to resist so potent a nobleman, retired to the castle of Craighall, which he gallantly defended, and succeeded in bolding, together with the lands of Craighall and Kynballoch; the Athol family continuing to possess the greater part of the lands of Ratray, until they were evicted from them by an appraising, at the instance of Sir Robert Crichton, of Clunie, about the beginning of the seventeenth century. The said

PATRICK RATTRAY, dying unm., the representation of the family devolved upon his brother,

SILVESTER RATTRAY, who endeavoured to serve himself heir to his father and brothers at Perth, in which county his lands lay, but found it impossible, because (as the writ bears) the Earl of Athol and his friends are "magnæ potestatis et fortitudinis" in that town. Ratray applied, in consequence, to King JAMES V., and obtained from his majesty a commission under the great seal to have service done at Dundee. In this commission it is narrated that Patrick, his brother, had been "postpositus et impeditus" for the space of twelve years by the said earl, from getting himself served in the lands that fell to him by the death of his father and brother John; and that, "post lites magnasque expensas per dictum Patricium in præfata materia, præfatus comes misit Walterum Leslie, Johannem Stewart, alias John of Lorn, Thomas Laing, David Stewart, suos servitores, et eorum complices, et dictum Patricium in sua capella ipsius loci de Kynballoch interficere causavit: et idem Silvester informatur, quod dictus comes, et sui complices, sibi similiter facere intendunt, si sua brevitas de hujusmodi terris prosequi volet." This extraordinary commission is dated at Edinburgh, 17 Oct. 1533, to which the great seal is appended, and, in consequence, Silvester Ratray was served heir to his father, Sir John, and to his brothers, John and Patrick, in the barony of Craighall and Kynballoch, and infest therein at Dundee, in 1534. He m. Marjory, dau. of Andrew, third Lord Gray, (relict of Kennenmouth, of that ilk,) and had, with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to John Blair, of Ardblair, a son and successor,

DAVID RATTRAY, of Craighall and Kynballoch, served heir to his father, anno 1554. He m. Isabel, dau. of Alexander Ramsay, of Banff, and had two sons, GEORGE, his heir; Silvester, miuister at Auchtergevan, ancestor of RATTRAY OF DALNOON. David Ratray d. in the commencement of the reign of JAMES VI., and was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE RATTRAY, of Craighall, served heir to his father before the sheriff of Perth, 6 Aug. 1586. He m. Janet, dau. of George Drummond, of Blair, and had a son and successor,

SILVESTER RATTRAY, of Craighall, infest in all his father's lands by a charter under the great seal, dated 26 Oct. 1604. He m. Agnes, dau. of Lambie of Dunkenie, and had two sons, viz., DAVID, his heir; and Silvester, bred to the church, progenitors of the RATTRAYS OF PERSIE. The elder son,

DAVID RATTRAY, of Craighall, served heir to his father 22 June, 1613, d. soon after, and by Agnes Hay, his wife, left a son,

PATRICK RATTRAY, of Craighall, who, upon his own resignation, got a charter under the great seal from CHARLES I., dated 28 Feb. 1648, of the lauds of Craighall, Kynballoch, &c., containing a Novodamus, and erecting them into a free barony, to be called Craighall Ratray, in all time coming. He m. Anne Drummond, dau. of John, second Lord Maderty, and had, with a dau., m. to Ogilvie of Balfour, a son and successor,

JAMES RATTRAY, of Craighall, who had a charter under the great seal, dated 30 April, 1672, of the lands of Cbapleoun, &c., containing a Novodamus. He was afterwards served heir in general before the sheriff of Perth, to Sir John Ratray, of that ilk, who was "tritus patris Jacobi Ratray, de Craighall, latoris præsentium;" and, at the same time, heir in special to Patrick, his father. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir George Hay, of Meginch, and had a son,

DR. THOMAS RATTRAY, of Craighall, a man of singular piety and learning, who was served heir to his father before the sheriff of Perth, 13 July, 1692. He m. Margaret Galloway, dau. of Thomas, Lord Dunkeld, and had two sons and three daus., viz.,

- i. JAMES, of Craighall, who m. Margery, dau. of John Graham, Esq. of Balgowan, and had issue.
- ii. John, an eminent surgeon in Edinburgh, who m. 1st, Christian, dau. of George Main, Esq. of that city; and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of George Lockhart, Esq. of Carnwath. By both wives he had issue.
- i. MARGARET, m. to Dr. Clerk, sprung from a scion of Pennycuik; of this lady hereafter.
- ii. Jean, m. 1st, to Sir James Elphinstone, Bart., and 2ndly, to Col. George Muir, a brother of Caldwell.
- iii. Grisel, m. to William Macewen, Esq., writer to the signet.

Dr. Ratray d. in 1743. His eldest dau., (by whose descendant Craighall Ratray is now possessed,)

MARGARET RATTRAY, m. in 1720, to the celebrated Dr. John Clerk, president of the Royal College of Physicians, at Edinburgh, and for more than thirty years the first medical practitioner in Scotland. He purchased the lands of Listonshiels and Spittal, in Midlothian, and got a charter under the great seal. By Margaret, his wife, Dr. Clerk had five sons and one dau., viz.,

- i. Thomas Clerk, of Listonshiels.
- ii. Robert Clerk, a colonel in the army.
- iii. DAVID CLERK, of whom presently.
- iv. Hugh Clerk, in the East India Company's service, d. unm.
- v. Duncan Clerk, a Lisbon merchant.
- i. Margaret Clerk, d. unm.

Dr. Clerk's third son,

DAVID CLERK, M.D., of Edinburgh, physician to the Royal Infirmary, m. Helen, dau. of James Duff, Esq. of Craigston, co. Aberdeen, and dying in 1768, left two sons, JAMES, and Robert, b. in Feb. 1765, who d. at Cadiz. The elder, JAMES CLERK, Esq., b. 3 Dec. 1763, became of "Craig-hall Rattray," and assumed the surname of RATTRAY. This gentleman distinguished himself at the Scottish bar, and was constituted a baron of the Exchequer. He m. 3 Jan. 1791, Jane, only dau. of Admiral Duff, of Fetteresso, and dying 29 Aug. 1831, left (with one dau., Jane, m. to William-M. RATTRAY OF BARFORD HOUSE.

RATTRAY, JAMES, Esq. of Barford House, co. Warwick, Capt. R.N., b. in 1790; m. 2 June, 1828, Emily, dau. of John Vivian, Esq. of Claverton, co. Somerset, and of Portland-place, London, and has issue, GRANTHAM-YORKE-RUNYGULLION, b. 29 Oct. 1834.

Rosalie-Sydney.

Capt. Rattray is a magistrate for Warwickshire.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient Scottish family of the name. The grandfather of the present representative,

JAMES RATTRAY, Esq. of Runnygullion, Drimmie, and Corb, co. Perth, son and heir of Sir Rullion Rattray, of Runnygullion, was devotedly attached to the cause of the Royal house of Stuart, and remained amongst the last of the faithful adherents of Charles-Edward on the field of Culloden. After all hope was gone, Mr. Rattray, with his brother-in-law, Sir James Kinloch of Kinloch, fled to Drimmie, but was captured, and taken to London. At the trial he was advised to use the plea of having been forced to join the rebel army; but it made little impression on the judges, and the jury were about to retire, when a person rushed into court, and earnestly exclaimed, "My lords, I beg to be heard in behalf of James Rattray, the prisoner at the bar." The judges, after some hesitation, at length assented to receive this unexpected evidence, when the unknown individual declared upon oath, that being on one occasion in the prosecution of his avocation, (viz., travelling through the country to bring up a coarse kind of flax, called heards,) he was benighted on the road, and, after some time, arrived at Mr. Rattray's house at Drimmie, where he was kindly and hospitably entertained with the servants of the family; and Mr. Rattray's kindness to him had made such an impression on him as to enable him to recollect Mr. Rattray's countenance so perfectly, that he had no hesitation in swearing to the identity of the prisoner at the bar, and declared, that on a subsequent occasion, he saw Mr. Rattray in the custody of the rebel army, and handcuffed, from his refusal to accompany, or join them in any way. This corroboration of the plea of being forced into the service of the unfortunate Charles-Edward had the desired effect, and the jury returned their verdict of "Not Guilty." The mysterious person who thus came forward at so critical a period for Mr. Rattray immediately disappeared without speaking to any of the family, nor did he or any of Mr. Rattray's friends see him afterwards. By Jane, his wife, dau. of Sir James Kinloch, Bart. of Kinloch, Mr. Rattray was father of

DAVID RATTRAY, M.D., who m. in 1760, Dora, dau. of John Arnold, Esq., and by her had issue,

Lineage.

The Ravensons or Rawsons were originally settled at Fryston, near Ferrybridge. In the Visitation of the co. of York, 1585, there is a pedigree given of eight generations, commencing with Robert Rawson, of Fryston, who lived temp. RICHARD II., and who m. Agnes, dau. of Thomas Mares, a branch of which family, as is presumed from the similarity of arms in the Visitation of 1666, settled at Bradford, in Yorkshire.

WILLIAM RAWSON, Esq. of Bradford, whose will bears date 18 March, 1549, had five sons, viz.,

1. WILLIAM, who m. (as stated in the Visitation of Yorkshire, 1666) Agnes, dau. and heiress of William Gascoigne, Esq., and thus acquired the manor and estate of Shipley. He had several children, of whom, Laurence, the third son, m. Jane, another dau. of William Hawksworth, Esq. of Hawksworth, and had issue. Fourth in descent from Laurence, was William Rawson, Esq., who m. Judith Prescott, and dying without issue, in 1745, bequeathed the Shipley estates to his wife. That lady m. 2ndly, Dr. Jackson, of Stamford, and had two sons, Cyril, Dean of Christchurch, and William, Bishop of Oxford, whose executors sold the manor and estate of Shipley to John-Wilmer Field, Esq. of Heaton Hall, near Bradford, Yorkshire.

RAWSTORNE OF PENWORTHAM,

FORMERLY OF NEWHALL, CO. LANCASTER.

RAWSTORNE, LAURENCE, Esq. of Penwortham Hall, co. Lancaster, b. in 1774, m. in 1838, Miss Edward, of Liverpool, and has a son and heir and other issue. He is a Magistrate and Deputy-Lieutenant, and Lieut.-Col. of the 1st Royal Lancashire Militia.

Lineage.

This ancient and worshipful house, which has for centuries been settled in Lancashire, derives its name from Rostherne, or Routhesthorne, in Cheshire. It was originally seated at Lum, but in the 37th HENRY VIII., Laurence Rawstorne obtained a grant from his majesty of the manor of Hockton, co. Lancaster, and soon afterwards the family became seated at Newhall. One branch settled in Essex, not later than ELIZABETH'S reign; and from it the Papillons derived much wealth, though they inherit not its blood.

LAURENCE ROSTHORNE, of Newhall, Esq., stated in the entry made in the Lancashire Visitation of 1664, to be descended, by a younger son, from Rosthorne, of Lum, co. Lancaster, flourished temp. ELIZABETH. He m. and had issue,

- II. LAURENCE, } Heirs male in succession to Newhall.

EDWARD ROSTHORNE, Esq. of Newhall, elder son and heir, m. 1st, Helen, dau. of Ratcliffe Assheton, Esq. of Cuerdale, co. Lancaster, by whom he had several children, who all d. young. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of John Greenhalgh, of Braudiesholme, co. Lancaster, and dying soon after his father, (the Visitation says "circa 1645,") had by his second wife, only three daus., his co-heirs at law,

I. Catharine, wife of William Lever, of Kersal, co. Lanc.

II. Mary.

III. Jane, m. to James Murray, a Scotchman.

LAURENCE ROSTHORNE, or RAWSTORNE, Esq., their uncle, then succeeded to Newhall, and was high-sheriff of Lancashire 5 CHARLES I. He married three times. His first wife was Elizabeth, dau. of George Murray, rector of Bury, co. Lancaster; and by her he had a dau.,

Rachel, who was aged 18 in 1664.

He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Richard Bolde, Esq. of Bolde, co. Lancaster, and widow of John Atherton, Esq. of Atherton; and she enjoying Atherton, co. Lancaster, as either her jointure or dower, Mr. Rawstorne moved thither, and was resident there when he recorded his pedigree at the Lancashire Visitation, Sept. 1664. By her he had a son,

I. Peter, aged 2, 23 Sept. 1664, who predeceased his father, s. p.

He m. 3rdly, Margery, dau. of John Fleetwood, Esq. of Penwortham, co. Lancaster, (by Anne, his wife, dau. of William Farington, of Werden,) and by her had

REAY OF GILL HOUSE.

REAY, JOHN, Esq. of Gill House, co. Cumberland, b. 18 July, 1795; m. 19 Aug. 1820, Jane-Elizabeth, dau. of George Charles, Esq. of Angerton, in the same shire, and has issue,

I. JOHN-WILLIAM.

II. George.

III. Charles.

IV. Joseph.

V. Thomas-Osmotherley.

VI. Arthur-William.

VII. Edward-Robert.

I. Julia.

II. Jaue-Elizabeth.

III. Mary-Susan.

IV. Helen-Anne.

Mr. Reay inherits the estate of Gill from his grandfather, John Reay, Esq., who d. 19 May, 1824, and is owner also of the ancient estate of Crosby, derived through his grandmother, Julian, wife of the said John Reay, Esq., and sister and co-heir of the Rev. Thomas Jackson, of Crosby, Vicar of Waresley, Hunts, and Rector of Gransden, Cambridge, descended from the very ancient family of Osmotherley, formerly of Langrigg Hall, and related to the Laws, the Barwis's, and the Christians of Unerigg Hall.

Lineage.

The founder of this family, one of the most ancient in the co. Cumberland, is recorded to have had a grant of the lands of Gill, then very extensive, from WILLIAM the Lion, King of Scotland, in the year 1110, as a reward for his fidelity and services to his monarch, and for his extraordinary fleetness of foot in pursuing the deer. The conditions of the grant were, that he should pay a peppercorn annually, and that the name of William, after his Royal patron, should, if possible, be preserved in the family, which was duly observed till the close of the last century, when JOHN REAY succeeded to the property, whose third son, JOHN REAY, of London, filled the office of high-sheriff for the city of London, and co. Middlesex, in the year 1814.

Of this family were also, WILLIAM REAY, Bishop of Glasgow, who, at his own expense, built a noble bridge over the river Clyde, at Glasgow, in the beginning of the 16th century; and JOHN REAY, or RAY, the celebrated naturalist, who, in his rambles over Alston Moor, and other romantic parts of his paternal county, laid in that vast stock of natural history which reflects so much honour upon his name.

It is an extraordinary circumstance, that from the first possession of this property, the eldest son has always resided upon the estate till this time.

* ELIAS VANDER HORST was maternally descended from a noble French family, named "Foissin," which fled, on the revocation of the edict of Nantes, from their native land to South Carolina, as an asylum, leaving very considerable property, with a chateau in the country, and the mansion in Paris, afterwards well known as Meurice's Hotel, in the Rue St. Honoré, to their Catholic relatives, who enjoyed it to the French revolution, when all property underwent a change. The last direct descendant, Madame de Sangeant, when at a very advanced age, sought in vain (un-

Mr. Rees, who s. his father 14 Dec. 1802, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Carmarthen, and was formerly lieutenant-col. of the local militia. He served nearly six years in the navy as midshipman, and was discharged at the peace of Amiens, when he married, and did not re-enter the service. He was present at the capture of the Dutch fleet in the Helder, and participated in the battles of Camperdown and Copenhagen, serving, during the latter engagement, in the Ardent, the second ship that led into action.

Lineage.

URIEN RHEGED, Prince of Rheged, in Wales, by birth a Cambro-Briton, was fifth in descent from Coel Codevog, King of the Britons. He built the castle of Carrey Cermin, in Carmarthenshire, although the erection of that edifice is ascribed by some to no earlier a date than the time of HENRY I. The style of the architecture, and the authority of the Golden Grove MSS., seem, however, to establish its ancient British construction. Urien, who bore for arms, arg., a chev., sa., between three ravens, ppr., surmounted by a crown, m. the dau. of Gurlois, Duke of Cornwall, and was direct ancestor of

SIR ELIDIR DDU, Knight of the Sepulchre, temp. RICHARD I., who m. the dau. of Sysyllt, Lord of Cantreselyf, and had a son,

PHILIP AP SIR ELIDIR DDU, who m. Gwladys, dan. of David Vras, (descended from Cadivor Vawr, Lord of Blaencych, who lived temp. WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR,) and was father of fortunately for the family) for that Protestant branch which had emigrated to North America, and of which Elias Vander Horst was then the representative. He did not, however, hear of the inquiry, until too late to profit by it, though a more distant relative, the late Lord Lyttleton, did to a very considerable amount. Paternally, Elias Vander Horst was the immediate lineal descendant of Baron Vander Horst, of Holland, (whose portrait by Sir Peter Lely is now in the possession of Elias's daughter, Miss Vander Horst, of Royal York Crescent, Clifton.) The Vander Horsts accompanied the Prince of Orange when he was called to the English throne, and the then chief of the family received from the hand of that monarch a medal, in commemoration of the event, together with an autograph letter from his majesty. Subsequently they emigrated to America, and acquired considerable property there. Elias Vander Horst was born in that part of the world, and commanded a company in the British army at the age of nineteen; but coming to England for change of climate, the war with America broke out, which cut off, for the time, the resources from his transatlantic property. He was offered a pension as a refugee, by his connexion, George Lord Lyttleton, then one of the Treasury lords, but declined it, preferring to embark the capital he had brought with him in trade, (by entering into partnership with some merchants at Bristol,) for the maintenance of his family, whilst his pecuniary resources were locked up by the war, to becoming a burden on his country. His only son, Thomas-Cooper Vander Horst, has succeeded in recovering most of the property thus left. In America, the adopted country of the Vander Horsts, one nephew of Elias Vander Horst filled the office of Governor of South Carolina; another, that of Secretary of State; and a third, that of General.

REVELEY OF BRYN-Y-GWIN.

REVELEY, HUGH, Esq. of Bryn-y-gwin, co. Merioneth, b. 15 July, 1772, m. 11 Jan. 1803, Jane, only dau. and heiress of Robert Hartley Owen, Esq. of Bryn-y-gwin, and has had issue,

HUGH-JOHN, b. 15 March, 1812.
 Jane-Frances, d. 16 March, 1830.

This gentleman was secretary to Sir John Mitford, while Speaker of the House of Commons, and afterwards, when that learned person was constituted Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and created Baron Redesdale, filled the office of purse-bearer to his lordship. Mr. Reveley is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the co. Merioneth, and was high-sheriff in 1811.

Lineage.

The Reveleys, who trace their descent to the reign of EDWARD II., were originally seated in the manor-house of Reveley, on the northern bank of the river Breamish, at the south-eastern foot of Cheviot, and subsequently at Ancroft, in Northumberland. Their possessions, it would appear, were at one time considerable. In the reign of JAMES I., GEORGE REVELEY, of Ancroft, purchased, from the last Lord Eure, the manors of Newton, Underwood, and Throphill, which Sir Simon Eure had acquired, temp. HENRY III., from Lord Bertram, of Mitford. During the civil wars, WILLIAM REVELEY, of Ancroft, (who had married a niece of the Earl of Stafford,) with a body of troops raised by himself, fought for King CHARLES at the fatal field of Marston Moor, and was slain, having attained the rank of major, at the decisive battle of Naseby.

The father of this stout cavalier lies interred in the chancel of Mitford church, where a large mural monument, decorated with arms, bears the following inscription:—

"Here lyeth interred, with, in, this, mold, a, generous, and, Virtuous, Wight, whose, due, deserte, cannot, be, tolde, from, slender, skill, unto, his, right: He, was, descended, from, a, race, of, worshipfull, Antiquities, loved, he, was, in, his, life, space, of, high, eke, of, low, degree, rest, Bartram, in, this, house, of, clay, Reveley, unto, the, latter, day;"

Underneath is his effigy, cut in relief on the stone cover of his tomb, his hands lifted up as in the act of prayer: on the edge, in capital letters, appear these lines:—

"Bartram to us so dutiful a son, if more were fit it should for thee be done,
 who deceased the 7th October, anno domini 1622."

On the marriage of

WILLIAM REVELEY, Esq. of Newton Underwood, (who was born in 1662,) with Margery, dau. and heiress of Robert Willey, Esq. of Newby Wiske, the seat of the family was removed from Northumberland to Yorkshire, and the Hall House of Newby Wiske erected. By the heiress of Willey, Mr. Reveley had issue, WILLEY, who s. to the estates of Newton Underwood and Newby Wiske. He m. in 1717, Rachel, dau. of Henry Neale, Esq. of London, and was father of Elizabeth, who m. John Mitford, Esq. of Exbury, and was great-grandmother of Henry-Reveley Mitford, Esq. of Exbury, who inherits the estates of the Reveley family.

Tineage.

AMBROSE RHODES, (son, by Blanche Hamlyn, his wife, of John Rhodes, who, on strong presumptive evidence, is supposed to have been identical with John Rhodes, of Horbury, the disinherited son of Sir John Rhodes, Knt. of Barlborough) was educated at the University of Wit-

* Captain Rhodes, in right of his mother, is representative of the family of Sleaf, of Sussex, now extinct in name, and through his maternal grandmother has become, by the death of John-Burridge Cholwich, Esq. of Faringdon House, and Cholwich Town, the lineal representative of that ancient Saxon family. He is descended, both paternally and maternally, from the Earls of Devon and the Plantagenets.

temberg, and took the degree of doctor of medicine. He m., according to the date on an old piece of plate, a wedding present, in 1638. His wife was, traditionally, one of the daughters of Ambrosius Rhodius, his godfather. He practised at Christiana, in Norway, and was professor of natural philosophy at the college there; but, according to Moreri, (Supplement,) interfering imprudently in political affairs, he was confined in the fortress of Wardehuis, in 1660, and d. a year or two after, in imprisonment. He wrote "De Astrorum Inflexu," in 1642, "De Transmutatione Animarum Pythagoræa," and sundry medical treatises. His son and successor,

AMBROSE RHODES, b. in 1640, having received a medical education at Christiana, came, after the death of his father, under such unfortunate circumstances, to England, and took possession of the small patrimonial property at Modbury, in Devon, to which he made some additions, and practised as physician in that town until the time of his death, in 1689. He m. 1st, in 1663, Elizabeth Baker, who d. in the following year, and 2ndly, in 1667, Juliana, dau. of Thomas Prestwood, Esq. of Whitford and Bateford, by whom he had, with other issue,

The eldest son,

AMBROSE RHODES, followed his father's profession, and purchased sundry estates in Little Modbury, together with the great tithes, all which have descended to the present family. He m. in 1703, Elizabeth, dau. of George Prestwood, Esq. of Whitford and Bateford, mentioned as follows, in Prince's Worthies of Devon: "George Prestwood, Esq., who was sheriff of the county in 1692, whose ancestor, several generations back, transplanted himself from Worcestershire, where the present gentleman possesses still a fair paternal estate." Risdon, also, speaking of Bateford, says, "William Gibbs, of Fenton, sold the same to Thomas Prestwood, of Exon, (great-grandfather of George, the above,) who deriveth his descent from Worcestershire, and is allied to ancient houses in this county." Mr. Rhodes had issue,

AMBROSE, his heir.

George, m. in 1740, Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. Archdeacon Baker, vicar of Modbury, and sister of Sir George Baker, Bart., physician to GEORGE III., and dying in 1772, aged 69, left issue,

George, b. in 1743, of Exeter College, Oxford, vicar, of Colyton Shute, and Monckton, in Devon, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. John Sleigh, Archdeacon of Cornwall, and had issue,

GEORGE-AMBROSE, of whom presently, as successor to his cousin.

Catherine.

Mr. Ricardo, who is a magistrate for the county, and served as high-sheriff in 1830, s. his father 11 Sept. 1823.

Lineage.

This family was founded by the celebrated writer on political economy,

DAVID RICARDO, a gentleman of Jewish origin, who was b. 12 April, 1772, and educated in Holland, in order that he might pursue the profession of his father, a Dutch merchant and stock-broker; but incurring, by an early marriage with a Quaker lady, of the name of Wilkinson, the displeasure of his friends, he was thrown entirely upon his own resources—the friends of his wife being equally irritated—and obliged to depend solely upon his own industry. Becoming a member of the Stock Exchange, he gradually accumulated an immense fortune, and obtained distinction as a writer upon finance. In 1810, his opinions upon the depreciation of the currency were first promulgated through the columns of the Morning Chronicle newspaper, but he subsequently embodied his ideas in a distinct work, and he had the satisfaction to find them adopted and confirmed in the report of the Bullion Committee of the House of Commons. He subsequently published an "Essay on Rent," in which he advocated the principles of Malthus, and entered into an examination of the affairs of the Bank of England. Eventually he proposed an economical currency, and addressed a letter to Mr. Perceval, who was then Chancellor of the Exchequer, upon the subject, but without effect. His most important production was his treatise upon "Political Economy and Taxation," a work said to rank with the celebrated "Wealth of Nations" of Adam Smith. Mr. Ricardo obtained a seat in parliament, in 1819, for the borough of Portarlington, and the same liberality and good sense marked his parliamentary career that had previously characterized his writings. He died of inflammation of the brain, arising from an abscess in the ear, 11 Sept. 1823, leaving three sons, viz.,

HENRY-THOMAS.

* Mr. Richardson, upon the death of his cousin, Thomas Boynton, became the only surviving descendant of his grandfather, Witham Boynton, whose wife, Mary, was eldest dau. of William Addison, and one of the co-heiresses of her brother, William Addison, the younger, who d. s. p.

Lineage.

This family was settled in Norfolk, in the sixteenth century. SIR THOMAS RICHARDSON, Knt., son of DR. THOMAS RICHARDSON, b. at Hardwick, and bapt. 3 July, 1569, was recorder of Bury, under-steward of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich, and afterwards recorder of that city, and reader of Lincoln's-Inn in 1612. In the Michaelmas Term the year following, he was made serjeant-at-law, subsequently chancellor to the queen, and king's serjeant. He became afterwards Speaker of the House of Commons, and on 28 Nov. 1626, was made Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas by King CHARLES I., and 24 Oct. 1631, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench. He d. 4 Feb. 1634, in his sixty-sixth year, and was buried on the south side of the quire of Westminster Abbey, where his monument remains. This is the Judge Richardson who first issued out an order against the ancient custom of wakes, and ordered every minister to read it in his church, which the Bishop of Bath and Wells opposing, complaint was made against it in the council chamber, where Richardson was so severely reprimanded, that he came out in a rage, saying, "He had been almost choked with a pair of lawn sleeves." He m. for his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Beaumont, of Stoughton, in Leicestershire, and widow of Sir John Ashburnham, of Ashburnham, Knt. After her marriage with the lord chief justice, she was created Baroness Cramond, in Scotland, for life, hy letters patent* bearing date 28 Feb. 1628, with remainder to Sir Thomas Richardson, son and heir of the lord chief justice, hy his first wife. Lady Cramond was buried in Westminster Ahhey, having had no issue hy the lord chief justice. It is to be remarked, that this is the only instance occurring in Scotland of a female being raised to the peerage; that the Barons Cramond were allowed to vote in the Scottish parliament only when personally present, and that the title was not limited to the heirs of the haroness, the remainder heing to the heirs male of her second husband, Sir Thomas Richardson, whose descendants by his first wife enjoyed that dignity after her death, although she left children by a former husband.

In Bloomfield's History of Norfolk, i. 686, is a copious pedigree of the family of Richardson, Barous Cramond. The title became dormant on the death of William, fifth Baron, who d. single, 28 July, 1735, aged 22, when this branch of the family expired. His sister and heir m. in Aug. 1735, John Jermy, Esq. of Bayfield, Norfolk.

The immediate ancestor of the present Mr. Richardson, of Aber-Hirnant, was RICHARDSON OF KNOCKSHINNOCK, co. Dumfries, Scotland, on whom the representation of the family devolved, it is supposed, on the extinction of the line of Cramond. He m. Nicholas-Theodora Dalzel, an heiress of the family of that name, so well known in the annals of North Britain, and who d. before her husband in Dec. 1729, leaving, with other sons and daus.,

I. John, who had issue, James, John, Samuel, Robert, David, and three other sons, and four daus., d. s. p.; also, William, a capt. in the E. I. Co.'s service, who d. in India, and was interred 9 June, 1776, at Fort St. George, Madras. By the attested copy of his will, approved in the Mayor's Court, at Madras, dated Fort Marlborough, 7 June, 1775, (not witnessed,) he bequeathed his property, subject to legacies, including the paternal estate of Knockshinnock, to his two surviving sisters, Nicholas M'Kerlenary, and Anne Anderson; the property was said to have been entailed in the male line; his power of doing so has always been questioned, though never disputed by the heirs-at-law, the descendants of James, the second son of Knockshinnock.

II. JAMES, of whom presently.

III. William.

Tincage.

This family is of Norman origin, and the name of its patriareh appears on the Roll of Battel Abbey. Subsequently, it became established in Scotland, where one of its members, GERVASE, was a great favourite of DAVID I., who lived in the year 1139. By reference to the first volume of "Pipe Rolls," edited by Mr. Stapleton, it will be seen at p. exix, that Geoffrey Ridel rendered account for himself and for Geoffrey de St. Denis of 40s. for two eopes. It was by this tenure that the fief of Blossville, in the Pays de Caux was held, which gave to the possessors in later times the title of Vieomte hereditaire, Chatelain et Seigneur Haut justicier de Blossville. Although the early descent are very obscure, (for this entry was after the time of the Conqueror, when the family had come over and settled in England or Scotland,) it proves that the Ridels originally existed in Normandy, the date of one of these entries of GEOFFREY RIDEL for the Vicomté of his inheritance being on the roll of the year 1180. When they migrated from Scotland does not appear; but they were for some years situated at Norham and Twysell-on-the-Tweed, held the custody of the castle at the former place, and in 1214, or shortly previously, WILLIAM DE RIDELL held the office of sheriff of the county, and was employed on several important occasions during the reign of EDWARD II. They were afterwards resident in the town of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and there served various municipal offices.

SIR WILLIAM DE RIDELL filled the office of sheriff for the co. of Northumberland, and was appointed by patent, dated 5 June, 1314, from Bishop Kellaw, Constable of Norham Castle. He m. Emma, and had two sons, namely,

I. WILLIAM, who held the manor of Tilmouth. He d. 4 EDWARD III., leaving three daus., his co-heirs, Isabella, b. in 1299, m. to Alan Claverne; Constantia, b. in 1303, m. to Sir John Kyngeston, Knt.; and Joan, b. in 1307, m. to Gerard Widdrington.

II. HUGH.

The younger,

HUGH DE RIDEL, living in the 4th EDWARD III., 1329, was father of

THOMAS DE RIDEL, who made his will in 1358, and left a son,

THOMAS RIDELL, father of

THOMAS RIDELL, who m. one of the daus. and co-heirs of Harbotel, of Northumberland, and left a son and heir,

JOHN RIDELL, who was sheriff of Newcastle-upon-Tyne in 1478. He married, and had issue, THOMAS, his heir; Peter; and William, sheriff of Newcastle in 1500. The eldest son,

THOMAS RIDELL, was thrice mayor of Newcastle in the years 1510, 1521, and 1526. He m. Eleanor, dau. of Ralph Claxton, Esq., and sister of William Claxton, of Wynyard, and by her (who m. for her second husband, Edward Swinburne) had a son and successor,

PETER RIDELL, living a merchant at Newcastle, in 1549, who m. Dorothy, eldest dan. of John Brandling, mayor of the same borough in 1509, and sister of Sir Ralph Brandling, Knt., and had issue, three sons and two daus. The youngest son,

WILLIAM RIDELL, of Newcastle, merchant adventurer, sheriff of that borough in 1575, and mayor in 1582, 1590, and 1595. This worshipful citizen married twice: by his first wife, Anne, dau. and heir of William Lawson, he had an only son, THOMAS, (Sir.) his heir; by the second, Barbara, dan. of Alderman Bertram Anderson, he had, Sir Peter, M.P., seven other sons, and a dan. The only son of the first marriage,

SIR THOMAS RIDELL, Knt. of Gateshead, Durham, sheriff of Newcastle in 1601, mayor in 1604 and 1616, and M.P. for the borough in 1620 and 1628, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Conyers, Knt. of Soekburn, and had (with five daus., I. Anne, m. to Sir John Clavering, Knt. of Callaly; II. Elizabeth, d. in 1606; III. Mary, m. to Sir Francis Radcliffe, Bart. of Dilston; IV. Eleanor, b. in 1610; and V. Jane, m. to John Forcer, Esq. of Harber House, co. Durham) six sons, of whom the eldest, SIR WILLIAM RIDELL, was father of William, whose male issue became extinct. The fourth son of Sir Thomas was GEORGE, judge-advocate in the army of the Marquess of Newcastle during the siege of Hull, in 1645. The second son,

SIR THOMAS RIDELL, Knt. of Fenham, was recorder and M.P. for Newcastle. During the troubles of the ensuing reign, Sir Thomas espoused, with extraordinary zeal, the royal cause. He commanded a regiment of foot in the service of the king, was governor of Tynemouth Castle, and so distinguished, that a reward of one thousand pounds was offered for his apprehension. He effected his escape, however, in a small fishing-smack from Berwick, and d. at Antwerp, in 1652, "a banished man," his lordship of Tunstall having been previously sold to satisfy his composition. He m. in 1629, Barbara, dau. of Sir Alexander Davison, Knt. of Blakiston, and widow of Ralph Calverley, by whom he had issue two sons and six daus. The eldest son,

THOMAS RIDDELL, Esq. of Fenham, co. Northumberland, sold that estate in the year 1695, under an act of parliament, to John Orde, Esq. of Newcastle, and purchasing Swinburne, settled there. He m. Mary, eldest dau. of Edward Grey, Esq. of Bichfield, in Northumberland, and had (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to William Shaftoe, Esq. of Bavington) several sons, of whom the eldest survivor,

EDWARD RIDDELL, Esq. of Swinburn Castle, b. in 1660, m. Dorothy, dau. of Robert Dalton, Esq. of Thurnham, in Lancashire, and dying in 1731, was s. by his only son,

THOMAS RIDDELL, Esq. of Swinburne Castle. This gentleman, who was involved in the rising of 1715, saved himself by escaping from Lancaster Castle, but not being excepted from the general pardon, he was allowed to return to his estate, and reside there unmolested. He m. in 1726, Mary-Margaret, dau. of William Widdrington, Esq. of Cheesburn Grange, and sister and co-heir of Ralph Widdrington, Esq., by whom he had issue,

THOMAS, his successor.

RALPH, who, inheriting the estates of his uncle, Ralph Widdrington, Esq., became "of Cheesburn Grange." (See RIDDELL OF CHEESEBURN GRANGE.)

Edward, d. unm. in 1766.

Dorothy, d. unm.

Barbara, m. to Maximilian Nelson, Esq. of Fayrehurst, Lancashire.

Mary, m. to — Maxwell, Esq. of Kirkconnel, co. Dumfries. He was s. at his decease by his elder son,

THOMAS RIDDELL, Esq. of Swinburne Castle, who had been engaged with his father in the insurrection of 1715, and was carried up to London, where being, with several others, arraigned for high treason in 1716, he pleaded guilty, but experienced the royal mercy. He m. Elizabeth-Margaret, only daughter and heiress of Edward-Horsley Widdrington, Esq. of Felton, in Northumberland, grandson of the Hon. Edward Widdrington, by Dorothy, his wife, eldest dau. and eventual heir of Sir Thomas Horsley, Knt. of Horsley, and had issue,

i. THOMAS, heir to Swinburne.

ii. Edward-Horsley-Widdrington, who inherited the estates of the Widdringtons, through his mother, and became "of Felton and Horsley." He m. 20 June, 1792, Isabella, fifth dau. of William Salvin, Esq. of Croxdale Hall, co. Durham, but d. s. p. 26 Jan. in the next year, at Stella Hall, Durham. This gentleman, who is an acting magistrate for Lancashire and the North Riding of the co. York, s. his father in 1829.

Lineage.

The ancient family of RAWLINSON of Greenhead having merged in that of RIGGE, we shall commence this pedigree by deducing its line.

JOHN RAWLINSON, (of the same family as the last Abbot of Furness Abbey,) living in the time of HEN. VII., was seised of a capital messuage, called Greenhead, in the parish of Colton, Lancashire. His son,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, m. in 1509, the dau. of Robert Beuson, of Skellet, and was father of

JOHN RAWLINSON, who m. the dau. of Miles Sawtre, of Low Graythwaite, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, the founder of the parish church of Colton, on a spot of ground belonging to the family. He d. in 1603, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. and eventually heiress of Walter Curwen, of Mireside, a younger son of the Curwens of Workington Hall, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

William, joint owner, with his elder brother, of Buck Hall, co. Oxford. He was father of Sir William Rawlinson, Knt., constituted one of the lords commissioners of the Great Seal, 2 March, 1688.

Mary, m. to John Burrough, Esq., an ancestor of the Burroughs of Chetwynd Park, Shropshire.

The elder son,

ROBERT RAWLINSON, Esq., inherited, besides the Greenhead property, the estates of Mireside, and Cark Hall, in right of his mother, Margaret Curwen, and from this period Cark Hall became the family residence. He m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Wilson, Esq. of Haversham Hall, Westmoreland, ancestor of the Wilsons of Dallam Tower, and had one son and two daus., viz.,

CURWEN, his heir.

Anne, m. 1st, to Christopher Crackenthorp, Esq. of Newhiggin, and 2ndly, to Dr. George Bynard, a physician.

CATHARINE, of whom presently, as inheritor of a moiety of the Rawlinson estates, upon the demise of Christopher Rawlinson.

Robert Rawlinson, who was a justice of the peace, and quorum for the counties palatine of Chester and Lancaster, suffered much for his loyalty during the civil wars in the reign of CHARLES I., but at the Restoration was appointed vice-chancellor of the city and county of Chester. He d. in 1665,* and was s. by his son,

CURWEN RAWLINSON, Esq. of Cark Hall, M.P. for Lancaster, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Mouk, Bishop of Hereford, younger brother of General George Monk, first Duke of Albemarle,† by whom he left at his decease, in 1689, a son,

CHRISTOPHER RAWLINSON, Esq. of Cark Hall, christened after his cousin and godfather, the second Duke of Albemarle. To this gentleman the last Duke of Albemarle left the whole of his great estate, in the event of his surviving the Duchess, who, being taken ill of her last sickness, Mr. Rawlinson was called to London, but was then seized by the small pox, and died one month previous to her Grace. The Albemarle estates were thus lost to the family. Christopher Rawlinson was a gentleman commoner of Queen's College, Oxford, and published the Saxon Version of Boethius de Consolatione Philosophiae, Oxon, 1689. A monument is erected to his memory in the north transept of the abbey church of St. Albans, and three engravings of him are still extant, two by Nutting, and one by Smith. He d. issueless, whereupon the estates passed to his aunts, ANNE CRACKENTHORPE, and

CATHARINE RAWLINSON, who m. Roger Moore, Esq. of Middleton, and had (with two elder daus., Anne and Mary, who d. issueless)

CATHERINE MOORE, co-heiress of her mother, who m. CLEMENT RIGGE, Esq. of Hawkeshead, and had two sons, William Rigge, whose only dau. d. without issue, in 1762.

ROGER RIGGE.

The second son,

ROGER RIGGE, Esq., m. Mary, dau. of John Fletcher, Esq. of Wood Broughton, by Mary, his wife, dau. of William Knipe, Esq. of Broughton Hall, in Lancashire, and had issue, FLETCHER, his heir.

Anne, m. to John Heys, M.D., and had,

Anne Heys, m. to the Rev. Thomas Swettenham, rector of Swettenham, and had issue.

Lucy Heys, m. 28 May, 1809, to Edward, third Earl of Winterton.

Jane, (devisee of her aunt, Anne Moore, above,) m. Edward Moore, Esq. of Stockwell, and was mother of Stephen Roger Moore, Esq. (See MOORE OF STOCKWELL.)

Mr. Rigge d. in 1746, and was s. by his son,

FLETCHER RIGGE, Esq., barrister-at-law, in the commission of the peace for Lancashire, and for the North Riding of Yorkshire. He m. Susanna, dau. of Joseph Saunders, Esq. of Ealing, Middlesex, and had issue, GRAY, his heir.

Mary, m. to Francis Bedingfield, Esq. of Ditchingham, Norfolk.

Mr. Rigge d. in April, 1829, and was s. by his only son, the present GRAY RIGGE, Esq. of Wood Broughton House.

* There is a beautiful monument to his memory in Cartmel church, a good engraving of which is to be found in Sandford's "Genealogical History of the Kings and Queens of England."

† The family of Le Moynes, or Monks, was of great antiquity in the county of Devon, and in that shire they had, from a remote period, possessed the manor of Potheridge.

The Monks were lineally descended from Arthur Plantagenet, Viscount L'Isle, son of King EDWARD IV., thus:

ARTHUR PLANTAGENET m. Elizabeth, sister and co-heir of John Grey, Viscount L'Isle, and widow of Edmund Dudley, by whom he left, with other issue,

FRANCES PLANTAGENET, who espoused for her second husband, Thomas Monk, Esq. of Potheridge, and was mother of

ANTHONY MONK, who m. Mary, dau. of Richard Arscott, Esq. of Dunsland, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS MONK, Knt., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir George Smith, Knt., and had three sons, viz.,

Thomas.

George, the celebrated general under CROMWELL, who, for his exertions in restoring the monarchy, was created by King CHARLES II., 7 July, 1670, Baron Monk of Potheridge, Earl of Torrington, and Duke of Albemarle.

Nicholas, Bishop of Hereford, who m. Susanna, dau. of Thomas Rayne, Esq., and had issue, Mary, m. to Arthur Fairwell.

Crest—A drake, ppr., in its beak an escallop, arg.

Motto—Festina lente.

Seat—Wood Broughton House, in the parish of Cartmel. Before the time of the present proprietor, the family residence was Cark Hall.

ROBARTES OF LANHYDROCK.

AGAR-ROBARTES, THOMAS-JAMES, Esq. of Lanhydrock, in Cornwall, b. 18 March, 1808; m. in 1839, Juliana, dau. of the late Right Hon. Reginald-Pole Carew, of East Antony, co. Cornwall, and has a son, THOMAS-CHARLES, b. 1 Jan. 1844. This gentleman, whose patronymic is AGAR, assumed the additional surname and arms of ROBARTES, as representative of the old and eminent family of ROBARTES, Earls of Radnor.

Lineage.

RICHARD ROBARTES was resident at Truro, in Cornwall, and enjoyed a considerable fortune in the time of HENRY VIII. He m. Anne, dau. of—Jeffery, of St. Breage, and had, with five daus., two sons, viz., JOHN, his heir, and Richard, of Truro, whose son, SIR JOSIAS ROBARTES, m. Barbara, dau. of Edward Noye, Esq. of Camanton, and was s. by his son, SIR FRANCIS ROBARTES, Knt., who died seised of the manor of Bodmin, leaving a son, HUGH ROBARTES, with whom this branch expired, while the estates passed to the elder. The elder son,

JOHN ROBARTES, Esq., who inherited a very large estate, m. Philippa, dau. of John Gavrigan, Esq. of Gavrigan, in Cornwall, and had an only son, ROBERT, his heir. Mr. Robartes d. at Truro, in 1614, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD ROBARTES, Esq., who had served the office of sheriff for Cornwall in the lifetime of his father. He was knighted by King JAMES I., at Whitehall, in 1616, and created a baronet in 1621. In 1625, through the influence of the favourite Buckingham, (to whom it is recorded that he paid ten thousand pounds,*) Sir Richard was advanced to the peerage as BARON ROBARTES of Truro. He m. Frances, dau. and co-heir of John Hender, Esq. of Botreaux Castle, in Cornwall, and had (with two daus., Mary, m. to William Rous, Esq. of Halton, in the same county; and Jane, the wife of Charles, Lord Lambert) a son and successor at his decease in 1634,

JOHN ROBARTES, second baron, b. in 1606. This nobleman, who was educated at Exeter College, Oxford, having entered as a commoner in 1625, appears, at the commencement of the great rebellion, to have espoused in some measure the Royal cause, but he became soon after a strenuous upholder of the parliament. He accepted a command under the Earl of Essex, and assisted at the battle of Edge Hill. To his counsels is generally attributed the resolution of the parliament, in 1644, to send forces into Cornwall, and his lordship headed a brigade in the expedition. He shared in the subsequent discomfiture of the Earl of Essex at Fowey, and joined that officer's flight by sea to Plymouth, of which important place Lord Robartes was made governor, and the same year constituted lord-lieutenant of Devonshire; but he was not suffered long to retain those trusts, being deprived of all his employments very soon afterwards. In 1645, however, he had a vote of parliament for £2000, in satisfaction of part of his arrears, and the Lords selected him for the government of the Scilly Isles, but the Commons appointed Colonel Rous. His interest with the predominant party being now visibly on the decline, he withdrew from their councils, and lived in retirement at Lanhydrock during the rule of the Cromwells. Promoting afterwards the restoration of the monarchy, he was favourably received by King CHARLES, by whom he was called to the privy council, appointed lord privy seal, and afterwards constituted (anno 1669) lord-lieutenant of Ireland. He was eventually (1679) advanced to the dignities of Viscount Bodmin, and EARL OF RADNOR. His lordship m. 1st, the Lady Lucy Rich, dau. of Robert, Earl of Warwick, and had (with other children, for which see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage),

ROBERT, Viscount Bodmin, a gentleman of distinguished talents, who d. about the year 1681, in his embassy to the court of Denmark, leaving by Sarah, dau. of John Bodville, Esq. of Bodville Castle, in Carnarvonshire, CHARLES-BODVILE, successor to his grandfather.

RUSSEL, one of the tellers of the Exchequer, who m. Lady Mary Booth, dau. of Henry, Earl of Warrington, and had issue,

HENRY, who became third Earl of Radnor.

MARY, m. to Thomas Hunt,* Esq. of Mollington Hall, in the co. Chester, and had two sons, viz.,

THOMAS HUNT, Esq. of Mollington Hall, who m. Mary, dau. of Peter Bold, Esq. of Bold Hall, and left a dau.,

ANNA-MARIA HUNT, of whom hereafter, as eventual inheritor of the Radnor estates.

GEORGE HUNT, Esq., who s. to the estates, at the decease of Henry, third EARL OF RADNOR.

The earl m. 2ndly, Isabella, dau. of Sir John Smith, Knt. of Kent, and had four other sons and four daus., of whom Francis, the eldest, left a son, JOHN, who became fourth Earl of Radnor; for the other, refer likewise to BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.

He d. in 1685, and was s. by his grandson,

CHARLES-BODVILE ROBARTES, second Earl of Radnor. This nobleman was called to the privy council by King WILLIAM III., and appointed in the same reign lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum of Cornwall, lord warden of the Stannaries, and high-steward of the Duchy. In the time of GEORGE I., he was made treasurer of the chamber, constable of Caernarvon Castle, and sworn of the privy council. His lordship m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir John Cutler, Knt. of the city of London, with whom he acquired the mansion of Whimpole, in Cambridgeshire, which he sold to Lord Hardwicke. Dying without issue in 1723, he was s. by his nephew,

HENRY ROBARTES, third Earl of Radnor, who d. unm. at Paris, in 1741, when the honours devolved upon his cousin, JOHN ROBARTES, as fourth earl, with whom they became extinct in 1764, while the estates passed to (the son of his sister, Mrs. Mary Hunt) his nephew,

GEORGE HUNT, Esq. of Lanhydrock, in Cornwall, who d. s. p., and was s. by his niece,

ANNA-MARIA HUNT, the present owner of Lanhydrock, who m. 15 Nov. 1804, the Hon. CHARLES-BAGENAL AGAR, youngest son of John, first Viscount Clifden, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage), and by him, who d. 16 June, 1811, had, with two other sons, who both d. young, a son and heir, the present THOMAS-JAMES AGAR-ROBARTES, Esq. of Lanhydrock.

ROBERTS OF BEWDLEY AND PACKWOOD.

ROBERTS, WILSON-AYLESBURY, Esq. of Bewdley, co. Worcester, and Packwood, co. Warwick, b. 23 June, 1771. Mr. Roberts represented the borough of Bewdley in five successive parliaments. He served as high-sheriff of Worcestershire in 1837, is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for that county, and a magistrate also for Warwickshire.

* THOMAS HUNT, of Shrewsbury, (son of Richard Hunt, bailiff of that borough in 1613, 1622, and 1631,) was high-sheriff of the co. Salop, anno 1656, commander of the garrison at Wem, after its surrender to Col. Mytton, and eventually colonel in the parliamentary army. He purchased, after the Restoration, the estate of Boreatton, and d. at Shrewsbury in 1669. Baxter calls him "a plain-hearted, honest, godly man, entirely beloved and trusted by the soldiers for his honesty." Henry confirms this character, and styles Colonel Hunt, "an Israelite indeed, in whom there was no guile." From the colonel's eldest son, the Hunts of Boreatton, represented by the present Rowland Hunt, Esq., derive, and from his younger sprang

THOMAS HUNT, Esq. of Mollington Hall, who m., as stated above, MARY ROBARTES.

* One of the charges brought against the Duke of Buckingham in parliament, anno 1626, was, "that, knowing him (Sir Richard Robartes) to be rich, he forced him to take that title of honour; and that, in consideration thereof, he paid ten thousand pounds to the duke's use."

Lineage.

HENRY ROBERTS, the great-grandfather of the present proprietor, settled in Droitwich, Worcestershire, about the year 1705, and was one of those who first established the great salt works in that place. He was of an old Cornish family, and related, as first cousin, to Francis Roberts, Esq., who then sat in parliament for the borough of Bodmin. He m. Mary Whitaker, and had four sons and one dau., viz., Thomas, Henry, George, RICHARD, and Sarah. The youngest son,

RICHARD ROBERTS, Esq., m. Dorothy, sister and co-heir of Wilson Aylesbury, Esq. of Packwood, co. Warwick, (lineally descended from the ancient family of the Aylesburys, who represented the county of Warwick in parliament, temp. EDWARD III.,) and had one son, WILSON-AYLESBURY ROBERTS, Esq., who m. in 1763, Betty-Caroline Crane, niece and heiress of Thomas Cheeke, Esq. of Bewdley, (in whose right the Bewdley property is inherited,) and had issue, two sons, Thomas-Aylesbury, who d. unm. in 1803; and the present WILSON-AYLESBURY ROBERTS, Esq. of Bewdley, and Packwood; and one dau., Caroline-Aylesbury, who d. unm. in 1829.

Arms—Arg., a plain cross, az., on a chev., per pale, ermine and erminois, three mullets, pierced, sa.

Crest—A lion, rampant, with a lozenge in its paw.

Seats—Bewdley, co. Worcester, and Packwood, co. Warwick.

ROBERTSON OF STROWAN.

ROBERTSON, GEORGE-DUNCAN, of Strowan, co. Perth, chief of the clan Donnochie, b. 26 July, 1816, formerly an officer in the 42nd Royal Highlanders.

Lineage.

The early descent of this ancient house is traced by one authority, Mr. Skene, the learned historian of the Scottish Highlanders, to a different source to that generally acknowledged as the origin of the clan. Under this line, we will give Mr. Skene's deduction of the family, and under Robertson of Lude, the descent from the Lords of the Isles.

The Robertsons of Strowan are unquestionably one of the oldest and most eminent families in Scotland, being the sole remaining branch of that royal house, which occupied the throne of that kingdom during the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries, and from which they can distinctly trace their descent. It has in general been held, that the Robertsons are a branch of the great clan of the Macdonalds; "but," says Mr. Skene, "although there may be a remote connexion between the two clans, it is now undoubted that the Robertsons are descended from the ancient Earls of Atholl, which house sprung from Duncan, King of Scotland, eldest son of MALCOLM III., surnamed Kenmore." The immediate ancestor of the Robertsons, according to the same writer, was,

CONAN, second son of Henry, last Earl of Atholl, of this family. He received from his father, temp. ALEXANDER II., the lands of Glenerochy, now Strowan, and was s. by his son,

EWEN FIZ CONAN, of Glenerochy. He m. Maria, one of the daus. and co-heiresses of Conval, lord of Tullibardyne, in Stratherne, by whom he obtained a large accession of territory. He had several sons, from whom are descended the families of Skene, of Skene, and others; and was s. by his eldest son,

ANGUS, who obtained from ROBERT I. a charter of several lands in Perthshire. He was s. by his son,

ANDREW, designed "De Atholia." His son,

DUNCAN DE ATHOLIA, obtained various charters to his different possessions, in all of which he is styled "Duncanus filius Andreoe de Atholia, and from him the clan takes its name of Clandonnochie," or children of Duncan. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE ATHOLIA, who had by his first wife, one of the daus. and co-heiresses of Sir John Stirling, of Glenesk, a dau., Jean, m. to Alexander Menzies, of Fothergill. By his second wife he had four sons,

THOMAS.
 Duncan, who carried on the line of this family.
 Patrick, ancestor of the Robertsons of Lude.
 Gibbone.

The eldest son,

THOMAS, had an only dau., Matilda. He obtained two charters from the crown, settling part of his property on his dau., and entailing the rest, including Strowan, upon his heirs male. He was consequently s. by his brother,

DUNCAN, mentioned in the Rotuli Scotie under the name of Duncanus de Atholia, dominus de Ranagb. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT, one of the most noted chiefs of his day. He arrested the murderers of JAMES I., and for this good service received a crown charter, erecting his whole lands into a free barony, dated in 1451, and also an honourable augmentation to his arms. The circumstances are thus related by Skene, in his "Highlanders of Scotland:"—"Upon the murder of JAMES I., by the Earl of Atholl, and his accomplice, Graham, Robert was fortunate enough to arrest Graham, together with the Master of Atholl, after the commission of the bloody deed; but any advantage which might have been gained by this act was thrown away by the reckless chief, who desired nothing more than to have lands which remained to his family erected into a barony, which was granted to him, along with the empty honour of being entitled to carry a man in chains upon his escutcheon, together with the motto of 'Virtutis gloria merces.' The historian of the abbots of Dunkeld relates a curious anecdote connected with the death of this chief of the clan Donnachie. It seems that Robert had some dispute with Robert Forrester, of Torwood, regarding the lands of Little Dunkeld, which the laird of Strowan claimed, but which had been fened by the Bishop of Dunkeld, to Torwood. Robert Reoch had consequently ravaged their lands, but, upon one occasion, on his way to Perth, he was met near Auchtergaven, by Torwood, and a conflict immediately took place between the parties, in which Robert was mortally wounded in the head. But the hardy chief, heedless of the consequences, and having hound up his head with a white cloth, is said to have ridden in that state to Perth, and there obtained from the king the new grant of his lands of Strowan, as a reward for the capture of the Master of Atholl; and on his return to have expired, in consequence of the wound he had received." He m. the Lady Margaret Stewart, by whom he had three sons,

ALEXANDER, his heir.
 Robert, of Dalcabon, ancestor of SIR ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, who assumed the surname of COLYEAR, and was created a Baronet in 1677. His son and successor, SIR DAVID COLYEAR, Bart., a military officer of reputation, was elevated to the Scottish Peerage as EARL OF PORTMORE, a dignity which remained with his descendants until the demise, issueless, of the late Earl of Portmore.
 Patrick.

He d. temp. JAMES II., and was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, or son of Robert, which, from this date, became the designation of the family. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Patrick, Lord Glammis, by whom he had,

DUNCAN, who predeceased his father.

ROBERT, who m. Isabell, dau. of John, Earl of Atholl, and d. v. p., leaving a son, WILLIAM, successor to his grandfather.

Andrew, ancestor of the ROBERTSONS OF LADYKIRE, Edradyne, &c.

James, ancestor of the Robertsons of Kindrochit, Achlicks, &c.

Mary, m. to Andrew Moray, of Ogilvie and Abercainry, and had issue.

He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of John, Earl of Atholl, by whom he had,

Alexander, ancestor of the Robertsons of Faskally.

Margaret, m. to George, seventh Earl of Errol, and had issue.

He d. at an advanced age, about 1506 or 1507, and was s. by his grandson,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, of Strowan. He was killed in a feud with the Earl of Atholl, who seized a great part of his possessions, and the family were never afterwards able to recover them. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT ROBERTSON, of Strowan, who being an infant when his father was killed, was, in consequence of his long minority, unable to recover that portion of his property which had been wrested from his father. By his wife, Marion, dau. and heiress of John M'lan, of Ardnarmurchan, he had two sons,

WILLIAM, his successor.

DONALD, who carried on the line of this family.

The elder,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, of Strowan, obtained a charter of the Barony of Strowan, dated 10 Nov. 1546, and m. a dau. of Menzies, of Menzies, but dying without issue, he was s. by his brother,

DONALD ROBERTSON, of Strowan, who m. Janet, dau. of Niel Stewart, of Foss, by whom he had one son,

ROBERT ROBERTSON, of Strowan, who got a charter of the lands of Rannach, Kinloch, &c., dated 14 Jan. 1600. He m. Agnes, dau. of Macdonald of Keppoch, and had, with a dau., Mary, m. to M'Intosh of Strone, four sons,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. Donald, called the tutor of Strowan.

III. Duncan Mor, of Drumachine, who carried on the line. He m. Dorothy, dau. of Neil Stewart, of Foss, and had four sons,

1. JOHN, his heir, of Drumachine, who m. in 1677, Cecilia, eldest dau. of Robert Stewart, of Fincastle, and was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, of Drumachine, who m. in 1703, Margaret, eldest dau. of Patrick Robertson, of Fascalzie, and had two sons and a dau., viz.,

DUNCAN, of whom hereafter as inheritor of Strowan.

Alexander, lieut.-col. in the service of the States-General.

Emilia, m. to Capt. Donald Robertson.

2. Donald, whose son, Robert Bane, was father (with a dau., Margaret, m. to John Robertson, Esq.) of two sons, Donald, Capt. in the French service, who m. Emilia, dau. of Alexander Robertson, of Drumachine.

DUNCAN, who was father of ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, who s. to Strowan, and of whom hereafter.

3. Duncan. 4. Patrick.

IV. James.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, of Strowan, m. Margaret, dau. of George Graeme, of Inchbrakie, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, of Strowan, who being a minor during the wars of Montrose, the clan was led out by his uncle, Donald, the tutor of Strowan, who took a very distinguished part in these wars. Alexander m. 1st, Catharine, dau. of Sir James Drummond, of Machany, and by her had a son, Robert, who predeceased him, and a dau., Anne, m. to Hugh, second son of Sir James Macdonald, of Slate. He m. 2ndly, Mariou, dau. of General Baillie, of Torwoodhead, and by her had two sons, ALEXANDER, his heir, and Duncan, who d. in 1718, leaving an only dau., Margaret, who d. unm. Alexander d. in 1687, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, of Strowan, celebrated as a poet, and for the part he took in the insurrections of 1690, 1715, and 1745. He d. s. p. in April, 1745, and the representation devolved on his kinsman,

DUNCAN ROBERTSON, of Drumachine, (elder son of Alexander, of Drumachine, as before) who thereupon obtained possession of Strowan: by not having been included by name in the last act of indemnity, he was dispossessed, and the estate annexed to the crown, in 1752. He m. Mey, dau. of William, Lord Nairn, and had, with a dau., Margaret, m. to Lawrence Olyphant, of Gask, and a younger son, Walter-Philip-Colyear, who d. s. p., an elder son and heir,

COL. ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, to whom the estate was restored in 1784, but who d. unm. in 1822, when the succession devolved upon Alexander Robertson, (son of Duncan, son of Robert Bane, as before.) This gentleman, on the 6th Dec. 1823, was served heir male of Tailzie, and provision in general, to Col. Robertson, and expedite a crown charter of resignation, dated 2nd, and sealed 20 June, 1824, under which he was infeft in the barony of Strowan, 23 June, 1824. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of William Best, Esq. of Mansfield, co. II. Ellen-Rose.

Mr. Robertson m. 2ndly, 16 Sept. 1840, Charlotte-Maria-Bearda, dau. of T.-B. Batard, Esq. of Sydenham, Kent, and by her, who d. 10 Feb. 1842, has one dau., Charlotte-Caroline-Bearda. Mr. Robertson possesses, in Canada and the United States, an extensive territory, derived (under the will of William Park, of Petite Cote, dated 18 Nov. 1810, proved 23 Dec. 1811, and recorded in the Registry for Essex, W. D. Upper Canada, 13 Jan. 1812) from his first marriage, and held under a singular old original grant, signed by the hieroglyphics of eighteen Indian chiefs, 15 March, 1796, and certified officially 12 May, in the following year.

Lineage.

The ROBERTSONS of INSHES are the next branch of the great house of STROWAN, unquestionably one of the oldest and most distinguished in Scotland, and descend from, and are connected with, many of the first Scottish families—the Sinclairs of Rattar, Earls of Caithness; the Mackenzies, Lords Kintail, and Earls of Seaforth; the Balfours, Lords Burleigh; the Murrays of Philiphaugh; the Douglas's of Cavers; the Pattersons of Inshes; the Elphinstones, Lords Balmerino; the Bruces of Clackmannan and Annandale.

DAVID I., King of Scotland, had two sons, MALCOLM CAEN MOHR, King of Scotland, ancestor of the sovereigns of that kingdom, and DONALD BANE, who usurped the throne to the prejudice of his nephews. MADACH, son of King DONALD BANE, was first EARL of ATHOL, A.D. 1115. He m. a dau. of Haco, Earl of Orkney, and was father of MALCOLM, second Earl of Athol, whose son, HENRY, third Earl of Athol, left two daus., his co-heirs, ISABELLA, of whom presently, and FERELITH, m. to SIR DAVID DE HASTINGS, who was Earl of Athol in her right, and had an only dau., Ada, m. to John de Strathbogie. The elder dau. and co-heir, ISABELLA, who succeeded as COUNTESS of ATHOL, m. Thomas de Gallovidia, and had a son, PATRICK, Earl of Athol, murdered in 1242, through the animosity, it was supposed, of a knight named Bisset, whom the Earl had overthrown in a tournament. Isabella m. 2ndly, Alan Durward, High Justiciar of Scotland, "who," says Tytler, "was the most accomplished knight and best military leader in Scotland," and by him she had a dau., LORA, Countess of Athol, who m. MALCOLM DE INSULIS, jure uxoris, Earl of Athol, and had two sons, JOHN, EARL of ATHOL, who d. s. p., and ANDREW de ATHOLIA, who m. the co-heiress of Ewen de Glenroelie and Finnoch, son of CONAN, and was father of DUNCAN de ATHOLIA, from whom derived

DUNCAN, third Baron of Strowan, who m. a dau. of the family of Graham, and had two sons: the elder, ROBERT, fourth Baron of Strowan, a noted chieftain of his time, was ancestor of the STROWAN line, (see ROBERTSON of STROWAN;) and the second,

DUNCAN, who settled, temp. King JAMES I., at Inverness, was ancestor of the ROBERTSONS of INSHES. His son ROBERT was father of JOHN, who assumed the surname of ROBERTSON, which his descendants bear to this day. This John, who granted a charter to Thomas Mushet burgess of Inverness, dated 20 April, 1448, in which he is styled "filius et hæres Roberti filii et heredis Duncani, &c., d. towards the end of the reign of JAMES III., leaving two sons, LAURENCE, his heir; and WILLIAM, who continued the line, as hereafter. The elder son, LAURENCE ROBERTSON, who obtained by purchase from the monastery of Inverness, a charter of property in that town, dated A.D. 1517, left a son, JOHN ROBERTSON, who was served heir to his father, temp. King JAMES V., but dying s. p. in 1536, he was s. by his uncle,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, of Inverness, who left a son and successor,

JOHN ROBERTSON, burgess of Inverness, called "Stalwarth John," from his great strength and courage, who acquired lands in the neighbourhood, and was standard-bearer to Lord Lovat, at Lochloch, in 1544. He m. 1st, a dau. of Hugh Rose, of Kilravock, by whom he had two sons, WILLIAM, his heir; and Laurence. He m. 2ndly, a dau. of Fearu, of Pitculen, and by her (with a dau., m. to a son of the Lord Lovat) had three sons, William, the younger, progenitor of the ROBERTSONS of KINDEACE; James, from whom the ROBERTSONS of SHIP-LAND derive; and John.

The eldest son and heir by his first wife,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, the elder, m. Margaret, eldest dau. and co-heiress* of William Paterson, of Inshes, by Agnes, his wife, dau. of Rose, of Kilravock, and by her had, with a younger son, James, who went to Poland, and d. s. p., an elder son and heir,

JOHN ROBERTSON, of Inshes, who m. Janet Sinclair, of the family of Rattar, to whose mother, Mary Purves, Lady of Watson, who d. in 1660, a monument was erected in the family burial-place of the ROBERTSONS of INSHES,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, of Inshes, who was bred to the law, and studied at Leyden with the celebrated Sir George Mackenzie. Prior to 1715, he was employed as commissioner to regulate matters previously to the rising, and rendered most essential service to government. A letter from him to the Duke of Hamilton, led, it is stated, to the terms of Union. To this William Robertson, the Lord Lovat, by deed dated from Dalcross Castle, 15 and 28 Aug. 1663, and registered 13 Feb. 1740, granted the town and lands of Easter Leyes, with the heritable right of the teinds of the same lying within the sheriffdom of Inverness and parish of Croy; and by tack, dated 18 July, 1672, the Earl of Panmure granted to William Robertson the teind of his lands in the parish of Inverness, for 570 years. Subsequently the Earl of Loudoun, by disposition, dated Aug. 1672, and registered in the books of the Exchequer in Edinburgh, on 23 Aug. following, confirms to William Robertson, of Inshes, the whole annuities payable out of the teinds of the estate of Inshes, lying in the parishes of Inverness and Croy, then and in all times coming. He m. 1st, in 1668, Margaret, dau. of Hugh Rose, of Kilravock, and by her, who d. in the following year, had a dau., who d. in infancy. He m. 2ndly, Sabilla, dau. of Sir Thomas Mackenzie, of Pluscarty,† brother of George, Earl of Seaforth, and second son of Kenneth, Lord Kintail, by Isabel, his second wife, dau. of Sir Gilbert Ogilvy, of Pourie, whose descendant is the present Earl of Airlie. By her Inshes had three sons and three daus., viz., I. JOHN, his heir; II. Thomas, of Inverness, Receiver-General of the Customs, who m. a dau. of Provost Coutts, of Montrose, father of Mr. Coutts, founder of the great banking-house of Coutts and Co., and had, with other issue, a son, William, a merchant in Holland, who m. and had, with two daus., a son, Peter, lieutenant-col. in the army; III. Hugh, a merchant in Inverness, who d. in 1703; he m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Aitchison, of Lydsarf, and had several children; I. Jean, m. to Duncan-More Robertson, brother of Alexander Robertson, of Strowan, and had by him an only child, wife of Macdonald of Glentilt, co. Perth; II. Janet, m. to Rose, of Holm; III. Marjory, m. to Capt. John Pearson, of Montrose. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN ROBERTSON, of Inshes, m. in 1703, Barbara, dau. of Col. John Balfour, of Ferny, (second son of John, third Lord Burleigh,) by his wife, Barbara, dau. of Arthur Ross, the last Archbishop of St. Andrew's‡ and sister of Anne, wife of John, fourth Lord Balmerino, father of Arthur, the ill-fated Lord Balmerino of 1745, and had (with two daus., Barbara, m. to Duncan Forbes, merchant in Inverness; and Sibilla) a son and heir,

WILLIAM ROBERTSON, of Inshes, who m. 1st, Jean,§ dau. of Col. William Murray, third son of Sir John Murray, of Philiphaugh, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Sir Archibald Douglas, of Cavers, heritable sheriff of Roxburghshire, and by her had several children, of whom only two sons and two daus. survived, viz., ARTHUR, his heir; Thomas, (Captain in the army,) who served with great distinction in the East Indies, along with Major Munro, &c.; Barbara, m. to Lieut. William Fraser; and Johanna. Mr. Robertson m. a second time, and had another dau., Margaret. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

ARTHUR ROBERTSON, Esq. of Inshes, who m. Katherine,

Mr. Robertson is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the co. Perth, and also a magistrate for Devonshire, for which county he served as high-sheriff in 1836.

Lineage.

The Auchleeks branch of the clan Donnachie, settled at Auchleeks for more than four hundred years, derives, in a direct line, from JAMES ROBERTSON, fourth son of the fifth Baron of Strowan. Its representative, at the commencement of the last century,

DUNCAN ROBERTSON, of Auchleeks, son of Charles Robertson, also of Auchleeks, by his wife, a dau. of Robertson of Foscally, m. Janet, dau. of Stewart of Killibassie, in Strathlay, and had, with other issue,

ROBERT, of Auchleeks, whose son, Robert, was father of DUNCAN ROBERTSON, Esq. of Auchleeks, who sold that estate in 1821, to his cousin, the present ROBERT ROBERTSON, Esq.

AMELIA.

This lady,

AMELIA ROBERTSON, m. in 1763, JOHN ROBERTSON, Esq., eldest son of John, who was brother of CHARLES ROBERTSON, Esq. of Auchleeks, and had, with other issue, a son, the present ROBERT ROBERTSON, Esq. of Auchleeks, who has greatly added to the property by the purchase of the lands of Trinafour, Kinaldy, Tulloch, Boconie, and Blairfettie. He has built a beautiful mansion at Auchleeks, and purchased the estate of Membland, co. Devon.

Arms, Crest, and Motto—Same as ROBERTSON of Strowan.

Seats—Auchleeks House, Blair Atholl, and Membland Hall, Devon.

ROBERTSON OF LADYKIRK.

ROBERTSON, DAVID, Esq. of Ladykirk, co. Berwick, b. 2 April, 1797; m. 10 Sept. 1834, Marianne-Sarah, eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Haggerston, Bart. of Ellingham, co. Northumberland, and co-heir of her mother, Margaret, only child and heir of William Robertson, Esq. of Ladykirk, and has had issue,

I. JOHN-MAJORIBANKS, b. 28 June, 1835.

II. William, b. in 1838, d. in 1842.

I. Sarah-Robertson.

II. Alicia-Margaret.

Mr. Robertson, who is youngest son of the late Sir John Majoribanks, Bart., so created in 1814, and uncle of the present Sir John Majoribanks, Bart. of Lees, co. Berwick, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage), assumed his present surname on succeeding to the estates of his wife's maternal grandfather, the representative of a branch of the Robertsons of Strowan, (see p. 1124.) He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. of the county.

Arms—Gu., three wolves' heads, erased, arg., armed and langued, az., with a wild man in chains lying under the escutcheon of arms.

Crest—A dexter hand, holding an imperial crown, ppr.

Motto—Virtutis gloria merces.

ROBERTSON OF LUDE.

ROBERTSON, JAMES-ALEXANDER, Esq., capt. in the 82nd regt., present representative of the ancient family of Robertson of Lude, b. in 1804, and s. his father, the late Gen. Robertson, of Lude, in Jan. 1820.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient family, of contemporary antiquity with the ancestor of the other principal one of the clan, who was the first designed of Strowan.

It has always been the constant and unvarying tradition of the Highlanders of Scotland, that the Robertsons descend from the McDonalds, Lords of the Isles; recent investigations prove they must derive from the ancient and original Earls of Atholl. The account here given rectifies some errors stated in DOUGLAS'S Peerage, and shews that both views of the descent are correct. HENRY, third Earl of Atholl, d. about 1220, and was s. by two co-heiresses,

I. ISABELLA, of whom presently.

II. FERELITH, m. Sir David de Hastings, who was Earl of Atholl in her right; but the title was disputed, and though Isabella, her eldest sister, must then have been dead, yet her dau., Lora, though only half-blood to Patrick, Earl of Atholl, was certainly preferable. Ferelith had an only dau., ADA, m. to John de Strathholgie. They, in the year 1253, and not 1283, as stated in DOUGLAS'S Peerage, confirmed the grant made by Ferelith to the monastery of Cupar, for the soul of her husband, Sir David de Hastings: this confirmation proves that they (that is, Ferelith and her husband, Sir David) were both then dead, and that Ferelith had survived her husband. Ada had a son, David, Earl of Atholl, who m. Isahel de Chilham; he was forfeited in 1268, and went to Palestine in the course of the following year. He had a son, John, designed De Strathholgie, also son and heir of Earl David, until restored by Robert Bruce, in 1306.

ISABELLA, the elder co-beiress, m. 1st, Thomas de Galloway, who d. in 1231; they had a son, PATRICK, who became Earl of Atholl: he was murdered in 1241, leaving no issue. She m. 2ndly, and apparently in the same year (1231), Alan Durward, high-justiciar of Scotland, who, Tytler says, was "the most accomplished knight and the best military leader in Scotland." He had the title of Earl of Atholl; but the mistake in DOUGLAS'S Peerage is in stating he was so before Thomas de Galloway, whereas he is thus designed two years after that person's death, and was engaged in public transactions long afterwards. The possessions of Isabella were the western half of the earldom, and a charter* granted during her lifetime proves that the lands of Invervack, in Atholl, formed part of her estates. These very same lands have been for several centuries belonging to the Robertsons of Strowan, and one of their principal family residences. This is an important fact to be remembered, as shewing from whom the lands belonging to the Robertsons were inherited. By the second marriage, as above, Isabella had a dau.,

LORA. She is designed "Comitissa de Atholia" in the Chronicle of Melrose, which she became, and eldest co-heir of the earldom by the death of her half-brother, Patrick, Earl of Atholl, without issue; and in consequence of which she disputed her aunt Ferelith's right to the title. Of this there is authentic evidence. She m. MALCOLM DE INSULIS, that is of the McDonald family: at page 6, vol. ii. of DOUGLAS'S Peerage, he improperly calls him Donald. It is this marriage of Malcolm with the heiress of Atholl which so fully accounts for the descent of the Robertsons being from the McDonalds. Malcolm, in right of his wife, had the title of Earl of Atholl. He, with Malcolm Earl of Fife, and William Earl of Mar, became security to King ALEXANDER III. for Ewen, Lord of Argyll. This is shewn by the deed which is entered at page 17 of the Introduction to ROBERTSON'S Index of Charters. Lora, Countess of Atholl, d. in 1269, as mentioned in the chronicle of Melrose. She had two sons,

I. JOHN. II. Andrew.

JOHN, the eldest son, was Earl of Atholl. He was summoned to attend the parliament at Seoon, in 1283, on the important occasion of settling the succession to the crown; and from the original document of the proceedings, printed in the Appendix to Robertson's Index, he appears to have then held an official situation under the crown. The peerage writers make great errors as to this Earl of Atholl, having always confounded him with John de Strathbolgie, who m. his cousin Ada, or with John, son of Earl David. The impossibility of either is clear, upon the evidence of the historian Fordun, who proves that, in the year 1264, John de Strathbolgie was dead, stating that his son David was then Earl of Atholl, and under age. This perfectly establishes that this John, Earl of Atholl, summoned, as one of the peers of Scotland, to Seoon in 1283, was a different person from John de Strathbolgie, who m. Ada de Hastings; and it would be absurd to suppose he was the son of David, Earl of Atholl, who was under age in 1264, when it is considered that, subsequent to that year, he (Earl David) must have attained his majority, married the English heiress, Isabel de Chillingham, and yet have had a son old enough to sit as a peer in parliament, and fill office under the crown, in 1283. This John, Earl of Atholl, also attended the parliament held at Brigham on the Tweed, and there signed the letter to EDWARD I., in 1289; but soon after joined his countrymen in arms against him. He was at the battle of Dnnlhar in 1296, where he was taken prisoner, and kept so until the following year (1297), when his estates were restored to him. He repaired to the court of France, where, probably, he died. He m. Isabel, sister of King ROBERT BRUCE, and widow of Sir Thomas Randolph. This fact is clearly shewn by charters to Isabel, Countess of Atholl, and her son, (by a third husband,) Alexander Bruce, who is designed by the king "Nepoti Nostro," in Robertson's Index, p. 13 and 18. In Douglas's Scottish Peerage, by Wood, vol. i. p. 319, Isabel, sister of King ROBERT BRUCE, is mentioned as having married, "secondly, an Earl of Atholl;" but as she survived the person who has hitherto been the supposed earl of that period, the writer could not say that John, Earl of Atholl, executed in 1306, was the brother-in-law of BRUCE, King of Scotland; indeed, it would be incredible to suppose it should have been unknown if he had been so; but Lady Isabel being the countess of the Earl of Atholl, who figures from 1283 to 1298, and who has been proved a different person from either John de Strathbolgie, who m. Ada de Hastings, or the John, son of the Earl David, who went to Palestine, the case becomes clear and intelligible. The earl leaving no issue by his marriage as above, was s. by his brother and male heir,

I. ANDREW. He is denominated "DE ATHOLIA" in public and private documents, particularly in the rolls of the Chamberlain of Scotland, where himself, his son, Duncan, and grandson, Robert, all appear under the designation of "De Atholia;" and this of itself is sufficient to establish a legitimate descent from the ancient Earls of Atholl, if no other evidence had been given. In Robertson's Index, p. 52, he is called "Andrew, Earl of Atholl." He m. the co-heiress of Ewen de Glenrochie and Finnoch, in Strathern, who was son of Conan. On the estate of Lude there is a retired spot called "Kil-Anrias," that is, "Andrew's burial-place," where some stone coffins were discovered not many years ago; it is situated close to an ancient fort, on the river Tilt. Andrew de Atholia was s. by his son, DUNCAN DE ATHOLIA. He, the same as his father is designed "Earl of Atholl" in the Index of Charters p. 51, No. 46: from this ancestor of the Robertsons they are known among the Highlanders of Scotland as "Clandonachy," or descendants of Duncan. In a crown charter, granted after his death by King David II., of the year 1361, to his son Robert, he is designed "Duncanus de Atholia." He m. 1st, a dau. of Malcolm, Earl of Lennox, and had a son, "Robert de Atholia," from whose second son, "Duncan de Atholia," dominus de Ranoch, (he appears thus denominated in the Rotuli Scotiae, in 1432,) the family of Strowan descend. Duncan, the founder of the clan by his second marriage, which, according to the oldest MS. Genealogies, (one of them written in King CHARLES'S reign, and printed in the fourth number of the Tona Club Transactions,) and universal tradition, was to a dau. of Angus More, Lord of the Isles, by whom he had, I. Patrick; II. Gibbon, who has left no legitimate heirs.

PATRICK DE ATHOLIA, the elder son, received from his father at the time of his death (about the year 1358) the lands and barony of Lude, which formed the two parishes of Lude and Kilmaveonag; Patrick is mentioned, in the year 1391, by an old Scotch historian (Winton), as one of the chieftains and leaders of the clan: he says, book ii. p. 370,

"Thre chieftanys gret wer of them thane,
Thomas, Patrick, and Gibhone,
Duncan sons wes ther surnowne."

Patrick left issue two sons and a dau.,

I. DONALD, his heir.

II. Alexander, m. Matilda, dau. of Thomas, the first of Strowan, and acquired the estate of Strathloch. They had a charter from JAMES II. for it, in 1451. He was ancestor of the Robertsons of Strathloch, and was known by the name of "Rua," or Red, from the colour of his hair, and his descendants were called the "Barons Rua," or Red. The last male heir of the family left his property to found a professorship of music in the College of Edinburgh, and which has within these few years taken effect.

I. A dau., m. to Donald, son of Farquhar, ancestor of the family of Invercauld.

He was s. by his eldest son,

II. DONALD. He resigned his estates into the hands of the King, by a deed dated at Edinburgh, 7 Feb. 1447, but dying very soon after, did not receive his new investiture. He was a witness to the charter granted in 1443, by his cousin and clansman, Robert of Strowan, for the lands of Finnoch, to Murray of Tullibardine, ancestor of the Duke of Atholl. He had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Donald, who got from his father the lands of Strathgarry.

He was s. by his eldest son,

III. JOHN. He received a charter from the crown proceeding upon his father's resignation, erecting the lands of Lude into a free barony, dated at Edinburgh, 31st March, 1448. He also got another charter under the Great Seal, annexing the lands of Invertilt to the barony of Lude, dated at Edinburgh, 25 Aug. 1452. He m. Margaret Drummond, dau. of Sir John Drummond, (ancestor of the Earls of Perth,) by Elizabeth Sinclair, dau. of the Earl of Orkney, and had issue,

I. DONALD, his heir.

II. John, the ancestor of the family of Guy: their estate was forfeited in 1715.

He was s. by his eldest son,

IV. DONALD, who, besides having been also entered heir to his father in the barony of Lude, was also seised in the lands of Pittarach by a precept dated in 1470. He and the then Earl of Atholl (who was uterine brother to JAMES II.) entered into a bond of maintenance, and who, as his "lufft friend," binds himself that he will supply and assist this Laird of Lude in all his "quarrels and actions:" It is signed and sealed at Edinbrough, 5 Dec. 1475. He d. in the following year, leaving issue,

V. CHARLES, his heir, who m. during his father's lifetime, a dau. of Sir John Lamont, of Lamont, chief of the name, an ancient Argyleshire family, proprietors of extensive estates therein. It was with this lady (Lilias Lamont) there came one of those very curious old harps which have been in the possession of the family for several centuries: hence this one was called "the Lamont harp." (See Gunn's historical work on the Performance of the Harp). He had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Marion, m. to Alexander Red, second son of Alexander Red, of Strathloch, and to whom her father granted the lands of Urrard More, in the barony of Lude.

He was s. by his son,

VI. JOHN, who was also called M'Charlick, or son of Charles. He m. Margaret Ogilvie, dau. of Sir James Ogilvie, of Inchmartin, which family became Earls of Findlater. This proved an unfortunate connexion, by giving rise to the highly injurious claims of the Inchmartin family. This laird d. leaving issue,

JOHN, his heir, under age.

Christian, m. to Cardney of Pitcastle.

He was s. by his only son,

VII. JOHN, who by his mother and her brother, Sir Patrick Ogilvie, of Inchmartin, was induced, when a minor, to resign the barony into the hands of the Bishop of Glasgow, Chancellor and Regent of Scotland, in Sir Patrick's favour. He m. Beatrix Gardyn, widow of Finlay More, ancestor of the family of Invercauld, who was killed, the same year, at the battle of Pinkie. Queen MARY, in the year 1563, presented this lady with her own harp, which has been carefully preserved as a precious heirloom of the family ever since. (For an account of it, see Gunn's historical work, before mentioned.) He had issue,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. John, of Monzies, m. Christian Oliphant, widow of George Robertson, of Fascal, and had issue four sons.

III. Duncan.

IV. Marjory, was m. to Farquharson of Invercauld.

V. Marion, had the lands of Blavon, in Strathardle.

He was s. by his eldest son,

VIII. ALEXANDER. He was the first of the family who gave up the use of patronymics, or adding the Christian name of his father to that of Robertson, the surname of the family. He was served heir in 1565, and raised a process in the Court of Session against Sir William Ogilvie, of Inchmartin, and his son, Patrick, for the reduction of the claims they had on the estates: through his father, who had reserved his life-rent from various assignments of part of the barony to him, a compromise seems to have taken place. He entered into bonds of friendship with two different Earls of Atholl, on the part of the clan; the first is dated 1568, the second, 1583; they are not only in his own name, but also in that of the Clan-donachy, or Robertsons of Atholl. He, about the former date, acquired the churchlands of the bishopric of Dunkeld, for which he had a charter from Queen MARY. He m. Agnes Gordon, dau. of Alexander Gordon, of Abergeidie, by whom he got the lands of Ballyhaldat, in that barony; he had likewise a charter in 1596, from John, Earl of Mar, for Finlairge, in Cromar, also in the county of Aberdeen. He died in 1615, having had issue,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. Donald, who had from his father the lands of Kincraigie.

III. John, who got the lands of Inver. He was much engaged in the civil wars, under Montrose, who made him captain and keeper of Blair Castle. His son Donald acquired the estate of Tullybelton, and from him descends, in a direct line, the present ROBERT HENRY-ROBERTSON, Esq. of Tullybelton, co. Perth.

IV. Elspet, m. to Thomas Ogilvie, of Persey.

V. Margaret, m. 1st, to Robert, second son of George Robertson, of Fascal, from whom she obtained a divorce. She m. 2ndly, Alexander Stewart, of Bonskeid; their eldest dau., Margaret, m. Donald, second son of Robert Robertson, of Strowan.

VI. Isabel, m. to Alexander Forbes, of New, ancestor of the present Sir Charles Forbes, Bart. of Edinglassie, representative of the Lords of Pitligo.

VII. Christian, m. to Archibald Campbell, of Monzies, and had issue.

VIII. Beatrix, m. to Charles Robertson, of Auchlecks, son of Robertson of Strowan.

He was s. by his eldest son,

IX. ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, who got rid of the claims of the Ogilvies upon the estates, by payment of a sum of money to Campbell of Glenorchy, who was ancestor of the Marquis of Breadalbane, and the brother-in-law of Inchmartin. This laird of Lude, a very zealous protestant, assisted in raising 3000 men for the service of Gustavus, King of Sweden, in 1627. In 1633 he was called, by a special letter of summons, dated Holyrood House, to give his advice at the privy council held at Edinburgh in that year, and in 1636, he had a charter from the Earl of Mar for the lands of Dalmore, co. Aberdeeu. He m. Beatrix Græme, dau. of George Græme, of Inchbraikie, and had issue by her,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. John, of Fowlis, afterwards Tutor of Lude.

III. Margaret, m. to William Menzies, son of Sir Alexander Menzies, of that ilk.

He d. at Dulcaben, the seat of the ancestor of the Earl of Portmore, in 1639, when on his way to purchase the estate of Inchuthel. His widow afterwards m. the Tutor of Strowan. He was s. by his eldest son,

X. ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, who was a minor at his father's death. Patrick Græme, of Inchbraikie, (known as "black pate,") was his uncle and guardian, who thereby became connected with the Atholl highlanders, and commanded them under Montrose. This laird suffered for his loyalty, having his house burned by Cromwell's troops, and also a fine levied on the estate. He m. 1st, Jean Menzies, dau. of Sir Alexander Menzies, of that ilk, and had issue, a dau., Margaret, m. to Alexander Robertson, of Fascal; he m. 2ndly, Marjory, dau. of John Graham, of Balgowan, without issue, and 3rdly, Catherine, dau. of Sir John Campbell, of Glenorchy, and sister of John, first Earl of Breadalbane, and had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Alexander, of Carmustie.

III. Patrick, from whom descended the Hon. P. Robertson, of Jamaica.

IV. Agnes, m. to Murray of Kincairney.

He d. in 1673, and was s. by his eldest son,

XI. JOHN ROBERTSON, who being under age, his uncle John was served tutor: during his minority, he had a warrant to command and raise the Perthshire cavalry, in Atholl. He was obliged to give his adherence to King WILLIAM, by General Mackay, on 31 Aug. 1689. He was the last of the family who was a performer on their ancient harp; the airs were chiefly the marches &c. of the Highland clans. He m. Margaret Farquharson, only dau. of Alexander Farquharson, of Invercauld, by Isabella, his wife, dau. of William M'Intosh, chief of his name, and had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Isabella, m. to John Stewart, of Cardney, which family is now designed of Culdares.

III. Catherine, m. to Thomas Arnot, Esq.

He d. at an advanced age, having been 56 years in possession, and was s. by his eldest son,

XII. JOHN ROBERTSON, who was served heir in Nov. 1730, and had seisin (or livery) of his lands the following year. He m. the Hon. Charlotte Nairne, dau. of William, Lord Nairne, brother of the first Duke of Atholl, and had issue,

I. JAMES, so named by the particular desire of his godfather, James, Duke of Atholl.

II. John, a captain of the 42nd Highlanders, killed on foreign service when a very young man.

III. Margaret, m. to Robert Robertson, of Tullybelton, and had issue, I. John, who d. s. p. in 1834; 2. Robert-Henry Robertson, now of Tullybelton; and two daus., 1. Margaret, m. to Stewart Menzies, of Culdares; and 2. Charlotte, d. s. p.

He was s. by his eldest son and heir,

XIII. JAMES ROBERTSON, who was only four years old at his father's death, and was served heir to him in 1758. He m. in that year, his cousin-german, Margaret Mercer, of Aldie, eldest dau. of the Hon. Robert Nairne, and Jean Mercer, heiress of the ancient family of Aldie and Melk-lour, in the counties of Kinross and Perth: by her he had issue six sons, of whom five entered the army, two were killed in actions, and one d. on foreign service: their names were as follow:

I. WILLIAM, heir and successor.

II. John, a colonel in the army.

III. James, d. in the West Indies.

IV. Robert, killed at Seringapatam.

V. Alexander, killed in India.

VI. Charles, educated for the Church at Oxford, d. at 22.

He d. in 1803, and was s. by his eldest son and heir,

XIV. WILLIAM ROBERTSON, who entered the army at fifteen years of age, served in the American war, and in Holland, and also at the taking of St. Lucia, and several of the West India Islands, and raised a regiment of Highland infantry in 1794, and also a corps of volunteers in 1804. He accompanied the expedition to the coast of Spain, under Sir James-Murray Pulteney, in the year 1805, was subsequently appointed to the Staff, in Scotland, and served in that capacity, as a commanding officer in the Channel Islands, and in various districts in England, until the end of 1813, when he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-general. He m. Margaret Haldane, of Gleneagles, eldest dau. of George Haldane, of Gleneagles, Perthshire, (now represented by Lord Camperdown,) and the Hon. Margaret Drummond, eldest dau. of James, Viscount of Strathallan. By her (who d. in 1806, when only one and twenty) he had two sons,

I. JAMES-ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. William-Drummond, but three months old at his mother's death. He was cut off at a very early age, in 1814.

General Robertson m. 2ndly, in 1816, Margaret, eldest dau. of Stewart Menzies, Esq. of Culdres, but had no issue. He was s. by his only son, JAMES-ALEXANDER, the present representative.

ROBERTSON-WALKER OF GILGARRAN.

ROBERTSON-WALKER, JAMES, Esq. of Gilgarran, co. Cumberland, Commander, R.N., b. 22 June, 1783; m. 24 June, 1824, Ann, dau. of the late William Walker, Esq. of Gilgarran, and heiress of her brother, William Walker, Esq.,* to whose estates she succeeded, at his death, in 1819. Capt. Robertson-Walker, a magistrate for the co. Cumberland, for which he served as high-sheriff in 1841, assumed the surname of WALKER in addition to his patronymic, ROBERTSON. He was Mate of the Victory, (Lord Nelson's ship,) at Trafalgar, and First-Lieut. of H.M.S. Hazard, when her captain, Hugh Cameron, was killed during a successful attack on batteries and two French frigates, at Guadaloupe, in 1809. He also served as First Lieut. of H.M.S. Confidence, in the disastrous battle off Plattsburg, when his captain and relative, George Downie, who commanded the British naval force, fell. On this last occasion, Lieut. Robertson was promoted.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient baronial house of LUDE. (See that name.)

JOHN ROBERTSON, of Arnhill, younger son of ROBERT-

* This gentleman was unfortunately killed at sea, when accompanying his sister on a tour to Italy. In the grounds of Gilgarran there is a marble cenotaph to his memory, on which are graven the following lines:—

"The tribute of a sister to the memory of her deeply-lamented brother, WILLIAM WALKER, who was inhumanly killed, in the prime of life, on board the merchant ship Brunswick, of Liverpool, by a shot from the Spanish frigate Pronté, on the 1st of June, 1819, (a time of peace throughout Europe,) during the prosecution of a voyage to the classic land of Italy, in pursuit of objects for the gratification of the taste by which these grounds were laid out and embellished.

"Too soon will Time's unsparing hand efface
The sculptured words a sister's love would trace.

Gilgarran! thou his monument shalt be,

Who gave so many years of life to thee:

The loved creation of his taste refined,

Thou art the living picture of his mind.

On that sad likeness shall affection gaze,

While treading through each shade and flowery maze,

And cherishing for him the hope sublime,

That man is destined to a fairer clime,

An infant flower, that here but bursts the sod,

To bloom within the paradise of God!"

THE REV. JAMES ROBERTSON, minister of Loch Broom, co. Ross, b. in Atholl, Perthshire, about the year 1701, who entered on his classical studies at the then celebrated University of St. Andrew's, and being licensed a preacher of the gospel, was appointed to the parish of Lochbroom. On the breaking out of the insurrection of '45, this estimable man remained firm and unshaken in his loyalty to the house of Hanover, and was the instrument of deterring many of his misguided parishioners from openly throwing off their allegiance. To the royal army, and the proceedings of the Earl of Loudon and the Duke of Cumberland, he rendered essential service; but no sooner was the rising suppressed, and the trial of the unhappy captives about to commence, than Mr. Robertson travelled, at his own expense, to London, a distance of nearly seven hundred miles, to interpose, with all his influence, in behalf of the deluded members of his flock, and had, in several instances, the happiness to know that his benevolent zeal succeeded even beyond his most sanguine expectations. Having thus fulfilled the object of his journey, the rev. gentleman returned to his parish, where he was received with unfeigned demonstrations of joy by all ranks. Some time after, (in 1751,) he m. Anne, second dau. of Murdoch Mackenzie,* of Letterewe, and by her, who d. in 1791, left at his decease, in March, 1776, six sons and two daus., viz., 1. John, who d. unm. in 1776; 2. Alexander, who served as a captain in the army, and d. in Nova Scotia; 3. JAMES, of whom we treat; 4. Charles, of London, deceased; 5. Hector, d. unm.; 6. Murdoch, a distinguished officer in the British naval service, m. Miss Mac Rae, and left issue: 1. Janet, m. to Alexander Mackenzie, of Badachroe; 2. Margaret, m. to John Fisher, Esq. of Rothsay, Bute. The third son,

JAMES ROBERTSON, Esq., J.P. and D.L., and many years collector of Customs at the port of Stornoway, m. in 1781, his cousin-german, Annabella, dau. of John Mackenzie, Esq. of Letterewe, and d. 31 Aug. 1840, having had issue,

JAMES, of Gilgarran.

CHARLES MACKENZIE, of Mellin and Letterewe, who m. Miss Mackenzie, of the Applecross family, and had, with other issue, MURDOCH MACKENZIE, of Letterewe, who fought at the battle of Glenshiel, under his kinsman the Earl of Seaforth, who commanded for the Stuarts, and rendered himself conspicuous for personal prowess and bravery. He m. Catharine, dau. of Simon Mackenzie, of Torridon, granddau. of Sir John Mackenzie, Bart. of Coull, and relict of John Mackenzie, of the Applecross family, who was killed at the battle of Sheriffmuir in 1715, a distinguished adherent of the Stuarts. By this lady he had, with other issue, Ann, m. as above, to the Rev. James Robertson.

ROCHE OF LIMERICK.

ROCHE, GEORGE, Esq. of Granagh Castle, co. Kilkenny. This gentleman, who claims the ancient Irish peerage of Fermoy, inherited the estates and representation of the Roches of Limerick, at the decease of his brother, in 1825.

ROC

Lineage.

The family of ROCHE OF LIMERICK has branched from that of Castletown-Roche, co. Cork.

JOHN ROCHE, of Castletown-Roche,* descended from the Viscounts Fermoy, was a member of the catholic parliament or council held at Kilkenny during the civil wars, and his name appears as such to the declaration of the Irish Roman catholics in 1641. His eldest son,

ROBERT ROCHE, m. Juliana O'Moore, dau. of Alexander O'Moore, of Ballina, co. Kildare,† and was s. by his eldest son,

STEPHEN ROCHE, known by the designation of Dor, or Black, from his complexion, whose estate, already injured by composition in the time of CROMWELL, was entirely forfeited under WILLIAM III. Compelled in consequence to leave the county of Cork, he retired to Kilrush, in Clare, and afterwards took up his abode at Pallas, co. Limerick, in the vicinity of his brother-in-law, William Apjohn, Esq. He m. Anastasia, elder dau. and co-heir of Thomas Lysaght, Esq.,‡ (the other co-heir, Catherine, was the wife of Mr. Apjohn,) and was s. by his son,

JOHN ROCHE, Esq., b. in 1688, who m. Anne, youngest dau. of Philip Stacpole, Esq.,§ of Mountcashel, (the fee of which estate is now in Thomas Roche, Esq.,) Kilneen, and Kilcoman, co. Clare, (by his wife, Christian, dau. of John Creagh, of Ballyvolane, in the same shire, colonel in the Irish army, anno 1642,) and had, with other issue,

I. STEPHEN, his heir.

II. John, who m. Miss Harold, cousin of General Harold, of the Saxon service, and had a dau.,

Mary-Anne, who m. John Meade, Esq. of Limerick, and was mother of Captain Roche Meade, of the 21st regt., deputy-adjutant-general.

III. Philip, m. Margaret, dau. of John Kelly, Esq. of Limerick, and had issue,

1. John, who m. Miss Whyte, dau. of Charles Whyte, Esq. of Leixlip, and had a son, Philip, of Donore, co. Kildare, who m. the Hon. Anna-Maria Plunket, dau. of Randall, thirteenth Lord Dunsany, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Captain Ryder Burton, R.N.) had one son, John, capt. in the 2nd Life Guards, and two daus., Randaliana, m. to Lord Trimblestown, and Anna-Maria, m. in 1830, to Thomas, present Lord Louth.

2. Charles, who m. his cousin, Miss Whyte, and has issue.

1. Ellen, m. to Peter Daly, Esq. of Clonagb, co. Galway.

2. Mary, m. to George Ryan, Esq. of Inch, co. Tipperary.

3. Margaret, m. to Standish Barry, Esq. of Lemlara, co. Cork.

1. Jane, m. to John Sheehy, Esq. of Cork, and had a dau., m. to Bryan Keating, Esq., by whom she was mother of General Keating.

II. Christiana, m. to James Lombard, Esq. of co. Cork, and had several daus., of whom the youngest m. to Daniel O'Connell, Esq. of Ivragh, co. Kerry, and was mother of Charles O'Connell, Esq., late M.P. for that shire. The eldest m. to Daniel Cronin, Esq. of The Park, co. Kerry.

* For the Roche family generally, see Nichols' "Rudiments of Honor," 8vo, 1726, article Fermoy, where its descent from the sovereign houses of Europe is deduced.

† Of a very ancient family, and allied by intermarriage with that of the Earls of Kildare. Alexander O'Moore was next brother to the celebrated Rory or Roger O'Moore, who, according to Hume, was one of the chief promoters of the rebellion of 1641, but acquitted by the same historian of any participation in the massacre of that year. His birth, influence, and talents, are placed in a very conspicuous light by Doctor Lingard; see also Hume, and Warner's "History of the Irish Rebellion," (4to, 1767,) page 25, where it is stated that the popular adoration at the time was, "God, Our Lady, and Roger O'Moore, help us!"

‡ This gentleman, in his passage to England, on his route to the University of Oxford, during the short war of 1665, was captured by a French privateer, and carried into France, where he became a convert to the Roman-catholic religion. Incurring thus the displeasure of his father, he was disinherited, and the estate of the family left by that gentleman to a younger son, the grandfather of the first Lord Lisle (of Ireland.)

§ Philip Stacpole was son of James Stacpole and Christian, dau. of Denis M'Mahon, of Clonagh, one of the most ancient families of Clare. Three of Philip Stacpole's brothers fell at the battle of Aughrim, fighting under the banner of their legitimate sovereign, JAMES II. He died himself in 1714, aged 70, after serving as high-sheriff for the county of Clare, being the last Roman catholic, prior to the penal laws, who filled that office. The present Earl of Limerick enjoys some of the estates of this family, acquired by the marriage of his ancestor with a co-heiress of the Stacpoles.

The eldest son,

STEPHEN ROCHE, Esq., b. 5 Dec. 1724, s. his father in 1760. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Richard Meade, Esq.,* and had issue,

- i. JOHN, his successor.
- ii. Richard, in holy orders, who d. in 1805.
- iii. GEORGE, successor to his brother, John.
- i. Anne, m. to Peter Long, Esq. of Waterford, and had, with other children, a dau., Margaret Long, who m. 1st, to James O'Brien, Esq. of Limerick, and 2ndly, to Cornelius O'Brien, Esq., M.P. for Clare; by the former of whom she had three sons,

Mr. Rochford, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut., served as high-sheriff of the co. of Carlow in 1839. He s. his father 6 May, 1844.

Lineage.

The ancient family of Rochford, in old deeds and writings styled De Rupe forti, was established in Ireland at the time of, or soon after, the first invasion of the English; for, so early as 27 HENRY III., we find Sir Richard de Rochford and John de Rochford, Lords of Crom and Adare. In 1302, SIR MAURICE ROCHFORD was Lord Justice of Ireland; and in 1309 lived SIR MILO DE ROCHFORD, who was father of three sons, Milo, William, and Walter. The second son, SIR WILLIAM ROCHFORD, Lord of the Manor of Kill, living at the commencement of the fourteenth century, was direct ancestor of the ROCHFORDS OF BELVEDERE, ROCHFORD, and CLOGRENANE.

PRIME-IRON ROCHFORD, Esq., lieut.-col. in the army of Cromwell, younger son of James Rochford, Esq. of Aghery, co. Wicklow, and ninth in descent from the before-mentioned Sir William Rochford, Lord of the Manor of Kill, was executed, under a court-martial, for killing Major Turner, 14 May, 1652. By Thomasina, his wife, dau. of Col. Pigott, he left, with three daus., two sons, i. Charles, of Streamstown, co. Westmeath, who m. Mabella, dau. of Sir Theophilus Jones, of Oshertown, and by her (who m. 2ndly, to William Saunderson, Esq.) had three sons and two daus., and II. ROBERT, of whose line we treat. The younger son, ROBERT ROCHFORD, Esq., b. 9 Dec. 1652, was appointed Attorney-General 6 June, 1695, chosen SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS in Ireland the 27th of the following August, and constituted CHIEF BARON OF THE EXCHEQUER 30 June, 1707. He m. Hannah, dau. of William Handcock, Esq. of Twyford, co. Westmeath, and dying at Gaulstown, 10 Oct. 1727, left two sons, RODDAM OF RODDAM.

RODDAM, WILLIAM, Esq. of Roddam Hall, co. Northumberland, b. 4 Jan. 1793, m. in Sept. 1835, Charlotte, dau. of Henry-Percy Pulleine, Esq. of Crake Hall, co. York, and by her, who d. in July, 1837, he has an only dau., CHARLOTTE-PULLEINE. This gentleman, who is the fourth son of Walter-Spencer Stanhope, Esq. of Cannon Hall, in Yorkshire, by Mary-Winifred Pulleine, his wife, inherited the estates of his kinsman and godfather, ADMIRAL ROBERT RODDAM, under the will of that gallant officer, at his decease in 1806, and assumed, in consequence, the surname and arms of RODDAM.

Lineage.

This family, ranking amongst the most ancient in the British dominions, is still resident upon lands granted to their Saxon progenitors, in a very curious charter from King ATHELSTANE:

I Konig Athelstane
giffs heir to Paulane Odiham and Roddam als gude and als fair als ever ye mine ware and yair to witness Maud my wife.

The greater part of the original estate was certainly forfeited during the sway of the Norman kings, but the lands of RODDAM, named in the grant of Athelstane, descended to the late ADMIRAL RODDAM, through an uninterrupted line of ancestors, intermarrying with the Greys of Chillingham; the Selbys; the Brandlings of Gosforth; the Forsters of Etherston; the Lisles of Felton; the Swinburnes of Ethingham; and other eminent northern families.

SIR JOHN RODDAM, Knt. of Roddam, m. Ellen, dau. and heir of John Houghton, of Houghton, co. Northumberland, and thus became lord of that manor. He was "slaine in the Palne Sunday Ffiede with the Earl of Northumberland in bataille, anno 1491, the 19th day of March." From this gallant person we pass to his lineal descendant,

EDWARD RODDAM, Esq. of Roddam, who m. Miss Mary Saville, and had two sons and a dau.,

JOHN, his successor.

EDWARD, successor to the estates at the decease of his brother.

Mary, m. to Bernard Falder, Esq. of Alnwick, and left issue.

The elder son,

JOHN RODDAM, Esq. of Roddam and Little Houghton, m. Winifred, dan. and heiress of Ralph Milburn, Esq. of Chirton, in Northumberland, and had three daus., viz.,

I. WINIFRED, who d. young.

II. Mary, m. to E. Collingwood, Esq. of Byker and Dissington, and had issue,

1. Edward Collingwood, who d. unm., bequeathing his estates to his great-nephew, Edward-Spencer Stanhope, Esq., who has assumed the name of Collingwood.

2. John Collingwood, d. unm., in 1792.

3. Winifred Collingwood, m. to Thomas-Babington Pulleine, Esq. of Carleton Hall, co. York, and dying in 1780, left an only surviving child,

MARY-WINIFRED PULLEINE, who m. Walter-Spencer Stanhope, Esq. of Cannon Hall, by whom (who d. in 1821) she has a numerous family, the fourth son of which, WILLIAM-SPENCER STANHOPE, eventually inherited the Roddam estates.

III. Winifred, m. to Hilton Lawson, Esq.

John Roddam leaving thus no male issue, the representation of the family was continued by his brother,

EDWARD RODDAM, Esq. of Roddam and Little Houghton, who sold the latter estate to Mr. Penrith, and erected Roddam Hall. He m. Jane, dan. of Robert Skelly, Esq. and had, with several other children, who d. all issueless, EDWARD, his successor.

ROBERT, heir to his brother.

Collingwood, b. in 1734, a captain in the East India Company's service, m. Miss Buller, but d. s. p. in 1806.

Mr. Roddam was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD RODDAM, Esq. of Roddam, who d. in 1776, without issue, and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT RODDAM, Esq., a highly distinguished naval officer, who eventually attained, after a long series of gallant services, the rank of Admiral of the Red. He m. 1st, 24 April, 1749, Miss Clinton, dau. of Colonel Clinton, which lady d. 9 Dec. 1750, issueless; and 2ndly, Alithea, dau. of Sir James Calder, Bart. of Calder; and 3rdly, Miss Harrison, aunt of the present Mrs. Bell, of Woolington. He d. in 1808, in his eighty-eighth year, without issue, when his estates devolved, under his will, upon his kinsman, WILLIAM-SPENCER STANHOPE, Esq., (the great-grandson of Mary Roddam and her husband, Edward Collingwood,) who, having assumed the surname and arms of RODDAM, is the present WILLIAM RODDAM, of Roddam, Esq.

RODES OF BARLBOROUGH.

REASTON - RODES, THE REV. CORNELIUS-HEATHCOTE, M.A. of Barlborough, co. Derby, b. 3 March, 1792, m. 18 June, 1825, Anna-Maria-Harriet, youngest dau. of William Gossip, Esq. of Hatfield House, in Yorkshire. This gentleman, whose patronymic was Reaston, assumed by sign-manual, 20 April, 1825, the additional surname and arms of RODES, upon succeeding to the estates of his uncle, Cornelius Heathcote Rodes, Esq.

Lineage.

The first settler in England of this family, on genealogical record, is "GERARD DE RODES, a feudal baron, the capital seat of whose barony was Horn Castle, in Lincolnshire: he lived in the reigns of HENRY II., RICHARD I., JOHN, and HENRY III., from all of whom he received great favours; and by King JOHN was sent ambassador to foreign parts 29 March, in the ninth year of his reign."

From GERARD DE RODES lineally descended

WILLIAM DE RHODES, (the son of Thomas, of Thorp, juxta Rotherham, in Yorkshire,) who m. Anne, dau. and heiress of John Caclehorse, of Staveley Woodthorpe, in Derbyshire, and had a son and successor,

JOHN RODES, of Staveley Woodthorpe, whose son, JOHN RODES, or RHODES, of Staveley Woodthorpe, was father of

ROBERT RODES, of Staveley Woodthorpe, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Wasse, and had

JOHN RODES, of Staveley Woodthorpe, high-sheriff for Derbyshire in 1591, who left, by his first wife, Attelina, dau. of Thomas Hewit, of Wallis, or Wales, in Yorkshire, a son and successor,

FRANCIS RODES, of Staveley Woodthorpe, one of the justices of the Common Pleas in the time of ELIZABETH. This gentleman built Barlborough Hall in 1583, but d. at his residence at Staveley Woodthorpe, a few years after its completion. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Brian Sandford, Esq. of Thorp Salvine, in Yorkshire, and had, with daus., two sons,

I. JOHN, his heir, b. in 1502.

II. Peter, of Hickleton.

The judge m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Francis Charlton, Esq. of Appley, in Shropshire, by whom he had, with other issue, a son,

GODFREY, (Sir,) of Great Houghton, knighted at Havering, 13 July, 1615, who m. four wives, and left, with other issue, a dau., Elizabeth, the third wife and widow of the ill-fated Earl of Strafford, and a son and successor,

SIR EDWARD RODES, Knt. of Great Houghton, from whom descended,

WILLIAM RODES, Esq. of Great Houghton, the last male heir of this branch of the family, who d. unm. in 1740, leaving his two sisters his co-heirs, viz., Mary, who d. unm., and Martha, who m. to Hans Busk, Esq. of Leeds, and had, with other children, who d. issueless, a dau., Rachel Busk, the wife of RICHARD SLATER-MILNES, Esq., M.P., of Fryton.

Judge Rodes's eldest son,

SIR JOHN RODES, knighted at the Tower, 15 March, 1603, high-sheriff of Derbyshire 36 ELIZABETH, sold Staveley Woodthorpe, now attached to Bolsover, the Duke of Portland's, and resided at Barlborough: he had three wives; the first was Anne, dau. of George Benson, of Westmoreland, by whom he had no issue; the second, Dorothy, dau. of George Savile, Esq. of Wakefield, in Yorkshire, grandson of Sir John Savile, of Thornhill, by whom he had one son, JOHN RHODES, of Horbury, supposed, from presumptive evidence, to have been ancestor of the Devonshire family of RHODES (see RHODES, OF BELLAIR); and the third was Frances, dau. of Marmaduke Constable, of Holderness, by whom he left, at his decease in 1639, with other children, who appear to have d. unm., two daus., Lennox, m. to Sir Marmaduke Langdale, first Lord Langdale, and Catherine, the wife of Sir George Hotham, and a son and successor,

SIR FRANCIS RODES, of Barlborough, in Derbyshire, knighted at Whitehall, 9 Aug. 1641, and created a Bart. the 14th of the same month, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and sole heiress of Sir George Lassells, Knt. of Sturton and Gateford, Notts, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Allan Lockhart, and d. in 1666) had, with several daus., four sons, viz.,

I. FRANCIS, his heir.

II. Peter, a divine, slain at Winfield Manor.

III. Clifton, who m. 1st, Lettice, fourth dau. of Sir Gervase Clifton, of Clifton, by the Lady Frances Clifford, his wife, dau. of the Right Hon. Frances, Earl of Cumberland; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of John Skrimshire, of Cotgrave, by whom he had a son, John.

IV. John, of Sturton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Simon Jessop, Esq., and had (with two other sons, who m. in America) a successor, John, who m. Mary, dau. of William Tigh, of London, son of Tigh, of Carly, in Lincolnshire, and had issue.

Sir Francis was s. at his decease in 1645 by his eldest son,

SIR FRANCIS RODES, second Bart. of Barlborough, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Gervase Clifton, Bart. of Clifton, by the Lady Frances Clifford, his wife, dau. of Francis, Earl of Cumberland, and had, with a dau. Jane, m. to Captain Hussey, a son and successor, SIR FRANCIS RODES, third Bart. of Barlborough, sheriff of Notts in 1671, who m. Martha, dau. of William Thornton, Esq. of Grantham, and had issue.

- i. JOHN, (Sir,) his heir.
- i. Frances, who m. Gilbert Heathcote, Esq., M.D., of Cutthorp, in Derbyshire, and had, with two daus., a son, CORNELIUS HEATHCOTE, M.D., who m. Elizabeth Middlebrooke, of Thorn, in Yorkshire, and had issue, GILBERT HEATHCOTE, of whom presently, as successor to his great-uncle, SIR JOHN RODES.
John Heathcote, who d. aged 28, leaving, by Milicent Saterthwaite, his wife, two sons and two daus., viz.,
1. CORNELIUS, successor to his uncle.
2. John, d. unm.
1. Elizabeth, who m. to the Rev. Philip Acklom Reaston, rector of Barlborough, and d. in 1821, leaving a son.
CORNELIUS-HEATHCOTE REASTON, who inherited Barlborough from his uncle.
2. Mary, m. 1st, to — Miers, and 2ndly, to Captain Massey.
- ii. Anne, m. to William Thornton, of Bloxham.

Sir Francis Rodes d. in 1675, and was s. by his son,
SIR JOHN RODES, fourth Bart. of Barlborough, who d. unm. in 1743, and was s. by his grand-nephew,

GILBERT HEATHCOTE, Esq., who then became of Barlborough, and assumed the surname and arms of RODES. He d. unm. in 1768, when the estates passed to his nephew, CORNELIUS HEATHCOTE, Esq. of Barlborough, who also took the name of RODES. Dying unm. 6 March, 1825, aged 70, he was s. by his nephew, the REV. CORNELIUS-HEATHCOTE REASTON, who, adopting the surname of RODES, became the REV. CORNELIUS-HEATHCOTE REASTON-RODES, of Barlborough.

ROGERS OF DOWDESWELL.

ROGERS, HESTER, of Dowdeswell, co. Gloucester, s. her uncle, Edward Rogers, Esq., in 1810.

Lineage.

The Rogers's of Dowdeswell are a branch of the ancient and knightly* house of the same name, (as Camden observes in his "Britannia,") formerly of Bryanstone, co. Dorset, settled in Gloucestershire in the early part of the fifteenth century, and possessed, in different parts, of large estates. Dowdeswell has been the family residence since the time of HENRY VIII., and continues so, to the present period.

There appears to be much difficulty in tracing the regular line and pedigree prior to the institution of registers; and, indeed, subsequent to that period, some irregularity prevails, from papers of those early times having been misplaced and lost. The Dowdeswell register records several marriages with the Poultnes, Abbingtons, Higfords, Halfords, &c. &c., in Gloucestershire and other counties, in the years 1573 and 1575, and it is remarkable, that the earliest register of Dowdeswell commences with the baptism of Anthony Rogers, a descendant of Anthony, of Bryanstone.

There were branches settled in other parts of the co. of Gloucester,—one at Sandywell Park, the last male possessor of which was WILLIAM ROGERS, who m. Miss Mary Lawrence, of the Greuway, who had an only dau., Elizabeth. She m. 1st, Sir Walter Raleigh, (cousin of the great Sir Walter,) and 2ndly, Paul Dodwell, Esq.; by him she had several children, most of whom died young: among the survivors was Sir William Dodwell, knighted by Queen ANNE, who m. 1st, Anne, eldest dau. of Sir John Lethieulier, of Lewisham, co. Kent; and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Francis Fuller, Gent., relict of Thomas Miller, Esq., by whom he left one dau., Mary, an heiress, who m. Thomas Tracy, Esq. of Stanway, co. Gloucester, and had issue an only son, Dodwell-Tracy, who d. in the lifetime of his father. Mrs. Tracy surviving her husband, d. intestate, and the property passed to her distant relatives and heirs-at-law, by the names of Timbrell and Lightbourn. Leanna, dau. of Paul Dodwell, m. Henry Coxwell, Esq.

* There is a curious receipt, now in possession of the family, signed by John Tracy, Knt., for a fine paid, by William Rogers, Esq., for declining the honour of knighthood, dated 12 Oct. 1630.

of Turksdean, co. Gloucester, and had issue one dau., who m. Sir Henry Neithorp, Bart., co. Lincoln. Another branch of this family had considerable possessions at Haresfield; the chief estate was attached to the Moot Place, which was rebuilt by JOHN ROGERS, Esq. in 1670. John Rogers m. Mary, dau. of Poole Pauncefote, Esq. of Newent, (to whose ancestors the manor of Haresfield was granted by HENRY III.) and had issue, i. John, who d. in 1683, in the eleventh year of his age. He is described on his monument as being a lad of "rare piety, beauty, docibility, wit, and good nature," to whose memory the poet Dryden wrote the following beautiful epitaph, published in the first volume of his Miscellanies,—

"Of gentle blood, his parents' only treasure—
Their lasting sorrow, and their vanish'd pleasure—
Adorn'd with features, virtues, wit, and grace,
A large provision for so short a race:
More moderate gifts might have prolong'd his date,
Too early fitted for a better state;
But knowing heaven his home, to shun delay
He leap'd o'er age, and took the shortest way."

II. Mary, who m. Richard Poulton, who inherited Haresfield in 1683, and of his heirs it was purchased, in 1760, by Samuel Niblett, Esq.

In the 33rd ELIZABETH, WILLIAM ROGERS, of Dowdeswell, m. Catherine, dau. of William Hobhey, Esq. of Hales Abbey, co. Gloster, and had issue a son, who m. the sister of Sir Thomas Earle, merchant, of Bristol, and had issue, i. William, who m. Miss Packer, of Charlton Kings, but left no descendants; II. Philippa, m. to J. Applegarth, Esq.; and III. Margaret, who d. unm.

RICHARD ROGERS, Esq. of Dowdeswell, cousin to the above William, m. Mary, dau. of Browne, of the Hawthorns, Esq., and had two sons and two daus.,

I. WILLIAM, a Master of the High Court of Chancery, d. unm. in 1734.

II. JOHN, who m. and left three sons, viz., John, rector of Dowdeswell.
William, barrister-at-law.

RICHARD, who m. Mary, dau. of R. Lynch, Esq. of the Inner Temple, and had four sons and two daus.,

1. WILLIAM.
2. RICHARD, in holy orders, LL.B., who m. Miss Curtis, and had issue,
HESTER ROGERS, now of Dowdeswell.

Mary.
Anne, m. in 1796, to the Rev. Charles Coxwell, of Abington.

3. John, who m. Miss Appleyard, and had a dau., Anne, who m. 1st, Joseph Berwick, Esq. of Worcester, and 2ndly, William Welch, Esq., D.C.L., of Hawford, Worcester, Fellow of All Souls', and a Bencher of the Middle Temple.

4. EDWARD, of Dowdeswell, who d. unm. in 1810, having devised his estates to his niece, HESTER ROGERS.

1. Mary, m. to Daniel Lysons, Esq. of Hemsted Court, co. Gloucester, but had no issue.

2. Hester, m. to John Bright, Esq. of Totterton House, Ledbury, co. Hereford, but had no issue.

I. Elizabeth, who m. John Prynne, Esq. of Charlton Park, co. Gloster.

II. Eleanor, who m. to W. Hayward, Esq. of Quedgley, co. Gloster.

From the "Heraldic Visitation of Cornwall in 1620."—Harleian MSS.

‡ Tonkin, the historian of Cornwall, in his account of Guddern, writes thus: "This place hath been for several generations the seat, on lease, from the family of Boscawen, of the Bawdens; perhaps ever since the Alhalonda's time, although they were possessed of fair estates in fee elsewhere." Reginald Bawden, Esq., at the date of this history, (from 1702 to 1740,) was, as Tonkins says, the then possessor of Guddern.

Hals, another county historian, (from 1685 to 1736,) thus makes mention of it: "Guddarne in this parish, (Kea,) part of Blanchard manor, by lease, is the dwelling of Reginald Bawden, Gent., that married Pendarves; his father, Paynter; his grandfather, Trewoolia.

§ Her mother was Sarah, daughter and co-heiress of John Long, Esq. of Dorchester, of the family of Sir James Long, now extinct.

ii. Willoughby-Charles, b. 25 May, 1841.

Mr. Rokeby s. his brother, 6 July, 1844.

Lineage.

A celebrity has been given to the romantic beauties of "Rokeby," by Sir Walter Scott. Few persons visit the neighbourhood without observing with what extreme accuracy of observation and felicity of expression the bard has described the passage through the glen :—

"A stern and lone, yet lovely road,
As e'er the foot of minstrel trode;"

or view "Egliston's grey ruins," or "Rokeby's turrets high," without feeling that the charm of poetry is thrown over them.

The poet has touched upon the historical interest which belongs to Rokeby and Mortham, and has given what professes to be a pedigree of their ancient lords, but it was no part of his plan to enter critically into their history. We shall endeavour to do so more minutely, and present the reader with more definite information on the antiquity, the character, and eminent services of the family who held for many centuries this now classic spot. At the period of the Conquest, all the territory abutting on the Tees, at their southern border, was granted to Alan, Earl of Bretagne, and formed his English Earldom of Richmond. These broad lands were partitioned among the junior members of his family and his followers, and, in the distribution, Rokeby became part of the possessions of the Fitz Alans, a northern baronial house, whose chief seat was at Bedale. But their interest at Rokeby was scarcely more than nominal, for beneath them was a subinfeudation, in favour of a family which, residing on the lands of Rokeby, was usually described as "De Rokeby," and eventually assumed that name as a personal appellation. Tradition asserts that the family had been seated on these lauds in Saxon times, but it first appeared prominent in public affairs in the person of THOMAS DE ROKEBY, whose rise in royal favour is circumstantially related by Froissart. "In the first year of the reign of EDW. III.," says the old chronicler, "the Scots, under the command of the Earl of Moray, and Sir James Douglas, ravaged the country as far as Newcastle. Edward was in those parts with a more powerful army, and an engagement was expected and wished for, when the Scotch army suddenly disappeared, and no information could be gained respecting the route they had taken. The young king caused it to be proclaimed throughout the host, that whoever should bring certain intelligence where the Scotch army were, should have one hundred pounds a year in land, and be made a knight by the king himself: immediately fifteen or sixteen knights and esquires passed the river with much danger, ascended the mountains, and then separated, each taking different routes. On the fourth day, Rokeby, who was one of them, gave the king an exact information where the Scotch army lay." "This," says Hunter, the learned historian of Yorkshire, "is not a legendary story, invented by some family annalist, or doating chronicler of public affairs, the veracity of the narrative being here supported by the most authentic records of the realm; and it is a gratifying fact, that we are so often enabled to prove circumstances in our old chronicles which, on a first view, have an air of romance and fable, by fiscal documents where, least of all, anything imaginary is to be found." In the Patent Rolls, 1 EDWARD III., m. 7, is a grant to Thomas de Rokeby of 100*l.*, to be taken annually from the Exchequer, till 100*l.* lands shall be provided for him, in which the service is described nearly as it is related by Froissart; and in the same rolls, 5 EDWARD III., m. 7, is a grant to him in fee of the manor of Paulinesgray, in Kent, with lands in the North which had lately belonged to Michael and Andrew de Harcle, forfeited in release of his 100*l.* annuity from the Exchequer. Sir Thomas Rokeby subsequently held commands against the Scots, was twice high-sheriff of Yorkshire, and became (12 and 13 EDWARD III.) governor of the castles of Berwick, Edinburgh, and Stirling. In 1346, he pre-eminently distinguished himself at the battle of Neville's Cross, and was one of the few magnates present at that engagement to whom the letter of thanks was addressed, of which a copy is to be found in the Fœdera. In 1349, he went to Ireland as lord justice, and held that appointment until 1355, when Maurice Fitz Thomas, Earl of Desmond, succeeded him. The administration of Sir Thomas Rokeby in Ireland is famous for the attempt he made to abolish the custom of coigne and livery, a species of arbitrary purveyance for the persons in authority there; and a tradition has been handed down, attested by Holinshed, that being once censured for using wooden dishes and cups, as not benefiting his degree, Sir Thomas replied, that he would rather drink out of such cups, and pay gold and silver, than drink out of gold and silver, and make wooden payments. In the latter transactions of his life, Sir Thomas appears with the addition, "the uncle," to his name; and another Sir Thomas Rokeby occurs, styled "the nephew." He seems to have participated in the triumph of Neville's Cross, and to have accompanied the elder Rokeby to Ireland. A third SIR THOMAS ROKEBY was high-sheriff of Yorkshire 8th HENRY IV., and during the year of his shrievalty, the Earl of Northumberland made his last attempt to dethrone King HENRY; Sir Thomas, collecting the posse comitatus, met the Earl at Bramham Moore, and a conflict ensued, in which Northumberland and the Lord Bardolph were slain. The next Rokebys distinguished in state affairs were, WIL-LIAM ROKEBY, lord chancellor of Ireland and archbishop of Duhlin, who d. in 1521, and Sir Richard Rokeby, his younger brother, comptroller to Cardinal Wolsey. The archbishop was interred in a sepulchral chapel built by himself at Sandal Parva, in Yorkshire, and his tomb still remains. While this eminent churchman was running the race of high preferment, the eldest branch of the family remained quietly on the hereditary patrimony of Rokeby and Mortham. In the reign of HENRY VII. the head of the house was another

SIR THOMAS ROKEBY, who had three sons; the two younger were the ancestors of families of the name, resident at Marske and Staningford. The eldest son,

RALPH ROKEBY, Esq. of Mortham, who succeeded to the paternal inheritance, was living in the reigns of HENRY VII. and HENRY VIII. The era of the "jargon" of the Felon Sow, of Rokeby, which may be seen in the notes to the poem of Rokeby, refers to the time of this Ralph, and the Mrs. Rokeby mentioned in it is supposed to be his wife, Margaret, eldest dau. and co-heir of Robert Danhy, Esq. of Yaforth, and also cousin and co-heir of Sir Richard Conyers, Knt. By this lady he had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.
John, D.C.L., a learned divine and civilian.
Richard, a soldier under Lord Scroop, of Bolton, whose standard he is said to have borne at Flodden. He m. a dau. of Ellerker, of Risby, and had a son, Thomas, a military officer, who d. s. p.
Ralph, of Skiers, an eminent lawyer, made serjeant-at-law 6 EDWARD VI. He m. Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Danby, Esq., and had issue.

The eldest son,

THOMAS ROKEBY, Esq. of Mortham, is described by Ralph Rokeby, the historian of the family, as "a plain man as might he, whose words came always from his heart, without faining, a trusty friend, a forward gentleman in the field, and a great housekeeper." Thomas Rokeby m. a dau. of Robert Constable, of Cliff, in Yorkshire, and had, with a dau., m. to Wycliff, of Wycliffe, four sons,

i. CHRISTOPHER, of Mortham, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Roger Lascellas, of Brackenburgh, and had, with daus., two sons. The younger, Roger, d. s. p., the elder, JOHN, of Mortham, appears by the Visitation of Yorkshire, 1584, to have been then in prison in the Fleet, "religionis causa." He m. a dau. of the ancient family of Thweng, and was s. by his son, who bore the favourite family name of THOMAS, and was knighted. Of his descendants little more than their names are recorded. It would, otherwise, have been gratifying to have known something of the personal habits and actions of those in whose time the chief line of the ancient family of Rokeby fell to decay, and especially of Sir Thomas Rokeby himself, whose necessities must have been great (it may be presumed) when he disposed of the domain at Rokeby. The purchaser was William Robinson, Esq., and it remained with the Robinsons until sold to the father of the late John-B.-S. Morritt, Esq.

ii. Ralph, master of St. Katherine's, and one of the masters of Requests to Queen ELIZABETH.

The third son,

THOMAS ROKEBY, Esq. of Barnaby, m. Elizabeth, sister of Sir William Bury, Knt. of Grantham, Lincolnshire, and had, with six daus., five sons, namely,

i. William, of Ackworth Park, whose male issue became extinct in 1706, by the death of his son, Thomas, in that year.
ii. Thomas, (Sir,) Knt., sometime fellow of Catherine Hall, Cambridge, and afterwards of Gray's-Inn, who became one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench. To this gentleman, who d. s. p., there is a sumptuous monument in the chapel of Archbishop Rokeby, at Sandal.
iii. John, d. s. p.
iv. Joseph, who left (beside two daus., the elder, Elizabeth, m. to John Buxton, Esq., and the younger, to Richard Wyndlow, Esq. of York) an only son, Joseph, of New Building and Sandal, in Yorkshire, in whom vested the representation of the family from 1706 to 1741, in which year he d. s. p.
v. BENJAMIN, of whose line we have to treat.

Thomas Rokeby, of Barnhy, was slain at Dunbar, in 1650. His fifth son, BENJAMIN ROKEBY, Esq., m. Rehecca, only dau. and heir of Thomas Langham, Esq. of Arthingworth, in Northamptonshire, by whom he acquired that estate, and had an only son,

ROLLAND OF AUCHMITHIE.

ROLLAND, ROBERT, Esq. of Auchmithie, co. Forfar, a deputy-lieut. for that shire, and admitted on the roll of freeholders in 1831.

Lineage.

The Rollands representing the Craignytie branch of the ancient clan FARQUHARSON, we shall proceed with details of the latter until it merges in the former.

JOHN FARQUHARSON, of Craignytie, was fourth son of Finla Mor, fifth chief, who was slain at the battle of Pinkie, bearing the royal standard, in 1547. He m. 1st, a dau. of Forbes of Towie, and 2ndly, a dau. of Farquharson of Keillor, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM FARQUHARSON, of Craignytie, who m. a dau. of Patrick Ogilvie, and had three sons, namely,

i. WILLIAM, his heir.
ii. James, who m. a dau. of Guthrie of Kinblethmont, and was killed in Glenisla, by a party of Lochaber men. He left a son, David, of Pitlochrie, who m. a dau. of the Rev. Mr. Nevoy, of Glenisla, and was father of JAMES, of whom presently, as successor to his granduncle.
iii. Alexander, who was killed by Donald Robertson.

Col. Rolleston represents the Southern division of Nottinghamshire in parliament, and is chairman of the Quarter Sessions. He s. his father in 1807.

Lineage.

The family of ROLLESTON of ROLLESTON, co. Stafford, was of great antiquity in that shire, and an ample pedigree, commencing with "Henricus Rolleston de Rolleston Miles," and tracing the descent to the year 1614, is recorded in the Heralds' Visitations. Of this long-descended line, the Rollestons of Watnall are a branch, as testified by the following inscription:—

"In memory of Launcelot Rolleston, of Watnall, in co. Nottingham, Esq.: he was one of the branches of the family of ROLLESTON of ROLLESTON, in Staffordshire. He m. the dau. of George Poole, of Haye, in co. of Derby, Esq., with whom he lived very happily many years, until her death; and for his honour and steady loyalty to his prince he was made the sheriff of this county in the year 1682. A gentleman generally beloved in his country, but especially by his particular acquaintances. He was a great lover of the person he once contracted a friendship with, and not given to change. His visage was affable, and his conversation right and pleasant; very courteous, and approved by his neighbours, and charitable to all he knew in want. He died in the year 1685, in the 35th year of his age, making his loving cousin, Edward Rolleston, of Toynton, Lincolnshire, his executor, who erected this monument."

The grandfather of the present representative,

THE REV. JOHN ROLLESTON, of Watnall, m. Dorothy, sister of Sir Robert Burdett, of Foremark, co. Derby, and had a son,

The family of Roos, or Rose, was settled in Nairnshire in the reign of King ALEXANDER III. HUGH ROSE, of Geddes, by marriage with the heiress of the Bysets, acquired be lands of Kilravock, and had a crown charter of the barony from King JOHN, (Balliol.) From that period the estate has descended lineally to the present proprietor; and what is uncommon, every link of the pedigree is proved by documents among the public records, or in the family charter chest. In 1460, Hugh Rose, then of Kilravock, by a licence from the Lord of the Isles, built the present castle, which stands on the bank of the river Nairne. The Baron of Kilravock, in 1560, used a seal of the family arms, with the inscription—S. Hugonis ros Baronis, a style very unusual in Scotland, but which seems to have been adopted by many of the lairds of Kilravock.

HUGH ROSE, of Geddes, who m. the heiress of Kilravock, was son of HUGH ROSE, also of Geddes, living temp. ALEXANDER II. He d. about 1306, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM ROSE, of Kilravock, who m. Morella, dau. of Alexander de Down, and had two sons, HUGH, his heir; and Andrew, progenitor of the Roses of Auchlousen. Sir William d. in the beginning of the reign of King DAVID BRUCE, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, who m. Janet, dau. of Sir Robert Chisholm, of that ilk, constable of the Castle of Urquhart, and dying at the end of the reign of King ROBERT II., left a son and successor,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, living in the reign of Kings ROBERT II. and III., who was s. at his decease, in 1420, by his son,

JOHN ROSE, of Kilravock, served heir to his father 11 April, 1431, who m. Isabella Cheyne, dau. of the ancient family of Eslemont, and by her had four sons: Lauchan, who entered the church, and never married; HUGH, who became his father's heir; Alexander, of Duncarn; and William. He d. in 1454, and was s. by his second son,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, who built the old tower of Kilravock in 1460, and had a charter from King JAMES III., of Kilravock, Geddes, &c., 11 March, 1475, and in 1485, another charter of the lands of Culmore. He m. Moir, dau. of Malcolm Mackintosh, of that ilk, and had three sons, HUGH, his heir; ALEXANDER, progenitor of the ROSES OF HOLME, (which see :) and William. He d. in 1493, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, served heir to his father 20 May, 1496. He m. 1st, Isabel, dau. of William Sutherland, of Berrisdale, and relict of Alexander Dunbar, of Westfield; and 2ndly, in 1484, Lady Margaret Gordon, dau. of Alexander, first Earl of Huntly, and by the latter only had surviving issue, three sons: HUGH, his heir; John, ancestor of the Roses of Ballevit; and Alexander, ancestor of the Roses of Inch. He d. in 1517, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, who m. Margaret, dau. of Alexander Urquhart, of Cromarty, by whom he had three sons: HUGH, his successor; William, and John. He d. at the end of the reign of King JAMES V., and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH ROSE, of Kilravock, served heir to his father 31 Dec. 1544, who m. Catharine, dau. of Sir Alexander Falconer, of Halkerton, and had, (with other sons, who d. young,) WILLIAM, his successor, and eight daus., Janet, m. to David, eldest son of Robert Dunbar, of Durris; Marjory, m. to James Cuming, of Drumyne; Catharine, m. to William, eldest son of Alexander Urquhart, of Burdsyards; Margaret, m. to John Hay, of Lochloy; Isabel, m. to William Douglas, of Earls Milne; Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Walter Urquhart, of Cromarty; 2ndly, to Robert Munro, of Foulis; 3rdly, to Cumming of Ironside; 4thly, to William Gordon, of Cairnburrow; and 5thly, to Rothe-may; Agnes, m. to David Rose, of Holme; Helen, m. 1st, to Robert Innes, of Drynie; 2ndly, to John Rose, of Holme. This Hugh, who was sheriff of Ross, constable of the Castle of Inverness, was appointed justice depute and bailie of the lordship of Straithnairn and Cardel, by the Regent, Earl of Murray. He d. in the ninetieth year of his age, in 1597, and was s. by his only surviving son,

II. Clara-Susanna, m. to Rowland-Edward-Louis-Charles Williams, Esq. of Weston Grove, Surrey, and Claremont, Antigua, descended from the ancient family of Williams of Penrhyn, in the co. Carnarvon, and has issue two surviving sons.

III. Mary-Anne. IV. Fanny-Georgina.

Lineage.

We have no certain record from whom this family had its beginning; but that it was great and flourishing in the time of Kings ROBERT and DAVID BRUCE admits of not the slightest doubt.* In the latter of these reigns a dau. of the family was married to Sir John Drummond, of Concraig, predecessor of the Earls of Perth, and Drummond of Balloch afterwards married another dau. of Ross of Craigie, who was mother of John Drummond, Laird of Minab, as shewn in the genealogical history of the family of Perth, written by William Drummond, Viscount Strathallan.

The family of Ross continued eminent till about the middle of the reign of King JAMES VI., (I. of England,) when it began to decline, and was entirely ruined, and its estates carried off by many creditors in the beginning of the reign of King CHARLES I. JOHN ROSS, Laird of Craigie, a principal favourite with King JAMES V., (Knex's History,) was taken prisoner by the English at Solway Moss. He is mentioned in Baker's Chronicle, and called by an obvious mistake, John Ross, Lord of Grey, instead of Laird of Craigie. The Ross's of Craigie had a great estate near the town of Perth, and had intermarriages with several honourable families in that country, as Drummond of Concraig, Drummond of Balloch, Murray of Balvaird, (now Earl of Mansfield,) Seton of Lathrisk, Ogilvy of Inchmartin, and many others. They were hereditary governors of the Spey Castle, in Perth,* which office continued in the family till the Reformation, when the keys of the fortress were surrendered, under a protestation, to the provost and council, by John Ross, of Craigie. Among the records of the city is one, dated 30 June, 1461, in which Robert the Rosse, of Craigie, is a witness to a warrant remitting a fine imposed upon the provost and magistrates of Perth, for the destruction of the houses of Dupline and Aberdalgie; and there is another remission, by warrant under the great seal, dated 5 Feb. 1526, to the town of Perth, for having burnt the Castle of Craigie. The town of Perth was one of the strongest fortifications in the kingdom, surrounded with castles, the residences of powerful barons, who were often at war with one another, and with the magistrates of Perth. Ruthven, now Huntingtower, was the seat and fortress of the Ruthvens, Aberdalgie, and Dupline, of the Oliphants Craigie of the Rosses, Kinfauns of the Charteris, Gascon, Hall, and Fingask, of the Bruces, &c. &c.

* Nisbett's "Heraldry," vol. i. p. 416. Vol. ii. Appendix, p. 24.

From the Craigie line descended

PATRICK ROSS,† of Innerneathie, whose great-grandfather, Patrick Ross, sheriff-clerk of Perth, the grandson of Alexander Ross, second son of the Laird of Craigie, purchased these lands. The branch of Innerneathie has always carried the arms of Craigie, as appears by their seals, and the funeral monument of the above Patrick Ross, in the Grey Friars of Perth. They are allied in this and the preceding generations, since their descent from the house of Craigie, with the families of Norie of Noristoun, in Monteith, Monerief of Easter Monerief, Clark of Pitteuchar, Lindsay of Evelick, Seton of Lathrisk, Lindsay of Kilspindie, Pitcairn of Pitlour, Osborn of Peppermill, Sinclair of Balgrairie, Douglas of Strathenrie, Balfour of Denmiln, &c. Patrick Ross, of Innerneathie, m. in 1734, Susanna Douglas, of Strathenrie, co. Fife, a branch of the Earls of Morton, and had (with other issue) a second son,

PATRICK ROSS, a General Officer, who m. in 1777, Mary-Clara Maule, descended from the family of Panmure, and had issue, Major Ross-Lewin is a magistrate for Clare.

Lineage.

GEORGE ROSS, Esq. of Fortfergus, b. in 1621, was the first possessor of the family seat in Clare. He was descended from and bore, as sculptured on the church wall of Clondegad, near the spot where his remains are interred, the arms of the noble and once powerful Ross's of England. The LEWINS crossed St. George's Channel with Sir Richard Bingham, marshal of Ireland in 1586. The great-grandfather of the present representative,

JOHN ROSS-LEWIN, Esq. of Fortfergus, co. Clare, m. Anne Hastings, and his seal exhibits, in friendly juxtaposition, the silver canteens of the militant Ross's and the sable maunch of the togaed Hastings, those rival houses alternately masters of Belvoir, according as fortune smiled on York and Lancaster. Of this marriage there was issue,

HARRISON, of whom presently.

Barbara, m. in 1740 to Thomas Lewin, Esq. of Cloghans, co. Mayo. (See p. 725.)

The elder son,

HARRISON ROSS-LEWIN, Esq. of Fortfergus, high-sheriff of Clare in 1755, m. Hannah, dau. of John Westropp, Esq. of Maryfort, co. Clare, and has issue,

i. JOHN, of Fortfergus, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Dean Stackpoole, of Edenvale, co. Clare, and dying in 1792, left three sons, viz.,

1. JOHN, who raised men for a lieutenantancy in an infantry regiment, and went out to the West Indies, where he died.

2. William, who also died a minor in the West Indies.

3. George, who entered the navy, but soon left it for the army, purchasing a cornetcy in the 17th Light dragoons. He m. the dau. of Col. O'Toole by the Lady Catherine Annesley, his wife, and had an only son. This George Ross-Lewin became the victim of the villany of a pretended friend, and was deprived of his paternal estate of Fortfergus.

ii. GEORGE, of whose family we treat.

ROUNDELL OF GLEDSTONE AND SCREVEN.

ROUNDELL, RICHARD-HENRY, Esq. of Gledstone and Screven, co. York, b. 14 Dec. 1776, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Yorkshire, and High-sheriff of that county in 1835.

Lineage.

The Roundells are of remote antiquity, and have enjoyed property at Screven time immemorial. At Bowden, too, in Cheshire, they were at a very early period established, and so far back as the reign of WILLIAM RUFUS, we find, from an old pedigree,* that RANDULPHUS DE ROUNDELL, of Bowden, was seneschal to Hamon de Massy, Baron of Dunham Massy. In the martial time of EDWARD III., SIR REGINALD ROUNDELL, Knt. of Screven, co. York, and Bowden, co. Chester, fought in the van of the English army commanded by the Lord Audley under the Black Prince at Poitiers. He m. Jean, dau. of William Holme, of Tranmere, in Cheshire, and was father of HENRY ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven and Bowden, who m. Ursula, dau. of Thomas Winstanley, Esq. of Winstanley, co. Lancaster, and was s. by his son,

JOHN ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven and Bowden, who m. Isabel, dau. of Roger Cotgreave, Esq., lord of the manors

* The early descents of the family of Roundell are inserted on the authority of a very ancient pedigree of the Cotgreaves, stated to be the work of the celebrated Randle Holme, derived from documents compiled by Camden.

of Hargrave, Tarven, and Tatten Hall, Cheshire, living temp. HENRY V., lineally descended from Thomas de Cotgreave, second son of William de Belward, Baron of Malpas, by Mabelia, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Robert Fitz Hugh, Baron of Malpas, which Robert was nephew to Hugh Lupus, the first Norman Earl of Chester, temp. WILLIAM the Conqueror. By Isabel, his wife, John Roundell had a son and successor,

WILLIAM ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven and Bowden, who m. Constance, dau. of John Crosse, Esq. of Crosse Hall, Lancashire, by Matilda, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Walton, Knt. of Walton Hall, near Liverpool, and was father of

JOHN ROUNDELL, of Screven, near Knaresborough, in Yorkshire, living temp. HENRY VI., who m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Coke, of York. His great grandson,

RICHARD ROUNDELL, of Screven, living in the reigns of HENRY VII. and HENRY VIII., m., and had issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.

II. Christopher, great-grandfather of WILLIAM ROUNDELL, of Marston and Hutton Wansley, in Yorkshire, who m. Anna, dau. and sole heir of Edward Elwick, an alderman of York, and had a son,

RICHARD, of Hutton Wansley, who m. 1st, Frances, dau. of Sir William St. Quintin, Bart., and had one dau., Sarah, who m. 1st, Sir Darcy Dawes, son of Archbishop Dawes, and had a dau.,

ELIZABETH DAWES, m. to Edwin Lascelles, Esq., ancestor of the present Earl of Harewood.

Lady Dawes m. 2ndly, Beilby Thompson, Esq. of Eskrick, and had two sons and a dau., viz.,

1. Beilby Thompson, of Eskrick, who d. s. p.

2. Richard Thompson, of Eskrick.

1. Jane Thompson, m. Sir Robert Lawley, Bart., and had issue, Robert, Lord Wenlock, who d. s. p. in 1833; Sir Francis Lawley, Bart.; and Paul-Beilby Thompson, Esq. of Eskrick, created a peer as Lord Wenlock in 1839.

Richard Roundell, of Hutton Wansley, m. 2ndly, and had two other daus., viz.,

Mildred, m. to John Bouchier, Esq.

Catherine, m. to the Hon. Christopher Dawney.

In consequence of the extravagance of his elder son, Richard Roundell of Screven devised a moiety of his estates to his younger son, CHRISTOPHER, from whom they descended to and are now enjoyed by the Earl of Harewood and Lord Wenlock. His eldest son,

JOHN ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, m. Margaret, dau. of William Sill, Esq., and was s. at his decease by his elder son,

MARMADUKE ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, living in the time of ELIZABETH, who m. in 1558, Jane, dau. of Thomas Lowe, Esq., but dying issueless, was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, who d. in 1582, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM ROUNDELL, Esq. This gentleman appears to have been a juror at a presentment at the Castle of Knaresborough, 6 Aug. 1611, and to have been sworn before Sir Oliver Cromwell, master of his highness's game, Sir William Fleetwood, Knt., his Majesty's surveyor-general, Sir Henry Slingsby, Sir William Ingleby, deputy stewards, and Richard Hutton, serjeant-at-law, steward of the house and manor of Knaresborough. Mr. Roundell m. in 1591, Elizabeth Lightfoot, and had, with two daus., four sons, viz.,

III. JOHN, of whom presently.

IV. Thomas.

The third son,

JOHN ROUNDELL, Esq., b. in 1607, m. in 1685, Maria, dau. of — Wade, Esq., and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. Edward.

III. John, who seems to have held lands, and resided at Bondgate. He left two sons and four daus. at his decease, in 1708.

- iv. Henry, who d. in 1683, leaving one son and a dau.
- v. David, who d. in 1679, leaving an only dau., Mary, m. to George Johnson, Esq.
- i. Margaret, m. in 1688, to the Rev. Dr. Robert Ward, rector of Slingsby and Stokesley, and prebendary of York, by whom she had issue.
- ii. Anne, m. to John Lightfoot, Esq.

Mr. Roundell d. in Aug. 1657, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, b. in 1636, m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Brown, Esq. of Polespring, co. York, by whom (who d. 27 Dec. 1702) he had two sons and a dau., viz.,

Peter, who d. (in the lifetime of his father) anno 1683.
WILLIAM, heir.
Ann.

He d. in 1707, and was s. by his only surviving son;

WILLIAM ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, b. in 1666. This gentleman m. 1st, Ellen, dau. of — Oddy, Esq. of Kirby Malzeard, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Jane, dau. and co-heiress of Laurence Danson, Esq. of Spring House, and had (with two daus.) four sons,

- i. Peter, d. in infancy.
- ii. Mark, d. s. p. in 1735.
- iii. William, of Screven and York, M.D., m. Margaret, dau. of John Tomlinson, Esq. of York, and dying in 1762, left an only dau. and heiress, Margaret-Eleanor who m. John Toke, Esq. of Godinton, in Kent, high-sheriff of that county in 1770, and had, with two daus.,
1. Nicholas-Roundell Toke, of Godinton, b. in 1764, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Bouchier Wrey, Bart., and has an only surviving dau., Ellen-Maria, m. to her cousin, Rev. Henry-Bouchier Wrey.
2. John Toke, in holy orders, M.A. of Beakshourn, in Kent, who d. unm. in 1820.
3. William Toke, in holy orders, who m. Sarah, dau. of Rev. Dr. Marens West, and has issue.
- iv. DANSON, of whom presently.

The fourth and youngest son,

DANSON ROUNDELL, Esq. of Screven, a deputy-lieut. and justice of the peace for the West Riding of the co. of York, m. 19 Sept. 1739, Ellen, dau. and heiress of Christopher Hartley,* of Marton, in Craven, by whom he acquired that estate, and had two surviving sons. He d. 30 May, 1770, and was s. by the elder,

RICHARD ROUNDELL, Esq. of Marton and Screven. This gentleman commenced the erection of the splendid mansion of Gledstone, but d. before its completion. Not having married, he was s. by his brother,

THE REV. WILLIAM ROUNDELL, of Gledstone and Screven, A.M., a deputy-lieut. and justice of the peace for the West Riding. He m. in 1775, Mary, youngest dau. of the Rev. Henry Richardson, A.M., rector of Thornton, and granddau. of Richard Richardson, Esq. of Bierley, co. York, by whom he had issue,

RICHARD-HENRY, his heir.

William-Hartley, b. in 1780, who assumed, in 1786, the surname of CURRER, upon succeeding to a portion of the fortune, and in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his maternal uncle, JOHN CURRER, Esq. of Bierley, (fourth son of Richard Richardson, Esq. of Bierley,) who had himself taken his mother's name, upon inheriting her paternal estate at Kildwick. Mr. Hartley Currer d. 12 Feb. 1801, when that portion of the Currer estates passed to his next brother,

Danson-Richardson, M.A., b. in 1781, who assumed the surname of CURRER at the decease of his brother in 1801. (See CURRER.)

RUSSELL OF KILLOUGH.

RUSSELL, THOMAS-JOHN, Esq. of Killough, co. Down, present representative of the Ulster family of Russell, s. his father in 1840; m. 1st, in 1822, Marie-Christine, second dau. of the Marquis de St. Gery, by his wife, a dau. of the late Count de MacCarthy, of Toulouse; and 2ndly, in 1833, Marie-Josephine-Aglæ-Ferdinande, only dau. of the late Marquis de Flamarrens, by his wife, Marie-Christine de Riquet de Caraman, whose father was second brother to the head of the family of Caraman, now Ducs de Caraman, in France, and Princes de Chimay, in Belgium. The late Marquis de Flamarrens, lord of the bedchamber to CHARLES X., was sole heir and representative of the house of GROSSOLLES-FLAMARENS, one of the most illustrious among the old French nobility; claiming alliance with most of the sovereign houses of Europe by two princely marriages, one with the dau. of Gaston de Foix, the most accomplished sovereign of his age, and the other with Catherine d'Albret, niece to Jeanne d'Albret, Queen of Navarre, and mother to HENRY IV., King of France: the family of Flamarrens was four times invested with the great feudal charge of Grand Louvetier de France, only bestowed on persons of the highest note.

Lineage.

On the roll of Battle Abbey, among the distinguished individuals who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror to England, is to be found the name of RUSSELL; and in the "Testa de Neville," are many entries of this family. In page 165 of the printed copy appears the following entry:—"Johannes Russell, tenet Kingston, pro dimidio hido terræ de domino rege, ex tempore Willielmi Bastardi, quondam regis Angliæ, per sergentiam regis essendi marescallus die natali Domini, et ad Pentecosten." At page 73 of the same work are related the conditions on which this family held the "Honour of Russell"—"Honos Radulphi Russell." The honour was the highest fee held under the crown, having cognizance of all pleas, except the four excepted generally from counties palatine, and having the privileges of the highest baron in the realm: "principalis haronis regni jus habebat in arce." Therefore the said Radulphus had the rank of baron of the first class, and was seised of part of his honour in grand serjeantry, as one of the hereditary officers of the king's palace. It appears that several members of the RUSSELLS, in the reigns of RICHARD I., JOHN, HENRY III., and the first three EDWARDS, possessed manors in many parts of England, which they held by such noble tenure as conferred the rank of "magnates" and "majores" on their possessors.

In 2 HENRY III., 1216, the king granted to John Russell the custody of the royal forest and manor of Clarendon during pleasure. In 32 EDWARD I., WILLIAM RUSSELL was constable of the Isle of Wight. The ancestor of the Irish Russells of Killough, Rathmullen, Quoniamstown, and Ballystrew, in the co. Down, and the junior branches of Drynam and Scatow, in the co. Dublin, are descended from a cadet of the house of Kingston-Russell, who accompanied De Courcy in the conquest of the earldom of Ulster, from whom he received a grant of the lordships of Killough and Rathmullen, with cognizance of such pleas as constituted the possessor "unus haronum libertatis comitatus Ultoniæ," in which capacity he appears to have signed, with the Bishop of Down and Connor, and the abbots, priors, and other ecclesiastical barons of Ulster, the letter to King HENRY IV., which is to be found among the proofs of this pedigree.

REGINALD RUSSELL, son of Raymond Russell, of Maynhoo, co. Waterford, was summoned to the parliament of Ireland in 1309, as a peer of the realm, by the title of Lord Russell. His son and grandson held the rank of peers of Ireland; but, owing to the weakness of the English power in that kingdom during the succeeding ages, all the British subjects in every county in Ireland, except Dublin, Louth, Kildare, and Meath, lost their estates, or were compelled to adopt Irish names, customs, and laws. It is concluded that the Waterford family became extinct, as they do not appear afterwards on the records.

The more fortunate family of the earldom of Ulster preserved their estates and station until the time of CROMWELL, when the head of that branch was deprived of his lordships of Killough and Rathmullen; the comparatively small estates of Quoniamstown and Ballystrew, however, were still preserved to the Russells of Ulster, ("at the present day sole remaining branch, and proving a direct lineal descent from James Russell, of Quoniamstown and Ballystrew, third son of George, ninth baron of Killough, by his wife, Elinor Fleming, of the illustrious house of Slane.")

The Russells were seated very early in Ireland, in the counties of Cork, Limerick, Waterford, and Tipperary, in Munster; and also in Dublin, Kildare, Louth, and Meath, in Leinster; and the Russells of Down ("now representing the baronial family of Killough") came to Ulster with De Courcy. It appears by the records, that in all these places they held their lands by noble tenure, and occupied the highest rank in society. The Russells of Ulster have ever borne arms similar to those of the noble house of Bedford, ("the crest alone having occasionally been different,") and although the exact connexion cannot now be ascertained, there can be no doubt of their having a common origin with that family.

ROBERT RUSSELL, the common ancestor of all the noble families of this name, came to England with the CONQUEROR, as appears by the roll of Batt'e Abbey, and obtained the manor of Kingston-Russell, in Dorsetshire, holding it by the tenure of serving the king as marshal of the palace, and butler on Christmas-day and Whitsunday. His immediate descendants married into the distinguished Norman families, settled in England, of De Pomeroy, De Boteler, De Tilly, and D'Harcourt.

RADULPHUS RUSSELL, fifth in descent from Robert, and lord of the manors of Kingston-Russell and Athelinstone, in Dorsetshire, and of various others in different counties in England, obtained the dignity of the "Honour of Russell."

WILLIAM RUSSELL, his eldest son, m. the heiress of the family of Gorge, and was constable of the Isle of Wight. The elder branch of his family became extinct in the third generation; but

THOMAS RUSSELL, second son of Radulphus, and lord of the manor of Haverland, Wathe, and Rohorough, in the Isle of Wight, became the representative of the house of Kingston-Russell. From him descended the Russells of Chippenham, in the co. Cambrdge.

JACOB RUSSELL, second son of Robert Russell, of Kingston-Russell, and successor in his dignities to the Norman founder of the family, was lineal ancestor, in the tenth degree, to John Russell, first Earl of Bedford, in 1549.

MAURICE RUSSELL, second son of Theohald, great-grandson of Jacob, the direct ancestor of the Duke of Bedford, was the founder of the Waterford family of Lord Russell of Maynhoo, whose peerage became extinct in the third generation; but John Russell, second son of David, Lord Russell of Maynhoo, settled in the co. of Limerick, and was ancestor to the families of that name who may now exist there.

About a century before the arrival in Ireland of the Waterford family, a distinguished member of the name of Russell, in England, and a more immediate descendant of the Norman chief of this race, went to the sister island with the celebrated De Courcy, and accompanied him in the expedition and conquest of Ulster; the large estates granted to him in that province remained for more than five hundred years in the possession of his descendants, and the representative of his family at the present day still retains, after the lapse of nearly seven centuries, the remnant of the property granted to his ancestor, the Baron of Killough; which, confiscated with the other estates of this family in Ulster after the great rebellion, but yet undisposed of by the crown, was given back by CHARLES II. to the widow of the head of the Ulster Russells, killed in fighting for the royal cause, in order to prevent her from dying of absolute want. A family tradition narrates that, not having wherewithal to travel to London by any public conveyance, she was obliged to walk, and, perchance, beg her way from Holyhead to the capital.

THOMAS RUSSELL was Baron of Killough, in the county of Down, in the year 1316, and is supposed to have been fifth in descent from the companion of De Courcy. He had two sons, of whom the eldest,

JACOB RUSSELL, Baron of Killough and of Rathmollen, m. Maria, dau. of the chief of the family of Magennis, subsequently Lords Iveagh, and had issue. The second son, RICHARD RUSSELL, was created grand justiciary of Ulster, by letters patent of King RICHARD II., anno 1385, and chancellor of the same province in 1388. The eldest son, JACOB RUSSELL, 3rd Baron of Killough, m. Rohesia MacCartan, and was s. by his son.

GEORGE RUSSELL, Baron of Killough and Rathmollen, who m. Catherine, dau. of Hugh Boy O'Neill, of Claneboy, of the royal house of O'Neill, which circumstance did not prevent the Baron of Killough from signing, with the Bishop of Down and Connor, the Abbot of Bangor, and the other ecclesiastical barons of Ulster, a very curious petition to King HENRY IV., claiming aid and assistance against the invasions of the Scots of the outer isles, and other enemies of the king's power; and among these enemies the petition contains the name of the O'Neills, the Magennis, and the MacCartans, all nearly related to the family of Russell. An authenticated copy of this petition, which was signed by George Russell alone, of all the lay barons of Ulster, is among the records of the Herald's office at Dublin. George Russell was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM RUSSELL, Baron of Killough and Rathmollen, who m. Anne, dau. of Alexander Mor MacDonnell, of the family of the Earls of Antrim. By this marriage he had,

JOHN RUSSELL, Baron of Killough in 1490, who m. Johanna, dau. of Robert Savage, styled Dominus, or lord of the manor of Archeon, and was father of

HENRY RUSSELL, Baron of Killough &c., who m. Judith, dan. and heir of Carbery MacCann, of Mountnaught, and was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES RUSSELL, Baron of Killough, who m. Mary, dau. of Rowland Savage, of Portaferry, head of one of the most ancient families of Ulster, still seated at Portaferry, and had by her,

GEORGE RUSSELL, Baron of Killough &c., who m. Elinor, dau. of Richard Fleming, of the illustrious house of Slane, and was s. by his son, NICHOLAS RUSSELL, Baron of Killough, who, during the lifetime, and with the consent of his only son, PATRICK RUSSELL, last of the name styled Baron of Killough, and who d. without issue, sold his estate of Killough to his second brother,

GEORGE RUSSELL, Esq. of Sheep House, in the co. Meath, and also of Killough, co. Down, in consequence of the purchase of that old family inheritance from his brother, and of the death of his nephew. His son,

GEORGE RUSSELL, of Sheep House and Killough, m. Mary, dau. of Arthur Magennis, brother to the Lord Iveagh, and their eldest son,

RICHARD RUSSELL, of Sheep House and Killough, had by his wife, Jane, dau. of Hugh Dowdall, Esq., a son,

WILLIAM RUSSELL, of Sheep House and Killough, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Hussey, Baron of Galtrim, co. Meath, and their eldest son, called also WILLIAM RUSSELL, of Sheep House and Killough, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Hely, Esq. of Drogheda, but dying s. p., was s. by his brother,

THOMAS RUSSELL, who m. Catherine, dau. of Peter Clinton, Esq., named in the Russell pedigree, as belonging to the baronial house of Clinton, in England, now represented by the Duke of Newcastle, and by her left a numerous family of sons, of whom two were killed fighting for the cause of the Stuarts—one at Aughrim, and the other, Andrew Russell, captain in Lord Bellew's regiment at the battle of the Boyne; another member of this branch held a diplomatic appointment in Portugal, under JAMES II. Thomas Russell's second son,

JOHN RUSSELL, Esq. of Sheep House and Killough, m. Anne, dau. of William Gardiner, Esq. of Dublin, and had two sons, who d. without issue. By the extinction of this second branch of the Killough family, the RUSSELLS of QUONIAMSTOWN and BALLYSTREW (a property forming part and parcel of the barony of Killough) became the representatives of the Russells of Ulster, Barons of Killough. The founder of this branch, now presumed to be the only one remaining of this ancient family, was

JAMES RUSSELL, of Quoniamstown and Ballystrew, third son of George, ninth Baron of Killough, by his wife, Elinor Fleming, of Slane. He d. in 1605, leaving by his wife, whose name does not appear on the records, so imperfectly kept in those times of mistrust and civil commotion,

GEORGE RUSSELL, of Quoniamstown, Ballystrew, and Killough, who d. in 1645, leaving by his wife, Margaret, a son and heir,

PATRICK RUSSELL, who m. Maria, dau. of Cahill O'Hara, Esq. of Crebilly, co. Antrim, and had an eldest son,

PATRICK RUSSELL, who m. Alicia Hussey, of the family of the Barons of Galtrim, co. Meath, and by her was father of

VALENTINE RUSSELL, whose first wife was of the family of O'Hanlon, styled "princely" in the original pedigree; his second wife was of the illustrious house of Magennis, Lords Iveagh; by her he left a large family of daughters: by his first wife he had a son,

PATRICK RUSSELL, who m. Mary, dau. of John Crilly, Esq. of Kileurry, co. Louth, and had issue, a son and heir,

PATRICK RUSSELL, who m. Christina, dau. of Admiral Tyrrell, but leaving no issue, was s. by his brother,

THOMAS RUSSELL, who became representative of the Russells of Ulster, Barons of Killough. He m. Margaret, dau. of John Byrue, Esq. of Castletown, co. Louth, by whom he had,

PATRICK-HENRY RUSSELL, Esq. of Killough, Quoniamstown, and Ballystrew, co. Down, and of Ballinfull, co. Louth, who m. Frances-Maria-Theresa, dau. of Thomas MacMahon, Esq. of Drogheda, whose only son, lately deceased at his castle of Caumont, in Gascony, m. the dau. and co-heiress of the Marquis de Montgaillard, whose wife was of the illustrious house of Goutault-Biron. Patrick-Henry-Russell d. in the year 1840, leaving four sons,

I. THOMAS-JOHN RUSSELL, now the representative of the Ulster family.

II. William-James, capt. of dragoons in the Austrian service, married in Germany.

III. Henry.

IV. Edward-George d. at Mostaganam, in Western Africa, in Jan. 1842, having entered a volunteer into the Spahis of Oran, where he fell a victim to that insidious climate, and to the fatigues of the campaigns against Abd-el-Kader.

From the family of Russell of Killough were descended the two other branches in the co. Down, of Ballyvastan and Rathmullen, sprung from Christopher Russell, styled "Lord" of Rathmullen, by his wife, Mary, dau. of Rowland Savage, of Portaferry. These two branches became extinct after five generations; having formed alliances with the Taaffes, Lords Carlingford; Wards, now Lords Bangor and Ward; the Savages; and other old and distinguished names of Ulster. The greater portion of the Rathmullen estate, which was considerable, was transferred by intermarriages to other families. The Russells of Drynam and Seatown, co. Dublin, are supposed to be descended from a junior branch of the Ulster family; to this branch belonged the catholic Archbishop of Dublin of that name, who d. a peer of parliament, at the close of the 17th century; as also the members in the Irish house of Commons for the borough of Swords, during the reign of the last of the Stuarts.

RUSSELL OF ADEN AND MONCOFFER.

RUSSELL, JAMES, Esq. of Moncoffer and Aden, co. Aberdeen, m. 11 Oct. 1832, Miss Lambton, of Gunton Park, co. Norfolk, and has issue,

- I. ALEXANDER-CUMMING, b. 17 Aug. 1833.
- II. James-George-Ferguson, b. 11 Feb. 1834.
- III. Francis-Shirley, b. 13 Dec. 1840.
- I. Katherine-Georgiana, d. 7 Sept. 1843.

Mr. Russell is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Aberdeenshire.

Lineage.

This family is of great antiquity, its ancestors having accompanied EDWARD III. to the siege of Berwick, and to the battle of Hallydon Hill, in 1333. The RUSSELL, or, as it was formerly written, ROZEL, from whom this family descends, then settled in Scotland, and was denominated RUSSELL, of that ilk. He had one dau., who m. a cadet of the family of Ramsay, who, in consequence, assumed the additional surname and arms of RUSSELL. The descendants, during several generations, possessed estates in Roxburghshire, Galloway, &c. In 1600, ALEXANDER RUSSELL purchased considerable property in and near Elgin, where he afterwards resided, and was provost or chief magistrate of that city. He had three sons,

- I. ALEXANDER, his successor, who also was provost of Elgin for many years, and had one son, Alexander, who was a very learned man.
- II. PATRICK, of whom we treat.
- III. James.

The second son

PATRICK RUSSELL, b. in 1630, s. to a large bequest from an uncle. He m. 1st, Catherine Sharpe, sister of James Sharpe, Archbishop of St. Andrews, (who was barbarously murdered, 3 May, 1679,) and 2ndly, in 1696, Catherine, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Sir John Campbell, Bart. of Lundie, by Helen, his wife, dau. of John Aheromby, of Glassaugh, and by the latter had issue,

ALEXANDER, his heir.

John, who m. 1st, Margery, dau. of Mackintosh of Blernie, and 2ndly, Margaret, eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Calder, Bart. of Muirton, and by the latter had a son, Thomas, who bought the lands of Rathen and Blairmormond, in Aberdeenshire.

Mr. Russell purchased, in 1680, the lands of Catholm and part of Moncoffer, and dying in 1713, was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER RUSSELL, Esq. of Moncoffer, b. in 1697, who m. in 1718, Katherine, eldest dau. of Alexander Skene, Esq. of that ilk and Ruhieslaw, and by her had a son, ALEXANDER, of whom presently; and three daus., Jane, Catherine, and Mary. He d. in 1733, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER RUSSELL, Esq. of Moncoffer, who m. 1st, in 1748, Margaret, youngest dau. of Charles Hay, Esq. of Rannes, and by her (who d. in 1760) had a numerous family, all of whom d. young or unm., except a dau., Helen, who m. Alexander Gordon, Esq. of Letterfourie, father of Sir James Gordon, premier baronet of Scotland. Mr. Russell m. 2ndly, in 1767, Eliza, 2nd dau. of Alexander Innes, Esq. of Rosieburn, son of Sir John Innes, Bart. of Edengicht, and by her had,

ALEXANDER, his heir.

James, d. young.

George, m. his cousin, Catherine, dau. of Thomas Russell, of Ruthen.

Anna, m. to her cousin, John Russell, Esq., capt. R.N.

In 1755, Mr. Russell sold the estates of Moncoffer &c., in Banffshire, to his cousin, (by his mother, Katherine Skene,) William, Lord Braco, afterwards Earl of Fife, and purchased the lands of Aden, and other estates in Aberdeenshire. He d. in 1798, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER RUSSELL, Esq. of Aden, who m. in 1792, Margaret, dau. and heiress of James Cumming, Esq. of Kinninmouth, by Sophia, his wife, dau. of Lord Forbes of Puttochie, and by her (who d. in Feb. 1841) had issue,

- I. ALEXANDER, his heir.
- II. JAMES, present representative.

- III. George, m. in 1836, Olivia, widow of Lister Ellis, Esq. of Liverpool, and dau. of — Garforth, Esq. of Yorkshire.
- IV. Charles, d. unm. in 1840.
- I. Margaret, d. in 1826.
- II. Mary, m. to Colonel Irwin, and d. in 1834.

Mr. Russell d. in January, 1829, and was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER RUSSELL, Esq. of Aden, who d. unm. in July, 1831, and was s. by his brother, the present JAMES RUSSELL, Esq. of Aden.

RUSSELL OF BRANCEPETH CASTLE.

RUSSELL, WILLIAM, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle, co. Durham, s. his father 8 May, 1822, and was returned in two successive parliaments for the county of Durham. He supported the Reform Bill, by which he lost his boroughs of Bletchingley and Saltash, consisting of three seats.

Lineage.

The RUSSELLS are of considerable antiquity in Cumberland. In many of the early entries in the church registers of Millam, they are described as Russells de Duddon Bridge, and de Arnabie; by an intermarriage with the ancient family of Taylor, they acquired the estate of Rowenlands, to which they removed between the years 1652 and 1657, and they continued to abide there until 1803, when, in consequence of the demise, issueless, of the elder brother, the property passed to William Russell, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle, who having himself realized a very considerable fortune in the county of Durham, alienated the acquisition, and it became the possession of R. Postlewaite, Esq. of Broughton in Furness. Unfortunately, the early registers are so defective, that no very continuous pedigree can be made out before the year 1598, and the baptismal records commence with 1500.

JOHN RUSSELL, Esq. of Arnabie, dying in 1608, was buried at Millam, and s. by his son,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, Esq. of Arnabie, who had issue,

MATTHEW, his heir.

Richard, who d. 1 Dec. 1638.

Elizabeth.

Margaret.

The elder son and heir,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, Esq. of Arnabie, b. 19 March, 1615, intermarrying with the Taylor family, acquired the estate of Rowenlands, and dying 27 Jan. 1684, had a son and successor,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, Esq. of Rowenlands, b. 15 Feb. 1657-58, who had (with two daus., Elizabeth and Bridget) two sons, viz.,

ROBERT, his heir.

Matthew, b. 2 Aug. 1685, who settled at Sunderland as a merchant, in 1700, and upon his demise, issueless, in 1760, devised half his fortune, which was very considerable, to his nephew William, late of Brancepeth Castle. In Sunderland churchyard a beautiful monument is erected to his memory.

Matthew Russell d. 28 Feb. 1695, and was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT RUSSELL, Esq. of Rowenlands, b. 8 Oct. 1682, who had issue,

MATTHEW, his heir.

WILLIAM, successor to his brother.

Robert, b. in Sept. 1737, who went out to India as a merchant, and there died.

James, b. 6 March, 1744, d. in Aug. 1745.

Robert Russell d. 22 March, 1757, and was s. by his son, without issue, at Rowenlands, in Jan. 1803, and was s. by his next brother,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, Esq., b. 31 March, 1733, who d.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle, b. in 1734. This gentleman, who sold the estate of Rowenlands, was distinguished for liberality and benevolence. Among many similar instances may be mentioned, an hospital at Corisay, co. Durham, which he built and endowed, for a considerable number of aged and infirm persons of both sexes, with a chapel for divine service, and a school attached for a large establishment of boys and girls. During the war in 1803, he raised a corps of volunteer infantry, consisting of two full companies, which he armed, clothed, and completely equipped at his own expense; he was also chiefly instrumental in raising the Usworth troop of yeomanry cavalry, and in the distresses on the termination of the war, he received and maintained the poor, coming from all quarters, in barracks constructed for the purpose, where every comfort was provided, while he kept alive their habits of industry, by engaging such as were able in various works on his extensive estates. Mr. Russell m. 1st, Mary, dau. and co-heir (with her sisters, Elizabeth, wife of Robert Allan, Esq. of Sunnyside, co. Durham, and Anne, wife of John Maling, Esq. of Bishopwearmouth Grange, in the same shire) of Robert Harrison, of Sunderland, near the sea, a merchant of considerable wealth. By this lady he had (with two daus., Mary, m. to Col. Bunbury; and Margaret, m. to General Sir Gordon Drummond, G.C.B., and had, with a dau., the present Countess of Eppingham, two sons, Gordon, col. Coldstream-guards, and Russell, lieutenant. R.N., killed in South America) a son, MATTHEW. He m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Edward Milbanke, Esq., granddaughter of Sir Ralph Milbanke, Bart. of Halnaby, co. York, but had no further issue. He d. in 1817. His only son and heir,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle, vice-lieutenant for the co. Durham, on leaving Trinity College, Oxford, accepted a company in the Durham militia, and was subsequently major of the regiment. In 1801 he was returned member for Saltash, (one of his father's boroughs,) and continued to serve in parliament until his death in London, 8 May, 1822. He rebuilt the greater part of Brancepeth Castle, and it is now one of the most noble edifices in the north of England. He m. Elizabeth, sister of the Right Hon. Charles Temyson D'Eyncourt, M.P., and had issue,

WILLIAM, present proprietor.

Emma-Maria, m. 9 Sept. 1828, to the Hon. Gustavus-Frederick Hamilton, only son of Gustavus, present Viscount Boyne, and has issue, a son, Gustavus-Russell, b. 28 May, 1830; and a daughter, b. at Rome, in Feb. 1834, d. next day.

Mr. Russell d. universally lamented, 8 May, 1822, and was s. by his only son, the present WILLIAM RUSSELL, Esq. of Brancepeth Castle.

Arms, &c.—See BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

Seats—Brancepeth Castle, and Hardwick, co. Durham; and Brysdale Abbey, Yorkshire.

RUSSELL OF ASHIESTEEL.

RUSSELL, MAJOR-GEN. SIR JAMES, K.C.B., E. I. Co.'s service, of Ashiesteel, co. Selkirk, b. 17 Aug. 1781; m. 18 Dec. 1834, Katherine-Mary, fourth dau. of Sir James Hall, Bart. of Dunglass, by the Lady Helen Douglas, his wife, dau. of the fourth Earl of Selkirk, and has two daus., Helen-Jane-Mountstuart, and Katherine-Anne. Sir James Russell is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for co. Selkirk.

Lineage.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, Esq. of Ashiesteel, who d. in 1745, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel Matchelson, Esq. of Middleton, co. Mid-Lothian, N.B., was s. by his son, Major-Gen. Russell, who s. his father in Jan. 1832, is a magistrate for Shropshire.

Lineage.

This family was established in North America, in the earlier part of the 17th century, and is undoubtedly derived from the Russells of Herefordshire and Little Malvern; but, in consequence of the destruction by fire of the town of Charlestown, wherein the ancestors of General Russell resided, and in which the documents taken to America by Richard Russell were destroyed, it is difficult to ascertain the precise line of descent. The signet ring which belonged to the first emigrant of the family, has descended to General Russell, and exhibits the exact ensign of the Herefordshire and Little Malvern House, impaled with the arms of his wife, Mary Neville, being those of the Nevilles of Rostell, viz., Gu., on a saltier, ar., a martlet of the field.

RICHARD RUSSELL, b. in Herefordshire, in 1611, went to Charlestown, in America, about 1630-40, m. Mary Chester, widow, whose maiden name was Neville, and d. 1676. He represented the town in the general court from 1646 to 1659, when he was chosen a councillor, in which office he continued till his death. He was treasurer of the province for more than twenty years. His eldest son,

JAMES RUSSELL, Esq., b. 4 Oct. 1646, s. his father in his public offices. He m. 1st, Mahel, dau. of Governor Haynes, who d. leaving eight children; 2ndly, Mary Holyoake, who d. leaving one dau.; 3rdly, Mary Walcott, who d. leaving one dau.; and 4thly, Abigail-Katherine, whose maiden name was Curwen, who d. leaving one son. He d. 28 April, 1739, and was s. by his son,

DANIEL RUSSELL, Esq., who was, for upwards of twenty years, member of his majesty's council and commissioner of imports, and treasurer of the co. Middlesex for more than fifty years. He m. 1st, Rebecca, dau. of Charles Chambers, Esq.; and 2ndly, Abigail Foye, widow, by the former of whom he had two sons,

I. CHAMBERS, appointed by the lords of the Admiralty, temp. George II., judge of the Admiralty for Mississippi, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire, and was a judge of the Supreme Court. He never had but one decree reversed during forty years. He m. Mary Wainwright, granddau. of Governor Dudley, and d. in London, 23 Nov. 1766, (and was buried in Bunhill Fields,) leaving no issue.

II. JAMES.

The second son,

JAMES RUSSELL, Esq. of Charlestown, near Boston, judge of the Court of King's Bench, North America, b. 5 Aug. 1715, m. in 1738, Katherine, dau. of the Hon. Thomas Graves, and by her (who d. in 1778, aged sixty-one) he left at his decease, 24 April, 1798,

I. Charles, d. without male issue.

II. Thomas, d. s. p. m.

- vi. Isabella-Anne.

Mr. Oliver-Rutherford, sheriff and convener of Roxburghshire, s. his uncle in 1834, and assumed the surname and arms of RUTHERFURD.

Lineage.

The traditional account of the origin of this ancient family is, that a man of distinction on the borders having conducted RUTHER, King of the Scots, safely through the river Tweed, on an expedition against the Britons, at a place, from that event, called Rutherford, the king, after the expedition was over, bestowed some lauds contiguous thereto upon his faithful conductor, from which his posterity assumed the name of Rutherford as soon as surnames became hereditary in Scotland. Be this as it may, certain it is the family of Rutherford, of that ilk, from which several other considerable families of that surname in the south of Scotland are descended, have always been classed amongst the most ancient and powerful families in Teviotdale, on the borders of England, where a race of brave and gallant men who on many occasions signalized themselves and fought valiantly against their enemies in defence of the liberties of their country.

ROBERTUS DOMINUS DE RUTHERFURD is witness to a charter granted by DAVID I. to Jervanus Ridal, anno 1140.

NUGO DE RUTHERFURD, witness in a grant by Philip de Valon, of the lands of Terpenhow, in Northumberland, to Robert de Stuteville, &c., ou or before 1215, in which year Philip de Valon died, was father of

SIR NICHOL DE RUTHERFURD, who flourished in the reign of King ALEXANDER III., and is mentioned in a charter of that prince, anno 1261. He is witness also in several donations to the monastery of Kelso, and is designed Nicholaus de Rutherford Miles, in the years 1270 and 1272. He had issue two sons,

- i. SIR NICHOL, his heir.
- ii. Aymer de Rutherford, who, with many of his countrymen, were compelled to swear allegiance to King EDWARD I. of England, anno 1296.

He was s. by his son,

SIR NICHOL DE RUTHERFURD, who appears to have had considerable possessions, for after King EDWARD I. had overrun Scotland, we find him swearing fealty to him for his lands lying in different counties, and is designed Nicholaus de Rutherford Chevalier, Dominus Nicholaus de Rutherford, &c., anno 1296. He was father of

SIR ROBERT RUTHERFURD, designed Dominus de eodem, a great patriot, and steady friend of King ROBERT BRUCE. He is eminently distinguished in the Scotch histories for his many services against the English, and is particularly mentioned as a brave and gallant man in Barber's history of Bruce. He had a son and successor,

SIR RICHARD RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, witness in a charter granted to the abbacy of Coupar, and designed Richardus Dominus de Rutherford, anno 1328. He was s. by his son,

WILLIAM RUTHERFURD, who, in a donation to the monastery of Kelso, is designed Gulielmus de Rutherford Dominus ejus de eodem, anno 1354. He had a son,

SIR RICHARD RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, a distinguished favourite of King ROBERT III. In a confirmation of that prince of a charter of William Turnhull, of Minto, Gulielmo Stuart nepoti suo Richardus de Rutherford Dominus ejus de eodem, is a witness, anno 1390. This Sir Richard being a man of parts, was appointed one of the ambassadors-extraordinary to the court of England anno 1398, and managed his negotiation with great dexterity and prudence; soon after this he and his sons were made wardens of the marches, anno 1400, and did their country signal benefit in repelling the insurrections on the borders. He m. Jean Douglas, by whom he had three sons,

JAMES, his heir.

John, of Chatto &c.; he was ancestor of Rutherford of Hunthill, who at last enjoyed the honours and title of Lord Rutherford.

Nichol, who got charters under the great seal of the lands of Grubert, Mackerston, and others, anno 1426 and 1430. He was ancestor of the Rutherfurds of Hunderlee.

The eldest son,

JAMES RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, was, with his brother Nichol, appointed guarantee of a treaty with the English, anno 1449. He got charters under the great seal, Jacobo Rutherford de eodem, of the lands of Leithbertshiels and many others, annis 1451 and 1452. He died soon thereafter, leaving a son and successor,

JAMES RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, who, in a gift of patronage of the kirk of Rutherford, is designed filius et haeres quondam Jacobi Rutherford de eodem, 13 July, 1457. He appears to have been in great favour both with King JAMES II. and JAMES III. He was named one of the conservators of a truce with the English in 1457, and afterwards appointed one of the wardens of the marches in 1459. He was appointed one of the commissioners for setting the marches on the borders, under the designation of James, Lord Rutherford, anno 1484. He afterwards got a charter from JAMES IV., terram baroniæ EDGERSTON, 15 Jan. 1492; also another charter, from the same prince, of the lands of Rutherford and Wells to himself and Richard Rutherford, his grandson, which falling, to his second son and apparent heir, and his heirs male, &c. The confirmation is dated the said 15 Jan. 1492. He d. in the year 1493, having had, by Margaret Erskine, his wife, a dau. of the Lord Erskine, PHILIP, his apparent heir.

John.

THOMAS, who at last became heir male of the family, as will be shown hereafter.

Robert. Andrew.

Christian, m. Sir Robert Kerr, only son and apparent heir of Sir Walter Kerr, of Cessford, ancestor of the Duke of Roxburghe.

PHILIP RUTHERFURD, eldest son and apparent heir, m. Elizabeth, dau. of the said Sir Walter Kerr, of Cessford, (the two fathers being the parties contractors,) by whom he had a son, RICHARD, who s. his father, and two daus.,

i. HELEN, m. 1st, Sir John Foreman, of Davine, and 2ndly, Andrew Rutherford, of Hunthill, but she had no issue by either.

ii. CHRISTIAN, m. to James Stewart, of Traquair; she became the heir of line of the Rutherfurds of that ilk, on which account the family of Traquair have ever since continued to quarter the arms of Rutherford with their own.

RICHARD RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, was served heir to his grandfather, James, 5 May, 1499, but d. s. p., whereupon his uncle,

THOMAS RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, served himself heir male. He had several disputes with the heirs female of the line, but eventually succeeded. Heleu, Richard's eldest sister, reduced the service of Thomas, as heir of line, and she dying without issue, as before observed, Sir William Stuart, of Traquair, grandson of Christian, served himself heir to the said Helen, and got the lands of Rutherford and Wells confirmed to him, as heir of line, but the lands and barony of Edgerston remained with the male heir, viz., Robert, son of the said Thomas, who got a confirmation of the charter under the great seal of the said lands of Edgerston, 13 Jan. 1559. This

ROBERT RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, had feuds most part of his life with the Stuarts of Traquair and their allies, the heirs of Cessford, as well as with his English neighbours. His son,

THOMAS RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, commonly styled the Black Laird of Edgerston, became, by his courage and address, the terror of the borders, and many of his exploits against the enemy are recorded in the history of the family. Sir William Carmichael, when warden of the Middle Marches, in the minority of Queen MARY, being surprised and routed by the enemy on the Reeds-wair, the Black Laird came to his assistance with his followers, and not only repulsed the invaders, but killed or took most of them prisoners, as the histories of those times relate, as well as historical ballads which are sung to this day. He was father of

RICHARD RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, who m. a dau. of Larriestons, by a dau. of the Laird of Buccleugh's, chief of the Elliots, a powerful clan then in Liddesdale. He d. young, and was s. by his son, a minor,

ROBERT RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, who m. Margaret Riddell, a dau. of Riddell, of that ilk, and had a numerous issue, of which the eldest son was

JOHN RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, who raised a troop of horse in 1638, participated, in the following year, at the capture of Newcastle, and continued with the army until the king's surrender caused his retirement in disgust. Rutherford joined afterwards the forces that marched into England, under the Duke of Hamilton, for the deliverance of King CHARLES from his captivity in the Isle of Wight, and were defeated at Preston. He became, subsequently, an officer of distinction in the army raised for the purpose of restoring CHARLES II. in 1650, but in the engagement which ensued at Dunbar, wherein the royalists were routed by CROMWELL, Rutherford was severely wounded, and his whole troop slain, with the exception of five men. After the Restoration, he commanded an independent troop of horse for keeping good order on the borders, and was always one of the chief commissioners of the crown for trying thieves &c. in a summary way, so that by his diligence he quite reformed the district. He m. Barbara Abernethy, dau. of the Bishop of Caithness, brother of Lord Saltoun, by a dau. of Murray of Philiphaugh, and had, with twelve daus., four sons,

- I. JOHN, who d. before his father, unm.
- II. ANDREW, the entailor of Edgerston, who s. his father in 1682, but d. unm.
- III. THOMAS, of whom presently.
- IV. Robert, who m. a dau. of Philiphaugh's, acquired the lands of Bowland, and had a numerous issue.

The third son,

THOMAS RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, succeeded his father, and brother Andrew, who d. without lawful issue in 1718. He also acquired the lands of Bonjedward and Mount-hooly, together with the lands of Hunthill and Scraishburgh, from Robert, Lord Rutherford, who likewise assigned to Thomas (with the estate) the title of Lord Rutherford, in like manner as it had been assigned to his brothers and to him by the Earl of Teviot, by virtue of the patent, which was the only right they had. But Thomas esteeming a Scots' peerage rather a loss than an advantage, contented himself with assigning it in like manner to his son and successor, who likewise declined claiming it. It was, however, assumed by Captain John Rutherford, collateral heir male, descended from Richard Rutherford, of Littlehaugh, and since by others. He m. Susanna, dau. and heiress of Riddell, of Minto, of the ancient family of Riddell, of that ilk, by Catherine Nisbet, sister to Sir John Nisbet, of Dirleton, lord-advocate and senator of the College of Justice, and had one son and five daus.,

- I. JOHN, who was knighted in 1706, when young, during his father's lifetime, by an order from her Majesty to the Duke of Queensberry, who then represented her as high commissioner to the parliament of Scotland. He s. his father.

- I. Barbara, m. to William Elliot, of Swinside,
- II. Jane, m. 1st, to George Wilkie, of Brigg-haugh; and 2ndly, to William Douglas, of Timpendean.
- III. Susan, m. to Robert Alder, of Pendrick.
- IV. Agnes, m. to James Adams, of Whitslade.
- V. Violet, m. to Robert Scott, of Falfash.

The only son,

SIR JOHN RUTHERFURD, of that ilk, s. his father, who d. in 1720. He m. in 1710, Elizabeth Cairncross,* heiress of that most ancient and honourable family of Colmslie, and had nineteen children, eight of whom d. young, the survivors were,

- I. JOHN, b. 12 June, 1712.
- II. William, who d. in 1748, unm.
- III. Thomas, who m. Martha Town, of York, and d. in 1749, leaving two sons, Richard, capt. R.N., who d. at Inverness, in Jan. 1796, aged 50; and John, who d. at Jedburgh, 12 Jan. 1830, aged 83.
- IV. Robert, many years a merchant at Leghorn, and afterwards a baron of the Russian empire, d. unm.
- V. James, who d. in Aug. 1742.
- VI. Walter, who m. Mary Alexander, sister to the Earl of Stirling, by whom he had issue, a son and a dau.
- VII. Hugh, an officer in the navy, d. in 1749, unm.
- I. Susanna, m. in Dec. 1740, to Alexander Pringle, Esq. of Whitebank.
- II. Mary, m. to Sir Alexander Nisbet, of Dean.
- III. Elizabeth, m. to John Horsburgh, Esq. of that ilk.
- IV. Jane, m. to Charles Inglis, of Manner and Mannerhead, and clerk of the Bill Chamber, Edinburgh.

Sir John m. 2ndly, in 1741, Sarah, sister of Sir Alexander Nisbet, Bart., by whom he had also a son and a dau., viz.,

Henry, who inherited Hunthill; he m. Agnes Lauder, and had issue.

Christian, m. to Dr. Davidson, of Hatton and Muirhouse, and a minister of Edinburgh.

The eldest son,

JOHN RUTHERFURD, Esq. of Edgerston, advocate, b. 12 June, 1712, was chosen M.P. for the shire of Roxburgh in June, 1734. He m. in Nov. 1737, Ellenor, dau. of Sir Gilbert Elliot, of Minto, lord of session, by whom he had eleven children, of whom three sons and four daus. survived youth,

JOHN, his heir.

Robert, killed in a mutiny of the Sepoys, at Vellore, in India, about the year 1770.

Archibald, a capt. in one of his Majesty's regiments, d. at Dublin, in 1790.

Ellenor, d. unm. in Edinburgh, in Oct. 1822.

Elizabeth, m. to Andrew St. Clair, of Herdmanston, and was mother of Lord Sinclair.

Jane, m. William Oliver, of Dinlahyre, sheriff-depute of the co. Roxburgh, d. in June, 1820, and left a numerous issue, besides the present WILLIAM-OLIVER RUTHERFURD, Esq. of Edgerston, three other sons and four daus., viz., Archibald, major E.I.C.S.; Samuel; John (who has a son, William, and a dau.); Eleanor, m. to Professor James Russell; Violet, m. to Col. David Richardson; Elizabeth, m. to Henry Young, M.D.; and Agnes, m. to Archibald Little, Esq. of Shabden Park, Surrey.

Agnes, d. unm. in Dec. 1840.

Mr. Rutherford was again chosen to represent the co. Roxburgh in parliament in June, 1741, but afterwards accepted an independent company at New York, and was killed at the battle of Jecondarego, in the year 1758. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN RUTHERFURD, Esq. of Edgerston, b. in 1748, who m. 15 June, 1787, Mary-Ann, only dau. of the Hon. Major-General Alexander Leslie, but had no issue. He sat in parliament for the co. Selkirk, and afterwards for the co. Roxburgh, of which he was also vice-lieutenant and colonel of the local militia. He d. in 1834, and was s. by his nephew, the present WILLIAM OLIVER RUTHERFURD, Esq. of Edgerstone.

RUXTON OF ARDEE HOUSE.

RUXTON, WILLIAM, Esq. of Ardee House, co. Louth, and Shercock, co. Cavan, b. 26 April, 1823; s. his father in 1826.

Lineage.

The Ruxtons are of long standing in the county of Louth, and from the beginning of 1600 until the union of Ireland with Great Britain, always returned one member, and generally two, for the borough of Ardee to the Irish parliament. The grandfather of the present Mr. Ruxton was offered a peerage at the time of the Union, which he declined. The great-great-grandfather of the present representative,

WILLIAM RUXTON, Esq. of Ardee, J.P. and M.P., m. Mary, dau. of J.-T. Gibbons, Esq. of Mountainstown, co. Meath, and had issue, JOHN, his heir; William, Samuel, Charles, Gibbons, Mary, and Anne, who m. Arthur Wolfe, Esq., chief-justice of the King's Bench, afterwards Lord Kilwarden, who was murdered in Dublin by the insurgents in 1803. His widow was created Baroness Kiltell in her own right. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN RUXTON, Esq. of Ardee House, J.P. and M.P. for many years, m. Letitia, dau. and heiress of William Fitzherbert, Esq. of Black Castle, co. Meath, and Shercock, co. Cavan, and by her had (with a dau. Mary, and two younger sons, John and Samuel) an elder son and successor, WILLIAM RUXTON, Esq. of Ardee House, J.P. and M.P., who m. Anne, dau. of Henry Upton, Esq., who held a high office in the castle of Dublin, and by this lady had issue, JOHN-FITZHERBERT, his heir; Henry, Robert-Clarges, Charles-George, Arthur, Isabella, Anne-Letitia, and Helena. Mr. Sadleir is a magistrate for the county, and acquired the estates of Ballinderry in right of his wife; those of Castletown he inherited from his father, in 1842.

Lineage.

From an ancient family seated at Hackney, co. Middlesex, sprang*

SIR RALPH SADLEIR,† Knt., who was born there to

* A pedigree of the family, by Sir Walter Scott, is contained in "Arthur Clifford's edition of State Papers &c. of Sir Ralph Sadleir."

† Sir R. Sadleir spelt his name sometimes with the z, and sometimes without it. He signed also "Sadleyer." In his more important state papers he signed "Sadleir." The name being originally Norman, was spelt by Sir R. Sadleir's father, "Sadeleyer."

"a fair inheritance" in 1507. This eminent man, who afterwards pursued so distinguished a course, was educated under the unfortunate minister of HENRY VIII., CROMWELL, Earl of Essex, and acted some time as that nobleman's private secretary. He became known thus, and through his political writings to the king, who appointed him master of the great wardrobe, a promotion most propitious to the future fortunes of Sadleir, as in removing him from the immediate service of the favourite, it saved him probably from participating in that unhappy person's fate and fall. In about four years after his appointment to the wardrobe, (30 HENRY VIII.,) he was sworn of the privy council, and constituted one of the secretaries of state, and he subsequently continued to enjoy the full confidence of his royal master, by whom he was deputed on missions of importance into Scotland, both in times of peace and war. On his death-bed, HENRY named Sir Ralph Sadleir (he had become a knight before this) in his will, one of the privy council which he instituted to assist the sixteen persons whom he had appointed regents during the minority of his son and successor, EDWARD VI. Soon after the accession of EDWARD, hostilities having recommenced with Scotland, the Protector, Somerset, at the head of an army, invaded that kingdom, and Sir Ralph Sadleir held the important post of treasurer to the forces. In this expedition, Somerset fought and won the great battle of Musselburgh, 10 Sept. 1547, and tradition states that Sir Ralph Sadleir seized with his own hand, in the brunt of the fight, the royal standard of Scotland. For this exploit, and his courageous bearing throughout the whole conflict, Sir Ralph was made a knight-banneret, with Sir Francis Bryan and Sir Ralph Vane, on the field of battle, by the Protector, and the standard of Scotland, after his decease, was placed by his monument in the chancel of the church of Standon, co. Herts, one of the principal manors granted to him by HENRY VIII. The pole, plated with iron, as high as a horseman's sword could reach, stood there when Clutterbuck wrote his history of Hertfordshire, and probably remains there still.* During the reign of MARY, Sir Ralph withdrew into private life,† and lived at Standon, where he erected a new manor-house on the site of the old one. When ELIZABETH came to the throne, he was recalled to the privy council,‡ and employed by her majesty in services the most confidential and of the highest importance. He represented the county of Herts in her first parliament, and was engaged by the queen on an embassy to Scotland, in support of the reformation there, and to uphold the protestant nobles in their struggles with MARY of Lorraine, the queen-regent. In furtherance of these objects, he visited the English camp before Leith, in April, 1560, and was a party to the treaty of Leith, by which ELIZABETH secured for her Scottish allies the free exercise of their religion, their liberty, and their properties. On the death of Sir Ambrose Cave, (10 ELIZABETH,) Sir Ralph was constituted chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and in 1568, when ELIZABETH issued a commission to hear the cause of MARY Queen of Scots pleaded at York, he was joined with the Dukes of Norfolk and Suffolk to compose the tribunal. After the ill-fated MARY had been removed (January, 1584-5) to the castle of Tutbury, Sir Ralph was

* The rank to which Sir R. Sadleir was thus raised from the degree of knight-bachelor may be called the very pinnacle of chivalry. Knight-bannerets could only be created by the king himself, or, which was very rare, by a general vested with such power as to represent his person. They were dubbed before or after a battle in which the royal standard was displayed. Sir Ralph survived his companions, Sir Francis Bryan and Sir Ralph Vane, and is said to have been the last knight-banneret of England.

† Yet we have positive evidence that Sir R. Sadleir was so far from being in absolute disgrace during MARY's reign, that he was, in some degree, trusted by the sovereign even during this reign.

‡ He was a privy councillor for above forty years, in the several reigns of HENRY VIII., EDWARD VI., and Queen ELIZABETH, and, for the most part of the time, a constant member of parliament for the county of Hertford, and always faithful to his prince and country, and a great promoter of the reformation of the church of England. He d. aged 80, at Standon; possessed a noble estate, which he got honestly, enjoyed honourably, and then left entire to his posterity, viz., twenty-three manors, several parsonages, and other great parcels of land dispersed in the several counties of Gloucester, Warwick, Bucks, Worcester, and Hertford.

appointed governor, where, enjoying the sport of hawking, to which he was attached, he allowed his royal captive to participate in the amusement, and for that purpose, to accompany him some distance from the castle. The circumstance reaching ELIZABETH, produced a serious remonstrance, in rejoinder to which the governor "admits that he sent for his hawks and falcons to divert the miserable life which he passed at Tuthury, and that he had been unable to resist the solicitation of the prisoner, to permit her to see a sport in which she greatly delighted." But he adds, "that this was under the strictest precautions for the security of her person;" and he declares to the secretary, "that rather than continue to hold an office which subjected him to such misconstruction, were it not more for fear of offending the queen than the dread of punishment, he would abandon his present charge, even on the condition of rendering himself prisoner to the Tower for the remainder of his life;" and concludes, "that he is so weary of life that death itself would make him most happy." Sir Ralph m. Margaret Mitchell, a near relative to Lord Cromwell,* and had issue,

THOMAS (Sir), who inherited Standon, and was sheriff of Hertfordshire in the 29th and 37th of ELIZABETH. He m. 1st, Ursula, dau. and co-heir of Sir Henry Sherrington, Knt. of Lacock; and 2ndly, Gertrude, dau. of Robert Markham, Esq. of Coatham, Notts, and by the latter only had issue, a son and dau.,

* It was probably before he attracted the king's notice, that Mr. Sadleir became the husband of the widow of one Ralph Borrow, who does not seem to have been a person of high rank, although no good grounds have been discovered for the scandal with which Sanders and other Catholic writers have stigmatized this union. That she was a woman of credit and character must be admitted, since Lord Cromwell, to whom she was related, not only countenanced their marriage, but was godfather to two of her children.

† This Ralph m. Anne Paston, dau. of Sir Edward Coke, the latter being the ancestor of the present Earl of Leicester; her mother, Bridget, was dau. and co-heir of John Paston, of Huntingfield, in Suffolk, whose portion amounted to £30,000, and who was related to many noble families: her aunt, Eleanor, sister to her father, being m. to Thomas, Earl of Rutland, by whom she had Henry, Earl of Rutland; Gertrude, m. to George Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury; Anne, m. to Henry Nevil, Lord Abergavenny.

LANCELOT, b. 8 April, 1811.

Henry, b. 20 Dec. 1819.

Ann.

Caroliue.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is GRAVENOR, succeeded to the estates, in Somerset and Devon, of his paternal great-uncle, the Rev. Lancelot St. Albyn, M.A., (who d. 22 Jan. 1791,) on coming of age, 13 Aug. 1806, and on the 19th of the same month, in compliance with the will of the said Lancelot St. Albyn, assumed, by royal licence, the surname and arms of ST. ALBYN only. Mr. St. Albyn is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for co. Somerset, and was for some years a captain in the West Somerset local militia, on the first enrolment of that force, commanded by Thomas-Buckler Lethbridge, Esq.

Lineage.

The ST. ALBYNS deduce their origin from Saint Albine, in Normandy, and having followed WILLIAM the Conqueror into England, were for many centuries settled in the north of Devon, possessed of considerable estates in the several parishes of George Ham, Berynarber, and Paracombe.

At Pickwell, an ancient seat of the family, in the parish of George Ham, are to be seen the horse-lance and quoit of Maugre St. Albyn, and in the church of that place is his effigy, in a recumbent position, on his tomb.

In 1439, JOHN ST. ALBYN, Esq. of Paracombe, m. Joan, dau. and heir of Richard Popham, Esq. of Alfoxton, co. Somerset, and widow of John Sydenham, Esq. of Badialton, in the same county. This lady, having survived both her husbands, gave Orchard (now Orchard Wyndham) and the lands she had from her mother, to her son by Sydenham, and Alfoxton, and the lands she had from her father, to her son by St. Albyn, which latter,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, of Alfoxton, m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of John Trevitt, Esq. of Chilton Trevitt, co. Somerset, and by her was father of two sons, the elder of whom, JOHN ST. ALBYN, of Alfoxton, m. Cicely, dau. of John Emmerford or Hyndford, Esq. of Coker, co. Dorset, by whom he had five sons and six daughters. The eldest son was

GEORGE ST. ALBYN, of Alfoxton, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Acland, Esq. of Acland, co. Devon, and to him s. the elder of his three sons, viz.,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, of Alfoxton, who m. Alice, dau. of John Lyte, Esq. of Lyte's Cary, co. Somerset. From this marriage was an issue of nine sons and eight daus., of which sons, the third,

LANCELOT ST. ALBYN, inherited Alfoxton, and m. Elizabeth, sister of Sir Nicholas Halswell, Knt. of Halswell, co. Somerset. This union produced seven sons and five daus. The eldest son,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, of Alfoxton, m. Margaret, dau. of John Dodington, Esq. of Dodington, co. Somerset, and had four sons and four daus. The eldest son,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, s. to the estates, but d. without issue; and the second son, Christopher St. Albyn, never having married, the family succession was maintained by the third son,

LANCELOT ST. ALBYN, of Perry, in the parish of East Quantockshead, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John St. Albyn, Esq. of Nether Stowey, co. Somerset, and by her he had two daus., and an only son,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, of Holford, who m. Amy, dau. of Francis Bawden, Esq. of Stogursey, co. Somerset, by whom he had four sons and four daus. The eldest son,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, inherited Alfoxton and the other estates belonging to his great-uncle, but dying without issue, the family line was continued by his next brother,

LANCELOT ST. ALBYN, of Nether Stowey, who m. Joan, dau. and heir of William Collard, Esq. of Dodington, co. Somerset, and had two sons and three daus., viz., JOHN, his heir; Lancelot; Elizabeth, m. to WILLIAM GRAVENOR, merchant at Bristol; Ann; Jane. The elder son,

JOHN ST. ALBYN, on the death of his uncle, s. to Alfoxton, and m. Ann, dau. of Nathaniel Pool, Esq. of Dulverton, co. Somerset; but dying without issue, 10 Nov. 1768, aged 52, bequeathed his estates to his wife, who, with a feeling as honourable as just, gave them by her will to the brother of her deceased husband,

THE REV. LANCELOT ST. ALBYN, who m. Anna-Maria, dau. of Henry Selleck, Esq. of Walford, co. Somerset; dying, however, without issue, and being the last of his family in the male line, he bequeathed his estates, on the death of his wife, which took place 1 July, 1803, to the elder son, when he should attain the age of twenty-one years, of his nephew,

ST. ALBYN GRAVENOR, who was the elder son of his eldest sister, Elizabeth St. Albyn, who had m. William Gravenor, merchant, of Bristol. St. Albyn Gravenor m. Mary, the only surviving dau. of Joseph Langley, Esq. of Great Farringdon, co. Berks, of which marriage,

LANGLEY (now LANGLEY ST. ALBYN) is the only surviving son, and, as such, became entitled, 13 Aug. 1806, to the estates of his late paternal great-uncle, the Rev. Lancelot St. Albyn, and from that time he has been the representative of the ancient family at Alfoxton.

Arms—Erm., on a bend, sa., three bezants.

Mr. St. Leger, who s. his father in 1792, is a magistrate for the county, and a deputy-governor of the city of Cork. He is also captain of the Glenmire cavalry.

Lineage.

The ancient family of St. Leger was founded by

SIR ROBERT DE ST. LEGER, one of the companions in arms of WILLIAM the Conqueror; and, according to tradition, the person who supported that prince with his arm, when he quitted the ship to land in Sussex. This Sir Robert, having overcome a pagan Dane, who inhabited the manor of Ulcombe, in Kent, fixed his abode there; and in that place his posterity flourished for many generations. His lineal descendant,

SIR ANTONY ST. LEGER, Knt., went first into Ireland in 1537, being appointed by HENRY VIII. one of the commissioners for letting the crown lands there, and returning into England, was constituted lord-deputy of Ireland, 7 July, 1540. In 1543, he was recalled to inform the king of his administration of affairs, which gave his majesty such satisfaction, that he created him a knight-companion of the Garter, and sent him back lord-deputy, in which high office he continued until 1556, serving three sovereigns, when being recalled by Queen MARY, he retired to his estate in Kent, and d. there, 12 March, 1559. This eminent person has been characterized "as a wise and wary gentleman, a valiant servitor in war, and a good justice in peace, properly learned, and having gravity interlaced with pleasantness." He m. Agnes, dau. of Hugh Warham, Esq. of Croydon, and was s. by his second, but eldest surviving son,

SIR WARHAM ST. LEGER, of Ulcombe, who was appointed chief governor of Munster in 1565, under the Lord-deputy Sidney. In 1579, he was constituted knight-mareschal of the same province; and in 1580, he caused James, of Desmond, who was denominated a notorious rebel, to be hanged, under martial law, at Cork. He was killed eventually, in battle, (in single combat,) by Hugh Maguire, lord of Fermanagh, who fell himself, at the same time. Sir Warham m. Ursula, dau. of George Neville, Lord Abergavenny, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM ST. LEGER, Knt., a privy councillor, and lord-president of Munster in 1627. He represented the city of Cork in parliament in 1639, and was appointed in that year, serjeant-major-general of the army. He m. 1st, a lady named Gartwright de Viries, and had by her a son and a dau., viz.,

THE RIGHT HON. ARTHUR ST. LEGER, who was created, in 1703, Baron Kilmadow and Viscount DONERAILE. The honours continued with his descendants, until the demise, issueless, of HAYES, fourth Viscount DONERAILE, in 1767. With his lordship the titles expired, but the estates devolved upon the son of his sister, his nephew,

ST. LEGER ALDORTH, Esq., M.P., who assumed the surname of St. Leger, and was created Viscount DONERAILE, in 1785. His lordship's grandson is the present

HAYES ST. LEGER, 3rd Viscount DONERAILE.

SALWEY OF MOOR PARK.

SALWEY, JOHN, Esq. of Moor Park, co. Salop, b. 24 June, 1798; s. his father 4 Feb. 1825; m. 15 June, 1843, Harriet-Anne, relict of Edward Salwey, Esq. of The Lodge, and eldest dau. of Thomas Bourke Ricketts, Esq. of Combe House, co. Hereford.

Lineage.

The SEWYNS, now SALWEYS, are of Saxon origin, and were settled at Cannoc (the present Kanke), co. Stafford, at a period antecedent to the Conquest—thence they spread into Worcestershire, Salop, and other shires, and have been resident at Richard's Castle, in Shropshire, for several generations.

GEOFFREY DE SALEWEY held lands in Norton-under-Cannoc, co. Stafford, temp. HENRY III. 1216.

WILLIAM SALEWEY likewise had possessions in the same place, temp. EDWARD I. His son and successor, RICHARD SALEWEY, living in the reign of EDWARD II., was s. by his son.

WILLIAM SALWEY, of Cannoc, who m. a dau. of Mytton, of Weston-under-Lizard, co. Stafford, and was s. by his son,

ADAM SALWEY, of Cannoc, whose son,

JOHN SALWEY, lord of Leycroft, in Staffordshire, was chosen among those "qui portabant arma ah ancestriâ," to attend the king as a man-at-arms, and an esquire in France. He m. Isahell, dau. and heir of Sir William Tromwyn, Knt. and had a son and successor,

JOHN SALWEY, of Cannoc, who was lord of Stanford, co. Worcester, in the 3rd HENRY IV. and d. seised of the manors of Stanford and Richard's-Castle, co. Hereford, 8th HENRY V. He m. Isold, dau. of John Washborne, of Stanford, co. Worcester, and heiress to her mother Joan, dau. and heir of Sir John Musard, Knt.* hy Katherine, his wife, dau. of Sir Roger Tromwyn, Knt. (and Joan, dau. of Delapole), and heir to her brother, Sir Roger Tromwyn, Knt.; she being the sole representative of the ancient families of Musard and Tromwyn, who thus became, after this match, represented by the Salweys. John Salwey was s. by his son,

HUMFREY SALWEY, of Kanke and Stanford, who was the king's escheator for the county of Worcester, 22 HENRY VI., and knight-mareschal of that prince's court, as appears on his monument in Stanford church, of which he was lord and patron. He m. Joyce, dau. of Sir Robert Strelley, Knt. of Strelley, Notts, hy Isahell, dau. of Thomas, and sister of Cardinal John Kemp, Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, and had issue,

JOHN, (Sir,) Knt., who was in the immediate service of the Duke of Clarence, but being disinherited, did not succeed to the family estates. He m. Margery, dau. of Hugh Erdeswicke, of Sandon, co. Stafford, and left three daus., his heirs, viz.,

1. Cicelley, m. to Thomas Coningsby, of Hampton Court, in Herefordshire.

2. Margaret, m. to Richard Biddulph, of Biddulph, co. Stafford.

3. Joyce, m. 1st, to W. Ashbye, and 2ndly, to Raulfe Wolseley, Esq. of Shugborough, co. Warwick.

THOMAS, of whom hereafter.

Edmund, m. the dau. of Burghill, of the co. Hereford.

Isold, m. to Richard Acton, of Sutton, co. Worcester.

* The Musards, Mr. Habington says, were a very great family. Sir John Musard was knight of the shire in parliament 29 EDWARD III.; and Sir Thomas Musard, priest, was Prior of the cathedral church of Worcester, 2 EDWARD IV. Camden mentions Lord Musard in Derbyshire, which title became extinct in 1297. Sir Richard Musard, Knt., was the only Englishman among fourteen persons of great eminence who were elected into the Order of the Knights of the Annunciation in the kingdom of Savoy. They joined with the Knights Hospitallers in the conquest of Rhodes, on the Feast of the Annunciation, anno 1310.

The second son,

THOMAS SALWEY, of Kanke and Stanford, was nominated heir to the family possessions by his father. He lived temp. HENRY VII., and m. Jane, dau. of Thomas Lygon, of Madresfield, co. Worcester, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS SALWEY, of Stanford, who was in ward to his cousin-german, Thomas Acton, a courtier and servant of King HENRY VIII. He m. Margery, dau. and co-heir of William Porter, Esq., co. Worcester, and had issue, ANTHONY, who was disinherited by his father, and d. s. p.; and ARTHUR SALWEY, who was made heir by a fine and recovery. He was of the royal Exchequer temp. SANDFORD OF SANDFORD.

SANDFORD, THOMAS-HUGH, Esq. of Sandford, co. Salop, s. his father, who d. 13 Nov. 1822.

Tincage.

The ancient family of SONTFORD, SONFORDE, or SANDFORD, of Sandford, came into England with the CONQUEROR, and the name of the gallant Norman by whom it was founded is written on the roll of Battle Abbey.

FULLER, (Worthies of England), in a note upon Nicholas de Sandford, who was sheriff of Shropshire in the time of RICHARD II., observes—"This ancient name is still extant, at the same place, in this county, in a worshipful equipage well fare a dear token thereof, for in the list of such as compounded for their reputed delinquency in our late civil wars, I find Francis Sandford, Esq. of Sandford, paying four hundred and fifty-nine pounds for his composition, yet I believe the gentleman begrudged not his money, in preservation of his own integrity, acting according to the information of his conscience and the practice of all his ancestors. I understand that the said Francis Sandford was very well skilled in making warlike fortifications."

The pedigree begins with the soldier of the CONQUEST, THOMAS DE SANDFORD, who obtained, as a part of the spoliation, the lands of Sandford, in Shropshire. His son,

SIR THOMAS DE SANDFORD, was living in the reign of HENRY I., and was father of

RALPH DE SANDFORD, whose son,

SIR RICHARD DE SANDFORD, was father of

SIR RALPH DE SANDFORD, who lived in the reign of King JOHN, and having zealously embarked in the cause of the barons, his estates were confiscated in the 18th year of the king's reign, but restored when his party attained the ascendant, for we find his son,

SIR RICHARD DE SANDFORD, styled Lord of Sandford and Rothall. He d. in the 33rd of HENRY III., and was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE SANDFORD, who held Sandford by serjeantry, in the 56th year of the same reign. His son and successor,

SIR RALPH DE SANDFORD, m. Alice, dau. of Wolfrie, of Quixhull, and sister of Adam Venator, by which marriage he acquired the estate of Wrixhall, and had two sons, namely,

WILLIAM, (Sir,) who m. Agnes, dau. of Ralph Hord, of Walcot, but appears to have left no issue. He was distinguished in the wars against Llewelyn and David, Princes of Wales.

RICHARD.

Sir Ralph d. in the 1st year of EDWARD II., and two years afterwards, his second and only surviving son,

RICHARD DE SANDFORD, styled "Lord of Sandford and Rothall," m. Agnes, sister of Robert de Say, of Morton Say, and had two sons and a dau., viz., RICHARD, his heir, Peter, and Isabel. He d. in the 1st year of EDWARD III., and was s. by his elder son,

RICHARD DE SANDFORD, Lord of Sandford, who had, by his wife, Isabel, three sons,

NICHOLAS, his heir. Stephen.

Richard, (Sir,) who was knighted on the morning of the battle of Shrewsbury (1403), and slain in that conflict.

The eldest son,

NICHOLAS SANDFORD, Lord of Sandford, m. Aliee, third dau. of William Boteler, first Lord Boteler of Wem, and had issue,

RICHARD, his heir. Griffin.

Nicholas, of Calverhall, in Salop, ancestor of the family of SANDFORD OF THE ISLE OF UP ROSSALL, near Shrewsbury.

Nicholas Sandford, who was sheriff of Shropshire in the 9th of RICHARD II., d. in the 3rd of HENRY V., and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, of Sandford, who m. Maude, dau. and heiress of — Banaster, of Hadnal, co. Salop, and was s. by his son,

JOHN SANDFORD, of Sandford. This gentleman m. 1st, Elinor, dau. and co-heir of William Styche, of Styche, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Julian, dau. of Robert Corbet, of Morton Corbet, by whom (who re-married Hugh Peshall) he had a son, his successor, at his decease, 30 HENRY VI.,

RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, b. about the year 1448, who m. 1st, Jane, dau. and co-heir of Humphrey Peshall, Esq. of Knightley, in the co. Stafford, but that lady dying without issue, he m. 2ndly, Jane, dau. of William Bromley, Esq. of Mitley, in Salop, and had several children. He d. in the 12th of HENRY VIII., and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, who m. Jane, eldest dau. of John Dod, Esq. of Cloverley, by his 2nd wife, Elizabeth Egerton, and dying in 1530, was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, who m. Maud, dau. of John Mainwaring, Esq. of Ightfield, in Salop, and had two sons, GEORGE, his heir; and Richard, who d. s. p. He d. himself in 1532, and was s. by the elder,

GEORGE SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford. This gentleman m. Jane, dau. of Richard Grosvenor, Esq. of Eaton, co. Chester, by whom (who re-married Sir William Hollis, Knt.) he had no issue. Dying thus in 1563, the estates reverted to his uncle,

ROBERT SANDFORD, Esq., who became "of Sandford." He m. Isabel, dau. of William Egerton, Esq. of Betley, in the co. Stafford, and dying in the 40th of ELIZABETH, was s. by his eldest son,

ARTHUR SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, who m. Anne, dau. of Francis Kynaston, Esq. of Oteley, in Salop, and had several children. This gentleman was a zealous royalist, and served and suffered, with many of his family,* in the cause of the king. After an unsuccessful attempt to defend Shrewsbury, in 1645, against the parliamentarians, he was made prisoner, with his second son, Robert, and many other gentlemen of the county. He d. the same year, and was s. by his eldest son,

FRANCIS SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, the gentleman mentioned by Fuller, as "now lately well skilled in making warlike fortifications." He was b. in 1587, and admitted of Oriel College in 1602. In the civil wars he adhered, like his father and gallant uncle, to the king, and was appointed, 20 March, 1642, chief engineer in the counties under the command of Arthur, Lord Capel, then lieutenant-general of the royal forces in the western district of England. The Sandford estates were sequestrated by parliament, and after their retention for some years, while it appears the family endured deep distress, they were restored, on the payment of 459*l.* as composition. Francis Sandford m. Elizabeth, dau. of Caldecot Chambre, Esq. of Williamscothe, in the co. Oxford, and resided much at the Castle of Carnow, in the co. Wicklow and half barony of Shelalagh, in Ireland, which his father-in-law had purchased from King JAMES I., until driven, by the Irish rebellion, to take refuge on his Shropshire patrimony. He d. in 1653, and left four sons, viz.,

I. ROBERT, his heir. II. Arthur.

III. FRANCIS, b. at Carnow, in 1630, a celebrated genealogist, who was Lancaster Herald in the reign of CHARLES II., and is known as the author of the "Genealogical History of the Kings of England," published in 1677. He attained reputation as an antiquary, and his life is given in Chalmers' Biographical Dictionary. He m. Margaret, dau. of William Jukes, Esq. of Buttington, co. Montgomery, and relict of William Kerry, Esq., and d. in 1693, leaving an only surviving son, Charles, b. in 1660, and admitted of Oriel College, Oxford, in 1679.

IV. Richard.

The eldest son and heir,

ROBERT SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, m. Anne, dau.

* His brother, THOMAS SANDFORD, commanded the regiment of Firelocks, which formed part of the army brought by Lord Byron into Cheshire, from Ireland, towards the close of 1642. He conducted the siege of Hawarden Castle, near Chester.

of Peter Daniel, Esq. of Tabley, in the co. Chester, and had issue,

I. Robert, who d. unm.

II. DANIEL, who succeeded, but d. unm. at Paris.

III. THOMAS.

I. Anne, m. to Henry Paget, Esq. of Beaudesert, ancestor of the present Marquess of Anglesea.

The youngest son, but eventual inheritor,

THOMAS SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Munden, and dying in 1727, was s. by his son,

THOMAS SANDFORD, Esq. of Sandford, who m. Alice, eldest dau. of Charles Ward, Esq. of Bradwell Hall, in the co. Chester, and had issue. This gentleman was high-sheriff of Shropshire in 1752, and is said to have clothed his javelin men in tartan. He d. in December, 1769, and was s. by his only son,

THE REV. DANIEL SANDFORD, of Sandford, who m. Sarah Chapone, sister-in-law of the well-known authoress, Mrs. Chapone, and had issue,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

II. DANIEL, who settled after his marriage in Scotland, and became Bishop of Edinburgh in the episcopal church of Scotland. He m. in 1790, Frances-Catharine, eldest dau. of Erskine Douglas, Esq., third son of Sir John Douglas, Bart., and grand-uncle to the present Marquis of Queensbury. By this lady Dr. Sandford had issue,

1. Erskine-Douglas, an advocate at the Scotch bar, and steward of Kirkcudbright, m. Joanna-Grace, dau. of William Graham, Esq. of Mossknow, co. Dumfries, by Grace-Margaret, his wife, dau. of the Hon. John Gordon.

2. Daniel-Keyte, (Sir,) D.C.L. Oxford, and M.P. for the hurg of Paisley, m. Cecilia, dau. of John Charnock, Esq., and d. 4 Feb. 1838, leaving issue.

Mr. Sandford, who is a magistrate for Shropshire, s. his father in 1841, and is twenty-fourth in descent from Thomas de Sandford, who came into England with the CONQUEROR.

Lineage.

NICHOLAS SANDFORD, of Calverhall, third son of Nicholas Sandford, Lord of Sandford, (see preceding lineage), obtained, in 1426, a grant to himself and his son, Thomas, of the Lee, near Whitechurch, and that estate continued with his descendants until sold in 1746, by Humphrey Sandford, Esq., high-sheriff of Shropshire in 1787. Nicholas's son, the said

THOMAS SANDFORD, of the Lee, living 33rd HENRY VI., and 5th EDWARD IV. was father of

WILLIAM SANDFORD, of the Lee, who m. Sibilla, dan. and co-heir of Sir Fulke Springseaux, Knt. of Plash, sheriff of Salop in 1447,* and thus added to his patrimony the manor and estate of Edgton, in Shropshire, still possessed by the family. He d. about the year 1509, leaving a son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, written of Alseld, in the parish of Conover, living in 1519 and 1547, who m. Jane, dau. of William Bromley, grandfather of Sir Thomas Bromley, Knt., lord chancery, and of Sir George Bromley, Knt., justice of Chester. Richard Sandford d. circiter 1550, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE SANDFORD, of the Lee, Edgton, and Alseld, b. about 1500, m. Anne, dau. of William Ottley, Esq. of Pitehford, eo. Salop, whose estate beame, owing to the failure of heirs male in the family of Ottley, upon the demise of Adam Ottley, Esq., in 1807, the property of the Earl of Liverpool. George Sandford d. about the year 1584, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq. of the Lee, Edgton, and Bayston, who removed to the Isle of Up Rossall, near Shrewsbury, on his marriage with Margaret, dau. of Humphrey Plowden, Esq. of Plowden,† and sister to the celebrated EDMUND PLOWDEN. That eminent lawyer being entrusted with the administration of his early friend and patron, Sir Francis Egglefield's Shropshire estates, of which the Isle of Up Rossall formed a part, placed his brother-in-law, Richard Sandford, in a tenement there, and obtained from the nephew and heir of Sir Francis, a promise of a lease of the same to Richard's son, his nephew, Humphrey Sandford. Richard Sandford had by Margaret Plowden, his wife, I. HUMPHREY, his heir; II. Andrew; I. Aliee, m. to John Cole; II. Mary, m. to Randall Lloyd; III. Barbara, m. to Francis Kynaston, of Shotton; IV. Dorothy, m. to Thomas Jukes; and, V. Katherine, m. to Thomas Berrington. Richard Sandford d. in 1588, was buried at Lydbury, 13 February, and s. by his son,

* By Margaret, his wife, daughter and heir of John Wynesbury, descended from Simon de Winsbury, and Anna, his wife, daughter of Roger de Edgton.

† The Sandfords, by this marriage, are descended from the ancient family of Rossall, formerly proprietors of the Isle of Up Rossall. It appears, from the History of Shrewsbury and Blakeway's Sheriffs, that Sir JOHN DE ROSSALL died without issue, and that his estates passed to his two sisters, the one married to Englefield, and the other to Sturry, of Shrewsbury. The latter obtained part of the estate, called to this day Down Rossall. Sturry's descendant, John Sturry, by Anne Corbett, his wife, was father of Elizabeth Sturry, the wife of HUMPHREY PLOWDEN, Esq. of Plowden, and mother of MARGARET PLOWDEN, m. to RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq.

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, Edgton, &c., b. in 1543, who m. Anne, dau. of Francis Lascelles, Esq., and sister of Sir Thomas Lascelles, of Brakenburgh, in the eo. York, and had one son, HUMPHREY, his heir; and Anne, m. to Richard Gibbons, of Shropshire. Mr. Sandford appears to have been a person of courage, address, and activity; for, being secretary to Sir Francis Englefield, whose estates were confiscated, and who was forced to quit the kingdom on account of his attachment to MARY STUART, he conducted, at the hazard of his life, the correspondence of Sir Francis with his family and friends in England. He d. in 1611, was buried at Lydbury on the 8th July, and s. by his son,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. 8 June, 1580, who m. Jane, dau. of Edward Giffard, Esq. of the White Ladies, and by her (who was buried at Fitz March, 25 Mareh, 1671) he had, with other issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Matthew, baptized 10 Oct. 1625, who d. in 1691, leaving, by Mary, his wife, whom he had m. in 1657, a son,

HUMPHREY, successor to his cousin.

Adhering to the ancient faith, Mr. Sandford suffered sorely during the civil wars, and was ruthlessly plundered by the parliamentary authorities, as shown in his petition to the committee of parliament appointed to sequester the royalists in Shropshire, in which he calls himself "an old, sick, and lame man, of the age of sixty-six years and upwards." He d. 25 March, 1654, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, who "conformed, as I apprehend," said Blakeway, in his Sheriffs of Salop, "to the established religion." He m. 1st, Frances, dau. of Sir William Owen, of Conover, sheriff of Shropshire in 1623, and had by her two daus. He m. 2ndly, Anne Hussey, and by her (who d. 30 Mareh, 1686) had two sons and two daus., viz.,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

II. HUMPHREY, successor to his brother.

I. Sarah, m. to John Brickdale, Esq., alderman of Shrewsbury.

II. Jane, m. to Richard Davenport, Esq. of the Hays, near Oswestry, and d. 21 Jan. 1703.

Mr. Sandford d. in 1669, was buried at Conover, and s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, who m. Frances, dau. of Edward Brooke, Esq. of Chureh Stretton, and had issue,

Richard, b. in 1671,
Humphrey, b. in 1674, } who all d. in 1676.
Elizabeth, b. in 1672,

Mr. Sandford d. himself, 26 July in the same year, (1676,) and was s. by his brother,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1650, fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. This gentleman, who devoted his time to literary pursuits, d. unm. in 1712, and devised his estates to his cousin-german,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1658, who m. in 1688, Elizabeth, dau. of William Evans, Esq., and by her (who d. in 1727, aged 64) left at his decease, in 1734, aged 76, a son and successor, HUMPHREY SANDFORD, Esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1689, who m. 13 Jan. 1717, Rebecca, dau. of Job Walker, Esq. of Ferny Hall, Shropshire, by Rebecca, his wife, dau. of Thomas, Lord Folliott, and sister to Henry, the last Lord Folliott, who d. in Mareh, 1715-16. By this lady Mr. Sandford had, with four other sons who d. s. p., a son and heir, HUMPHREY; and three daus., I. Rebecca, d. unm.; II. Mary, who m. Jonathan Scott, Esq. of Shrewsbury, and was mother of MAJOR SCOTT-WARING; and III. Anne, m. to the Rev. Daniel Austin, of Berrington, near Shrewsbury. Mr. Sandford d. 25 Mareh, 1741, and was s. by his son, SANDYS OF ST. MINVER.

SANDYS, WILLIAM-SANDYS, Esq. of St. Minver, Cornwall, a magistrate for that county, b. 5 Nov. 1808; s. his father in 1817.

Lineage.

In the commencement of the 17th century, two brothers, named SANDYS, were seated in the parish of St. Keverne, co. Cornwall, WILLIAM and ANTHONY; the younger, Anthony, purchasing Lanarth in 1647, removed thither, and was s. by his son, Sampson Sandys, whose only child, Philippa, d. unm. in 1699. Anthony's elder brother,

WILLIAM SANDYS, Esq. of Nambol, in Cornwall, married, and had six sons, of whom, WILLIAM, John, Sampson, and James, fought under the royal banner during the civil wars. The eldest,

WILLIAM SANDYS, Esq. of Nambol, m. Miss Hext, of St. Austell, and dying in 1699, was s. by his son,

JOHN SANDYS, Esq., who inherited from his cousin, Sampson Sandys, the estate and seat of Lanarth. "In a narrative still preserved by the family," says Mr. Gilbert, in his History of Cornwall, "it appears that this John Sandys, with seven others of his acquaintance, went out on a party of pleasure, in an open boat, and were driven by a storm to sea, where, after having been beaten about by the waves for four days and three nights, they were driven ashore on the coast of Normandy. In consequence of there being war at that time between England and France, they were, immediately on landing, made prisoners; but LOUIS XIV., hearing of the circumstance which occasioned their captivity, ordered them to be released." Mr. Sandys m. in 1687, Miss Mary Pearce, and had three sons, viz.,

- I. WILLIAM, who d. at Lanarth, s. p. in 1765.

Mr. Sarsfield is a magistrate for co. Cork.

Tineage.

The first of the family of Sarsfield (written variously SARNESFELD, SARESFELD, SARSFELD, SARSWELL, SARCHELL, &c.) who went to Ireland was THOMAS DE SARSFIELD, "Premier porte banniere du Roi HENRY II.," A.D. 1172. Previous to 1200, Walter, or Gautier de Sarnesfeld, bestowed gifts on the monastery of St. Sepulchre, in Dublin; and persons of the name appear at various subsequent periods, as in 1210, Nugues de Sarnesfeld, and Adam, his brother, made a gift of an annual sum to St. Thomas' Abbey, near Dublin; Thomas de Sarsfeld possessed, about 1247, an estate at Fornah, co. Kildare; Thomas and Stephen de Sarsfeld were among the gentry of Ireland to whom EDWARD I. wrote, on the occasion of the Scotch war, in 1302. Patrick Sarsfield, of Baggobraith, was a commissioner of the army for co. Dublin; and a Sir Nicholas Sarnesfeld was among the knights of the Garter created by RICHARD II.

The titles of Earl of Lucan, Viscount of Kilmallock, and Premier Baronet of Ireland, were borne by different branches of the family. The Sarsfields of Sarsfield Court, from whom the Doughcloyne line, of which we treat, directly descends, twice forfeited their estates: first, under CROMWELL, but were reinstated at the Restoration; and again, under WILLIAM III., having taken an active and conspicuous part in the cause of JAMES II.

DAVID DE SARESFELD, who, before 1300, possessed the manors of Glynman and Calysil, with the advowson and patronage of the church of Glynman, had, by Annabella, his wife, six sons, all of whom d. s. p. except the eldest, JOHN, and the fifth, PIERRE. The former was among the gentry to whom EDWARD III. wrote on the subject of the war with Scotland. He had two sons, Thomas and Philip, both of whom d. s. p.; and the latter,

PIERRE SARESFELD, (5th son,) who acquired lands at Gogheston in 1355, was father of RICHARD SARESFELD, whose son, WILLIAM SARESFELD, made a settlement of the manors of Glynman and Calysil, &c., 10 July, 1420. This William had three sons, Richard Sarsfeld, presented the rectorship of Glynun, in 1657, to Nicholas Cotterell. He had two sons, Peter and John. The former made his will in the name of Sarchell, and had two sons, James and Richard.

GEOFFREY, of whom we treat.

Philip, tutor to his nephews, Peter and John.

The second son,

GEOFFREY SARESFELD, m. Jeanie Martyn, with whom he acquired large estates near Cork, and the fishery called Tully Calvy; he was father of THOMAS SARESFELD, whose son, EDMUND SARESFELD, is mentioned in the will of Peter "Sarchell." He had two sons, WILLIAM, of whose line presently.

Thomas, father of Edmond Sarsfield, who is mentioned in the settlement of Sarsfield Court, 14 Oct. 1620, as father of three sons, viz.,

Thomas, called the second, in the settlement of Sarsfield Court, 14 Oct. 1620; mentioned in that of Kilmallock, 27 Dec. 1645. Had two sons, Edmond and Patrick, both d. s. p.

John Sarsfield, of Limerick, so called in the settlement of Sarsfield Court, 1620; mentioned also in that of Kilmallock, likewise in the will of his son, Patrick. He had, besides other issue, two sons,

Patrick, of Limerick, governor of Clare, received estates from the commissioners of CROMWELL, 26 Aug. 1656; will made, 9 March, 1660. He had, besides other issue, two sons,

John, of Limerick, received from the commissioners of CHARLES II. confirmation of the lands granted by those of CROMWELL, 27 Oct. 1676; will dated, 21 April, 1690. He had, with younger issue, a son, Francis, of Doolen, or Doulin, co. Clare, who had a son, James.

Ignatius, fourth son, mentioned in his father's and brother's will as Major Ignatius Sarsfield. He was father of one son, Francis, and three daus., Jean, maid of honour to the Princess of England, dau. of JAMES II.; Helen; and Bridget, m. to M. le Comte de Chambers.

James, of Limerick, whose son, Paul, was father of James Sarsfield, who obtained, in Aug. 1711, letters patent, reinstating him in his ancient nobility. He m. 4 Feb. 1716, Marie-Jane Loz de Beaubun, and had issue, James-Hiacinthe, Viscount of Sarsfield, field-marshal and general of cavalry, who m. 26 March, 1766, Marie de Levis, and had an only dau., Marie-Gabrielle, m. to Charles, Baron de Damas.

Guy-Claude, Count of Sarsfield, was colonel of a regiment of infantry of Provence, d. s. p. in May, 1789.

Dominick Sarsfield, peer and premier haronet of Ireland, Viscount of Killmallock, and Baron de Barrels. He had two sons, William, Viscount of Killmallock, whose son, David, 3rd Viscount Kilmallock, d. s. p.

Dominick, whose will is dated 1642, was father of Edmund, mentioned in his father's and uncle William's will. He had, besides two younger sons, who d. unm., two sons.

Dominick, Viscount of Killmallock, after his kinsman David's death, s. p. He was colonel of a regiment of cavalry in the Irish army, went to France, and was afterwards first lieutenant of the Body-guards, of which the Count Lusan was captain, and subsequently colonel of the king's regiment.

David, Viscount of Killmallock, after his brother Dominick, was colonel of dragoons in the Spanish service, governor and commandant at Badajos. He had, with younger issue, Dominick, his heir, Viscount of Killmallock, who d. unm.; and Edward, who s. his brother, as Viscount Killmallock. He was b. at Perpignan, 11 June, 1693, had (with a younger son, Patrick, who went to Spain, in the navy, and d. s. p. at Carthage) an elder son and heir, EDWARD SARESFELD, Viscount of Killmallock, who m. in 1784, and had issue.

The elder son,

WILLIAM SARESFELD, had two sons, THOMAS and James, whose son, Patrick, was ancestor of a branch of the family settled at Johnstown. The former, THOMAS SARESFELD, presented to the rectory of Glanman in 1582.

He was father of WILLIAM SARESFELD, mentioned in the settlements of Sarsfield Court, 14 Oct. 1620. This William had (with younger issue) a son, THOMAS SARESFELD, living in 1633, who was father of

DOMINICK SARESFELD, who obtained a decree, 23 July, 1663, to be re-established in possession of Sarsfield Court, Tempulosky, and other lands, which had been confiscated by CROMWELL, and, 3 July, 1681, letters patent to execute the decree. His son,

DOMINICK SARESFELD, Esq., m. Catherine Ronayne, and had three sons, Dominick, d. unm. in 1767; PHILIP, of whom presently; and Edmond, col. of the Irish brigade, d. unm. in France. The second son,

THOMAS SARESFELD, Esq., lived at Doughcloyne. He m. Mary Ronayne, and had (with two daus., Mary-Anne and Isabella, and a son, Philip, who d. unm.) an elder son and heir,

DOMINICK-RONAYNE SARESFELD, Esq. of Doughcloyne, who m. in Jan. 1793, Mary, only dau. of James Bonwell, Esq. of Cork, and Mary Bruce, his wife, and had issue,

Cavan, and has issue,

ROBERT-JOSEPH-PATRICK, b. 15 Jan. 1841.

Harloven-Morley, b. 10 Dec. 1842.

Lineage.

This family is of very ancient descent, and has been clearly ascertained, by documents from the Heralds' College, to be derived from the lords of Insbruck, in Germany. "SIR HARLOWEN SAUNDERS," says the old family pedigree, "came into England in or about the year 1270, deriving his origin from Robert, Lord of Insbruck, who was second brother of Rodolph, Count of Hapsburgh, and subsequently Emperor." For a series of many generations, the descendants of Sir Harlowen maintained a knightly rank in the land of their adoption, and since the reign of CHARLES II. (about which time the family first settled in Ireland), have held a distinguished position in that country.

SIR HARLOWEN SAUNDERS m., according to the old family pedigree, Mariana, dau. of Sir Edward Marsh, and had a son, SIR ROBERT SAUNDERS, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir Edward Vickers, of Lancashire, and was father of CHARLES SAUNDERS, who m. Agnes, dau. of Sir Theophilus Forth, of Gloucestershire, and had a son, SIR EDWARD SAUNDERS, who m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Field, of Lancashire, and was s. by his son, SIR ROBERT SAUNDERS, who m. Juliana, dau. of Sir Robert Savage, of Rocksavage, and was father of SIR RICHARD SAUNDERS, who m. Susanna, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Osborn, of Kentington, in Kent, and had a son and heir, SIR EDWARD SAUNDERS, who m. Catherine, dau. of Sir Edward Pilkington, and was father of SIR ROBERT SAUNDERS, who m. Judith, dau. and co-heir of Sir Charles Russell, of Bedford, and had by her a son, SIR HARLOWEN SAUNDERS, who m. Marianna, dau. and co-heir of Sir Edward St. Leger, K.G., and was father of SIR ROBERT SAUNDERS, who m. Honora, dau. of Sir Harvey Forth, of Gloucestershire, and had a son, SIR CHARLES SAUNDERS, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir Charles Parsons, and had a son, SIR ROBERT SAUNDERS, who m. Arabella, dau. of Sir Marmaduke Humphrey, of Kentington, and had four sons, viz., HARLOWEN, (Sir), ancestor of the family of SAUNDERS of Gloucestershire; Robert, from whom derived the family of SAUNDERS of Devonshire; RICHARD, of whom presently; and Charles, ancestor of the SAUNDERS' of Shropshire. The third son, RICHARD SAUNDERS, Esq., m. Mary, dau. of Sir John Stanley, of Hutton, and had by her a son, ROBERT, who m. Juliana, dau. of Sir John Harrison, of Yorkshire, and was father of RICHARD SAUNDERS, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Forth, Knt., and had by her a son, ROBERT SAUNDERS, Esq., who accompanied CROMWELL to Ireland, and held a regiment under him. He was also made Governor of Kinsale. He m. Sarah, dau. of Henry Owen Fitzherbert, Esq. of Staffordshire, and had issue,

RICHARD, of Saunders Court, co. Wexford, whose only dau. and heir, JANE, m. 1st, William Worth, Esq., and 2ndly, in 1730, Arthur, Earl of Arran.

ROBERT, of whom presently.

ANDERSON, ancestor of the present RICHARD SAUNDERS, Esq. of Largay, co. Cavan.

The second son,

ROBERT SAUNDERS, Esq., was grandfather of

MORLEY SAUNDERS, D.C.L. and Prime Serjeant to Queen ANNE, whose son,

MORLEY SAUNDERS, of Saunders Grove, m. Lady Martha Stratford, dau. of John Stratford, Esq., M.P. for Baltinglass, who was afterwards created Earl of Aldborough, in 1777, and had, with several daus., two sons, MORLEY, his heir; and John Stratford, a general in the army. The eldest son,

MORLEY SAUNDERS, Esq. of Saunders Grove, a magistrate and grand juror for the county of Wicklow, m. Ellen-Katherine, dau. and heiress of James Glasecock, Esq. of Music Hall, in the county of Dublin, of a family of considerable antiquity, and had issue, Morley-John-Stratford, d. under age, in Sept. 1809.

SAVAGE OF HUNTON.

SAVAGE, JOHN, Esq. of Hunton, co. Kent, barrister-at-law, m. 1st, Elizabeth Miller, dau. of Thomas Patrickson, Esq., and by her (who d. 5 Sept. 1836) has issue, Elizabeth and Theodosia. He m. 2ndly, 15 Sept. 1842, Sarah-Charlotte, dau. of Baldwin-Duppa Duppa, Esq.

Lineage.

The family of Savage is very ancient. SIR JOHN DE SAVAGE was engaged with EDWARD I. at the memorable siege of Carlaverock, in Scotland, and there, for his signal service, was, with Thomas, his brother, created Knight-Banneret.

SIR JOHN SAVAGE, (ancestor of the Earls of Rivers,) commanded the left wing of the Earl of Richmond's army, at Bosworth Field, and was afterwards made a Knight of the Garter by HENRY VII. THOMAS, one of his descendants, went, in 1653, (with Sir Henry Vane, and several other persons of rank and family,) to New-England, where he became speaker of the House of Representatives, and m. Faith, dau. of Governor Hutchinson. From this marriage, in a direct line, descended,

JOHN SAVAGE, who m. Ann Allen, (horn Scott,) widow of John Allen, Esq., and by her had an only son, BENJAMIN SAVAGE, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of James Dunn, Esq., and by her had issue, JOHN, now of Hunton, James, Benjamin, James-Richard, (dead,) Elizabeth-Emma, Sophia, and Louisa.

Lineage.

The very ancient Anglo-Norman house of SAVAGE, as shown under the pedigree of its present representative, ANDREW NUGENT, Esq. of Portaferry, p. 946, was settled at Portaferry, co. Down, since the time of the first conquest of Ireland, by John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, in 1117. Under that famous warrior, the original ancestor in Ireland established himself in the co. Down; and by a written document, dated 1 Sept. 1205, in the Tower of London, we find, "Rohin, son of William Savage, named as one of De Courcy's hostages for his appearance before King JOHN." The annexed descents are attested by Ulster King of Arms.

HUGH SAVAGE, Esq. of the city of Duhlin, (whose ancestry is given under Nugent of Portaferry,) m. Catherine, sister of John Moore, Esq. of Drumhanagher, co. Armagh, and had issue,

I. Elizabeth-Domville, m. S. Auchmuty, Esq. of Brians-town, co. Longford, and had issue.

The eldest son,

ROBERT SAVAGE, Esq. of Knockadoo, co. Sligo, s. his father. He m. 1st, Isabella, only dau. and heir of A. Gordon, Esq., col. in the army, and relief of T. Auchmuty, Esq. of Brianstown, co. Longford, and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of — Evans, Esq.; by the former of whom only he had issue, viz.,

* A collateral branch of the noble family of King.

† Uncle to Earl Mansvers.

‡ Christopher Pocklington was son and heir of John Pocklington, Esq., 2nd baron of her Majesty's Exchequer in Ireland, by Mary, eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Hatton, Bart. of Long-Stanton, co. Cambridge, a collateral branch of the family of the great Lord-Chancellor, Sir Christopher Hatton, who is thus described in Gay's Long Story:—

"My grave Lord Keeper led the brawls,
The seal and maces danc'd before him,
His bushy beard and shoe-strings green,
His high-crown'd hat and satin doublet,
Mov'd the stout heart of England's Queen,
Though Pope and Spaniard could not trouble it."

The admiral m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Domville, Bart. of Templeoge, co. Dublin, and Anna Compton, his wife, grand-dau. of Spencer, Earl of Northampton. Thus the present family of Savage of Ballymadun derive, through female descent, from the Royal line of Plantagenet.

SCOTT OF BETTON.

SCOTT, GEORGE-JONATHAN, Esq. of Betton Strange, in Shropshire, and of Peniarth Ucha, co. Merioneth, b. 23 April, 1807; m. 8 April, 1840, Augusta-Frances, youngest dau. of the late William Wynne, Esq. of Peniarth, co. Merioneth. Mr. Scott, who s. to his paternal estates when he had scarcely entered his fifth year, inherited likewise, before the completion of his fifteenth, the extensive possessions of his great-uncle, Richard Scott, Esq. of Shrewsbury. He served the office of high-sheriff for Merionethshire in 1833.

Lineage.

This family of Scott, which was originally seated in Kent, has long been connected with the municipal and local transactions of the town of Shrewsbury, and with the service of their country in the most distant regions of the globe.

RICHARD SCOTT, Esq., the first of the family who settled in Shropshire, was b. in 1544, and d. in Shrewsbury, in 1628, having had, by Mary, his wife, one son and two daus., viz., ISAAC; Mary, m. to Thomas Rocke, Gent. of Shrewsbury; and Anne, m. to Edward Montgomery, Gent. of Shrewsbury. The son,

ISAAC SCOTT, Esq., b. in 1584, m. Miss Elizabeth Stephens, of Shrewsbury, and had, with other issue,

i. RICHARD.

ii. BENJAMIN, of whom hereafter, as immediate ancestor of the present family of Betton.

The eldest son,

RICHARD SCOTT, Esq., b. in 1617, m. in 1637, Mrs. Elizabeth Brinsley, of London, and had, (with another son, who d. young, and three daus.,)

i. JONATHAN, his heir.

ii. Richard, of Shrewsbury, b. in 1648, m. in 1670, Susannah, dau. and co-heir of John Gardner, Gent. of Shrewsbury, and d. in 1693, leaving issue,

1. JONATHAN, successor to his uncle.

2. JOHN, continuator of the male line.

1. Elizabeth, m. to Robert Phillips, Gent.

2. Susannah, m. to Robert Lathrop, Gent. of Shrewsbury.

iii. Nehemiah, of Shrewsbury, who was twice m., but d. without surviving male issue.

Richard Scott took an active part in the troublesome period in which he lived, on behalf of the unfortunate

Leha, by JOHN USTICKE SCOBELL, Esq. The latter branch derives from CHARLES USTICKE, Esq., who purchased Leha from Mr. Groose. He m. Miss Jenkins, of Alverton, and had a son, OLIVER USTICKE, Esq. of Leha, who m. ANN ROSCOWE, of Roscrowe, (a co-heiress of the old and respectable Cornish family of that name, settled at Roscrowe from the time of HENRY VIII.) and had a son and successor, WILLIAM USTICKE, Esq. of Leha, justice of the peace in 1734, who m. Elizabeth Rogers, of Treasowe, and was father of WILLIAM USTICKE, of Leha, who m. Elizabeth Hussey, of Truro, and dying in 1772, was s. by his son, WILLIAM USTICKE, Esq. of Leha, b. in 1737, who d. in 1785, leaving an only dau. and heir, SUSANNA, m. to JOHN SCOBELL, Esq.

CHARLES I., and when the parliamentary faction obtained the executive power, he felt the effects of their tender mercies, being fined and otherwise annoyed by the commissioners, whose especial employment it was thus to mulct and punish those gentlemen of property who had given undoubted proofs of their loyalty to the king and zeal in the cause of kingly government, under the most adverse circumstances. He d. in 1662, and was s. by his eldest son,

JONATHAN SCOTT, Esq. of Betton, b. in 1647, mayor of Shrewsbury in 1689, who m. in 1672, Miss Elizabeth Stone, but dying without issue in 1716, was s. by his nephew,

JONATHAN SCOTT, Esq. of Betton, who m. Mrs. Ann Farmer, and had issue, Jonathan, who d. unm. in the lifetime of his father.

Elizabeth, m. to her relation, Captain Richard Scott.

Susan, m. to Thomas Owen, Esq.

Anne, m. to John Twiss, Gent.

Mr. Scott d., leaving no male issue, in 1746, when his estates passed to his daus., as co-heirs, while the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

JOHN SCOTT, Esq., who m. Ist, Rebekah, dau. of George Elfred, Esq. of The Hoo, in Sussex, and had two daus., who both d. young. He m. 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Capt. Timothy Waring, by whom he had, (with other issue, who d. unm..)

JOHN, of Shrewsbury, who m. Miss Lydia Draycot, and had one son and two daus., viz.,

John, of Eytton, who m. Miss Sarah Corall, and d. in 1828, aged 84, having had issue,

1. Christopher, who m. Miss Jennins, eldest dau. of Stephen Jennins, Esq. of Dennerville, in Shropshire.

2. Jonathan, an officer in the E. I. Co.'s service.

3. John, an officer in the same service, d. in 1810.

1. Mary, m. to Captain Henry Scott.

2. Sarah, m. to William Coupland, Esq.

3. Anne. 4. Susannah.

Susannah, m. to Thomas Baker, Esq. of Shrewsbury.

Sarah, m. to William Coupland, Esq. of Shrewsbury.

Mr. Scott, sen., m. 3rdly, Dorothy, dau. of Adam Waring, Esq. of Woodcot, co. Salop, and had by her, (with a younger son, Nehemiah, who d. unm.)

JONATHAN SCOTT, Esq. of Shrewsbury, who m. Mary, dau. of Humphrey Sandford, Esq. of The Isle, co. Salop, and had five sons and a dau., viz.,

i. JOHN, who assumed, upon inheriting the extensive estates of his relative, Richard-Hill Waring, Esq., (grandson of Adam Waring, Esq., before mentioned,) the name and arms of WARING. This gentleman was a major in the Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, and by his talents and activity acquired the confidence and esteem of the celebrated Warren Hastings, then governor of the presidency in which he was stationed, and when subsequently Mr. Hastings was impeached by the House of Commons, Major Scott-Waring, who at the time was M.P. for Stockbridge, was one of his most zealous supporters. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Alexander Blackie, Esq. of Bromley, Kent, and had issue, Edward Scott-Waring, Esq., of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s civil establishment, who m. Mary, relict of Captain Smith.

Charles Scott-Waring, Esq.

Anne Scott-Waring, m. to Henry Read, Esq.

Eliza Scott-Waring, m. to the Rev. George-Stanley Fayer.

Major Scott-Waring m. 2ndly, Miss Mary Hughes, and had by her, a son, John-Thurlow Scott-Waring, and a dau., Augusta. Major Scott-Waring d. 5 May, 1819.

ii. Richard, who also entered the E. I. Co.'s service, and distinguished himself in the war in the Carnatic, where he commanded the 26th battalion of Bengal Sepoys, under Sir Eyre Coote, when engaged against the celebrated Hyder Ali Khun. Subsequently, having attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel, he commanded the same corps, under Earl Cornwallis, in the war with Tippoo Sultaun. Colonel Scott m. 1st, Miss Frances Jarrett, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Miss Camack, dau. of John Camack, Esq. of Green Mount, co. Louth, by whom he had, with three daus., one son, Richard-Hastings, of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s civil service, on the Bengal establishment, who m. at Meerut, 16 Feb. 1829, Grace, youngest dau. of the Rev. H. Fisher, chaplain on that station.

iii. Jonathan, b. in 1753, who received the rudiments of a classic education at the Royal Free Grammar School of his native town, which he left for India, at the age of twelve years. Here he acquired an intimate and eminent degree of knowledge in the history and languages of the East, and became a captain in the Hon. E. I. Co.'s service. Like his elder brothers, his abilities and meritorious conduct gained him the esteem and patronage of his superiors. Being well versed in the Persian language, he was appointed Persian secretary to the governor of Bengal, (Warren Hastings, Esq.,) and elected a member of the Asiatic Society of Calcutta. On his return to England, he received the appointment of Oriental professor in the Royal Military and East India Colleges, &c., and the University of Oxford conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. Daniel Austin, M.A., rector of Berrington, in Salop, by whom he left, at his decease, 11 Feb. 1829, an only surviving child, Anna-Dorothea, m. 29 Oct. 1827, to William-Richard Stokes, Esq. of Shrewsbury. Dr. Scott published several interesting and admired works connected with the history and general literature of the Eastern world.

- iv. Folliott, who m. Miss Mary Brookman, and had a son and dau., namely, Jonathan, and Dorothy, the wife of James Saxby, Gent.
- v. Henry, now of Shrewsbury, who also entered the service of the East India Company, and held a distinguished post on the Bengal establishment. He m. Mary, dau. of John Scott, Esq. of Eyton, and has, with several daus., an only son, Henry.
- i. Dorothy, m. to Henry Stokes, Gent. of London.

Thus terminating the elder branches of this family by their existing members, we proceed with that of the present proprietor of Betton.

BENJAMIN SCOTT, Esq., the second son of Isaac Scott, Esq. of Shrewsbury, and of Elizabeth Stephens, his wife, was baptized at St. Julian's, Shrewsbury, 20 Sept. 1631, and, when of sufficient age, sent out to Barbadoes. He m. Miss Susannah Brerewood, and had issue,

- i. Richard, of the island of Barbadoes, who m. Eliza, dau. and co-heir of John Halt, Esq. of the co. Berks, and had a son, Richard, who d. young, and a dau. Elizabeth, m. to — Warrior, Esq. of the island of Antigua, and afterwards of Eltham, in Kent.
- ii. BENJAMIN.

The second son,

BENJAMIN SCOTT, Esq., b. at Barbadoes, in 1665, became eventually of Eltham, in Kent. He m. Mary, another dau. and co-heir of John Halt, Esq. of the co. Berks, and had, (with children who d. young,)

- i. Benjamin, who m., but left no surviving issue.
- ii. RICHARD, of whom presently.
- iii. Charles, major in the army, who d. at Minorca, unm.
- i. Mary, m. 1st, to — Flowerdew, Gent., and 2ndly, to John Hutley, Gent.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. to Major John Quinchant, who fell in the service of his country, at the battle of Fontenoy, 11 May, 1745.

Benjamin Scott d. at Eltham, in 1718. His second son,

RICHARD SCOTT, Esq., b. in 1695, embraced a military life, and attained the rank of captain in that distinguished corps, the Old Buffs. He m. in 1728, his relative, Elizabeth, eldest dau. and co-heir of Jonathan Scott, Esq. of Betton, near Shrewsbury, and d. in 1767, leaving issue,

RICHARD, his heir.
Jonathan, who was twice m., but d. without issue.
Elizabeth, d. unm.

The elder son,

RICHARD SCOTT, Esq., b. in 1731, inherited the Betton estates. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Gough, rector of Cardeston, in Shropshire, and had issue,

GEORGE, his heir.

Richard. This gentleman, so many of whose relatives distinguished themselves in the foreign service of their country, attached himself to the no less honourable pursuits of commerce, and sustained with great credit and success the character of a British merchant. He purchased the manors of Whitley and Welhatch, and the estate of Underdale, near Shrewsbury, as well as Peniarth Ucha, in Merionethshire, the whole of which devolved, at his decease, unm. in 1821, on his great-nephew, the present GEORGE-JONATHAN SCOTT, Esq. of Betton.

Jonathan, who entered the military service of his country, attained the rank of major, and d. (on his passage home from the East Indies) in 1803, unm.

Edward-Lionel, b. 16 Sept. 1844.

Charlotte-Anne.

Marion, and Sarah-Octavia, twins.

Mr. Scott is a magistrate for Norfolk, and s. his father, the late Rev. Thomas Scott.

Lineage.

This family is of long standing in Norfolk, and formerly possessed considerable estates in many parishes in the neighbourhood of Watton. Bloomfield mentions, in his History of Norfolk, that Thomas Scott was lord of the manor of Little Carbrooke, or Westhall, in 1465; and also, that Thomas Scott, the elder, of Watton, left the manor of Rockells, in Watton, by will, in 1672, to his grandson, Thomas Scott, son of Thomas Scott, Esq., M.P. temp. CHARLES I., who was tried, 12 Oct. 1660, with Jones, Scroop, Clements, &c., for treason, for having sat as one of the judges on the trial of that unfortunate king, and was executed for this, 16 Oct. 1660.

The great-grandfather of the present representative, CHARLES SCOTT, Esq., lord of the manor of Rockells, in Watton, m. in 1736, Elizabeth McMurdie, and had two sons, THOMAS, and Peter-Barker, b. 12 March, 1741. The former,

THE REV. THOMAS SCOTT, of Rockells, in Watton, rector of Merton, and vicar of Tottington, b. 23 Jan. 1737, m. in 1763, Anne Blomfield, and had issue,

THOMAS.

SCOTT OF STOURBRIDGE AND GREAT BARR.

SCOTT, ROBERT, Esq. of Stourbridge, co. Worcester, and Great Barr, co. Stafford, b. 15 July, 1803; m. 17 Feb. 1830, Sarah, sole dau. and heir of John Scott, Esq. of Stourbridge and Great Barr, upon which occasion he dropped his paternal surname of Wellbeloved, and assumed,

* The eldest dau., Catharine, m. Tailyour, of Borrowfield, and had issue; the second m. Napier, of Harvieston; the third m. Provost Rait, of Montrose; and the fourth, Jean, m. Sir James Ogilvie, of New Grange.

† This lady saved her husband's life, in 1746. Mr. Scott being at the time representative for the county in parliament, and a staunch adherent of the house of Hanover, the rebels came to Dunninald, and were on the point of putting him to death, when Mrs. Scott (usually called Lady Dunninald) entered the hall, and petitioned for her husband's life to be spared. Being in person a woman of fine and commanding appearance and manner, near her accouchement (with the late David Scott, who was in after life the member for the same county, in 1790,) her entreaties so far prevailed, that Mr. Scott's life was spared, and he was carried off to the Tolbooth of Montrose, and confined there till the arrival of the Duke of Cumberland, by whom he was immediately liberated.

by royal sign-manual, the name and arms of Scott only. He s. his father-in-law, 3 Jan. 1832. Mr. Scott has issue,

JOHN-CHARLES-ADDYES, b. 29 Dec. 1830.

Sarah-Emma. Mary-Lætitia. Elizabeth-Anne.

This gentleman is the youngest son of the Rev. Charles Wellbeloved, of York. He is a barrister-at-law, of the Middle Temple, and on the Oxford circuit, a magistrate for cos. Worcester and Stafford, and a deputy-lieutenant of the former shire. At the general election, in 1841, he was elected M.P. for the borough of Wallsall.

Lineage.

The first of this family who settled at Stourbridge, was JOHN SCOTT, originally of Chaddesley-Corbet, co. Worcester. He removed to Stourbridge about the middle of the seventeenth century, and left issue,

* FAMILY OF ADDYES.

This family has been long settled at Great Barr, in the co. Stafford.

SIR DEGORY ADDIS, Knt., m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Pewtrell, Esq., and d. 27 Feb. 1521. From him descended

THOMAS ADDYES, who settled at Great Barr, in the 16th century, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS ADDYES, who m. Mary Greenshawe, of Knowle, co. Warwick, and was father of JOHN ADDYES, of Great Barr. He m. Mary Hopkins, of Moor Hall, co. Warwick, and through her became possessed of a considerable estate there. He had issue,

Thomas, his successor.

Mary, m. the Rev. John Tonckes, and had issue,

Ann, m. to William Scott, Esq. of Stourbridge, co. Worcester.

Ann, m. Richard Scott, Esq. of Little Aston, co. Warwick, of the family of Scott, of Barr Hall, co. Stafford, and had an only dau.,

Mary, m. Andrew Hacket, Esq. (son of Sir Andrew Hacket, Knt., and grandson of Dr. Hacket, the first Bishop of the united diocese of Lichfield and Conventry,) and had issue, John Addyes, to whom the Moor Hall estate was devised by his godfather, Addyes, and is now the residence of the Hacket family. He m. Mary, sister of Sir Joseph Scott, Bart. of Barr Hall, and dau. of William Scott, Esq. of Barr Hall, by Mary Whitby.

Andrew, m. 1st, a dau. of Lord Leigh of Stoncleigh, and left issue; and, 2ndly, Elizabeth Benyon, of Northamptonshire.

Richard, d. without issue.

John Addyes was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS ADDYES, Esq., who m. Ann Hopkins, and had issue,

John, d. young, and without issue.

Mary, d. 3 April, 1786, unm.

Thomas Addyes was s. in his Staffordshire, and part of his Warwickshire estates, by his only surviving child, Mary Addyes, the Moor Hall estate having gone over to the descendants of Ann Addyes, by Richard Scott, as above stated. Miss Mary Addyes bequeathed all her estates to her first cousin, Ann, the wife of William Scott, of Stourbridge, in whose family they remain.

† The late John Kettle, Esq. of Birmingham, left issue one son, the present John Kettle, Esq. of Birmingham; and two daus., Sarah, as stated in the text, m. to John Scott, Esq.; and Mary, m. to the Rev. John Kentish, of Birmingham and St. Albans, one of the pastors of the New Meeting-house, Birmingham, and sole representative of the family of Kentish of St. Albans.

Family of Wellbeloved.

The first of this family on record is

JOHN WELLBELOVED, of Cobham, Surrey, who, by his wife, Mary, left a son,

CHARLES WELLBELOVED, b. 3 Feb. 1713, at Cobham. This gentleman was four times married, but left issue only by his first wife, Mary, dau. of John Parkins. He d. at Mortlake, 4 June, 1782, and was s. by his only son,

JOHN WELLBELOVED, who was b. 23 July, 1742. By his wife, Elizabeth, he left an only son,

THE REV. CHARLES WELLBELOVED, now of York. This gentleman is minister of St. Saviourgate Chapel, in York, and was principal and theological professor in the Manchester College in that city, from 1803 to 1840, when it was removed back to Manchester. In the literary world he is well known as a theologian and antiquary. He was b. in London, 6 April, 1769, and m. 1 July, 1793, Anne, dau. of John Kinder, Esq. of Stoke Newington, co. Middlesex. This lady was great-great-granddau. of Sir Francis Wingate, Knt., by the Lady Anne Annesley, dau. of Arthur Annesley, 1st Earl of Anglesey. By her grandmother, she was also descended from the Cornwalls, who derived from Richard, Earl of Cornwall, King of the Romans, who was son of King JOHN. Her mother also was cousin-german to Dr. Aikin and Mrs. Barbauld, and nearly connected with several noble families. By this lady Mr. Wellbeloved has had issue,

- i. Charles, b. 13 June, 1794, m. 4 Sept. 1834, Mary, dau. of Thomas Read, Esq. of Scarborough, and has had issue,
 1. Charles-Henry, b. in Leeds, 23 Oct. 1835.
 2. Robert-John.
 3. Henry.
1. Anne-Isabella.

ii. John, twin with his sister Eliza, d. at Homburgh, 8 Oct. 1819, aged 21.

iii. Henry, twin with his sister Harriet, d. an infant, 29 April, 1800.

iv. ROBERT, twin with his sister Emma, the present ROBERT SCOTT, Esq. of Stourbridge and Great Barr.

i. Lætitia, m. 13 Aug. 1821, to the Rev. John Kenrick, M.A., classical professor in the Manchester College, York, from 1810 to 1840; on the removal of the college to Manchester, he was appointed professor of history and belles-lettres. This gentleman's erudition as a classical and general scholar is well known. His writings in connexion with theology and the classics are numerous. He is descended from an old and highly respectable family long seated at Wynn Hall, co. Denbigh.

ii. Anne.

iii. Eliza, d. an infant, 20 April, 1799.

iv. Harriet, m. 16 July, 1827, to the Rev. John-Reynell Wreford, F.S.A., now of Bristol, formerly one of the pastors of the New Meeting-house in Birmingham, in conjunction with the Rev. John Kentish, before mentioned in the note. This gentleman is a cadet of the family of Wreford of Cleavanger, co. Devon, which is also a branch of the Wrefords of Clannaborough, in the same county; both which estates have belonged to the family for nearly two centuries. By his mother, Mary Reynell, (who was twenty-first in lineal descent from Richard Reynell, governor of the castles of Exeter and Launceston, 2 RICHARD I., 1191,) Mr. Wreford is descended from the family of the Reynells, who for four centuries were seated at Ogwell House, co. Devon, and the present representative of which family is Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thomas Reynell, Bart., K.C.B. The issue of Mr. and Mrs. Wreford are,

Charles-Reynell Wreford, b. at Edgbaston, near Birmingham, 16 Aug. 1828.

John-Kenrick-Reynell Wreford, b. at Edgbaston, near Birmingham, 4 Feb. 1833.

v. Emma, m. 27 Dec. 1831, to the Hon. Mr. Justice James Carter, one of the judges of his majesty's Supreme Court of Judicature in New Brunswick, North America. Mr. Carter is a member of the family of Carter of Portsmouth, nephew of the late Sir John Carter, whose only son, John Bonham-Carter, Esq., was for many years representative of Portsmouth in parliament. Mrs. Carter d. at Fredericton, New Brunswick, 29 July, 1842.

SCOTT OF GALA.

(See SUPPLEMENT.)

SCOTT OF RAEBURN.

Barbara.

Mr. Scott s. to the estates upon the demise of his father.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the house of HARDEN, immortalized by giving birth to the AUTHOR OF WAVERLEY.

SIR WILLIAM SCOTT, 3rd laird of Harden, living temp. JAMES VI., m. Agnes, dau. of Sir Gideon Murray, of Elibank, treasurer-depute of Scotland, and had, with other issue,

GIDEON (Sir,) ancestor of the house of HARDEN, now represented by LORD POLWARTH.

And,

WALTER SCOTT, (third son,) who m. Ann-Isobel, dau. of William Macdougall, of Makerstoun, by Margaret, dau. of Walter Scott, of Harden, and had two sons and two daus., viz.,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Walter, known by the name of Bearded Wat, from a vow which he had made to go unshaven until the restoration of the STUARTS. He m. Jean, dau. of Campbell of Silvercraigs, by whom he had two sons, Walter and Robert. The younger,

ROBERT SCOTT, was father of

WALTER SCOTT, writer to the Signet, who m. Anne, dau. of John Rutherford, M.D., and was father of SIR WALTER SCOTT, Bart., author of Waverley. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

Isobel, m. to Captain Anderson.

Christian, m. to James Menzies, fourth son of Alexander Menzies, of Culterallers, co. Lanark.

It appears, by acts of the privy council, 1665-6, that Raeburn and his wife adopted Quakerism, and that the laird was in consequence deprived of the education of his children, had part of his estate wrested from him, and was thrown into the prison of Edinburgh, while his wife suffered incarceration in that of Jedburgh. He d. soon after the Restoration, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SCOTT, of Raeburn, a person of considerable erudition, who m. Anna, eldest dau. of Sir John Scott, Bart. of Ancrum, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Francis Scott, of Mougertown, and had,

WALTER, his heir.

Isobel, m. in 1711, to John Rutherford, M.D.

Raeburn d. 6 Aug. 1699, (his widow m. 2ndly, in 1702, John Scott, of Sinton,) and was s. by his only son,

WALTER SCOTT, of Raeburn, who m. 19 Nov. 1703, Anne, third dau. of Hugh Scott, of Gala, by Isabella, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Ker, of Cavers, and had one son, William, and two daus., Isobel and Anne. This laird was killed in a duel by one of the Pringles of Crighton, near Selkirk, (in a field still named Raeburn's Meadow,) 3 Oct. 1707, at the age of 24. His relict m. 2ndly, Henry Macdougall, of Makerstoun; and 3rdly, Home of Eccles. The only son and successor,

WILLIAM SCOTT, of Raeburn, b. in 1704, who m. in 1743, Jean Elliott, and left at his decease, one dau., Anne, m. to Thomas, second son of Robert Scott, of Sandyknow, and an only son, the late WALTER SCOTT, Esq. of Raeburn.

Motto—Reparabit Cornua Phoebe.

Seat—Raeburn.

SCROOPE OF DANBY.

SCROOPE, SIMON-THOMAS, Esq. of Danby-upon-Yore, co. York, b. 17 April, 1790; m. in 1821, Mary, eldest dau. of John Jones, Esq. of Llanarth Court, in Monmouthshire, and by her (who d. in 1830) has, with other issue, a son and heir, SIMON-THOMAS.

Lineage.

Among the numerous baronial families which formerly possessed great influence in England, that of LE SCROPE or SCROPE stands conspicuous. Though some of their titles are now dormant, and others extinct, few persons were more distinguished in the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth centuries; and Shakespeare has given immortality to no less than three individuals of that name.* The house of Scrope was ennobled in two branches, SCROPE OF BOLTON and SCROPE OF MASHAM AND UPSAL, and its members shared the glory of all the great victories of the middle ages. An unbroken male descent from the CONQUEST, if not from the time of EDWARD the Confessor, and the emphatic declaration of the Earl of Arundel, given in 1386, as a witness in the celebrated controversy between Sir Richard Scrope and Sir Robert Grosvenor for the right of bearing the coat, AZURE, A BEND OR, as well as of numerous other deponents in that cause, that the representative of this family "was descended from noble and generous blood of geutry and ancieut ancestry, who had always preserved their name and estate in dignity and honour,"† as well as their alliances and property, sufficiently attest their antiquity and importance; whilst the mere enumeration of the dignities which they attained between the reigns of EDWARD II. and CHARLES I. proves the high rank they enjoyed. In this period of three hundred years, the house of Scrope produced two earls and twenty barons, one chancellor, four treasurers, and two chief-justices of England, one archbishop, and two bishops, five knights of the Garter, and numerous bannerets, the highest military order in the days of chivalry.

RICHARD SCRUPE held various manors in Worcestershire, Herefordshire, and Shropshire, in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, as appears on the authority of Domesday Book, at the compilation of which they were possessed by his son,

OSBORN FITZ-RICHARD, or FITZ-SCROP, who, in 1067, whilst WILLIAM the Conqueror and the greater part of his nobles were in Normandy, assisted the castellan of Hereford in subduing the rebel Edric. It was most probably his son or grandson,

HUGH LE SCROPE, who is recorded as owing services to Gilbert de Gant, Earl of Lincoln, in 1149, for certain lands given to the Priory of Bridlington, in Yorkshire. His son, ROBERT LE SCROPE, likewise granted lands to the same priory. He left issue two sons, PHILIP and Simon.

PHILIP LE SCROPE was employed in the 6 RICHARD I., 1195, to render an account to the king of the revenues of the Archbishop of York. He left only two daus., Alice and Maud, who both d. without issue, and were s. in their inheritance by their uncle,

SIMON LE SCROPE, of Flotmanby, co. York. He was buried in the church at Wenslay, and was s. by his son,

HENRY LE SCROPE, who gave divers lands in Flotmanby, in the reign of King JOHN, to the Priory of Bridlington, the Abbey of St. Mary of Rivaulx, and other religious communities. He m. Julian, dan. of Roger Brune, of Thornton, and left a son,

WILLIAM LE SCROPE, living 39 HENRY III., 1254, who, as well as his father, was buried with his ancestors at Wenslay. His eldest son,

RICHARD LE SCROPE, who served against the Welsh in 1263, was s. by his brother,

SIR WILLIAM LE SCROPE, who possessed lands in Bolton, in Yorkshire, for which he obtained a grant of free warren, 24 EDWARD I., 1296. Several deponents in the Scrope and Grosvenor Controversy report him to have been celebrated for his conduct in the field, and "the best knight of the whole country at jousts and tournaments." He left issue,

I. HENRY LE SCROPE, his heir.

II. Geoffrey le Scrope, of Masham, knight-banneret, and chief-justice to both EDWARD II. and EDWARD III.; with the latter of whom he also served in a military capacity throughout his French and Scotch wars. He was likewise celebrated for his achievements in the lists and tournaments, and many interesting anecdotes are given concerning him by the deponents in the Scrope and Grosvenor Controversy. He was the progenitor of the line of the LORDS SCROPE OF MASHAM. (See BUAKE'S Extinct Peerage.)

SIR HENRY LE SCROPE, eldest son of Sir William le Scrope, became a judge of the Court of King's Bench 2 EDWARD II. He was a trier of petitions in the parliament which met at Lincoln, 9 EDWARD II., 1316, and in the following year was made chief-justice of his court, which high judicial office he filled for seven years. He was summoned to parliament throughout the greater part of the reign of EDWARD II., and was employed in various situations of high trust. On the accession of EDWARD III., he was re-appointed chief-justice of the King's Bench, and subsequently made chief-baron of the Exchequer. He obtained charters of free warren for his manors of Bolton, and others in Yorkshire; and for his large benefactions was considered the founder of the wealthy Abbey of St. Agatha, of Richmond. He d. in 1336, and left issue by his wife, Margaret, dau. of Lord Roos,

I. WILLIAM LE SCROPE.

II. Stephen le Scrope, who d. s. p.

III. RICHARD LE SCROPE, who became heir to his brother William.

SIR WILLIAM LE SCROPE accompanied King EDW. III. in several of his French and Scotch expeditions. He was at the battle of Vironfoss, in Picardy, in 1339; at the siege of Tournay, in 1340; and at that of Vannes, in 1342. He d. of a wound received at the siege of Morlaix, in 1344, and was buried in the Abbey of St. Agatha. He was s. by his brother,

SIR RICHARD SCROPE, 1st BARON SCROPE OF BOLTON, b. in 1328. This gallant soldier was knighted by EDWARD III. at the battle of Durham, where the Scotch were defeated in 1316, and was present at the siege of Calais, in the same year. Without attempting to follow this nobleman through all his martial exploits, which, however, stand recorded by their eye-witnesses, the several royal, noble, and knightly deponents in the celebrated controversy sustained by him with Sir Richard Grosvenor, for the right of bearing his family coat of arms, it is enough to say, that between 1346 and 1385, a period of forty years, there was scarcely a battle of note in England, France, Spain, or Scotland, where the English forces were engaged, in which Scrope did not gain honour. But as a statesman, he was still more distinguished. He was lord-high-treasurer to EDWARD III., and twice lord-chancellor of England in the reign of RICHARD II., by both which sovereigns he was intrusted with many other employments of honour and confidence. Walsingham states him to have been remarkable for his extraordinary wisdom and integrity, and records his firmness in refusing to put the great seal as chancellor to the profuse grants made by RICHARD II. to his favourites. When RICHARD, incensed at this, sent messenger after messenger to Scrope, "desiring him forthwith to return the great seal, he refused to deliver it to any other person than to the king himself." Lord Scrope was summoned to parliament continuously during the reigns of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II., and was a trier of petitions on many occasions. In 1385, he challenged the right of Sir Robert Grosvenor to bear the arms, "Azure, a bend, or;" and the memorable suit, instituted for the decision of this heraldic controversy, lasted upwards of four years, and was at length decided in his favour, Scrope having established, by the evidence of a vast number of deponents, consisting of the most distinguished men of the day, from John of Gaunt, the king's uncle, to Chaucer the poet, who was then a squire at arms, that "his ancestors had continually borne the contested coat from the Conquest." Lord Scrope built the stately castle of Bolton, in Richmondshire, and d. full of honours, at the age of 73, 4 HENRY IV., 1403. His name is among those of the peers who assented to the deposition of RICHARD II.; but his heir apparent, the Earl of Wilts, sacrificed his life in the service of that unfortunate sovereign; and his younger son, Sir Stephen Scrope, adhered to the dethroned monarch with admirable fidelity. Lord Scrope m. Blanch, dan. of Sir William de la Pole, by whom he had issue,

- I. SIR WILLIAM SCROPE, K.G., created EARL OF WILTSHIRE, and appointed treasurer of England, in the reign of RICHARD II., by which sovereign he was greatly esteemed, and employed in numerous important services. He purchased the sovereignty of the Isle of Man from the Earl of Salishury, and in 1394, when the truce was confirmed with France, "Guilliam LE SCROP" is recorded to have assented to it "pour le seigneurie de Man," as one of the "allies" of the King of England. He is the person of whom Shakespeare makes the Lord Roos to say,

"The Earl of Wiltshire hath the realm in farm."

RICH. II., act 2, sc. 1.

On the invasion of Lancaster, the Earl of Wilts defended the castle of Bristol for the king, but was taken by the usurper's troops, and beheaded in 1399, in the lifetime of his father.

SCROPE OF CASTLE COMBE.

SCROPE, WILLIAM, Esq. of Castle Combe, Wilts, and of Cockerington, co. Lincoln, b. in 1772; m. in 1793, Emma, only dau. and heir of Charles Long, Esq. of Grittleton, Wilts, second son of Sir Robert Long, Bart. of Draycot, M.P., by Emma, his wife, dau. and heir of Richard, Earl Tynney, and has issue,

EMMA, m. in 1821, to George-Poulett Thomson, who thereupon assumed the name and arms of SCROPE, in lieu of those of Thomson, by royal sign-manual, dated 22 March, 1821, and is at present M.P. for Stroud, F.R.S., F.G.S., &c.

Mr. Scrope inherited the Wiltshire estates on the death of his father, in 1787, and those of North and South Cokerington, &c., in Lincolnshire, in 1795, at the decease, without issue, of Mrs. Peart Scrope, only child of Mary, Countess of Deloraine, sister and heiress to Frederick Scrope, Esq. of Cokerington, in virtue of the entail created in the will of the said Frederick Scrope, who d. in 1780, s. p., the last of that branch of the Scrope family which had settled in Lincolnshire at the close of the sixteenth century.

Lineage.

The Scropes of Castle Combe descend in the direct male line from Sir Richard Le Scrope, Knt., 1st BARON SCROPE OF BOLTON, lord-high-treasurer and chancellor to both Kings EDWARD III. and RICHARD II.

SIR STEPHEN SCROPE, Lord of Bentley, co. York, and of Castle Combe, in Wilts, third son of Sir Richard Scrope, 1st Baron Scrope of Bolton, appears to have inherited much of the talent, valour, and integrity of his father, and to have almost equally distinguished himself both in a civil and military capacity. By RICHARD II. he was appointed lord-justice of Ireland, and by HENRY IV. was made governor of Roxburgh Castle in 1400. In the next year he returned to Ireland, as lord-deputy to Thomas, of Lancaster, the king's son, and d. at Tristrel Dermot, in that country, in 1408. He was faithful to his sovereign and benefactor, RICHARD II., to the last, and accompanying him to Conway Castle, upon Lancaster's invasion, was present at the conference there between that usurper and the king, bearing the sword of state. Sir Stephen Scrope m. Milicent, dau. and co-heir of ROBERT, LORD TIPTOFT OF TIBTOT, whose wardship, together with that of her two sisters, had been granted by EDWARD III. to his father, Lord Scrope of Bolton. By his marriage with this lady, he obtained the manors and lordships of Castle Combe, co. Wilts, and Oxendon, in Gloucestershire, which had been held by his father, Sir Richard Scrope, from the year 1388, in right of his wards, and had descended to the Tiptofts from the BARONS BADLESHERE, whose representatives they were. Sir Stephen Scrope dying in 1408, was s. by his only son,

STEPHEN SCROPE, Esq. of Castle Combe, who did not, however, enter into possession of his maternal estates until after the death of Lady Scrope's second husband, the celebrated SIR JOHN FASTOLF, K.G., by whom they were enjoyed (by the courtesy of England) for nearly fifty years. At length, at his death in 1460, Stephen Scrope, who was still alive, but at an advanced age, s. to the estates, and possessed them till his death in the year 1472. He was m. to Jane, dau. of Sir John Bingham, Knt., by whom he had one son,

SIR JOHN SCROPE, of Castle Combe, Knt., high-sheriff of Wilts, 7 HENRY VIII., who m. 1st, Isabel, dau. of John Newburgh, Esq., by whom he had no issue; and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Sir John Wrottesley, of Wrottesley, co. Stafford, by whom he had, RICHARD, his heir; Anthony, who d. in infancy; Anne, m. to Henry Viuer, of Castle Combe; and Dorothy. Sir John Scrope d. in 1516, and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD SCROPE, Esq. of Castle Combe, then but twelve years of age. This gentleman resided at Castle Combe all his life, and served the office of high-sheriff of Wilts both in the last year of the reign of HENRY VIII. and the first of EDWARD VI., 1545-6, and in these reigns, as well as that of ELIZABETH, was frequently employed in the collection of the royal subsidies, aids, and benevolences. He twice paid a fine to discharge him from being made a knight of the Bath. He m. 1st, Mary, dau. of William Ludlow, of Hill Deverill, Wilts, by whom he had,

Richard, who d. v. p. in 1560.

GEORGE, who s. his father.

Edward, who d. s. p. in 1568.

SELBY OF BIDDLESTON.

SELBY, WALTER, Esq. of Biddleston, co. Northumberland, b. 2 Nov. 1822; s. his father, 23 Feb. 1833.

Lineage.

The SELBYS have been seated time out of mind in Northumberland;* but, by a fire which unfortunately occurred in the year 1721, at Allenton, the parish in which they usually resided, the greatest part of their deeds and evidences were destroyed, and they are thereby deprived of the means of ascertaining with more exactness the remote line of their ancestry. A grant, however, from King EDWARD I., which has been preserved from destruction, shows beyond doubt that they derive from Sir Walter de Selby, who flourished in the reigns of HENRY III. and EDWARD I., as the lands thereby given to the said Sir Walter have continued uninterruptedly in the possession of his descendants, and are enjoyed by them to this day. Sir Walter's successor, another SIR WALTER SELBY, was governor of Liddell Castle, on the Borders, when that fortress was besieged by DAVID, King of Scotland, 16 EDWARD III. The castle yielded, 5 Oct., and the Scottish prince, enraged at the check his progress had received, immediately ordered the gallant Sir Walter to be beheaded. In the time of RICHARD II., Biddleston was held by JAMES DE SELBY, who had two sons, Alexander de Selby, and Ralph de Selby, a monk at Westminster, one of the barons of the Exchequer, and a privy councillor to Kings HENRY IV. and HENRY V. This learned monk lies interred in Westminster Abbey, under the following monumental inscription:—"Here lyeth entombed the body of Ralph Selby, descended from the ancient family of the Selbies of Bittelsdun, in the county of Northumberland, a Monk of the Fraternity, a learned doctor in the civil and canon law, and one exceedingly beloved and favoured by Kings HENRY IV. and V., in the eighth year of whose reign he departed this world anno 1420.

* At a very early period the barony and manor of Prenderlath, on the Scottish border, was possessed by the Selbys.

Ralph's eldest brother, Alexander Selby, was father of John Selby, possessor of Biddleston, temp. HENRY VI., and of a dau. Mary, the wife of Thomas Hagerston, Esq. of Hagerston. In the time of HENRY VII., John Selby held Biddleston, and in the following reign that estate was possessed by

PERCIVAL DE SELBY, one of the commissioners of the Middle Marches, 6 EDWARD VI. He m. Cicely, dau. of Sir John Collingwood, Knt. of Eslington, and left a dau., Isabella, m. to Anthony Fenwick, Esq. of Stanton, living in 1568, and a son and successor,

Mr. Pocklington-Senhouse, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Cumberland, and a magistrate for Nottinghamshire, assumed his second surname by royal licence, 27 Sept. 1842, and served as high-sheriff of Cumberland in 1846.

Lineage.

The very ancient family of Pocklington is supposed to have derived, at an early period, its appellation from the town of that name in the East Riding of Yorkshire.

THOMAS POCKLINGTON (son of William Pocklington, living temp. HENRY VIII.) had the Chauntry lands in Coddington, Notts, belonging to the Priory of St. Catherine, near Lincoln, settled on him, 44 ELIZABETH: his son, JOHN POCKLINGTON, of Cottingham, was father, by Letitia, his wife, of WILLIAM POCKLINGTON, of Cottingham, who was one of the grand jury who subscribed and sent instructions to the knights of the shire of Nottingham, during the violent debates of the year 1642, in favour of the king. By Mildred, his wife, he left, inter alios, a son, ROGER POCKLINGTON, of Newark, father of ROGER POCKLINGTON, of Kelham, Notts, who d. 31 Oct. 1720, leaving by Mary, his wife, dau. of Thomas Saxton, Esq., several children, of whom was Jane-Augusta, m. 20 March, 1832, James-Archibald Campbell, Esq. of Inverawe, co. Argyll, and d. 11 July, 1842.

Family of Senhouse.

The family DE SEWYNHOUSE, DE SEVENHOUSE, or DE SENHOUSE, derives its surname from Hall Sevenhouse, or Senhouse, a district of Cumberland. The first of its members upon record,

WALTER DE SEWYNHOUSE, had a grant of the fifth part of the township of Bolton, in the parish of Gosforth, from Alan de Coupland, and likewise a grant of other lauds in the same parish from William de Wayberthwaite. These grants are both without date, but both are witnessed by Sir Adam de Lamplugh, Knt., who lived in the times of Kings RICHARD I. and JOHN. Walter was s. by his son,

WALTER DE SEVENHOUSE, who was witness to a deed, also without date, with Sir Richard le Fleming, Knt. who d. about the close of HENRY III.'s reign. This Walter was s. by his son,

NICHOLAS DE SEVENHOUSE, who was s. by his son and heir, another

NICHOLAS DE SEVENHOUSE, who held the hamlet of Newton or Seascale, in the parish of Gosforth, of Thomas de Multon, of Egremont, as appears by the office of escheat, after the death of the said Thomas, bearing date 15 EDWARD II. Nicholas de Sevenhouse became possessed of the hamlet of Newton in right of his wife, a dau. and heiress of De Ponsonby, whose arms, quartered with those of De Sevenhouse, engraven on stone, are at present to be seen on the manor hall of Scascale. He was s. by his son, NICHOLAS DE SEWYNHOUSE or DE SENHOUSE, who m. as it would seem, a dau. and co-heiress of Alan de Coupland, of Coupland and Seaton, co. Cumberland, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE SEVENHOUSE, who m. a dau. and co-heir of Lucy. Amongst the archives of the family of Senhouse is still preserved a deed of conveyance from Alice de Lucy, dau. and co-heir of Richard de Lucy, of Egremont, by Ada de Morville, his wife, to her second son, Sir John de Lucy, high-sheriff of co. Cumberland for two years, 31 EDWARD I., and knight of the shire for the same county 34th of the same reign, from whom, by his wife, Christian, descended the wife of this William Sevenhouse, which William was s. at his decease by his son,

THOMAS DE SENHOUSE, whose name appears in the return of gentlemen of the co. Cumberland, made in the 12 HENRY VI. It is related, that in a warm altercation with a monk of Calder Abbey, relative to his claim of a right to fish in the river Calder, this Thomas de Sevenhouse was so highly exasperated that he hurled the monk over the battlements of the bridge. For this summary act of extrajudicial process he was obliged to compound by a heavy fine imposed upon his estates. He m. a dau. of Sir Richard Hudleston, of Millum Castle, in Cumberland, knight-ban-neret, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS SENHOUSE, who was a party with Richard Hudleston, Esq. of Millum Castle, in an award made by his brother, Sir Simon Senhouse, prior of Carlisle, 16 HENRY VII. He was also, in the next year, a party with William Stanley, Esq. of Dalegarth, in Cumberland, in another award made by William Siveger, Lord Bishop of Carlisle, 17 HENRY VII. He m. Eleanor, dau. of John Lamplugh, Esq. of Lamplugh, and had JOHN, his successor; Anthony; and Margaret, wife of John Stanley, Esq. of Dalegarth. This Thomas, as did his father, enjoyed the family estates for half a century. He was s. by his son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, who m. in 1528, Elizabeth, elder sister and co-heir of Richard Eglesfield,* son of Gawen Eglesfield, of Alneburgh Hall, high-sheriff of co. Cumberland in 9 HENRY VIII. (which Gawen was the descendant in a right line from John de Eglesfield, the elder brother of Robert de Eglesfield, the FOUNDER of QUEEN'S COLLEGE, OXFORD.) This John Senhouse received an ample pardon, by letters patent, for all such crimes of a treasonable nature as he had previously committed, and he was appointed, also by letters patent, dated 7 ELIZABETH, escheator of the cos. Cumberland and Westmorland. He d. in 1568, leaving four sons, viz.,

- i. THOMAS, who inherited all the patrimonial estates of the family, and acquired himself, in the 6th of ELIZABETH, the advowson and right of patronage of the rectory and parish church of Gosforth. He m. Dorothy, dau. of John Vaux, Esq. of Catterlen, in Cumberland, and was s. by his son, JOHN SENHOUSE, Esq. of Seascale Hall, who m. Mary, dau. of William Fleming, Esq. of Rydal, in Westmorland, and d. in 1636, leaving issue, 1. JOHN, of Seascale, who m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of John Bimpson, Esq. of Shevington, in Lancashire, and was father of WRIGHTINGTON SENHOUSE, of Seascale Hall, who was to have been one of the knights of the Royal Oak, in 1660. His son, JOHN SENHOUSE, of Seascale Hall, high-sheriff of Cumberland, 3rd ANNE, sold all the patrimonial estates, and his descendants became extinct in the male line about the middle of the last century; 2. Joseph, founder of the Hall Bolton family, which became extinct in the male line about a hundred years ago.
- ii. Peter, of Ellenborough Hall, who was admitted to the freedom of the city of London, in 1562. To this Peter, his aunt, Anne Bardsey, granted one half of her moiety of the manor of Alneburgh, otherwise Netherhall. He d. unm., and bequeathed his estates to his brother John.
- iii. JOHN, of whom presently.
- iv. Richard, incumbent of Claughton, in Lancashire.

The third son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, succeeded his elder brother, Peter, in his half moiety of the manor of Ellenborough, and inherited from his mother her moiety of the same. This

He m. Anne, dau. of John Ponsonby, Esq. of Hail Hall, and had, with other issue,

- i. PETER, his successor.
- ii. Simon, who was murdered near Dovenby, by Skelton, of Armathwaite. Skelton and himself are said to have paid their addresses to the same lady, who gave the preference to Senhouse, and thereby so enraged Skelton, as to excite him to so base an act of unmerited vengeance.
- iii. Richard, in holy orders, D.D., fellow of St. John's, Cambridge, afterwards Dean of Gloucester, and consecrated, in 1624, Bishop of Carlisle. Of this prelate it is related, that "when he was a scholar at Cambridge, coming into the country to see his friends, his horse happened to cast a shoe, and having no money to pay the smith withal — 'Well, well,' says the smith, 'go your ways, and when you come to be Bishop of Carlisle, you'll pay me,' which he did in abundance of gratuity, and was a religious and honest pastor." Dr. Senhouse preached the coronation sermon before King CHARLES I., and took for his text, "I will give thee a crown of life," which was afterwards esteemed as a prophecy. He was an excellent preacher, eloquent and graceful in delivery, and four much admired sermons were published after his decease.
- i. Eleanor, m. to Henry Fletcher, Esq. of Moresby Hall.
- ii. Jane, m. to Blennerhassett, of Flimby.
- iii. Elizabeth, m. to William Briscoe, Esq. of Crofton.

Mr. Senhouse* d. in 1604, and was s. by his eldest son,

PETER SENHOUSE, Esq. of Alneburgh, or Ellenborough Hall, otherwise Netherhall, who was appointed by letters patent, in 2 JAMES I., to succeed his father as steward of the lordships &c. formerly belonging to the monastery of Cuttram. He was constituted likewise, by letters patent, (20 JAMES I.) escheator of the counties of Cumberland and Westmorland, and he served the office of sheriff for the former shire, 3 CHARLES I. He m. Frances, dau. of Lancelot Skelton, Esq. of Armathwaite Castle, in Cumberland, and had, with other children,

JOHN, his successor.

Thomas, of Long Newton, in Cumberland, who m. a dau. of Whelpdale, and was grandfather of John Senhouse, Esq., a lieutenant in Tangier, who built Tangier House, and Tangier and Senhouse-street, and was possessed of large property at Whitehaven. He d. unm.

* Mr. Senhouse had also another son, LEONARD, who resided at Isel, in 1591, but subsequently removed to Wigton. He d. in 1638, leaving, with a dau., Janet, a son and heir,

JOHN SENHOUSE, Esq., grandfather of

JOSEPH SENHOUSE, Esq., who m. the dau. and heiress of John Tiffin, Esq. of Calder Abbey, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, Esq. of Calder Abbey, high-sheriff of Cumberland, 31 GEORGE II., who was s. by his son,

JOSEPH-TIFFIN SENHOUSE, Esq. of Calder Abbey, an officer in the Guards, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of Robert Waters, Esq. of Linethwaite, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of John Sunderland, Esq. of Cartmel, in Lancashire, and d. in 1805, leaving four daus., viz.,

1. MARY, present possessor of Calder Abbey, who m. in 1823, Thomas Irwin, Esq., a captain of dragoons.
- ii. Eleanor, m. in 1824, to Samuel Irton, Esq. of Irton.
- iii. Sarah.
- iv. Elizabeth.

† This Peter Senhouse seems to have married a second wife, a Mrs. Eglesfield, and had another son,

ANTHONY SENHOUSE, Esq. of Thornhaugh, co. Northampton, who m. Mary, dau. of John Banks, Esq., and was s. at his decease, by his eldest son,

THE REV. PETER SENHOUSE, vicar of Kempley, in Gloucestershire, and of Linton-cum-Lea, co. Hereford, a prebendary of Brecon. This learned divine published, in 1727, a sermon on "the right Use and Improvement of sensitive Pleasures, and more particularly of Music," preached in the cathedral of Gloucester, at the anniversary meeting of the choirs. IV. George, also an officer in the army.

V. William-Skene, d. 22 July, 1829.

VI. Isabella.

VII. Anne, b. and d. in 1812.

VIII. Jessie-Jane, d. at Pisa, 19 Feb. 1831.

Mr. Seton is a justice of the peace and deputy-lieutenant for Aberdeenshire.

Lineage.

This family is a branch of the Setons of Pitmedden, Barts. At the earliest time of authentic records we find its ancestors settled as lords of the soil at their baronial residence in East-Lothian, where its chiefs continued to hold their principal seat through the period of nearly seven centuries, until attainted for their attachment to the exiled house of Stuart, in the person of George Seton, 5th Earl of Winton and 11th Lord Seton, in 1715. The name, like most other ancient ones, has been variously written, but of the three most usual forms, Seytounne, Seaton, and Seton, the last has been most generally adopted.

The first whose name is recorded is DOUGAL DE SETON, whose son,

SECHER DE SETON, is found a witness to the charters of King DAVID I. He d. about the year 1130, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER DE SETON, whose descendant,

GEORGE SETON, of Mounie, (second son of Sir Alexander Seton, of Pitmedden, who was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, in 1684, and became a lord of Session, under the title of Lord Pitmedden, see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.) m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Sir Alexander Gibson, Bart. of Pentland, and by her had, with two sons, who d. unm., a dau., Helen, wife of Alexander Leslie, Esq. of Warthill, (see p. 721.) He m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Leslie of Tochar, and had by her a son and five daus., viz., WILLIAM, his heir; MARGARET, of whom presently; Isabella, m. to the Rev. Skene Ogilvy, D.D., lineal descendant and nearest male representative of the Hon. Francis Ogilvy, sixth son of John, 6th Lord Ogilvy of Airlie; Catherine, m. to William Henderson, Esq. of Newton, an officer in the army; Rachel; and Jean. The only son, WILLIAM, s. his father. but d. unm., when the estates devolved upon his sister, MARGARET SETON, who m. James Anderson, Esq. of Cobenshaw, son of James Anderson, Esq. of Cobenshaw, second son of James Anderson, Esq. of Cleugh and Cobenshaw. The property of the elder branch of this family, which, originally from the north of England, claims a common descent with the Andersons of Broughton, Barts., and the Earl of Yarborough, passed into other hands at the decease of Alexander Anderson, Esq. of Cleugh, in 1790, without male issue. By this marriage with Mr. Anderson, who sold his paternal estate of Cobenshaw, and adopted the surname of Seton, according to the terms of succession, Mrs. Seton had, with other issue, a son and heir, the present ALEXANDER SETON, Esq. of Mounie.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, or, three crescents, and in the centre a man's heart distilling blood, the whole within a double tressure, flory and counterflory, gules, for SETON; 2nd and 3rd, arg., a demi-otter, sable, armed, langued, and crowned with an antique crown, gules, issuing from a bar wavy, of the second, for MELDRUM. In the centre of the quarterings, a crescent, azure, for difference.

Crest—A demi-man, in military habit, holding the banner of Scotland, with the motto on an escrol above, "Sustento sanguine signa."

Seat—Mounie, Aberdeenshire.

SETON OF CARISTON.

SETON, GEORGE, Esq., B.A., Oxon, representative of the Setons of Cariston, co. Fife, N.B., b. 25 June, 1822.

Lineage.

GEORGE, 6TH LORD SETON,* 18th in descent from Dougall de Seton,† (whose father first assumed the surname of Seton during the reign of King MALCOLM CANMORE,) and ancestor of the Earls of Winton and Eglinton, m. Elizabeth, dau. of John, Lord Yester, progenitor of the Marquis of Tweeddale, by whom he had two sons and four daus. Of the sons, GEORGE, the elder, who s. his father, as 7th Lord Seton, was father of Robert, 1st Earl of Winton, (cr. in 1600.) The younger,

JOHN SETON, m. Isabel, dau. and heiress of Balfour, of Cariston, co. Fife, and was 1st Baron of Cariston. Being a favourite with his grandmother, Lady Janet Hepburn, she acquired for him the lands of Foulstruther, in East Lothian, and added them to his patrimony. During the absence of his brother George, 7th Lord Seton, abroad, a report of his decease having reached Scotland, John was put in possession of his whole estate, as appears by a charter under the great seal, dated 1545. He also assumed the titles of Lord Seton, and sat in parliament as a peer; but, on his brother's return, was justly dispossessed of both estates and honours. The temporary acquisition of the lordship of Seton proved very unfortunate to John and his posterity, as he was obliged, in order to clear off the extraordinary expenses incurred thereby, to sell his lands in Lothian, as well as a portion of his Fifeshire estate. He afterwards got a charter, under the great seal, from Queen MARY, of the barony of Cariston &c., dated 1553. He had two sons,

GEORGE, his heir.

JOHN, (Sir,) Knt., a captain in the Scots-guards in France, m. a dau. of the Count de Bourbon, by whom he had a dau., who m. Adinston of that ilk, an ancient baron in East-Lothian, of whom was lineally descended Christian Hepburn, 4th Countess of Winton. The family of Adinston, from the time of ROBERT THE BRUCE, continued

* This Lord Seton m. 2ndly, Mary Paris, a French lady (formerly maid of honour to Queen MARY of Lorraine,) by whom he had two sons and one dau., viz., Robert, James, and Mary; of these, the two last are unaccountably omitted in DOUGLAS' Peerage. The dau., Mary, was one of the "four Maries" who attended upon the unfortunate Queen of Scots, and is generally identified with the "Catharine Seyton" of Sir Walter Scott. As her father d. during the infancy of Queen MARY, the Lord Seton of the "Abbot" would correspond to George, seventh lord, the faithful adherent of the Scottish Queen, and half-brother, not father of Sir Walter's "Catharine;" but the novelist does not appear, on this occasion, to have paid much attention to the chronology.

† The intervening descent is as follows:—

Dougall de Seton, who lived temp. King ENGAR and King ALEXANDER I., m. Janet, dau. of Quincy, Earl of Winchester, constable of Scotland.

Secher de Seton.

Alexander de Seton, [omitted by Maitland.]

Philip de Seton, m. dau. of the Earl of March.

Sir Alexander Seton, m. dau. of Walter Barclay, chancellor of Scotland.

Sir Serlo Seton, (Bartine, Maitland), m. Margaret, dau. of William Cummin, great-justice of Scotland.

Sir Alexander Seton, (Adam, Maitland), m. Janet Gifford, dau. of Hugh, Lord Yester.

[Here two generations are inserted in Maitland's "History of the House of Seton," which are omitted in Douglas' Peerage: 1. Christell I., m. Mauld, dau. of Inghame Percie, Lord Jolef; 2. Christell II., m. Agnes, dau. of Percie, Earl of March.]

Sir Christopher Seton,† (Christell III., Maitland), m. Christian, sister of King ROBERT THE BRUCE.

Sir Alexander Seton, m. Isabel, dau. of Duncan, 10th Earl of Fife.

Sir Alexander Seton, governor of Berwick, m. Christian, dau. of Cheyne of Straloch.

Sir Alexander Seton, m. Margaret, sister of William Murray, captain of Edinburgh Castle.

William, 1st Lord Seton, m. Catharine, dau. of Sir William Sinclair, of Hermandston.

John, 2nd Lord Seton, m. Janet, dau. of George, Earl of March.

Sir William, Master of Seton, [omitted by Maitland,] d. before his father, leaving issue, George, 3rd Lord Seton, who m. 1st, Jean Stewart, dau. and heiress of John, Earl of Buchan; 2ndly, Christian, dau. of Murray of Tullibardine.

John, Master of Seton, m. Mary, dau. of John, Lord Lindsay, and d. before his father, leaving issue, George, 4th Lord Seton, m. Isabel, dau. of Colin, 1st Earl of Argyll.

George, 5th Lord Seton, m. Janet, dau. of Patrick, 1st Earl of Bothwell.

† Whose two-handed sword, nearly six feet in length, with which he defended his king and brother-in-law at the battle of Methven, in 1306, is in the possession of this family.

to be the hereditary standard-bearers of the house of Seton.

The elder son,

GEORGE SETON, 2nd Baron of Cariston, m. a dau. of John Aytton, of that ilk, co. Fife, and had two sons, Alexander, the younger; and his successor,

GEORGE SETON, 3rd Baron of Cariston, who m. Cecilia, dau. of Kinninmond of that ilk, and Craighall, co. Fife, and by her had three sons and three daus.,

SEYMER OF HANFORD.

KER-SEYMER, HENRY, Esq. of Hanford, co. Dorset, M.P. for that shire, s. his father in 1834. Mr. Seymer was elected Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, in 1831. He m. 4 July, 1839, Isabella - Helen, youngest dau. of the late W. Webber, Esq. of Binfield Lodge, Berks.

Lineage.

This family, resident for several centuries at Hanford, in Dorsetshire, claims a common progenitor with the ducal house of Somerset. In Collins' Peerage, under that dukedom, there is a conjecture as to the descent of the Seymers of Hanford from Humphrey Seymer, of Even Swindon. The conjecture arose probably from the coincidence of date, similarity of arms, and the spelling of the name. It appears in the early part of the pedigree of the ducal family, the termination was ER.

JOHN SEYMER, of Hanford, living in the 22 EDWARD IV.,* m. a dau. of William Pulvertopp, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SEYMER, of Hanford, in the 12 HENRY VIII. who m. Helena, dau. of — Gaunt, and had a son and heir,

Mr. Seymour, a magistrate for co. Galway, and captain in the Galway regiment of militia, s. his father in 1821.

Lineage.

This family is descended from the Seymours of Wiltshire. During the reign of WILLIAM III., two younger sons of that house, Thomas and John, went to Ireland as officers in the English army, and subsequently settled in Connaught: from the elder, THOMAS, derive the Seymours of Ballymore Castle; and from the younger, John, the Seymours of Somerset, co. Galway. The elder brother of these, who inherited the family estates in England, d. s. p. leaving his possessions to his only sister, who m. Colonel Sadler.

The great-grandfather of the present representative of the Ballymore Castle branch,

THOMAS SEYMOUR, Esq., m. in 1735, Belinda, dau. of A. O'Madden, Esq. of Clare Madden, co. Galway, and had one son, JOSEPH, his heir; and two daus., viz., Catherine, m. to Samuel Harrison, Esq. of Spruce Hill, co. Galway; and Belinda, m. to Robin Cooke, Esq. of Galway. The son and heir,

JOSEPH SEYMOUR, Esq., m. in 1760, Susanna, relict of A. Thomas, Esq., and had issue three sons and two daus., viz., I. THOMAS, his heir, of whom presently; II. Charles, in holy orders; III. Robert, who settled at Clonfert, co. Galway; I. Eliza, m. to Robert Drought, Esq. of Ridgemount, King's Co.; and II. Charlotte, m. to William Bird, Esq., M.D. of Birdville, King's Co. The eldest son and heir,

THOMAS SEYMOUR, Esq. of Ballymore Castle, m. in 1786, Jane, only dau. and heiress of David Thompson, Esq. of Banagher, King's Co., and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

David, in holy orders, m. 1st, in 1821, Eliza, dau. of Bindon, Esq. of Cloona, co. Clare, and has by her three sons and a dau. He m. 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of Butler, Esq. of co. Carlow.

Henry, m. Eliza, dan. of Robert Drought, Esq. of Ridgemount, King's Co., and has issue.

Eleanor, m. Peter Lambert, Esq. of Castle Ellen, co. Galway, and had issue; d. in 1828.

Charlotte, m. Giles Eyre Blake, Esq. of Moorfield, co. Galway, and has issue.

Lavinia, m. Richard Galbraith, Esq. of Caphard, co. Galway, and of Belgar, co. Stirling, N.B., and left issue; d. in 1832.

Mr. Seymour d. in 1821, and was s. by his eldest son, the present THOMAS SEYMOUR, Esq. of Ballymore Castle.

Arms, Crest, and Motto as the preceding, (SEYMOUR OF KNOYLE HOUSE.)

Seat—Ballymore Castle, near Lawrencetown, co. Galway.

SEYMOUR OF CASTLETOWN.

SEYMOUR, AARON-CROSSLEY, Esq. of Castletown House, Queen's Co., b. 19 Dec. 1789; m. 3 April, 1818, Anne, only dau. and heiress of John Geale, Esq.* of Mount Geale, co. Kilkenny, by whom (who d. 28 Feb. 1825) he had issue, JOHN-CROSSLEY-GEALE, b. 11 Nov. 1819.

Catherine-Elizabeth-Frances.

Emilia-Olivia Anne, } both d. young.
Letitia-Anne-Adelaide, }

Mr. Seymour inherited from his father, 19 May, 1831.

* By Anne, his wife, dau. of C. Jackson, Esq. of Nottinghamshire: Mr. Geale was her second husband; her first, Mr. Kelly, an eminent barrister, fell in a duel with Col. Whaley, and left (by the said Anne Jackson) an only dau. and heiress, Frances Kelly, who m. Richard Drought, Esq. of the Queen's County, and had several children.

The family of GEALE originally came from Lancashire, and settled in Ireland some considerable number of years back. JOHN GEALE, Esq. of Mount Geale, co. Kilkenny, is the first we have any account of; and he appears to have made a slight alteration in the spelling of the name, which is usually written Gale by the Lancashire, and all other branches of the family. He had several sons, one of whom emigrated to America, and was grandfather of Susanna Geale, who m. Alan, first Lord Gardner, by whom she had a numerous issue.

BENJAMIN GEALE succeeded at Mount Geale. He was alderman and lord-mayor of Dublin, and was twice the unsuccessful candidate in two sharply-contested elections for the representation of that city. He m. Anne, eldest dau. of Frederick Falkiner, Esq. of Abbot's-town, co. Dublin, by Elizabeth, dau. of James Hamilton, Esq. of Bailieborough, co. Cavan, by whom he had three sons and two daus., viz.,

- I. JOHN GEALE, who succeeded at Mount Geale, and whose only dau. and heir, Anne, m. AARON CROSSLEY-SEYMOUR, Esq. He d. 25 July, 1820.
- II. Frederick, deceased, who m. Letitia, dau. of P. Brady, Esq., and had five sons and three daus., viz.,

1. Benjamin, m. Catherine, dau. of Charles Wild, Esq. (by Mary, dau. of Thomas Tipping, Esq. of Beaulieu, and sister of Sophia, who m. Charles, eighth Lord Blayney), and by her (who d. in 1819) left issue.
2. Frederick, d. unm.
3. John, killed at Waterloo, 1815.
4. Daniel, m. Anne, dau. of Benjamin Bickley, Esq. of Bristol.
5. Henry, d. in 1818.

1. Letitia, m. the Rev. William Bushe, rector of St. George's, Dublin, and of Templepont, co. Cavan (son of Jervis Parker Bushe, Esq. of Kilfane, by Miss Grattan, sister of the Right Hon. Henry Grattan, of Tinnyhinch, co. Wicklow), younger brother of Jervis Bushe, who m. Miss Latham, sister to the Countess of Listowel, and dau. of John Latham, Esq. of Mel drum, co. Tipperary, and by her (who d. at Clifton, in 1819) left issue two daus., Isabella and Letitia.
2. Isabella, m. in 1819, to James Thorpe, Esq. of Dublin, brother of the Rev. Dr. Thorpe, who m. in May, 1834, Anabel-Elizabeth, Countess of Pomfret, eldest dau. of Sir Richard Borough, Bart.
3. Elizabeth, m. to her cousin, William Richardson, Esq., an officer in the Horse-guards, and d. in 1820, without surviving issue.

- III. Daniel, who left a numerous issue, of whom Piers Geale, Esq., the eldest son, m. Miss Crofton, cousin to Sir Edward Crofton, Bart. of Moate, co. Roscommon, and had issue: his eldest dau., Elizabeth, m. 1st, Sir Marcus Somerville, Bart. of Somerville, co. Meath, and 2ndly, in 1841, Hugh, present Earl Fortescue.

- I. Anne, d. at Montaban, in France, unm.
- II. Elizabeth, d. unm.

This family, now settled for nearly three hundred years in Ireland, is a branch of the great house of SEYMOUR, so memorable in the eventful times of HENRY VIII. and EDWARD VI., for the rapidity of its rise, the vastness of its power, and the depth of its fall.

SIR JOHN SEYMOUR, eldest son and heir of Sir Henry Seymour, by his 1st wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir George Darell, of Littlecote, in Wilts, m. Margery, second dau. of Sir Henry Wentworth, K.B. of Nettledon, in the co. Suffolk, and dying in 1536,* left issue,

- i. John, who d. unm. 15 July, 1520.
- ii. EDWARD, DUKE OF SOMERSET, the LORD PROTECTOR.
- iii. HENRY (Sir), of whom presently.
- iv. THOMAS, Lord High Admiral of England, who became the second husband of the Queen Dowager, KATHARINE PARR, and was raised to the peerage as Baron Seymour of Sudley.
- i. JANE, the third Queen Consort of HENRY VIII., and mother of King EDWARD VI.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Sir Anthony Oughtred, Knt., and 2ndly, to Gregory, Lord Cromwell.
- iii. Margaret, d. young.
- iv. Dorothy, the wife, 1st, of Sir Clement Smith, Knt. of Little Baddow, in Essex, and after his decease, of Thomas Leventhorpe, Esq. of Shingey Hall, in Hertfordshire.

Lady Seymour survived her husband, and d. in the year 1550. By her last will, she bequeathed divers legacies of plate, jewels, &c., to her relations, and mentions Edward and Henry Seymour, sons of the Duke of Somerset, as her godsons. The sole executorship she confers on her second son,

SIR HENRY SEYMOUR, who received the honour of knighthood at the coronation of his nephew, King EDWARD VI., being one of the forty in substitution of knights of the Bath, who were not created for want of time to perform the ceremony. He m. Barbara, called, by some authorities, dau. of Thomas Morgan, Esq. of Tredegar, and by others, dau. of Morgan Wolfe, Esq., and left one son, JOHN (Sir), with several daus. Sir Henry dying in 1578, was s. by his son;

SIR JOHN SEYMOUR, Knt. of Marvell, who had served the office of sheriff for Southampton in 1568. This gentleman m. Susan, youngest dau. of Lord Chidiock Powlett, third son of William, Marquess of Winchester, (by his first wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Capel, progenitor of the extant Earls of Essex,) and left at his decease three sons,

EDWARD, } upon whom the downfall of their family appears
Henry, } to have entailed the most woful consequences,
Thomas, } lowering the unfortunate brothers not only from their grade in society, but reducing them to actual poverty, until, to quote Heylin, "There remained not to any one of them one foot of land, or so much as a penny of money to supply their necessities, but what they have from the charity of the Marquis of Hertford, and the charity of the well-disposed people which have affection or relation to them." Having alienated their paternal property, the three brothers emigrated to Ireland, and established themselves at Limerick, then much frequented by settlers from England: the two younger, Henry and Thomas, dying without issue, the line of EDWARD, therefore, alone remains.

EDWARD SEYMOUR, the eldest son of Sir John Seymour and Susan Powlett, representative of the Seymours of Marvell, m. prior to his settlement in Ireland, a dau. of Edward Onley, Esq. of Catesby, in Northamptonshire, and having several children, was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

EDWARD SEYMOUR, who m. a dau. of William Hartwell, Esq., an alderman of Limerick, and mayor in 1659, and left an only son,

JOHN SEYMOUR, an alderman of the city of Limerick, who was chosen sheriff in 1708, and served the office of mayor in 1720. This worthy citizen m. Jane, dau. of Seymour Wroughton, Esq. of Heskett, in Wiltshire, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. William, m. Jane, second dau. of Mr. Alderman Edward Wight, of Limerick, (by his second wife, Miss Hawkesworth,) and left a son, John, in holy orders, rector of Palace, eo. Limerick. This gentleman m. Grizelle, youngest dau. and co-heir of William Hobart, Esq. of High Mount, co. Cork, and great-granddau. of Sir Miles Hohart, of Wiltshire, by whom he had, with other issue, MICHAEL, b. 8 Nov. 1768, an admiral of the royal navy, and a knight-grand-cross of the Bath, who for his gallant services was created a Baronet, 31 May, 1809. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

- iii. James, sheriff of Limerick, in 1728, m. —, dau. of Hezekial Holland, Esq., mayor of that city in 1713, but had no surviving issue.
- iv. Richard, sheriff of Limerick in 1730.
- v. Walter, sheriff of Limerick in 1742, m. Miss Binden, dau. of David Binden, Esq., sheriff of Limerick in 1716: without issue.

Alderman John Seymour d. in 1735, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN SEYMOUR, Esq., who resided in Dublin, and m. Frances, eldest dau. and co-heir of Aaron Crossley, Esq.,* by Mademoiselle Peracheau, dau. of Pierre André Peracheau,† of Saumur, and by her (who d. in April, 1760) left at his decease in 1754, an only son, his successor,

AARON-CROSSLEY SEYMOUR, Esq. of Castletown House, in the Queen's Co., who m. Margaret, second dau. of Matthew Cassan, Esq. of Sheffield, in the same shire, by his first wife, Anne, dau. of Jonathan Baldwin, Esq. of Coolkerry, and Summerhill, both also in the Queen's Co., by which lady (who d. aged eighty-one, 25 Jan. 1812) he had four sons, viz.,

- i. JOHN-CROSSLEY, in holy orders, his heir.
- ii. Matthew-Cassan, of Lodge, near Drogheda, m. 1st, Frances Smith, niece of Graves Cholmley, Esq. of Platten, by whom (who d. in 1811) he had,

- He m. 2ndly, Maria, dau. of the Rev. Roger Curtis, of Mount Hanover, co. Meath, but left no other issue.
- iii. Aaron-Crossley, in the East India Company's civil service, register to the secretary of the revenue and judicial departments at Bengal, m. 1st, Maria, dau. and sole heir of Dr. Hogarth, and left by her (who d. 31 July, 1816) an only dau., Frances-Maria, who m. her cousin, John-Crossley Seymour, Esq. of Coolnagower. Mr. Aaron Seymour m. 2ndly, Miss Margaret Browne, and dying at Calcutta, in 1828, left issue by that lady, 1. Charles-Crossley, b. 7 Dec. 1817, E. I. Co.'s service; 2. Samuel-Francis, b. 14 May, 1819, E. I. Co.'s service; 1. Jane-Helen; 2. Margaret-Moore; and 3. Elizabeth-Maria.
- iv. Stephen, captain of the Pegasus frigate, R.N.; signalized himself under Lord Howe, on the 1st of June, 1794, and was lost at sea a few years after, aged 28.

Mr. Seymour d. in 1787, and was s. by his eldest son, THE REV. JOHN-CROSSLEY SEYMOUR, vicar of Cahirelley, in the diocese of Cashel. This gentleman m.

* Mr. Crossley was the son of Abraham Crossley, Esq., a younger son of John Crossley, Esq. of Scaycliffe, near Todmorden, in Lancashire. He published "a Peerage," in folio, above one hundred and twenty years ago, which is now so scarce, that a copy is rarely to be met with. It was printed in Dublin, in 1710, at which period the author held a situation of some importance in the Herald's office there, and was esteemed learned in antiquities. In the preface, he has preserved much of the history of the Irish branch of the Seymours, to whose representative his eldest dau. was then united, and upon his authority their descent from the family of the PROTECTOR, as we have now detailed, is chiefly founded. Mr. Crossley further mentions, that Mrs. Seymour, the great-grandmother of his son-in-law, was then very far advanced in life, having endured all the horrors of the siege of Limerick, and that from her he ascertained that her husband had come from "Marvell," in Hampshire, with many of the other particulars which he had embodied in his work.

Susanna, the other dau. and co-heir of Aaron Crossley, m. Chetwood Eustace, who succeeded to the dignity of Lord Portlester, of Haristown, co. Kildare, and left (with two daus., Elizabeth and Abigail, who both d. unm.) a son, William-Eustace, successor to his father in the barony of Portlester, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Dalton, Esq., but left no issue,

† By his wife, Mademoiselle Gabrielle Fonnereau, of the city of La Rochelle, sister of Zacharie Fonnereau, who fled on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, and settling in London, became the founder of the family of Fonnereau, of Christ-Church Park, in Suffolk. Mademoiselle Gabrielle abandoned La Belle France for a similar cause, and sought an asylum in Ireland, at the time that the La Touches and other families of respectability took refuge in that country. She was naturalized at the Court of Queen's Bench, in Dublin, on the 10th February, 1710, upon taking the necessary oaths.

Family of Wight of Wightfield.

EDWARD WIGHT, who accompanied General Ireton to Ireland, and settled in Limerick, was elected sheriff of that city in 1676, became subsequently an alderman, and served the office of mayor in 1694 and 1711. During his occupancy of the civic chair, money became very scarce in Limerick, and an act was passed authorizing him to have coin struck at the Limerick mint. Some years after, he returned to England and brought back with him to Ireland eleven sisters, all of whom married into the most respectable families amongst the English settlers in Limerick; and in the records that remain, we find the names of Tierney, Pike, Piggot, Hobart, Nicholson, Stevens, Daxon, Hickman, Hartwell, Holland,† and Odell. Alderman Edward Wight m. 1st, Miss Hoare,‡ of a highly respectable family, long seated in Limerick, and had two sons, viz.,

Lineage.

The family of SHAFTO is of great antiquity in the north of England. Some little incidental proof of the rank which the old lords of Shafto held on the border may be gathered from song and tradition. At the "Raid of the Redswire," in 1575, a hostile meeting between the Scotch and English Wardens, one of the war-cries of the latter was, "A Schaftan and a Fenwick." The Scots had the honour of the day, and amongst the many English who were taken prisoners or wounded,

"Young Henry Schaftan he is hurt,
 A souldier shot him with a how."*

JOHN FOLIOT, lord of Fenwick, 22nd HENRY II., m. the dau. of Sir Adam Beaumark, Knt., and had a son, Lincaige.

The family of Schank, or Shank, of Castlerig, is a scion of Schank of Schank, an ancient house of Mid-Lothian.

MURDOCK SCHANK, its founder, was said to have been the person who discovered and took charge of the body of ALEXANDER III., King of Scotland, who met his death, while hunting, in 1286; and for this service the lands of Castlerig were presented to him by ROBERT BRUCE. These lands of Castlerig, which are mentioned in a charter of confirmation of the mortification of a chapel and hospital in Kinghorn, A.D. 1360, have remained in possession of the family since the time of the above-named Murdock, a period of nearly six hundred years. The estate of Gleniston is comparatively a recent acquisition.

MURDOCK SCHANK, son of Schank of Schank, living in 1280, had the lands of Castlerig presented to him by ROBERT BRUCE. He was father of

Lineage.

This is the junior branch of the Scottish family of Shedden of Roughwood.

ROBERT SHEDDEN (son of John Shedden, merchant in Beith, N.B.) resided some time as a merchant in Holland, afterwards settled at his native place, and acquired property there prior to the year 1675.

ROBERT SHEDDEN, his eldest son, purchased, in 1690, the estate of Roughwood, in the parish of Beith, also the lands of Milnhurn, in Tarbolton, of Coalburn, and of Auchingree, in Dalry, all in the co. Ayr. He also acquired the lands of Kerse, co. Renfrew. He m. in 1685, Jean, dau. of John Harvie, of Greenend, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, of Roughwood and Milnburn, who s. his father in 1725, m. in 1727, Jean, dau. of Gavin Ralston, of that ilk, and at his decease, in 1770, left one dau. and one surviving son, William Shedden, of Roughwood and Milnburn, resided sometime in Virginia; his property there was confiscated on account of his joining the royal party. After the American Revolution he settled as a merchant in New York, where he d. in 1798, leaving, William-Patrick-Ralston Shedden, lately a merchant at Calcutta. He m. in 1822, Frances, dau. of William Browne, Esq. of that city, and has since returned to England. He has issue.

John Shedden, of Muirston and Windy-House.
Agatha.

Mr. Shedden d. in 1751, and was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT SHEDDEN, Esq., b. in 1741, who went to Virginia in 1759, and settled as a merchant at Portsmouth in that colony; having, however, attached himself to the side of loyalty and the mother country, on the breaking out of the American rebellion, he was obliged to fly with his family on board Lord Dunmore's fleet, and his property in Virginia was consequently confiscated. He took refuge at Bermuda in 1776, afterwards at New York, while in possession of the British; and on the peace of 1783 he returned to his native country, and established in London a commercial house of the first respectability. Mr. Shedden m. in 1767, in Virginia, Agatha-Wells, dau. of John Goodrich, Esq. of Nansemond Plantation, a family greatly distinguished for their loyal adherence to the royal cause, during the unhappy contest with the mother country. The issue of this marriage was as follows:

- i. GEORGE, his successor.
- ii. Robert, of Brooklands, Hants, and Mary-Church, Devon, deputy-lieut. and sheriff in 1822, for the co. Southampton, m. Millicent, only dau. of Robert Duncan Munro, Esq., and has an only child, Ellen, who m. in 1827, Henry-George-Joseph Cary, Esq. of Tor Abbey, co. Devon.
- iii. John, a colonel in the army, of Eastonton and Efford, in Hampshire. Col. Shedden m. Sophia, dau. of Matthew Lewis, Esq., under-secretary of War, and co-heir (with her sister, Fanny-Maria, Lady Lushington) of M.-G. Lewis, Esq., M.P., by whom he has three sons, and two daus., viz.,

SHELDON OF BRAILES HOUSE.

SHELDON, HENRY - JAMES, Esq. of Brailes House, co. Warwick, b. 12 Sept. 1823; s. to the estates upon the death of his father, the late Edward-Ralph-Charles Sheldon, Esq., 11 June, 1836.

Lineage.

Of Sheldon, co. Warwick, no mention is made in the CONQUEROR'S survey, whence Dugdale infers that it was included in Colshill, and, together with it, possessed by Geoffrey de Clinton, in the reign of HENRY I., and came to Verdon, through his marriage with Lescelina, dau. of the said Geoffrey, as did also Brandon. Anselme de Sheldon, or one of his ancestors, was first enfeoffed of this manor by some of the Verdons, it being proved, by testimony, that Anselme and his posterity held it of that family by the service of half a knight's fee. Of this Anselme, mention is first found in 5 HENRY III. He was s. by his son,

HENRY DE SHELDON, who was employed in 7 EDWARD I., as a commissioner, with Sir Henry de Nottingham, Knt., and John de Arundel, clerk, to inquire

"touching the lords of every mannour, with the liberties, priviledges, and extent of the same, as also concerning the patronage of the church, and how it was endowed, and likewise of the king's demesnes, fees, escheats." "The form of which commission and oath (the said Henry being then a knight) is to be scene on the back of the patent roll of 7th EDWARD I., and very worthy observation." In the same year he was again in commission with the same persons, to inquire concerning all who had one whole knight's fee of the value of £20, and from that time till the 20th year of the same reign was yearly a commissioner for the gaol delivery of Warwick.

The next possessor was SIR NICHOLAS DE SHELDON, who bore for arms, "A fesse, with two buckles in chief, (in reference, perhaps, to the familie of Oldenfell's of Solihull, viz., Arg., a fesse, with two mullets, in chief, gu.) but the colours of this I cannot discover." He left issue, HENRY, his son and heir, who apparently d. without children, as none of the name had after to do with the lordship.—Dugdale, p. 711 a b, 712 a. Ed. 1765.

When the hereditary lands of the family, viz., at Rowley-Regis, co. Stafford, passed to Cornelius Wyrley, of Hampstead, same co., in right of his wife, Clare, dau. of JOHN SHELDON, WILLIAM SHELDON, cousin of the said Clare, purchased Balford Hall, Beoly, co. Worcester, in the reign of EDWARD IV. He followed RICHARD III. to the battle of Bosworth, for which his estates were confiscated, by the victor, though they were restored to him in 1517.

RICHARD SHELDON, of Rowley Regis, co. Stafford, was s. by his second son, MAURICE SHELDON, whose son, JOHN SHELDON, also of Aberton, co. Worcester, d. in 1464, leaving by his wife, a dau. of John Cotton, Esq. of Cotton Hall, co. Leicester, a son, RALPH SHELDON, of Beoly, co. Worcester, who m. the dau. and heiress of Buding, Esq., by whom he had seven sons, of whom, the sixth, RALPH SHELDON, of Aberton &c., s. his eldest brother, William, who d. s. p. He m. Phillippa, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Baldwin Heath, Esq. of Ford Hall, co. Warwick, and d. in 1546. His eldest son,

WILLIAM SHELDON,* Esq. of Beoly, m. 1st, Mary, dau. of William Willington, Esq. of co. Warwick, and with her (who d. in 1553) acquired the estate of Barcheston. He m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Sir Richard Brooke, lord-chief-baron of the Exchequer, and relict of Sir William Whorwood, attorney-general; she d. in 1589, aged 80; Mr. Sheldon d. in 1570. His eldest son d. without issue, and the estates devolved upon his second son,

RALPH SHELDON, Esq. of Weston, who m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Throgmorton, Knt., (she d. in 1603;) and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of William West, Lord Delawarr. He d. in 1613, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SHELDON, who, dying without issue, was s. by his brother,

EDWARD SHELDON, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Markham, of Ollerton, co. Notts, and had two sons,

* By a deed, bearing date 12 Nov., 24 HENRY VIII., George Kible, Esq. of Bradwell, co. Essex, granted the estate of Weston, (Weston juxta Chiriton) to George Willoughby, Gent., and John Barbour, Yeoman, for the use of WILLIAM SHELDON, Esq. of Barcheston, (which he had acquired by his first wife, Mary Wellington,) and his heirs, on which a fine was levied in 26 HEN. VIII. "This William being also of Beoly, co. Worcester, their principal seat, descended," says Dugdale, p. 417, "by a younger branch, as I guess, from that ancient family of Sheldon in this county, which flourished at Sheldon till EDWARD III.'s time, (for amongst their evidences I have seen that his immediate ancestor had lands in RICHARD II.'s time, within the lordship of Bermingham, which was scarce four miles distant from that place,) was he, who, liking well the situation hereof, in 37 HENRY VIII., obtained licence from the king to impark ccc acres of land, meadows, pasture, and wood, to be called by the name of Weston Park, for ever, as also a charter of free warren to himself and his heirs, and built a very fair house, in which his descendants have often resided, though their chief seat is at Beoly, where many of them lye honorably interred."

Lineage.

This is a very ancient family of the co. of Cavan, Ireland. Two of its members were distinguished for their abilities and learning, in the reign of CHARLES II., viz., Thomas Sheridan, and Charles, his brother, Bishop of Kildare. The former suffered great persecution for his adherence and firm attachment to the Duke of York; he was examined before the House of Commons on the 15th Decemher, 1680, for his supposed connexion with the Popish Plot, and made a most excellent defence. After being detained a prisoner for twenty-five days, under a warrant of the speaker, Sir William Williams, he was honourably acquitted.

THE REV. THOMAS SHERIDAN, b. in 1694, the son of a country gentleman possessed of an estate at Uagheragh, co. Cavan, was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, through the kindness of his relative, Dr. William Sheridan, the deprived Bishop of Kilmore, and subsequently entering into holy orders, gained the favour and patronage of Dean Swift. Dr. Sheridan, who published a prose translation of the Satires of Perseus, d. in 1738. His third son,

- i. Elizabeth-Maria, d. unm.
- ii. Harriet.
- iii. Urith-Lydia.
- iv. Amelia-Theophila.
- v. Maria-Theodosia.
- vi. Octavia.

Mr. Shore, from the time of his marriage, resided at the Hall in Norton, which he rebuilt in 1812. He served the office of high-sheriff of the co. of Derby in 1832.

Lineage.

The name of Shore is found, from an early period, both in the counties of Derby and York. There is a charter, made in 1440, by which John Shore, of Barnsley, grants to William Shore all his lands and tenements in Sheffield. The name appears in the earliest pages of the parish register of Sheffield, and from those of the name there entered, it is probable that the present family descend. The first person who can, however, with certainty be determined to be an ancestor of the Shores of Norton, is

JOHN SHORE, b. about 1650. He resided at Sheffield, where he made his will, 2 March, 1682, and d. soon after. By Sarah Sims, his wife, he had,

- i. SAMUEL, his heir.
- ii. Sylvanus, b. 8 July, 1678. He m. Sarah Goddard, of the family of Holland Goddard, of Cork, merchant. His family settled in Ireland.
- iii. Isaac, named in his father's will, is believed to have d. young.

His eldest son,

SAMUEL SHORE, of Sheffield, merchant, b. 17 May, 1676; m. 7 Nov. 1700, Jane, dau. of George Sykes, of Norton, co. Stafford, by whom he had, beside others who d. young,

- i. SAMUEL, his heir.
- i. Lydia, b. 9 June, 1706, d. unm. 3 April, 1777.
- ii. Jane, b. in 1708, m. in 1732, to John Finch, Esq. of Dudley, co. Warwick, by whom she had, John Finch, Esq., who d. without issue; and an only dau., Jane Finch, who m. John Simpson, Esq. of Laund Abbey, co. Leicester, by whom she had one son, John-Finch Simpson, Esq. of Laund Abbey, and one dau., the wife of Mark-Anthony Whyte, Esq.
- iii. Mary, b. in 1714, m. in 1738, John Milnes, Esq. of Wakefield, by whom she had Sir Robert-Shorc Milnes, Bart., sometime governor of the province of Quebec; John Milnes, Esq., late of Wakefield; and three daus., viz., Hannah, who d. unm. in 1802; Mary, who m. Edward Whitwell, Esq., captain in the Guards; and Esther, who m. James Torre, Esq. of Snydal, co. York.
- iv. Anne, b. in 1716, d. unm. in 1755.
- v. Esther, b. in 1724, m. in 1766, Robert Milnes, Esq. of Wakefield, and d. without issue, in 1799. Mr. Milnes, by a former wife, had one son, Richard-Slater Milnes, Esq. of Fryston, co. York, sometime member for the city of York; and one dau., Elizabeth, wife of Samuel Thornton, Esq. of Albury Park, Surrey.

Mr. Shore much improved his estate by his extensive commercial engagements, and dying 1 Feb. 1751, was s. by his only son, SAMUEL SHORE, Esq. of Sheffield and Mearsbrook, who was b. 21 Aug. 1707. He m. 17 Oct. 1734, Margaret, dau.

and heir of Robert Diggles, of Liverpool, merchant, by whom he had issue, beside others who d. young,

- I. SAMUEL, of Mearsbrook and Norton Hall, his heir.
- II. John, b. in 1744, many years a banker at Sheffield, afterwards of Searborough, where he died. He m. Gertrude, dau. of George Binks, of Sheffield, and had issue.
- III. Joshua, b. in 1749, d. in 1766.
- IV. William, b. 13 Oct. 1752, many years a banker at Sheffield, and residing at Tipton. He d. 6 Sept. 1822. He m. Mary, dau. of George Evans, of Cromford, co. Derby, by Anne, his wife, the only sister of Peter Nibblingale, Esq. of Lea and Woodend, in Derbyshire, who was high-sheriff of that county in 1770, and d. unm. in 1803. He left issue, one son and one dau., viz.,

William-Edward, b. 15 Feb. 1794, on whom the large estates of his maternal great-uncle, Peter Nightingale, Esq., were settled, and who, in pursuance of his uncle's will, assumed the name of NIGHTINGALE, by royal sign-manual, dated 21 Feb. 1815. He bought the estate of Embley, Hants, and served the office of high-sheriff of that county in 1828. He m. 1 June, 1818, Frances, dau. of William Smith, Esq. of Parndon, in Essex, many years representative in parliament of the city of Norwich, and has two daus., Parthenope, b. at Naples.

Florence, b. at Florence.

Mary, who m. Samuel Smith, Esq., son of the above-named William Smith, Esq. of Parndon.

- I. Margaret, d. unm.
- II. Hannah, m. to Thomas Walker, Esq. of Manchester.
- III. Sarah, d. unm.

Mr. Shore in the latter part of his life retired to Mearsbrook, an estate which he had purchased in the parish of Norton, where he d. in Sept. 1785. His eldest son and heir was

SAMUEL SHORE, Esq. of Norton Hall and Mearsbrook, b. 5 Feb. 1738; m. 1st, 15 March, 1759, Urith, dau. of Joseph Offley, Esq. of Norton Hall, and sister and co-heir of Edmund Offley, Esq. of the same place. By this lady, who d. 30 Nov. 1781, he had issue,

- I. Offley, who d. 31 Aug. 1767, aged seven years.
- II. SAMUEL, of Norton Hall and of Castle Hill.
- III. Bohun, a col. in the army.

He m. 2ndly, 3 April, 1788, Lydia, the only dau. and heir of Freeman Flower, Esq. of Gainsborough and Clapham, by whom he had no issue. Mr. Shore resided at Norton Hall till the marriage of his son, in 1788. He then resided for some years at Clapham, but finally settled at Mearsbrook, where he d. 16 Nov. 1828, in the 91st year of his age. He acted for some time in the commission of the peace for the counties of York and Derby, and was high-sheriff of the latter county in the first year of the reign of King GEORGE III.

Family of Offley.

STEPHEN OFFLEY, a citizen of London, of the family of Sir Thomas Offley, who was lord-mayor in 1556, m. at Chesterfield, in Derbyshire, 19 May, 1635, Ursula Clarke, who was the eldest dan. of Ralph Clarke, of Ashgate, supposed to be of the same family with the Clarkes of Sutton, in that county. Her brother, Cornelius Clarke, Esq., purchased the hall and manor of Norton, of the family of Bullock, and resided there from about 1668 till his death in 1696. He served the office of high-sheriff of the county in 1699. He had two wives: 1st, dau. of Sir Walter Rudstone, Bart.; and 2ndly, a dau. of Sir Edward Coke, Bart. of Longford, but having no issue, he devised his estate at Norton to the son of Stephen Offley and his sister Ursula, namely,

ROBERT OFFLEY, of the city of Norwich, who d. 1 Feb. 1716, aged seventy-six. He m. Mary Burton, and left STEPHEN OFFLEY, Esq. of Norton Hall, sheriff of Derbyshire in 1716. He d. 1 Oct. 1727, aged fifty-six. He m. 1st, Urith, dau. and co-heir of Sir Samuel Smyth, Knt. of Colkirk, co. Norfolk, by Catherine-Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Sir James Harrington, Bart. of Ridlington, grandson of Sir James Harrington, of Ridlington, the 1st baronet of the family, brother to John, Lord Harrington of Exton, tutor to Prince Henry, son of Sir James Harrington, Knt. of Exton, by Luey Sydney, his wife, sister to Sir Henry Sydney, K.G., and aunt to Sir Philip Sydney. SHULDHAM OF MARLESFORD HALL.

SHULDHAM, WILLIAM - ABRAHAM, Esq. of Marlesford Hall, co. Suffolk, barrister-at-law, b. 10 March, 1787; s. his father in 1845.

Lineage.

About a mile south-east of the town of Shouldham, co. Norfolk, stands an antique hall of freestone, the south part in the parish of Shouldham, and the north, in that of Marham. This was the seat of the old family of the Shouldhams, lords of the manor from a remote period.

SIR WILLIAM DE SHULDHAM or SHOULDHAM, Knt., lord of Shouldham, co. Norfolk, 34 HENRY III., gave by deed, with the consent of his son Richard, lands in Wigenhale, to Bury Abbey. About 1250, SIR SIMON DE SHULDHAM, Knt., son of HUGH DE SHULDHAM, grandson of ROGER DE SHULDHAM, of Shuldham, and great-grandson of GEOFFREY DE SHULDHAM, of Shuldham, (son of Peter de Shuldham,) received a licence from Walter, Bishop of Norwich, to have a free chantry in his chapel. Sir Simon, by Clarissa, dau. of Alan de Walpole, had a son, HUGH DE SHULDHAM, lord of Shuldham, temp. EDWARD I. (1297.) REYNEARD DE SHULDHAM was lord of Shuldham, 9 EDWARD II. (1315) and was living 1 EDWARD III.: by Alice, his wife, who d. in 1336, he was father of RICHARD DE SHULDHAM, lord of Shuldham, who d. in 1344, leaving a son, RICHARD DE SHULDHAM.

In 1413, JOHN SHULDHAM was lord of Shuldham, and was one of the gentlemen of ancient coat-armour who were returned to serve King HENRY V. in his wars. His son and heir, THOMAS SHULDHAM, Esq., lived at Watlington: he m. Margaret, dau. of John de Holkham, Esq., and by her, who was executrix to his will, dated 30 Aug. 1467, he had, besides two sons, John, executor to his brother Thomas, and Hugh, lord of Watlington, by his father's will, another son, THOMAS SHULDHAM, Esq. of Marham, who m. Ela, dau. and co-heir of William Narburgh, Esq. of Narburgh, co. SHULDHAM OF DUNMANWAY.

SHULDHAM, EDMUND-WILLIAM, Esq. of Dunmanway, co. Cork, major-gen. E. I. Co.'s service, s. his father, and is the present representative of the Shuldham family in Ireland. General Shuldham entered the military service of the E. I. Co. in April, 1799, and was for some years quartermaster-general at Bombay.

Lineage.

In the reign of HENRY III.,

SIR WILLIAM SHULDHAM, or SHOULDHAM, resided at Shouldham's manor, co. Norfolk, an estate, which remained with the family for a period of 500 years, when it passed by marriage to the Stewarts, and is now possessed by Sir George Hare, Bart. A descendant of this Norfolk house,

EDMOND SHOULDHAM, Esq. of Ardtully, co. Kerry, plaintiff in a suit in the Exchequer in Ireland, A.D. 1708, m. Mary Mac Carthy, dau. and heir of Mac Carthy Spanuagh, of Dunmanway, the representative of a powerful sept in the south of Ireland, one of the eight families of Royal extraction in Munster. By this lady, Mr. Shuldham acquired estates in the counties of Cork and Limerick, and had issue,

- i. EDMOND, his heir.

Mr. Shute is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Hants, for which he served as high-sheriff in 1821.

Lineage.

STEPHEN SHUTE, Esq. of Shute, near Crediton, co. Devon, m. Elizabeth Deane, of Taworth, co. Somerset, and was father of

SAMUEL SHUTE, Esq. of Fernhill, Isle of Wight, and Breston Lodge, Hants, who m. 1st, 16 Nov. 1785, Henrietta-Anna-Margaretta, dau. and co-heir of Richard Gwynn, Esq. of Upham, Hants, and Gower, co. Glamorgan, capt. R.N., by Jane, his wife, dau. of B. Townsend, Esq. of Castle Townsend, co. Cork. (See that name.) By this lady (who d. 26 Oct. 1795) Mr. Shute had issue, THOMAS-DEANE, of Bramshaw Hill.

Jane-Helena, m. to the Ven. Archdeacon Justly Hill, rector of Shanklin and Bonchurch, Isle of Wight, and of Tingewick, co. Bucks, of which county he is archdeacon.

Harriet, m. to Rear-Admiral Christian.

Mr. Shute m. 2ndly, Anne Ricketts, and by her had four daus., Isabella, Emily, Matilda, and Anne, m. to Dennis Hollingworth, Esq.

Arms, Crest, and Motto—see BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.
Seat—Bramshaw Hill, New Forest, Hants.

SHUTTLEWORTH OF GAWTHORP.

SHUTTLEWORTH, JANET, of Gawthorp, co. Lancaster, m. 24 Feb. 1842, James-Phillips Kay, Esq. of the Privy Council Office, who has, in consequence, assumed the surname and arms of SHUTTLEWORTH.

Lineage.

The origin of the family of SHUTTLEWORTH's settlement at Gawthorp, co. Lancaster, appears to have arisen from the intermarriage of HENRY SHUTTLEWORTH with AGNES, dau. and heiress of WILLIAM DE HACKING,—their son, UGHTRED SHUTTLEWORTH, being the first of Gawthorp. The proof of the fact was extracted, by Christopher Townley, from the old court rolls at Clitheroe, which are now lost:

"Halmot apud Brunlay, 12 RICH. II. Joh. de Eves sursum red. 25½ acres de Rodlaund, in Villa Ightenhull, ad usum Ughtred de Shuttleworth."

HUGH SHUTTLEWORTH was father of

LAWRENCE SHUTTLEWORTH, of Gawthorp, living in 1464, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Worsley, of Mearley, and was s. by his son, NICHOLAS SHUTTLEWORTH, of Gawthorp, who m. Helen, dau. of Christopher Parker, of Radholm Park, and left a son and heir,

HUGH SHUTTLEWORTH, of Gawthorp, who d. in Dec. 1596, and was buried at Padiham, on the 26th of that month, leaving, by his wife, Anne, dau. of Thomas Grimshaw, Esq. of Clayton, three sons and a dau. The eldest son and heir,

SIR RICHARD SHUTTLEWORTH, Knt., of Gawthorp, was serjeant-at-law, and chief justice of Chester, 31 ELIZABETH. This gentleman commenced the erection of Gawthorp Hall, a beautiful specimen of Gothic architecture, which was completed by his successor. He m. Mary, widow of Robert Barton, Esq. of Smethells, hut d. without issue, about the year 1600, when the estate passed to his brother,

THE REV. LAWRENCE SHUTTLEWORTH, B.D., rector of Witchoford, in Warwickshire, who finished the erection of Gawthorp Hall. He d. s. p. in 1607 or 1608, and was s. by his nephew, RICHARD SHUTTLEWORTH, Esq. of Gawthorp, who m. Fleetwood, dau. and heir of R. Barton, Esq. of Barton, and had, with other issue, an elder son,

1. RICHARD, who m. Jane, or Joan, dau. of Mr. Kirk, citizen of London, and d. in the lifetime of his father, in 1648, leaving two sons and a dau., viz.,

1. RICHARD (Sir), heir to his grandfather.

2. NICHOLAS, founder of the branch of Forcet, in the co. York, and of the city of Durham, whose late representative was PHILIP-NICHOLAS SHUTTLEWORTH, D.D., Bishop of Chichester.

1. Fleetwood, living, unm. in 1664.

In the Oliverian times, when rank and property were compelled to sail with the current, this Richard Shuttleworth, Esq. of Gawthorp, and John Starkie, Esq. of Huntroyde, were two leading magistrates for the hundred of Blackburn, and their names as lymeneal priests, according to the prevalent usage of the period, frequently occur in the parish registers of the neighbouring churches. Mr. Shuttleworth d. in June, 1669, at the advanced age of 82, and was s. by his elder grandson,

SIR RICHARD SHUTTLEWORTH, Knt. of Gawthorp, b. in 1644, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Tempest, Esq. of Old Durham, and dying in July, 1687, was buried at Padiham. "The opulence of the Shuttleworth family, (says Dr. Whitaker,) and at the same time the convenience of paper currency, appear from the following entry in the accounts of an agent at Gawthorp, in 1677:—'13th December, item, for rundlets to carry money into Forcet;' this was another beautiful seat of the Shuttleworths."

Sir Richard was s. by his son,

RICHARD SHUTTLEWORTH, Esq. of Gawthorp, M.P., who d. in Dec. 1748, leaving by his wife, another Miss Tempest, of Old Durham, a son and successor,

JAMES SHUTTLEWORTH, Esq. of Gawthorp. This gentleman m. Mary, dau. and heiress of Robert Holden, Esq. of Aston, co. Derby, and had issue,

1. ROBERT, his heir.

11. James, of Aston, d. s. p.

III. William.

IV. Charles, who took the name of HOLDEN, m. and has issue.

1. Mary, m. 1st, to Sir Charles Turner, Bart., and 2ndly, to Sir Thomas Gascoigne.

11. Elizabeth, m. to Francis Hurt, Esq. of Alderwasley.

Mr. Shuttleworth dying in 1773, aged 58, was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT SHUTTLEWORTH, Esq. of Gawthorp, who m. Anne, dau. of Gen. Desaguliers, and had issue,

JAMES, of Barton, who m. twice, and had issue.

ROBERT, who s. at Gawthorp.

Anne, m. 1st, Richard-S. Streatfield, Esq. of the Rocks, and 2ndly, to Richard Prime, Esq. of Walberton House, Sussex.

Emma, m. James West, Esq. Elizabeth.

Catherine, m. to Richard Hurt, Esq. of Wirksworth.

Mr. Shuttleworth d. in 1816, and devised Gawthorp and his other estates in Whalley, to his second son, ROBERT SHUTTLEWORTH, Esq. of Gawthorp, b. in 1784. This gentleman, by profession a harrister, was chairman of the quarter-sessions at Preston. He m. in 1816, Janet, eldest dau. of Sir John Marjoribanks, Bart. of Lees, co. Berwick, by whom (who re-married in 1825, Frederick North, Esq. of Rougham, in Norfolk) he left at his decease, 6 March, 1818, an only dau. and heiress, JANET, now of Gawthorp Hall.

Arms—Arg., three weavers' shuttles, sa., topped and furnished with quills of yarn, the threads pendent, or.

Seat—Gawthorp Hall.

SICKLEMORE OF WETHERINGSETT.

The late JOHN SICKLEMORE, Esq. of Wetheringsett, and Debenham, Suffolk, b. 28 Sept. 1756; m. 25 March, 1799, Ann, third dau. of Robert Cony,* Esq. of Walpole Hall, in Norfolk, and had two sons, namely,

JOHN-CONY, lieut. R.N., b. 28 November, 1804, m. 1st, Louisa, 2nd dau. of Lieut.-Col. Lacy, of the Royal artillery, who d. 30 August, 1826; and 2ndly, Sarah, eldest dau. of W. Hyder, Esq. of Court Lees, Kent, who d. 6 Sept. 1836.

George-Wilson, b. 10 July, 1803, in holy orders, M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, vicar of St. Lawrence, Thanet, and formerly rector of St. Alphage, and vicar of St. Mary Northgate, Canterbury; m. Catherine, only child of Benjamin Bushell, Esq. of Cleve Court, Thanet, and has issue, Catherine and Anne; twins.

* This gentleman, Col. Cony, who d. in 1799, served at the battle of Preston-Pans, and was aid-de-camp to Sir John Cope. He possessed considerable landed property in Norfolk and Lincolnshire, and was lieut.-col. of the militia of the former county. The Conys, who have been frequently sheriffs of Norfolk, are of ancient French descent, and were long of distinction in Lincolnshire. During the civil wars they were great royalists, and lost in consequence a large share of their property. An anecdote of one is perhaps deserving of note. "He raised £30,000 for CHARLES I., and when CROMWELL heard of it, he said, surely the family of Cony will not grudge £30,000 also to the Commonwealth;" and he made them pay it.

Mr. Sicklemore s. his father in 1778, and d. 5 Feb. 1837.

Lineage.

The Sicklemores were of considerable importance during the eventful period of the civil war, when they represented the county of Suffolk and borough of Ipswich in parliament, and ever maintained an inviolable attachment to monarchical institutions, for which they suffered severely by the confiscation of the greater portion of their property. They continued, however, faithful to the STEWARTS, shared in all their misfortunes, followed them in their exile, and to the last proved themselves the honourable supporters of the ill-fated family of JAMES.

JOHN SICKLEMORE, Esq., who represented the county of Suffolk in parliament, left an only son,

JOHN SICKLEMORE, Esq., who d. at Wetheringsett, in 1778, and was s. by his only son, the late JOHN SICKLEMORE, Esq. of Wetheringsett.

Arms—Sa., three sickles, interwoven, sa.

Crest—A wheat-sheaf.

Motto—Par pari.

Estates—In Suffolk and Kent.

SIKES OF THE CHAUNTRY HOUSE.

SIKES, THE REV. JOSEPH, of the Chantry House, Notts, LL.B., b. 13 Nov. 1781; s. his father in 1798.

Lineage.

This ancient family, as we are informed by Mr. THORESBY, in his Ducatus Leodiensis, published in 1715, derives its surname from Sikes, or Sike-Dyke, near Carlisle, in Cumberland, among the gentry of which shire we find Walter de Sike returned about the commencement of the fifteenth century. One of its branches subsequently settled at Leeds, in Yorkshire: the same learned antiquary acquainting us, (after describing the castle of that town besieged by King STEPHEN, on his march to Scotland, and in which the ill-fated RICHARD II. lodged some time prior to his barbarous murder in Pontefract, that "where of old it stood, is now a capital messuage, and the ancient manor-house, lately, with the park &c., the estate of Richard Sikes, Esq.; his grandson, Richard, having also, it appears, been Alderman of Leedes, when first incorporated, and his son, Richard, Parson of Kirkheaton, £1350 deep in the list of compounders"—a circumstance of singular distinction at that period. The name was of eminency in RICHARD III.'s time, when, by the "inquisitiones post mortem, et ad quod damnum," we learn that a writ of mesne was sued by Robert de Sike against Daniel Fletwithe, to acquit him of services demanded by the king, the said Robert holding of the crown as mesne lord. It appears, also, that Robert and Henrie de Sike were partners, or witnesses, to a deed of extensive transfer early in the reign of ELIZABETH; a curious portrait of the latter (Henrie) is now, among others of little less antiquity, at the Chantry House. In a subsequent era, the close of Queen ANNE's reign, a Captain Richard Sikes was sent on a military mission to Ireland, and appointed governor of the town and castle of Athlone.

THE REV. RICHARD SIKES, sprung from the family of Sikes of Sikes Dyke, was rector of Spofforth, and prebendary of York. He m. Anna, dau. of the Rev. Mark Micklethwait, rector of Long Marston, and had, with other children who d. issueless, a son and heir,

Mr. Singleton, formerly a lieutenant in the 7th Dragoon-guards, s. his father in 1825. He is a deputy-lieut. and magistrate for the co. Meath, and served the office of high-sheriff in 1842.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the great Shropshire family of Corbet, which was founded in England by Corbeau, a noble Norman who accompanied the CONQUEROR, and with his two sons, Robert and Roger, was employed by Roger de Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury and Arundel. At the general survey, Roger, the elder son, held twenty-four lordships in Shropshire; and Robert, the younger, fourteen in the same county. Of the various offshoots of this ancient stem, we may mention the Corbets of Moreton Corbet, the Corbets of Sundorne Castle, the Corbets of Darnhall, the Corbets of Longnor and Leighton, and the Corbets of Ireland, of whom we are about to treat.

THE REV. FRANCIS CORBET, D.D., who was appointed Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, in 1745, and d. in 1775, was a direct descendant of the Shropshire Corbets. He m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. John Morris, by Sarah, his wife, dau. of Edward Singleton, Esq., and had by this lady (with three daus., viz., Sarah, m. 22 July, 1756, to Dr. Keane Percival, and d. in 1757; Mary, m. in 1766, to Redmond Boate, Esq., and d. 5 April, 1806; and Patience, d. in March, 1800) four sons, all of whom d. young, except

ROBERT CORBET, Esq. of Corbet Hill, co. Wexford, b. 20 Jan. 1741, m. 21 Oct. 1769, Susannah, dau. of Woodward, Esq. of Drumbarrow, co. Meath, and d. 27 May, 1804, having had issue, FRANCIS, his heir, of whom presently.

Robert, b. 10 May, 1777, capt. R.N., killed 13 Sept. 1810, while commander of the "Africaine" frigate, 38 guns, in action with two French frigates, "L'Astrea" of 44 guns, and the "Iphigenia," 36, off the Isle of Bourbon.

Henrietta. Anne, d. unm. in 1812.

Sarah, m. 29 July, 1797, to Lieut.-Col. William O'Brien, and d. 5 April, 1817.

Ellinor-Susannah.

Elizabeth-Margaret, m. 22 Sept. 1810, to the Rev. Thomas Gore, rector of Mulrannan, co. Wexford.

The eldest son,

FRANCIS CORBET, Esq., b. 14 Oct. 1770, m. 11 Feb. 1806, Frances, dau. of Joseph Deane, Esq. of Dangan, co. Kilkenny, and Terrenure, co. Dublin, (by Catherine, his wife, dau. of John Greene, Esq. of Greenville, co. Kilkenny,) and relict of Anthony Cliffe, Esq. of New Ross, and Abbey Braney, co. Wexford, and by her bad issue,

i. HENRY-CORBET, present representative.

ii. Robert-Corbet, A.M., b. 9 Oct. 1810.

iii. Francis-Corbet, b. 17 Dec. 1812, an officer in the R.N.

iv. Samuel-Wellington-Corbet, b. 18 June, 1815.

i. Frances-Susanna, m. in June, 1826, to John-Timothy Kirby, Esq.

ii. Henrietta, d. young, 10 March, 1812.

Mr. Corbet, in compliance with the will of his great-grand-uncle, the late Right Hon. Henry Singleton, sometime Master of the Rolls and Chief Justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, took the surname of SINGLETON only by Royal licence, dated 9 Nov. 1820, upon succeeding to the co. Maria, m. 1 Jan. 1844, to the Rev. James Burrow.

Mary-Dorothea. — Frances. Sophia-Henrietta.

Lineage.

The family of Skelton, of Armathwaite Castle, in the west of Cumberland, was one of great antiquity; and so far back as the time of RICHARD II., we find, by a deed dated 14 Nov., 14th year of that monarch's reign, that Sir Robert de Mulcaster then granted to Sir Clement de Skelton "totam terram meam a Threpland," &c. There is no regular pedigree on record, except of the five generations certified by John Skelton, Esq., at Dugdale's Visitation, in 1665. "The manor of Armathwaite," says Dodd, in his history of the Diocese of Carlisle, "continued for several ages in the ancient and worshipful family of the Skeltons, many of whom have signalized their valour and conduct, both in Scotch and French wars; as a token of the superior strength and puissance of their predecessors, they preserve a long-sword, (equal to that of King Edward III. in Westminster Abbey,) which they say was worn and used by them in their attendance upon that king in France."

RICHARD SKELTON, Esq., son of John Skelton, Esq. of Armathwaite, and grandson of Richard Skelton, Esq. of the same place, sold the castle and estate of Armathwaite to William Sanderson, Esq., in 1712. Mr. Skelton left a numerous issue.

The Skeltons of Branthwaite Hall were a junior branch of the Skeltons of Armathwaite, derived from RICHARD SKELTON, who was present at Agincourt with HENRY V., and served the office of high-sheriff of Cumberland. He was younger son of JOHN DE SKELTON, who m. in 1422, the heiress of the Branthwaite estate, and acquired that property, where his descendants continued to reside till about 1727. Its then possessor was HENRY SKELTON, Esq. of Branthwaite Hall, general in the army, and governor of Portsmouth. This officer was engaged in Flanders, and also in Scotland in 1745: in the former country, his life was saved by his aide-de-camp, Capt. James Jones, who shot a dragoon as he was on the point of cutting down the general. The latter, who d. in 1757, did not forget this, for on the opening of his will, it was found that he left Branthwaite Hall and estate to his aide-de-camp and friend,

CAPTAIN JAMES JONES, of the 3rd Guards, who then became of Branthwaite. He was son of James Jones, who descended from Colonel John Jones, by Catherine, his wife, sister of OLIVER CROMWELL, and relict of Wheatstone. Captain Jones m. in 1749, Jemima, dau. of Col. Tullekens, who came from Holland with WILLIAM, Prince of Orange, and by this lady had a son, ARNOLDUS, and a dau., Jemima, who m. in 1768, Charles, first Marquess of Cornwallis, and was mother of Charles, the second marquess. The son,

ARNOLDUS JONES, also an officer in the 3rd Guards, b. in 1750, assumed the surname of SKELTON in 1774. He m. in Oct. 1775, Elizabeth, dau. of William Hicks, Esq. of Whitehaven and Papcastle, and by her (with whom he acquired Papcastle) had four sons and five daus.,

HENRY, the eldest son, major 19th lancers, served for many years in India. He sold the Branthwaite Hall estate, in 1797, to John-Christian Curwen, Esq., and d. 26 Aug. 1836, having had no issue by his wife, Maria, dau. of James Betty, Esq. of Dublin.

SKENE OF RUBIESLAW.

SKENE, JAMES, Esq. of Rubieslaw, in Aberdeenshire, b. 7 March, 1775; m. 11 Sept. 1806, Jane, dau. of Sir William Forbes, Bart. of Pitligo, and has issue,

I. GEORGE, b. 23 Oct. 1807, m. in 1832, Georgina, dau. of Dr. Alexander Monro, of Craiglockhart, and has issue.

II. William-Forbes, b. 7 June, 1809.

III. James-Henry, b. 3 March, 1812, m. in 1833, Rhailon, dau. of Rhizos Rhangabe, and niece of the last reigning Prince of Wallachia.

I. Eliza.

II. Catherine.

III. Caroline-Christian.

IV. Mary-Frances.

Mr. Skene, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Aberdeenshire, s. his brother, 30 Sept. 1791.

Lineage.

The family of Skene is one of great antiquity in Aberdeenshire, where it always maintained the rank of free barons, and takes its name from the barony and castle of Skene, situate in the Earldom of Mar, and co. Aberdeen, which barony remained in the possession of the Skenes of Skene, from the middle of the thirteenth century, to the year 1827, when, by the death of the last Skene of Skene, the estates passed to his nephew and heir, the Earl of Fife.

Tradition asserts that the Skenes of Skene are descended from the Robertsons of Strowan; and Sir George Maekenzie gives, as early as the beginning of the seventeenth century, the following account of their origin:—"Some also derive their names as well as their arms from some considerable action, and thus a second son of Struan Robertson, for killing of a wolf in Stocket Forest by a durk, in the king's presenece, got the name of Skene, which signifies a durk in Irish, and three durk points in pale for his arms."

But as the barony of Skene undoubtedly formed a portion of the extensive possessions of Allan Durward, a noble, who played a distinguished part in the reign of ALEXANDER III., and who d. in the year 1275, leaving three daus. and co-heiresses, and as JOHN DE SKENE, the undoubted ancestor of this family, appears in Ragman's Roll, A.D. 1296, it is most probable that he was a younger son of the chief of the Robertsons, and acquired the barony of Skene by marriage with one of the daus. of Allan Durward.

His son, ROBERT SKENE, obtained from King ROBERT I. a crown charter of the barony of Skene, dated 1 June, 1317, and in his descendants the barony remained until the end of the fifteenth century, when we find it in the possession of

ALEXANDER SKENE, of Skene, who had two sons,

ALEXANDER, from whom the Skenes of Skene are descended.

JAMES, the progenitor of the family before us.

JAMES SKENE, second son of Alexander Skene, of Skene, purchased the estate of Wester Corse, in Aberdeenshire, and had by Janet, dau. of Lumsden of Cushine, seven sons, JAMES, ancestor of the Skenes of Wester-Corse and Ramore, now extinct.

Robert, m. Janet Skene, only dau. of Arthur Skene, of Auchtererne, by whom he had a son, Alexander Skene, of Auchtererne, whose only dau., Margaret, d. unm.

Duncan, of Balnaburries, d. unm.

Alexander, advocate, d. without issue.

JOHN, progenitor of the family of Skene of Curriehill.

GILBERT, progenitor of the family of Skene of Rubieslaw.

The sixth son,

JOHN SKENE, afterwards SIR JOHN SKENE, of Curriehill, lord-clerk-register, was a celebrated lawyer in the reign of JAMES VI., and well known for his connexion with the regiam majestatem. He m. Helen, dau. of Sir John Somerville, of Camnethan, related to the royal family, by whom he had three sons, JAMES (Sir), his heir.

John, progenitor of the family of Skene of Halyards, now extinct.

Alexander, keeper of the register of Hornings, whose only son, John, d. without issue.

The eldest son,

SIR JAMES SKENE, of Curriehill, president of the College of Justice, s. his father in 1617, and was by CHAS. I. created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, by a patent which is not dated, but which is recorded in the register of signatures, 16 January, 1630. He m. Janet, dau. of Sir John Johnston, of Hilton, by whom he had two sons, JOHN, who s. him.

Thomas, d. unm.

The elder,

SIR JOHN SKENE, second baronet of Curriehill, s. his father in 1633. He sold the estate of Curriehill in 1637, and having levied a regiment of men upon his own charges, he went to Germany, and d. there without issue. The representation of this family then devolved upon the descendants of Gilbert Skene, younger brother of Sir John Skene, first of Curriehill. This

GILBERT SKENE was professor of Medicine in King's College, Aberdeen, and afterwards physician to his Majesty. He resigned this office in 1594, and retired to the small property of Pollerton, Aberdeenshire, where he died, leaving a large family by Agnes Lawson, his wife. He was s. by his eldest son,

DAVID SKENE, of Pollerton, who m. 1st, a dau. of William Leask, of Leask, by whom he had,

DAVID, who had two sons, Alexander and George, who both d. unm.

THOMAS, who carried on the line of this family.

He m. 2ndly, — Seton, by whom he had,

George, who having realized a large fortune, became provost of Aberdeen, was knighted, and purchased the estate of Rubieslaw, Fintray, &c. He was s. by his grand-nephew.

The second son,

THOMAS SKENE, of Pollerton, was father of

ROBERT SKENE, whose son,

GEORGE SKENE, inherited Rubieslaw from his grand-uncle. He m. Catherine, dau. of David Aedie, of Newark, by whom he had a son and successor,

GEORGE SKENE, of Rubieslaw, who m. Helen, dau. of Alexander Thomson, of Partlethen, and was s. by his only son,

GEORGE SKENE, of Rubieslaw, who m. Jean, one of the daus. and co-heiresses of James Moir, of Stoneywood, by whom he had two sons and three daus.,

GEORGE, d. unm., 30 Sept. 1791, while on his way to take possession of his paternal estate.

JAMES, now of Rubieslaw.

Margaret, m. to Colonel Ramsay, and has issue.

Helen Skene.

Catherine Skene, m. to Sir Henry Jardine, and has issue.

The second but only surviving son is the present JAMES SKENE, now of Rubieslaw.

Mr. Skinner was formerly judge of circuit at Chittoor, in the province of Madras, East Indies.

Lineage.

This family can be traced by well-established authorities from Sir Robert Skynner, or Skinner, a Norman knight, who served under Duke William, in his expedition to England, and received from his royal master, in recompence for his valiant services, the lands of Bolinbroke, in Lincolnshire, accompanied with the hand, in marriage, of the daughter of their former owner, Robert de Bolinbroke, a Saxon of the conquered side.

A curious old document, lately in the possession of Mr. Skinner, of Shirley Park, shows that the armorial bearings of Sir Robert, the Norman, were, "Three roebucks, passant, arg., horned, or, a chevron of the second, on a field, az.; and the crest, a unicorn's head." The same document states, that from the year 1070, the issue of the aforesaid Sir Robert Skinner and the heiress of Bolinbroke continued in line, intermarrying with many distinguished houses, until the chief branch became extinct in 1700. Numerous offshoots were planted, however, in the counties of York, Leicester, Essex, Kent, Sussex, Worcester, and Hereford. The old document we have already referred to states that, in the year 1440, Sir John Skinner, an immediate descendant of Sir George Skinner, the second son of Sir Robert, the Norman, went into Kent, and m. the dau. and heir of Sir Robert St. Leger, of Nowel, by whom he had, with other issue, a second son,

ROBERT SKINNER, who, being a Benedictine monk, became Prior of Malvern, in Worcestershire, and acquiring large possessions, and by his state of celibacy having no children to inherit them, he sent for

JOHN SKINNER, his younger brother, and "provided him with lands and livings," most of which we find to be in the rich and beautiful county of Hereford. From this John sprang

STEPHEN SKINNER, of Hereford,* who had two sons, namely,

I. STEPHEN, of Le Burtons, in the parish of Ledbury, Herefordshire, who d. in 1557, leaving issue,

1. RICHARD, of Le Burtons, who m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of John Stallard, Gent., by whom he had, inter alios, a son, John, of Le Burtons, and 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Thomas Clynton, Esq. of Castell-ditch, by whom he had three sons and two daus.: of the former, the eldest, Richard, of Pikesley, in Herefordshire, left an only dau. and heir, Rebecca, m. to Richard Clarke, Esq. of the Hill, in the parish of Walford.

2. John.

3. William.

4. John.

5. EDWARD, of Ledbury, who d. at the age of 87, in 1631, leaving behind him a numerous progeny. In the south side of the chancel of Ledbury Church stands the monument of this still revered man. It is of the style of the Elizabethan times, large and massy, of varied marble, and supporting pillars. Edward Skinner and his wife, Elizabeth Hill, habited in the usual dresses of their century, kneel opposite to each other on the tomb, and below are represented, in high relief, the kneeling figures of their surviving children, five sons and five daus. These children were,

* Time is a flood that sweeps away not only landmarks, but the families who set them up. And thus it has been found in many branches of the Skinners. Much of their possessions in Herefordshire were alienated in the female posterity of the munificent Edward Skinner, of Ledbury. His eldest dau., Anne, who m. in 1595, John Cocks, Esq. of the Berrow, became a link which in after generations induced his descendants, the Lords Somers, to purchase a considerable portion of her parental property, including Pouceford Court and the Knaps. Mr. Miles, of Bristol, from a similar connexion by marriage, became possessor of Underdown, and afterwards, by purchase, of Le Burtons and other adjacent lands. But John Biddulph, Esq., whose progenitor united himself by marriage with the heiress of the original family, is owner of the great house and park at Ledbury, the chief residence of the Skinners in that neighbourhood.

his eminent erudition and piety, was, early in life, consecrated Bishop of Bristol, and in the year 1641, translated to the see of Oxford. He was soon after called, by his allegiance to his king and his faith, to join eleven of his episcopal brethren in the celebrated protest against the then proceedings of the parliament, for which they were all arraigned of high treason, and ten committed to the Tower; amongst whom was Bishop Skinner. After many months' suffering there, he at length obtained his release, on bail, and was permitted to retire to his rectory of Lanton, though stripped of his episcopal dignity. At the Restoration, he was not only reinstated on the sacred bench, but elevated to the see of Worcester, where he d. in 1670, and lies under a flat marble stone, in the choir of the cathedral of that diocese. His lordship m. Elizabeth, dau. of Bernard Banger, Esq. of Oxford, and had issue,

Lineage.

When PHILIP of Spain came over to England to marry Queen MARY, he brought with him, it is stated, a favourite follower, a Don Eskrino. On PHILIP's return to Spain, (the account proceeds,) this follower declined accompanying him, and PHILIP gave him the arms of Spain to wear, and a grant of land, afterwards altering the royal arms of Spain. From this person, as ancestor of the family, it inherits the original three-sided silver seal, a crucifix, and a miniature portrait of himself. A branch of the Skrine family once possessed the estate and rectory of Claverton, in Somersetshire, on the Bath side of the river Avon, opposite to Warleigh, but this was sold to Mr. Allen, of Prior Park. The estate of Warleigh was purchased, in 1634, by HENRY SKRINE, whose grandson,

Lincage.

It appears by the consent of Ulster king of arms, "who, having examined into the circumstances," as specified in his confirmation to this family, of the ancient coat-armour of its ancestors, that the Smiths of Coolestown and Maing, co. Louth, were originally from Yorkshire. They rank with the most respectable and ancient families of the co. Louth, and possessed large properties there as far back as the year 1600. These properties descended to the immediate ancestors of the present family, who are lineal descendants of the Smiths of Coolestown and Maing.

JOHN SMITH, who lived in the reign of CHARLES I., possessed these estates, and left one son, JEREMIAH SMITH, who succeeded his father, and was twice married: by his first marriage he had one son, EDWARD, to whom he gave up the estate of Maing, and who was captain in the Battle-Axe Guard: he died before his father, leaving one child, a dau., who inherited the estate of Maing, and m. Hugh Stafford, Esq.; by his second marriage, with Alice, dau. of Harry Townley, Esq. of Aclare Castle, co. Louth, Jeremiah Smith had issue, HARRY, Townley, Jeremiah, Tenison, Hamilton, and one dau., Mary-Ann, who m. 1st, Charles Sandford, Esq. of Kilkenny, and 2ndly, William Foster, Esq. of Dunleer, co. Louth.

HARRY SMITH, Esq., the eldest son of the second marriage, was recorder of Drogheda. He s. his father, and dying unm., left the Louth property to his brother, the REV. TOWNLEY SMITH, of Mansfieldtown, and his nephew, TENISON SMITH; and his Meath property, of Beabeg, to his brother JEREMIAH.

About this period, 1760, a branch of this family, descendants of Tenison Smith, (the father of him to whom Harry left a division of his Louth property,) settled in England, the representative of which was Admiral Edward-Tyrrel Smith.

JEREMIAH SMITH, to whom Beabeg was left, m. Margaret, dau. of Adam Schoales, Esq. of Drogheda, and had issue, HENRY; Jeremiah, a capt. in the carbiners, who d. unm.; Jane, who m. William Gibbons, Esq. of Drogheda; and Catherine, who m. George Rotherham, Esq. of Crossdrum, co. Meath. The elder son,

HENRY SMITH, Esq., s. his father, and m. 1 March, 1783, Martha, dau. of Lawrence Steele, Esq. of Rathbride, co. Kildare, by whom he had issue,

I. HENRY-JEREMIAH, now of Annsbrook.

Lineage.

This ancient and influential family has been settled in high repute in Ireland for more than two centuries and a half, intermarrying with the first houses of the sister kingdom, and ever maintaining a distinguished position amongst its great landed proprietors.

SIR RICHARD SMYTH, Knt. appears to have been established there previous to the opening of the 17th century; for an indenture, dated 1602, made between Sir Walter Raleigh and Richard Boyle, Esq., clerk of the council in Munster, and recorded in the Rolls' Office, Dublin, for the sale, by Sir Walter, to the said Richard, of certain lands in the counties of Cork and Waterford. Sir Richard Smyth, of Ballynatray, was appointed by the deed a trustee, in conjunction with Edmond Colthurst, and Edmond Coppinger. Sir Richard m. Mary, dau. of Roger Boyle, Esq. of Preston, co. Kent,† and sister of RICHARD BOYLE, THE FIRST and GREAT EARL OF CORK,‡ and had one son, PERCY (Sir), his heir, and two daus., Katherine, m. 24 April, 1622, to William Supple, Esq. of Agha-

* For antiquity and splendour of descent, few families can compete with the great house of St. Leger. According to tradition, Sir Robert St. Leger, Knt., (who was present at the battle of Hastings in 1066,) supported the CONQUEROR with his hand when quitting the ship to land in Sussex. In the reign of HENRY VI., his successor and direct representative, JOHN ST. LEGER, of Ulcomh, was sheriff of Kent. He d. in 1442, leaving by Margerie, his wife, dau. and sole heir of James Donnett, Esq. of Rainham, three sons, I. RALPH (Sir), of Ulcomh, constable of Leeds Castle, and sheriff of Kent, 8th EDWARD IV., ancestor of the St. Legers of Ulcomh, and of the St. Legers, Viscounts Doneraile; II. Thomas (Sir), sheriff of Surrey and Sussex, 2nd EDWARD IV., m. Anne, Duchess of Exeter, sister of King EDWARD IV., and had an only dau. and heir, Anne St. Leger, wife of Sir George Manners, Lord Ros, and mother of Sir Thomas Manners, Lord Ros, and Earl of Rutland; III. James (Sir), who m. Anne, eldest dau. and co-heir of Thomas Butler, Earl of Ormond, and was ancestor of the St. Legers of Devon.

Through the marriage of her ancestor, Sir Warham St. Leger, of Ulcomh, with Ursula, fifth dau. of George, Lord Abergavenny, the present Hon. Mrs. Smyth, of Ballynatray, derives from the great baronial houses of De Clare, De Audley, Stafford, Beauchamp, Westmorland, Somerset, Rivers, Neville, Percy, and descends in a direct line from the Princess JOAN, of Acre, dau. of King EDWARD I.

† Through this marriage, the present Mr. Smyth is connected by consanguinity with the houses of Naylor, Cork, Fenton, Barrymore, Drogheda, Digby, Norwitch, Warwick, Kildare, Lishurn, Ranelagh, Denbigh, Shannon, Duncannon, Dorset, Burlington, Courtenay, Roscommon, Thanet, Sandwich, Rochester, Somerset, Berkeley, Queensberry, Shelburne, Camden, Beddingfield, Ailshury, Halifax, Grafton, Devonshire, Suffolk, Powerscourt, Inchiquin, Donegal, Exeter, Orkney, O'Neill, Worsley, Hamilton, and Torrington.

‡ "Over whose burial-place in the chancel of the ancient church of St. Mary, at Youghal, Sir Richard Boyle, 1st Earl of Cork, erected a costly monument. The effigy of this nobleman lies at full length in armour, very accurately sculptured, and originally splendidly coloured in bronze and gold, representing the richest armour of the period of Queen ELIZABETH and JAMES I. There are also the effigies of the earl's two wives, in the posture of kneeling, one at his head, the other at his feet; and on the top, in a recumbent position, is that of his mother, Joan Boyle, dau. of Robert Naylor, Esq. of Canterbury, whose portrait, in armour, has continued to the present day an heir-loom in the Smyth family. The earl's mother is sculptured in the full costume of Queen ELIZABETH's day, with ruff and fardingale; and on the open space between these figures is written a copious history of the various alliances of the Boyle family, including that of Mary, the earl's sister, with Sir Richard Smyth, of Ballynatray."

doe, direct ancestor of the present Sir Arthur de Capell Brooke, Bart. of Oakley, co. Northampton; and Dorothy, m. to Arthur Freke, Esq., whose grandson, SIR RALPH FREKE, of West Belmy, created a baronet in 1713, was great-grandfather of Lord Carbery. Sir Richard Smyth commanded as captain in defeating and expelling the Spaniards from Castle-Ny-Parke, co. Cork, and was interred in the family vault of the ancient church of St. Mary, at Youghal.* His son and successor, SIR PERCY SMYTH, Knt. of Ballynatray, eminently distinguished for his loyalty and courage in the Rebellion of 1641, raised one hundred men to assist the Lord President of Munster, Sir William St. Leger, and obtained, at the same time with Lord Broghill and Capt. Broderick, his commission as capt. of foot. In a letter to Lord Dungarvan, the Earl of Cork thus writes—"Sir Percy Smyth came late yesternight from Cork, where he had been upon some political purpose, relative to the state of the country." Subsequently, Sir Percy signed, in conjunction with the Lords Inchiquin and Broghill, Lieut.-Col. Brocket, and others, letters to his majesty, strongly remonstrating against the cessation of arms agreed on between the Marquess of Ormonde and Lord Muskerry, on the part of the Irish, dated 16 July, 1644. Sir Percy m. Isabella, dau. of Arthur Ussher, Esq., (by Judith, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Newcomen,) and granddau. of Sir William Ussher, Knt., clerk of the council, by Isabella,† his wife, dau. of Adam Loftus, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and had issue,

SMYTHE OF HILTON.

SMYTHE, THOMAS, Esq. of Hilton, co. Salop, capt. in the Madras Engineers, s. his father, the late John-Groome Smythe, Esq., 8 Dec. 1835.

Lineage.

There is every reason to believe that the family of Smythe became settled at Hilton at the time of the Conquest; but as the Court Rolls extend only as far back as 1327, temp. EDWARD II., there is no documentary proof of the fact beyond a charter, granted by EDWARD I., afterwards confirmed by ELIZABETH, from which it appears, that the family were regularly descended from ancestry, of the paternal line and name from the first-named period. Several branches emanated from the parent stock, and held considerable possessions in the neighbourhood. The grandfather of the present representative,

THOMAS SMYTHE, Esq. of Hilton, capt. in the Shropshire militia, m. Elizabeth, dan. of Wannerton Groome, Esq. of Trysull, co. Stafford, and Mary, his wife, and by her had an only son, JOHN-GROOME, and a dau., Elizabeth. The former,

JOHN-GROOME SMYTHE, Esq. of Hilton, major in the local militia, and deputy-lieut. of the co., b. 18 July, 1771, m. 23 Sept. 1805, Anne, youngest dau. of Thomas Parke, Esq. of Highfield House, co. Lancaster, and sister of the Right Hon. Baron Parke, of the Court of Exchequer, and by her had five sons and one dau., viz.,

Thomas-Parke, b. 7 Sept. 1807, d. an infant.

Thomas, present representative.

John-Groome, b. 9 Oct. 1809, lieut. E. 1. Co.'s service, d. 25 July, 1839.

George, b. 26 Sept. 1811, lieut. R.N., flag-lieut. to Rear-Admiral Sir Hugh Pigot, H.M.S. Volage.

Henry-Ralph, b. 23 May, 1813, in holy orders, rector of Millbrook, co. Bedford.

Anne, m. 28 Dec. 1839, to Lieut.-Gen. Henry Monckton, 4th son of the late Hon. Edward Monckton, of Somersford, co. Stafford, and has issue.

Major Smythe d. 8 Dec. 1835, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, the present CAPT. THOMAS SMYTHE.

SMYTHE OF METHVEN CASTLE.

SMYTHE, ROBERT, Esq., of Methven Castle, co. Perth, b. 10 Feb. 1778; m. 1st, 5 April, 1810, Mary, second dau. of James-Townsend Oswald, Esq. of Dunnequier, co. Fife, and this lady having d. 15 Sept. 1814, he m. 2ndly, 6 Feb. 1817, Susan Renton, eldest dau. of Sir Alexander-Muir Mackenzie, Bart. of Delvine, but has no issue. Mr. Smythe is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Perthshire, and s. his father, the late David Smythe, titular Lord Methven, 30 Jan. 1806.

Lineage.

The surname of SMYTH is of great antiquity in Scotland, and has at different times been written SMYT, SMYTHE, and SMITH. The house of Smith, traditionally, owes its origin to the Clan CHATAN, being descended, it is asserted, from NEIL CROMB, third son of Murdoch, of that clan, who flourished in the time of WILLIAM the Lion. The family of which we are about to treat derives from

THOMAS SMITH, who, having applied his talents to the study of physie, attained high eminence in the medical profession, and was appointed apothecary to King JAMES III., as appears by a charter hearing date 29 Jan. 1477. He was father of

PATRICK SMITH, of Braco, in the co. of Perth, who lived temp. JAMES IV., and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM SMITH, of Braco, who, with the special consent of King JAMES V., had a charter, dated in 1541, of his lands of Braco, Warkland, &c., from Patrick, Bishop of Murray, perpetual commendator of Scoon. He m. Agnes Scott, of the family of Balwearie, in Fife, and relict of Christopher Snel, of Balgarvie, by whom he had a son,

PATRICK SMITH, of Braco, who was served heir to his father in 1561. He m. Christian, dau. of Haldane, of Kilmour, and had issue,

- i. ALEXANDER, who m. Margaret, dau. of William Oliver, brother of the Laird of Pitfogo, by whom he left at his demise, in 1603, (his father then living,) two sons, viz.,

1. PATRICK, successor to his grandfather.
2. Andrew, who had acquired the estate of Rapness, in Orkney, where he m. and had issue,

GEORGE, of Rapness, who m. Anne, dau. of Patrick Graham, of Inch Braco, and had two daus.; one m. to Sir William Keith, of Ludquhairn, and the other to Mr. Leith, of Aberdeen.

Patrick, an advocate, who m. the dau. and co-heir of Arthur, Bishop of Galloway, and had issue.

- ii. Eupham.

The Laird of Braco d. in 1604, and was s. by his grandson,

PATRICK SMITH, of Braco. This gentleman and his brother Andrew, being young at their grandfather's decease, were placed under the guardianship of George Graham, then minister of Scoon, who, being subsequently consecrated Bishop of Orkney, took his pupils thither, where they both settled. The Laird of Braco m. 1st, in 1618, Catherine Graham, dau. of his excellent guardian, by whom he had, with other issue,

- i. Henry, a youth of great promise, who, joining the royal banner, fell at Marston Moor, in 1644, universally regretted.

- ii. George, d. s. p. in the lifetime of his father.

- iii. PATRICK, successor to the estates.

- iv. Andrew, who m. Miss Stewart, of Burgh, and had issue.

- v. Catherine, m. 1st, to John Cowan, of Tailor Town, and had a dau., Katharine Cowan, wife of Sir William Graham, of Braco. Mrs. Cowan m. 2ndly, the Rev. John Drummond, minister of Moneydie, and had two sons,

1. David Drummond, advocate, treasurer to the Bank of Scotland.

2. John Drummond, an eminent physician at Edinburgh.

- vi. Marion, m. Patrick Monteith, of Egilshaw, by whom she had an only dau., heiress of Egilshaw.

vii. Barbara, m. to the Rev. John Gibson, minister of Hal-line.

viii. Jean, m. Richard Murray, brother of the Laird of Pennyland, and had issue.

ix. Margaret, m. to James Drummond, of Drummonderinoch.

Patrick Smith m. 2ndly, in 1639, Margaret, dau. of Henry Stewart, of Killinan, and had,

x. John, of Huips.

xi. David, of Barnhill, who m. twice, and had four daus., two of whom d. unm.; the others were,

1. Katharine, who m. 1st, — Williamson, a merchant of Perth, and 2ndly, Sir David Threipland, Bart. of Fingask, by whom she had several children.

2. A dau., m. to Patrick Davidson, of Woodmell, provost, and had issue.

xii. Alexander, m. and had issue.

xiii. William, parson of Moneydie, who m. one of the daus., and co-heirs of Arthur, Bishop of Galloway, by whom he had a son, the celebrated

JAMES SMITH, of Etherney, one of the most eminent surgeons of his time.

xiv. Agnes, m. to Col. Patrick Graham, and had issue.

The Laird of Braco m. 3rdly, Margaret Anderson, and had three daus., who all died issueless. This Patrick Smith made great accession to his paternal estate in Perthshire, and acquired likewise the lands of Maill, in Orkney. He was at last cast away in crossing the Pentland Firth, where himself and the whole boat's crew perished, about the year 1651. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

PATRICK SMITH, of Braco, who m. 1st, in 1652, Anne, dau. of James Keith, of Benholm, brother of William, sixth Earl Marischal, by whom he had one son, Patrick, who was accidentally slain by his tutor, upon a shooting party, on the loch of Methven.

He m. 2ndly, in 1682, Janet, dau. of Haldane, of Glen-eagles, by whom he had issue,

DAVID, his heir.

Mungo, a military officer, who d. s. p.

Patrick. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, dau. of Col. Strathurg, of the Russian army, whose mother was m. to the celebrated General Gordon, the favourite of the Czar.

John, d. unm.

Margaret, m. to Sir Thomas Moncrieff, of Moncrieff.

Katherine, m. to John Cambell, of Glenlyon.

This Laird of Braco, who sold his estates in the Orkneys, and purchased the lands of Methven, in Perthshire, was s. by his eldest surviving son,

DAVID SMITH, Esq. of Methven, who m. Katherine, dau. of William Cochrane, of Kilmarnock, by his wife, the Lady Grizel Graham, dau. of James, Marquess of Montrose, and dying in 1735, was s. by his son,

DAVID SMYTHE, Esq. of Methven, b. 24 June, 1711, who m. 1st, Mary, eldest dau. of James Graham, of Braco, and sister of Gen. David Graham, of Gorthie, by whom he had, (with other issue that left no posterity,)

DAVID, his successor.

Margaret, who m. George Oswald, Esq., a merchant in Glasgow, and had issue.

He m. 2ndly, in 1761, Katherine Campbell, dau. of the titular Lord Monzie, but had no issue by that lady. Mr. Smythe d. in 1764, and was s. by his son,

DAVID SMYTHE, Esq. of Methven Castle, b. 17 Jan. 1746, who m. 1st, 8 April, 1772, Elizabeth, only dau. of Sir Robert Murray, Bart. of Hillhead, and by her (who d. 30 June, 1785) had three sons and four daus., of whom all are deceased, except ROBERT, his heir, now of Methven. He m. 2ndly, 2 Aug. 1794, Amelia-Euphemia, only dau. of Mungo Murray, Esq. of Lintrose, and by her had, with four other sons deceased,

William, b. 23 Jan. 1803, m. 9 Aug. 1838, Margaret, eldest dau. of James Walker, Esq. of Great George-street, Westminster.
